BUSINESS OVERVIEW

We are one of the ultra-large integrated construction enterprises in the world. In 2007, we were listed among the Fortune Global 500 companies, ranking 384th in terms of total revenue. In the same year, we also ranked sixth out of the Top 225 Global Contractors in terms of total revenue from 2006 construction operations according to ENR magazine and 15th out of the Top 500 Chinese Enterprises elected by the Chinese Enterprise Confederation and the China Enterprise Directors Association in terms of total revenue.

Our businesses are divided into four major segments, namely: (i) construction operations; (ii) survey, design and consultancy operations; (iii) manufacturing operations; and (iv) other businesses, including real estate development and the provision of logistics services that relate to our main businesses. In addition, we generate revenue from our capital investment operations, which involve investments in certain BT, BOT and BOO projects.

Construction Operations

Our construction operations, primarily focusing on infrastructure construction, constitute our core business and cover nearly all types of construction projects, including railway, highway, metropolitan railway, water conservancy and hydropower facility, airport, port, industrial and civil construction and municipal projects. We are one of the largest providers of railway construction services in China. We have participated in the construction of almost all railway lines in China constructed after 1949 and have independently constructed approximately 34,000 km of railways, which account for the majority of China's railway lines constructed since 1949. We are the largest provider of highway construction services in China, with a focus on the construction of freeways as well as bridges and tunnels as part of our highway construction projects, and we have constructed more than 100 freeways and highways with a total length of approximately 22,600 km. Moreover, we are a leading provider of construction services in terms of revenue in the domestic market for bridges and tunnels, and have completed various bridge, tunnel and underground construction projects that meet international standards. We are also a leader in the construction of metropolitan railways, having participated or are currently participating in the survey, design and construction of metropolitan railway projects in all cities throughout China with such projects. As of 30 November 2007, we had provided construction services in 31 provinces, autonomous regions and municipalities in China, Hong Kong, Macau and more than 60 countries and territories around the world. The largest customers of our domestic construction operations are primarily business entities, such as project companies, set up and managed by central and local governments. The largest customers of our overseas construction operations are primarily governmental and semi-official entities. We have completed 287 overseas projects and are currently engaged to provide construction services for 137 overseas projects located in 27 different countries and territories. Major overseas projects completed by us include the Hong Kong West Rail, the rehabilitation of the Nigeria Railway Systems, the Macau Parliament Building, the East Wing of the Venetian Casino in Macau and the Tanzania-Zambia Railway Project. Significant overseas projects in which we were engaged as of the Latest

SUMMARY

Practicable Date include the Algerian East-West Expressway Project, Nigeria's Lagos-Kano Railway Modernization Project, the Saudi Arabia North-South Railway Line CTW200 Section, the Israel Camel Tunnel and the Turkey Ankara-Istanbul Railway Reconstruction Project. Although we generated insignificant revenue from overseas projects during the Track Record Period, which represented only 1.6%, 2.0%, 2.3% and 3.4% of our total revenue generated from construction operations for the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005, 2006 and eleven months ended 30 November 2007, respectively, based on the substantial amount of the new contract value and backlog for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, which represented 39.8% and 40.0% of our total new contract value and backlog of the construction operations for the same period, respectively, we expect that the revenue from our overseas construction projects will increase in the coming years and constitute a larger part of our total revenue from construction operations. 3

Survey, Design and Consultancy Operations

We are a leading provider of survey, design and consultancy services in terms of revenue to the domestic infrastructure construction industry. We focus our survey, design and consultancy business mainly on the infrastructure construction of railways, bridges, tunnels, metropolitan railways, freeways, municipal projects, industrial and civil buildings, airports and ports. As of 30 November 2007, we had provided survey, design and consultancy services for 117 major construction projects at the national or provincial level as well as survey and design services for 12 of the 17 passenger railways currently under construction in China. We are highly competitive in the survey, design and consultancy industry in China, and two of the only four large-scale railway survey and design institutes servicing China's railway systems are our subsidiaries, while the other two are owned by the MOR and another domestic company, respectively. We held 61 government-issued certificates relating to our survey, design and consultancy operations as of 30 November 2007, and have assisted the MOR in setting over 40 industry standards currently in effect in China through our survey and design institutes. We possess comprehensive technologies for the survey and design of railways, including those situated on high plateaus and in mountainous regions, permafrost zones and deserts, as well as sophisticated technologies for electrified railway lines, passenger railway lines, underwater construction, long tunnels, wireless train dispatching and scheduling systems and large interchange traffic construction. Our survey and design technologies are among the most advanced in China and are considered advanced by international standards, and we have received over 430 awards for our survey, design and consultancy work since 1982. Our survey, design and consultancy operations extend throughout China and a number of overseas countries and territories. Major customers of our survey, design and consultancy operations include government agencies and business entities set up and managed by central and local governments, such as construction project companies. In 2007, we were ranked 69th out of the Top 150 Global Design Firms in terms of revenue for design services performed during 2006 according to ENR magazine.

Manufacturing Operations

We are the second largest manufacturer of large track maintenance machinery in the world in terms of annual production volume. As of the Latest Practicable Date, we were the largest company in both China and Asia engaging in the research and development, manufacturing, sales, maintenance and repair of large track maintenance machinery, occupying more than 80% of the domestic market share for large track maintenance machinery.

We participated in the recent development of the large track maintenance machinery industry in China, having imported leading technologies for the manufacturing of large track maintenance machinery and, within two years, successfully manufactured our proprietary machinery domestically by utilizing our strong research and development capabilities. Our state-of-the-art track maintenance machinery products promoted the significant upgrades from manual to automatic railway maintenance practices in China, as well as the successful increases in maximum train speeds on the China's railway networks on numerous occasions. In addition, we recently entered the high-speed railway track components market, an emerging market in China, and have been appointed by the MOR as one of only two designated manufacturers of high-speed railway switches in China. We successfully developed and produced a line of components manufactured specifically for China's high-speed railways, such as high-speed railway switches and rail fasteners. Major customers of our manufacturing operations include large enterprises, such as state-owned railway operators, construction companies, local railway companies, subway companies and mining companies with railway facilities.

Other Businesses

In addition to the foregoing operations, we have developed various businesses that relate to our construction and design operations and demonstrate potential for growth, such as businesses involving real estate development and logistics. We are also engaged in capital investment operations. Although contribution from our real estate development, logistics and capital investment operations was insignificant to our overall operations in terms of revenue and profit during the Track Record Period, we believe that these new businesses will not only promote our main operations because of their synergies with and utilization of our well-established expertise, but may also become our significant businesses in the future because of their tendency to have higher profit margins compared to our other operations.

As an important and profitable growth area, our real estate development business is a major focus of our business growth strategy. We plan to consolidate our resources and increase our capital and land reserves through various means to promote our real estate development business. We focus on the development of residential buildings as our main business, and the development of commercial properties, such as shopping malls and office buildings, as ancillary businesses primarily intended for sale to the public. We principally carry out real estate development in economically developed cities with a focus on municipalities, such as Beijing, and provincial capitals. As of 31 December, 2007, we had 21 on-going real estate development projects which occupy an aggregate site area of approximately 2.3 million m², an expected GFA of approximately 5.4 million m² and an unsold GFA of approximately 4.9 million m². As of 31 December 2007, our major real estate development projects were expected to be completed within the next three to four years. Our subsidiary, China Railway Real Estate Co., Ltd. has also successfully established the brand "Zhong Tie Di Chan" ("中鐵地產"), which was ranked one of the Top 10 real estate brands in Beijing in terms of influence in 2007. Our logistics operations include the transportation of railway materials, storage of construction equipment and materials and trading of construction materials. We have enhanced the competitiveness of our modern logistics operations and trading operations through the expansion of our business scale and development of our business strategic partnerships. China Railway Goods and Materials Co., Ltd., our subsidiary specializing in logistic operations, was ranked the largest railway construction logistic service provider in China and the second largest railway materials supplier in the world. It has also been ranked 20th among the 50 most competitive logistic enterprises in China in 2006. Our capital investment operations involve investments in certain BT, BOT and BOO projects, which are usually implemented according to customers' requests and are fully or partially financed by contractors. We believe that infrastructure construction projects completed on a BT, BOT, BOO and PPP basis will be increasingly common in China, and therefore intend to expand our capital investment operations by increasing our involvement in BT, BOO, BOT or PPP projects in relation to our construction operations and increasing our relevant operating capacities.

SUMMARY

Notable Achievements

We possess leading technologies relating to infrastructure construction and design and have made notable achievements in recent years. For example:

- We undertook all the survey and design work for Phase I and Phase II of the Qinghai-Tibet Railway Line and were solely responsible for the construction of 71.1%, or approximately 1,406 km of both phases of the Qinghai-Tibet Railway Line, including all construction beyond 4,900 m above sea level and the majority of the difficult railway lines beyond 4,600 m above sea level of Phase II of the railway, as well as the sections of the railway crossing the Tanggula and Kunlun mountains. We overcame three significant challenges presented by permafrost, low oxygen levels due to high altitudes and the fragile ecology of the Qinghai-Tibet Plateau. The Qinghai-Tibet Railway Line was completed in 2006.
- We are currently the only company in China possessing proprietary knowledge of high-precision maglev track beam manufacturing technology, and we participated in the construction of the world's first commercially operated high-speed maglev line, the Shanghai Maglev Demonstration Line, which recorded maglev train speeds of up to 432 km/h.
- We participated in the construction of the Qinhuangdao-Shenyang Passenger Railway Line, including the testing section, which recorded train speeds of up to 321 km/h during trial operations. The project was completed in 2002.
- We designed and constructed the Wushaoling Tunnel, which was the longest tunnel in Asia at the time of its completion in 2006.
- We participated in the construction of Asia's longest pipeline, the East-West Gas Pipeline, and completed construction of the section of the pipeline that crosses over the Yellow River at Zhengzhou at the end of 2004.
- We are currently constructing the Nanjing Yangtze River Tunnel utilizing shield tunneling machines. This is the longest tunnel with the widest shield diameter crossing the Yangtze River.
- We are also undertaking the majority of the survey and design work for the Beijing-Shanghai High-Speed Railway Project, which is expected to commence construction soon. As of the Latest Practicable Date, we were independently awarded two sections of the Beijing-Shanghai High-Speed Railway Project with a construction contract value of RMB33.7 billion. In addition, we were awarded another section of this project with a construction contract value of RMB14.3 billion through a consortium entered into with China Hydraulic and Hydroelectric Construction Group Corporation, and our share in the total construction contract value is expected to be over RMB5.2 billion. As a result, we expect to be awarded over RMB38.9 billion, or over 46.5%, of the total contract value for Beijing-Shanghai High-Speed Railway Project. Of the four companies awarded contracts for this project, we were awarded the highest proportion of this project in terms of contract value.
- In 2006, we completed the construction of over 1,038.5 km and 1,076.0 km of bridges and tunnels, respectively.

For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, our new contract value amounted to approximately RMB144,539.8 million, RMB193,044.2 million, RMB202,341.4 million and RMB232,928.7 million, respectively. For the years ended 31 December 2004,

SUMMARY

2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, our total revenue was RMB86,187.5 million, RMB110,794.7 million, RMB153,609.0 million, RMB138,283.7 million and RMB146,667.0 million, respectively, while our net profit was RMB192.6 million, RMB525.9 million, RMB1,502.0 million, RMB1,233.4 million and RMB2,005.5 million, respectively.

RECENT DEVELOPMENT

In February 2008, we won contracts to participate in the construction of the Libya Seaside Railway Line and the Libya North-South Railway Line. The total contract value is approximately U.S.$2.6 billion. SELECTED HISTORICAL CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL INFORMATION AND OPERATING DATA

Selected Historical Consolidated Financial Information

The following tables present our selected historical consolidated financial information for the Track Record Period. The selected summary consolidated income statement information, segment financial information and cash flow information and other financial information for the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, and the selected summary consolidated balance sheet information as of 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and 30 November 2007 are derived from, and should be read in conjunction with, the consolidated financial information set forth in "Appendix I — Accountants' Report" in this Prospectus.

Prior to the Restructuring, our business operations were conducted by the companies wholly-owned or controlled by CRCCG, a State-owned enterprise wholly-owned and managed by SASAC. Before our A Share Listing and our H Share Listing, CRCCG was our sole promoter. Since CRCCG controlled the business operations and the related assets that were transferred to us pursuant to the Restructuring, and continues to control us after the Restructuring, our historical consolidated financial information has been prepared as a combination of businesses under common control in a manner similar to a pooling-of-interests. Accordingly, the assets and liabilities transferred to us have been stated at historical carrying amounts. In addition, the historical consolidated financial information presented below for each of the year in the three years ended 31 December 2006 as well as each eleven-month period ended 30 November 2006 and 2007 also reflect the financial position and results of operations of certain of the businesses and assets historically associated with the Predecessor Operations retained by CRCCG as part of the Restructuring. In connection with the Restructuring, the Retained Business include: (i) certain buildings and prepaid land lease payments that do not have perfected titles and ownership certificates, which were historically associated with the Predecessor Operations; (ii) supplementary defined benefits of retirees; (iii) equity interests in certain companies not strategically complementary to our businesses; (iv) equity interests in the project companies of certain retained BOT projects; and (v) ancillary businesses including hospitals and nurseries. Although certain of such businesses and assets retained by CRCCG were not transferred to us, they have been included in the historical consolidated financial information according to the details set out in the agreement for the Restructuring entered into by the Company with CRCCG because they were an integral part of, or historically associated with, the assets, liabilities and interests of the Predecessor Operations. Accordingly, the financial information included in this section may not necessarily reflect what our results of operations, financial position and cash flows would have been had we been a separate and stand-alone entity during the periods presented below. For selected historical financial information relating to certain assets and liabilities retained by CRCCG historically associated with the Predecessor Operations, see Note 2 in the Accountants' Report included as Appendix I to this Prospectus.

The selected historical consolidated financial data should be read in conjunction with our consolidated financial information set forth in the Accountants' Report included as Appendix I to this Prospectus and included elsewhere in this Prospectus.

- (1) EBITDA, a measure of our operating performance, is defined as profit for the year/period plus finance costs, share of losses/(profits) of associates and jointly-controlled entities, income tax expense and depreciation and amortization, and less finance revenue, or profit from operations plus depreciation and amortization. EBITDA margin is calculated by dividing EBITDA by total revenue. We present our EBITDA and EBITDA margin here to provide additional information regarding our operating performance and because our management believes EBITDA is useful to investors as a measure commonly used by securities analysts, investors and other interested parties in the evaluation of the performance of companies in the construction industry. EBITDA is not a standard measure under IFRS. EBITDA should not be considered in isolation or construed as an alternative to cash flows, profit for the year/period or any other measure of performance or as an indicator of our operating performance, liquidity, profitability or cash flows generated by operating, investing or financing activities. EBITDA does not account for taxes, interest expense or other non-operating cash expenses. In evaluating EBITDA, we believe that investors should consider, among other things, the components of EBITDA such as turnover and operating expenses and the amount by which EBITDA exceeds capital expenditure.

Unaudited pro forma adjusted net tangible asset value per Share ⁽³⁾	HK$3.39 (RMB3.11)	HK$3.72 (RMB3.41)

- (1) All statistics in this table are based on the assumption that the Over-allotment Option is not exercised. The calculation of market capitalization is based on a total of 12,156,000,000 Shares expected to be issued and outstanding following the A Share Offering and the Global Offering.
- (2) The calculation of the estimated price/earnings multiple on a pro forma fully diluted basis is based on the estimated earnings per Share on a pro forma fully diluted basis at the respective Offer Prices of HK$9.93 and HK$10.70 per H Share, assuming that the A Share Offering and Global Offering had been completed on 1 January 2007 and a total of 12,156,000,000 Shares were issued and outstanding during the entire year.
- (3) The unaudited pro forma adjusted consolidated net tangible asset value per Share is calculated after making the adjustments referred to in "Appendix II — Unaudited Pro Forma Financial Information" in this Prospectus. The calculation is based on the assumption that 2,450,000,000 new A Shares are issued in the A Share Offering and the resulting net proceeds (after deduction of estimated related fees expenses) of approximately RMB19.2 billion (based on an offer price of RMB8.00 per A share) and approximately RMB21.7 billion (based on an offer price of RMB9.08 per A Share) from the A Share Offering.

DIVIDEND POLICY

After completion of the Global Offering, our shareholders will be entitled to receive dividends declared by us. The proposal of payment and the amount of our dividends will be made at the discretion of our Board and will depend on our general business condition and strategies, cash flows, financial results and capital requirements, interests of our shareholders, taxation conditions, statutory and regulatory restrictions and other factors that our Board deems relevant. Any dividend distribution shall also be subject to the approval of our shareholders in the shareholders' meeting.

Under the PRC Company Law and our Articles of Association, we will pay dividends out of our after-tax profit only after we have made the following allocations:

- recovery of accumulated losses, if any;
- allocations to the statutory reserve fund equivalent to 10% of our after-tax profit; and
- allocations, if any, to a discretionary reserve fund approved by the shareholders in a shareholders' meeting.

When the statutory reserve fund reaches and is maintained at or above 50% of our registered capital, no further allocations to this statutory fund will be required. Our profit distributable for the above-mentioned allocations and our dividend distribution shall be our after-tax profit as determined by PRC GAAP or IFRS, whichever is lower.

SUMMARY

All of our shareholders have equal rights to dividends and distributions in the form of stock or cash. For holders of our H Shares, cash dividend payments, if any, will be declared by our Board in Renminbi and paid in Hong Kong dollars.

On 30 November 2007, our sole shareholder resolved that all of our shareholders will be entitled to all of our distributable profits generated from 1 December 2007. However, due to the possible time difference between our A Share Offering and the Global Offering, our sole shareholder further resolved that:

- (i) if the date of the listing of our H Shares is within the three-month period after the date of the listing of our A Shares, the shareholders of the Company, including A Share holders, CRCCG and H Share holders, will be entitled to our distributable profits generated from 1 December 2007 to the date of the completion of the Global Offering;
- (ii) if our H Shares are not listed within the three-month period after the date of the listing of our A Shares, we will distribute our distributable profits generated from 1 December 2007 to the then A Share holders and CRCCG pursuant to our dividend policy and the distribution proposal as approved by our shareholders' meeting.

Considering our present financial condition, we currently intend, subject to the above mentioned limitations, and in the absence of any circumstances which might reduce the amount of distributable profits whether by losses or otherwise, to distribute to our shareholders not less than 25% of our distributable profits for the years ended 31 December 2008 and 2009.

PRE-ESTABLISHMENT DISTRIBUTION AND SPECIAL DIVIDEND

In accordance with the "Provisional Regulation Relating to Corporate Reorganization of Enterprises and Related Management of State-owned capital and Financial Treatment" (the "Provisional Regulations") issued by the MOF, which became effective from 27 August 2002, and the Restructuring Agreement entered into between CRCCG and the Company, we are to make a distribution to CRCCG (the "Pre-establishment Distribution"), our sole shareholder prior to the initial offering of our A Shares, in an amount equal to the net profit attributable to shareholders for the period from 1 January 2007 to 5 November 2007 (the date on which the Company was incorporated).

In addition, pursuant to the resolution of a shareholders' meeting dated 30 November 2007, our sole shareholder, CRCCG, has resolved to make a special distribution to itself, as our sole shareholder, in an amount equal to the net profit of our Company for the period from 6 November 2007, the date immediately after the date on which the Company is incorporated, to 30 November 2007 (the "Special Dividend"). The net profit of our Company for the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend in aggregate will be determined based on the audited accounts prepared in accordance with PRC GAAP for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, after giving effect to relevant necessary adjustments. The total aggregate amount of the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend is RMB2,423.9 million and will be paid to CRCCG prior to the completion of our A Share Listing. We intend to pay the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend out of our internal financial resources. The Pre-establishment Distribution and Special Dividend will be settled prior to the listing of our H Shares on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange.

The holders of H Shares are not entitled to share the Pre-establishment Distribution or Special Dividend. CRCCG is the only shareholder entitled to the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend. In addition, any distributable profits available for distribution to our shareholders after the Global Offering will exclude the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend.

SUMMARY

The Pre-establishment Distribution is required to be paid to CRCCG under regulations issued by the MOF. We decided to distribute the Special Dividend based on our commercial discretion. You should not rely on the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend as an indication of our future dividends distribution policy or practice.

USE OF PROCEEDS

We estimate that we will receive net proceeds of approximately HK$16,855.4 million from the Global Offering, assuming that the Over-allotment Option is not exercised, after deducting the underwriting commissions and other estimated offering expenses payable by us and assuming the initial public Offer Price of HK$10.32 per H Share, being the mid-point of the indicative Offer Price range set forth on the cover page of this Prospectus. If the Over-allotment Option is exercised in full, we estimate that the additional net proceeds to our Company from the offering of these additional H Shares will be approximately HK$2,564.6 million, after deducting the underwriting commissions and our estimated expenses, assuming an Offer Price of HK$10.32 per H Share.

We intend to use the proceeds from the Global Offering for the purposes and in the amounts set out below:

- Approximately 80%, or HK$13,484.3 million, is expected to be used primarily for the purchase of equipment, primarily including equipment utilized in our railway and light rail infrastructure construction projects, such as hydraulic rock drilling machines, tunnel boring machines, tunneling backhoe loader, electrification engineering machinery and track-laying machinery. Such equipment will be used mainly for the Nigerian railway project, the North-South railway project, Section II in Saudi Arabia and the Tel Aviv red-line light rail concession with the Israeli Government. Other equipment includes equipment utilized in our highway construction projects, such as road surface construction equipment, tamping machines and heavy-duty dump trucks. Such equipment will be used mainly for the Algerian highway project and other potential overseas projects in Southeast Asia and the Middle-East. We expect to complete the equipment purchase in the future two to three years.
- Approximately 10%, or HK$1,685.5 million, is expected to be used primarily for the construction of a cement plant in Nigeria. The investment in the cement plant construction will supplement our project contracting and support the expansion of our operations and ability to secure new contracts in Nigeria, to help ensure smooth project execution. The construction period of this cement plant is expected to be approximately two years, and the project is expected to operate in the third year with full facilities with an expected production volume of 2,500 tonnes per day, or 1 million tonnes per year.
- Up to 10%, or HK$1,685.5 million, to fund our working capital.

To the extent that the net proceeds from the Global Offering are not immediately applied to the above purposes, we intend to deposit the proceeds into short-term demand deposits with offshore financial institutions and/or invested into offshore money market instruments. Proceeds from our H Share Offering will not be remitted into or used to fund any projects or facilities in the PRC. To the extent that net proceeds exceed our estimates, 90% and 10% of the excessive portion will be used to fund our equipment purchases and our working capital, respectively.

We will not use any of the proceeds of the Global Offering to fund activities that a U.S. corporation would be prohibited from undertaking under sanctions administered by OFAC or under ILSA.

SUMMARY

For details of the use of proceeds from our A Share Offering, see “Appendix V — The A Share Offering”.

RISK FACTORS

We believe that there are certain risks involved in our operations; many of these risks are beyond our control. These risks can be categorized as: (i) risks relating to our business operations; and (ii) risks relating to our industry; (iii) risks relating to the People’s Republic of China.

Risks Relating to Our Business Operations

- Actual overall risks or costs of our contracts may exceed our initial evaluation and lead to cost overruns, resulting in a reduction in revenues, lower profitability or even losses on such contracts.
- We rely on third parties to complete some of our construction projects, which may be adversely affected by the sub-standard performance or non-performance of such third parties.
- We may experience delays or defaults in accounts receivable, progress payments or the release of retention money by our customers.
- Projected revenue amounts reported in our backlog may decline and may not result in actual revenue or translate into profits.
- Our construction business involves inherent risks and occupational hazards.
- Certain of our businesses expose us to potential liability claims.
- Some of our operations are less profitable, and we may not be able to continue developing new operations that generate higher levels of profit in the future.
- The development and utilization of new technology may not always produce positive results.
- Our large track maintenance machinery manufacturing operations may be exposed to the risk of termination of our partnerships or increased competition.
- Our capital investment operations require significant amounts of investment. The projects we invest in may not generate the profit we expect.
- We may be unable to continue to procure an adequate supply of raw materials and energy supplies at acceptable prices and quality in a timely manner.
- Our business and operations require significant and continuous capital investment. We cannot assure you that we will be able to raise sufficient capital in a timely and reasonable manner.
- The level of our indebtedness and interest payment obligations may limit our financing capabilities.
- There is no assurance that we will continue to benefit from preferential tax treatment in China.
- We may not be able to expand further into or operate successfully in markets outside of China.
- Our operations expose us to inclement weather, acts of God, adverse work environments and acts of terrorism or war.
- We are a party to certain litigation and legal proceedings. Any unfavorable outcome may adversely affect our financial condition and business operations, as well as result in payment of damages.

SUMMARY

- Our competitiveness may be reduced if we are unable to adequately protect our intellectual property rights.
- The departure of key members of our management team and senior technicians may impact our business and results of operations, and our inability to attract and retain qualified personnel may limit our development.
- We have not obtained valid titles or rights to use certain properties that we occupy.
- We may not be able to monitor and deploy internal control measures with respect to our business operations in an effective and timely manner because of our large number of operating subsidiaries and their broad range of businesses.
- We will be controlled by CRCCG, our controlling shareholder, whose interests may differ from those of our other shareholders.
- Our limited operating history as a separate entity could affect our operating efficiency and your ability to evaluate our business and growth prospects.
- Our historical dividends may not be indicative of our future dividend policy.
- We may not be able to detect and prevent bribery or other misconduct committed by our employees or third parties.

Risks Relating to Our Industry

- The PRC Government may reduce public spending on infrastructure construction.
- We are exposed to risks associated with entering into public construction contracts.
- Intense competition in the construction industry in which we operate could reduce our market share and profits.
- Our real estate development operations are subject to the influence of macro-economic control measures and intense competition and involve numerous complicated procedures.
- We may not be able to identify, obtain or retain a sufficient number of land sites suitable for our real estate development operations.
- Failure to comply with the extensive environmental, health and safety laws, regulations and quality control standards to which we are subject may result in liabilities.
- Periodic inspections, examinations, inquiries or audits by regulatory authorities may result in fines, other penalties or actions that could adversely affect our financial performance and reputation, and we may not be able to obtain or renew the appropriate permits, licenses and certifications required for our continued operations.

Risks Relating to the People's Republic of China

- Changes in China's economic, political and social conditions as well as governmental policies could affect our financial condition and results of operations.
- Changes in foreign exchange regulations and future movements in the exchange rate of Renminbi may affect the financial condition and results of operations of our Company and our ability to pay dividends.

SUMMARY

- The PRC legal system is continuously evolving and has uncertainties, and the legal protections available to our shareholders may be limited.
- It may be difficult to enforce any judgments obtained from non-PRC courts against our Company or our Directors, Supervisors or senior executive officers residing in China.
- The exemption from withholding tax on dividends and income available to holders of H Shares may not continue in the future.
- There may be an occurrence of a widespread public health problem.
- Payment of dividends is subject to restrictions under PRC law.

Risks Relating to the Global Offering

- We have completed an A Share Offering prior to the H Share Offering. There are significant differences in the characteristics of the A share and H share markets.
- Future sales or perceived sales of substantial amounts of our H Shares, A Shares or other securities relating to our H Shares or A Shares in the public market, including any future offerings, or a decline in the market price of our A Shares could impact the prevailing market price of our H Shares and our ability to raise capital in the future, and may result in dilution of your shareholdings.
- There has been no prior public market for the H Shares. The liquidity and market price of the H Shares following the Global Offering may be volatile.
- Disposal of H Shares by NSSF following the listing of the H Shares or potential conversion of Domestic Shares into H Shares may result in an increase in the number of H Shares available on the market and may affect the price of the H Shares.
- Because the Offer Price is higher than the net tangible book value per share of our Company, the holders of the H Shares will incur immediate dilution.
- Shareholders' interests may be diluted as a result of additional equity fund-raising.
- Forward-looking information included in this Prospectus may prove inaccurate.
- We cannot guarantee the accuracy of facts, forecasts and other statistics contained in this Prospectus with respect to China, China's economy, China's infrastructure construction industry and other industries in which we operate.
- We strongly caution you not to place any reliance on any information contained in press articles or other media regarding us, our Global Offering or our A Share Offering or information released by us in connection with our A Share Offering.

We undertake no obligation to update or revise any forward-looking statement in light of new information, future events or otherwise. Forward-looking statements involve inherent risks and uncertainties and are subject to assumptions, some of which are beyond our control. We caution you that a number of important factors could cause actual outcomes to differ, or to differ materially, from those expressed in any forward-looking statement.

Due to these risks, uncertainties and assumptions, the forward-looking events and circumstances discussed in this Prospectus might not occur in the way we expect, or at all. Accordingly, you should not place undue reliance on any forward-looking information. All forward-looking statements contained in this Prospectus are qualified by reference to this cautionary statement.

RISK FACTORS

You should carefully consider each of the risks described below and all of the other information contained in this Prospectus, including the Accountants' Reports included in Appendix I to this Prospectus, before deciding to invest in the H Shares. You should pay particular attention to the fact that we are a PRC incorporated company and are governed by a legal and regulatory environment which in some respects may differ from that which prevails in other countries. Any of these risks mentioned in this section could have a material adverse effect on our business and financial condition. The trading price of H Shares could decline due to any of these risks and you may lose all or part of your investment.

We believe that there are certain risks involved in our operations; many of these risks are beyond our control. These risks can be categorized as: (i) risks relating to our business operations; (ii) risks relating to our industry; (iii) risks relating to the People's Republic of China; and (iv) risks relating to the Global Offering. Additional risks and uncertainties not presently known to us, or not expressed or implied below, or that we deem immaterial, could also harm our business, financial condition and operating results.

RISKS RELATING TO OUR BUSINESS OPERATIONS

Actual overall risks or costs of our contracts may exceed our initial evaluation and lead to cost overruns, resulting in a reduction in revenues, lower profitability or even losses on such contracts.

We base a number of our contracts in part on cost estimates that are subject to a number of assumptions, including assumptions about future economic conditions, the cost and availability of labor and materials, and subcontractors' performance. However, these assumptions may prove to be inaccurate. In addition, we usually make assumptions about the utilization rates of our facilities when submitting the bids. These assumptions for the utilization rates of our facilities may result in inaccurate cost forecasts if changes in construction standards occur. Moreover, we may not be able to reduce our costs through our cost management scheme and any deficiencies in internal cost control or unreasonable price increases for the raw materials could result in cost overruns.

We currently generate, and expect to continue to generate, a substantial portion of our revenues from fixed-price contracts. The terms in these contracts require us to complete a project for a fixed price and therefore expose us to cost overruns. Cost overruns, whether due to inefficiency, inaccurate estimates or other factors, result in lower profit or a loss on a project. As a result, we will only realize profits on these contracts if we successfully estimate our project costs and avoid cost overruns. Other variations and risks inherent in the performance of fixed price contracts such as delays caused by inclement weather, technical issues, and any inability to obtain the requisite permits and approvals, may cause our actual overall risks and costs to substantially differ from our original estimates despite any buffer we may have built into our bids for increases in labor and material costs. We cannot guarantee that we will not encounter cost overruns or delays on our current and future construction projects. If such cost overrun or delays occur, we could experience an increase in costs exceeding our budget or be required to pay liquidated damages with a consequent reduction in, or elimination of, the profits on our contracts.

Some of our construction contracts contain price adjustment clauses, which allow us to reclaim additional costs incurred as a result of unexpected increases in raw material costs. However, we are typically required to bear a portion of the increased cost. From time to time, we may be required to perform extra or "change order" work under our contracts despite the absence of prior agreements with our customers on the scope or price of the work to be performed. See " — Risks relating to our industry — We are exposed to risks associated with entering into public construction contracts". This process may result in disputes over whether the work performed is beyond the scope of the work included in the original project and specifications, or over the price the customer is willing to pay for the extra work. Even when the customer agrees to pay for the extra work, we may be required to fund the cost of such work for a lengthy period of time until the change order is approved and funded by the customer. In addition, any delay caused by the extra work may impact the progress of our projects and our ability to meet specific contract milestone dates. We may also incur costs due to unapproved construction change orders or contract disputes. We cannot assure you that we will be able to invoice or recover the cost for the extra or change order work in full or at all, which may lead to business disputes, or may otherwise adversely affect our business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects. In addition, the performance of extra work may cause delays in our other project commitments and may have a negative impact on our ability to meet specified deadlines.

We rely on third parties to complete some of our construction projects, which may be adversely affected by the sub-standard performance or non-performance of such third parties.

In order to minimize the need to employ a large workforce that includes skilled labor in different specialized areas and semi-skilled labor, and to maximize our cost-efficiency and flexibility, we typically engage third-party subcontractors to perform a portion of the work under our contracts. However, we may not be able to monitor the performance of these subcontractors as directly and efficiently as with our own staff. In addition, our inability to hire qualified subcontractors could hinder our ability to complete a project successfully. We may also suffer losses on contracts if the amounts we are required to pay for subcontractors exceed our original estimates. Outsourcing exposes us to risks associated with non-performance, delayed performance or sub-standard performance by subcontractors or third parties. As a result, we may experience deterioration in the quality or delivery of our construction projects, incur additional costs due to the delays or at a higher price in sourcing the services, equipment or supplies in default, or be subject to liability under the relevant contract for our subcontractor's performance. Such events could impact upon our profitability, financial performance and reputation, and result in litigation or damage claims.

We may experience delays or defaults in accounts receivable, progress payments or the release of retention money by our customers.

Like other large-scale construction companies in China, we typically receive progress payments from our customers with reference to the value of work completed at specified milestone dates, as well as receive final payments upon completion of the entire project. Therefore, we not only generate accounts receivable after completion of a specific project, but also from time to time when the construction is in progress.

In addition, we usually either secure a letter of credit issued by a licensed commercial bank or a portion of the contract value is usually withheld by the customer as retention money, normally 5% to 10%, to be paid or released after the warranty period (generally one to two years after completion of the relevant project). As of 30 November 2007, the total amount of retention money withheld by our customers was RMB5,522.2 million.

The rate of guaranteed funding for our government-funded projects is generally higher despite the possibility of late payment settlement resulting from changes in the government's estimates or delayed progress payments. The rate of guaranteed funding we receive for the portion of privately-funded projects we undertake is lower, which may lead to our inability to receive payment as scheduled. Such events may result in a large amount of accounts receivable and may impact our cash flow, particularly as we have to expend resources in advance of payment. As of 31 December 2006 and 30 November 2007, our trade and bills receivables (including retention money receivable) were RMB24,001.1 million and RMB27,609.2 million, respectively. Given that we are often required to commit resources to projects prior to receiving payments from customers, we are often required to maintain sufficient working capital.

In the event that we encounter delays or defaults in the payments of our accounts receivable or progress payments by customers, we may be required to make a working capital investment to maintain our day to day operations. We cannot assure you that the accounts receivable, progress payments or retention money will be remitted to us by our customers on a timely basis or that delays or defaults in payment will not affect our financial condition and results of operations.

Projected revenue amounts reported in our backlog may decline and may not result in actual revenue or translate into profits.

Backlog represents our estimated contract value of work to be completed as of a certain date. Backlog is not a measure defined by generally accepted accounting principles and backlog may not be indicative of future operating results. See "Business — Backlog". The contract value of a project represents the amount we expect to receive assuming our performance is in accordance with the terms of the contract. As of 31 December 2006 and 30 November 2007, our backlog was approximately RMB202.5 billion and RMB302.1 billion, respectively. Many of our contracts do not require our customers to purchase a minimum amount of services and are terminable on short notice. Projects may remain in our backlog for an extended period of time. In addition, project cancellations or adjustments to the scope of the projects in our backlog may occur from time to time, which could reduce the dollar amount of our backlog and the revenue and profits we ultimately earn from those contracts. As a result, you are warned against unduly relying on our backlog information presented in this Prospectus as an indicator of our future earnings.

Our construction business involves inherent risks and occupational hazards.

We operate in an industry that involves inherent risks and occupational hazards. We may experience unexpected difficulties when carrying out our infrastructure construction projects as a result of factors including, but not limited to, unfavorable weather and geological conditions, high-altitude construction, underground excavations, failure of employees to follow proper safety procedures and the use of explosives and large-scale machinery. These risks, hazards and difficulties could result in personal injury, damage to or destruction of properties or production facilities, business interruption, possible legal liability, damage to our business reputation and corporate image and, in severe cases, fatalities. In the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006, the fatality rate per ten billion RMB revenue of our Company was 1.18, 2.27 and 1.35, respectively.

We cannot assure you that any measures we may take will be sufficient to prevent such work-related accidents. The occurrence of such incidents may cause damage to our reputation and corporate image, and could impact our qualifications for construction, business operations and results of operations.

Certain of our businesses expose us to potential liability claims.

We are mainly engaged in the business of constructing large-scale infrastructure projects and the manufacturing of large track maintenance machinery. Our construction operations involve inherently hazardous activities such as operations at high-altitudes or in harsh geological conditions, tunnel construction, use of heavy machinery, and working with flammable and explosive materials. The occurrence of design, construction, systems or equipment failures, as well as accidents, fires, explosions, geological catastrophes, toxic gas leakages and other operating hazards, may result in severe damage and injury to persons, property and the environment, losses of lives, or in our being named as defendants in lawsuits asserting claims for substantial amounts of damages. In addition, many of our contracts are subject to specific completion schedule requirements and we are subjected to liquidated damages in the event that the construction schedules are not achieved. If we fail to meet schedule requirements on a project, we may be responsible for the payment of liquidated damages. We may also face liabilities associated with the subsequent use by our customers or third parties of facilities we have constructed after the completion of our projects. We normally seek to limit exposure to such claims through contractual limitations of liability, indemnities from our customers, subcontractors and suppliers, and insurance as part of our risk management strategy. However, such measures may not offer us sufficient protection and may be limited by various factors outside our control, including:

- in some of the jurisdictions in which we operate, including China, environmental and workers' compensation liabilities may be assigned to us as a matter of law and may not be limited through contracts;
- customers and subcontractors may not have adequate financial resources to satisfy their indemnity obligations to us;
- losses may derive from risks not addressed in our indemnity agreements; and
- our insurance coverage may not be sufficient because it may not be possible to obtain adequate insurance against some risks on commercially reasonable terms, or at all.

Insurance policies, in particular, have become increasingly expensive and sometimes very difficult to obtain.

Moreover, there may be circumstances where we are not fully covered by insurance policies for environmental liability, third-party liability, business interruption or loss of profit arising from disruptions of our operations such as accidents at our construction sites or facilities, demonstrations and protests by our workers or third parties. Failure to effectively cover ourselves against these risks for any of the above reasons could expose us to substantial costs and potentially lead to significant losses. Additionally, the occurrence of any of these risks may harm our reputation, which may inhibit our ability to win future projects.

Some of our operations are less profitable, and we may not be able to continue developing new operations that generate higher levels of profit in the future.

Some of our infrastructure construction projects yield a lower level of profit, such as the conventional construction projects, public infrastructure projects, and landmark projects. We are often affected by government policies when we undertake major public infrastructure construction projects. As public spending on such projects may be restricted due to governmental policies on public spending, profits generated from these projects may be limited. In addition, we may from time to time undertake various landmark projects involving high costs, high precision requirements, tight construction schedules and substantial capital investments, as well as the need to acquire new, expensive machinery and equipment, which collectively lead to increased capital expenditure. The undertaking of low-profit projects may expose us to short-term losses and could adversely affect our profit-generating abilities. In addition, the increased use of subcontractors is likely to further erode our profitability. Our efforts to oversee cost management, make improvements to our technology and develop new operations to increase our profits may not be successful, and we may be unable to effectively increase the profits generated from the foregoing projects in our core operations.

Furthermore, we may not be able to continue developing new projects with high profit margins. For example, we plan to expand our operations in real estate development, with an emphasis on commercial real estate. We intend to further expand our overall land reserves and our scale of operations by forming strategic alliances and carefully selecting projects with promising prospects, with the aim of benefiting from synergies and economies of scale and thus strengthening our market presence. See “Business — Other businesses and capital investments — Our other businesses — Real estate development” for details of our new real estate development projects. However, we cannot give any assurance that our strategic plan will be successful. See “ — Our real estate development operations are subject to the influence of macro-economic control measures and intense competition and involve numerous complicated procedures.”

The development and utilization of new technology may not always produce positive results.

We are often engaged to undertake large, complicated projects that require us to design and develop new technology and construction methods, because of our leading position in the domestic industry with respect to technologies we have been able to develop, which could strain our research and development resources. The use of new technology and construction methods could also result in experimental failures, increased costs, unstable conditions, affecting the profitability of some of our projects.

Our large track maintenance machinery manufacturing operations may be exposed to the risk of termination of our partnerships or increased competition.

We import machinery manufacturing technology from our foreign partners and conduct further research and development activities on such technology to meet domestic production requirements for large track maintenance machinery, thereby improving our own research and development capabilities. Any termination in our relationships with our foreign partners may have a negative impact on the future development of technology for our large track maintenance machinery manufacturing operations.

The domestic market for our large track maintenance machinery is limited to the maintenance of existing railway tracks, and relies primarily on procurement from the MOR and a small number of railway operators. We are currently the dominant player in the domestic market for large track maintenance machinery in terms of market share; however, the relevant government agencies plan to implement policies to support other industry players, which could potentially reduce our advantages and competitiveness upon successful implementation of such policies. Moreover, our products, which are manufactured using imported technology, are restricted from being exported to overseas markets and we cannot guarantee that our current efforts to develop an international market for products using our proprietary technology will be successful. In addition, our manufacturing operations may be affected if this market reaches saturation, our customers change their procurement policy or domestic demand for our large track maintenance machinery products is reduced.

Our capital investment operations require significant amounts of investment. The projects we invest in may not generate the profit we expect.

We plan to develop our business in capital investment, which mainly includes BT, BOT, BOO and PPP. We believe that infrastructure construction projects completed on a BT or BOT basis will be increasingly common in China and become an important element in the continued development of China’s infrastructure industry. However, economic benefits and costs associated with the investment in these projects are difficult to evaluate. The risks associated with bidding for and undertaking BOT and PPP projects can also be substantial, including the risk of an incorrect forecast regarding revenue to be derived from the use of the constructed facility at the bidding state, and the risk of extended exposure to fluctuating economic conditions. Any incorrect forecast could have a negative effect on our results of operations. In addition, we may also encounter risks associated with the costs and utilization of management and monitoring resources as well as operating revenue risk for BOO projects. Growth in BOT, BOO and PPP infrastructure projects may require increased private sector participation. Investment by the private sector in these projects depends on the potential returns from these projects and is therefore linked to government policies relating to private participation. Any changes in government policies could subsequently lead to reduced capital investment in the infrastructure sector by the private sector, consequently affecting our business and results of operations.

We may also be required to make substantial working capital expenditure over extended periods if we undertake BT, BOT or other capital investment projects without any guarantee of return, which may adversely impact our cash flow. In addition, because the occurrence of BT and BOT projects in China's infrastructure industry is relatively recent, the governing laws and policies are relatively new and may change from time to time, and our experience in dealing with risks associated with BT and BOT projects is limited. Failure to successfully execute, evaluate or handle capital investment projects as planned may adversely affect our financial condition and results of operations.

We may be unable to continue to procure an adequate supply of raw materials and energy supplies at acceptable prices and quality in a timely manner.

Our successful operations depend on our ability to obtain from our suppliers sufficient quantities of raw materials, energy supplies and other commodities at acceptable prices and quality in a timely manner. We are exposed to the market risk of fluctuations in certain commodity prices for raw materials such as steel, cement, explosives, admixture, track materials, waterproofing materials, and other construction materials utilized in our infrastructure construction business as well as for steel and electronic parts utilized in our machinery and equipment manufacturing business. The price and availability of such raw materials may vary significantly from year to year due to factors such as China's import restrictions, consumer demand, producer capacity, market conditions and costs of materials. In particular, steel and cement, which are critical to our operations, are subject to substantial pricing cyclicality and periodic shortages in China. We are also affected by increases in energy prices, including electricity and fuel prices, for the operation of our machinery and equipment.

We do not have long-term contracts with all of our suppliers or guarantees of supply. As such, we cannot assure you that we will be able to continue to obtain sufficient amounts of raw materials from our existing suppliers or from alternative sources at prevailing or acceptable prices, in a timely manner, or at all. We can give no assurance that we will not encounter difficulties in obtaining quality materials or shortages of raw materials, or that we will be able to absorb any increased raw material prices or pass them on to our customers.

Our business and operations require significant and continuous capital investment. We cannot assure you that we will be able to raise sufficient capital in a timely and reasonable manner.

Our operations are generally capital intensive. Prior to receiving funding for our construction work, we regularly make capital expenditure to expand our operations, purchase and maintain our equipment, increase our operating efficiency, develop new technologies and products, and comply with applicable laws and regulations, all of which result in high fixed costs and require significant capital investments. Our capital expenditures were RMB3,293.3 million, RMB3,541.5 million, RMB6,576.3 million and RMB10,328.5 million for the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, respectively. Our estimated capital expenditure budget for 2008 is approximately RMB10,030.0 million.

We have in the past funded our capital expenditure primarily with cash generated from our operations and through long-term bank loans. We cannot assure you that cash generated from our operations will be sufficient to fund our development and expansion projects. If we are unable to secure sufficient external funds when required, we may not be able to fund necessary capital expenditure. The availability of external funding is subject to various factors beyond our control, including governmental approval, prevailing capital market conditions, credit availability, interest rates and the performance of each of the businesses we operate. The interest rates of Renminbi loans have continued to increase since October 2004. For example, the prime rate of a one-year bank loan was increased from 5.58% in October 2004 to 7.29% in November 2007. If the PBOC continues to increase the interest rates in an effort to slow the economic development in China, our funding costs will be increased and our access to funding may be limited to a greater extent.

The level of our indebtedness and interest payment obligations may limit our financing capabilities.

Our substantial indebtedness may affect our ability to secure funding for various projects, including current and future projects. We have relied upon both short-term and long-term borrowings to fund a portion of our capital expenditure and operations and we expect to continue to do so in the future. As of 31 December 2006 and 30 November 2007, our total borrowings amounted to RMB17,240.4 million and RMB25,800.7 million, respectively, our ratio of total borrowings to total assets was 13.8% and 16.6%, respectively, and our gearing ratio was 82.4% and 83.9%, respectively.

We recorded net current liabilities of RMB1,896.0 million, RMB881.6 million, RMB1,887.7 million and RMB6,490.3 million as of 31 December 2004, 2005, 2006 and 30 November 2007, respectively. We had net current liabilities as of each of these balance sheet dates primarily due to our large amounts of borrowings, comprising mainly short-term borrowings from commercial banks in China. We have historically repaid a significant portion of these short-term loans by rolling over the loans on an annual basis.

In addition, we may incur additional debt to fund our planned capital expenditure and future projects. The level of our indebtedness and the amount of our interest payments could limit our ability to obtain the financing required to fund future capital expenditure and working capital. A shortage of such funds could in turn impose limitations on our ability to plan for, or react effectively to, changing market conditions or to expand through organic and acquisitive growth, thereby reducing our competitiveness.

There is no assurance that we will continue to benefit from preferential tax treatment in China.

Prior to 1 January 2008, except for a number of preferential tax treatment schemes applicable to various enterprises, industries and locations, business enterprises in China were subject to a corporate income tax rate of 33% under the relevant PRC Corporate Income Tax Law. On 16 March 2007, China passed a new corporate income tax law, imposing a tax rate of 25% on new businesses. The new law took effect on 1 January 2008. Business enterprises enjoying preferential tax treatment that was extended for a fixed term prior to 1 January 2008 will still be entitled to such treatment until such fixed term expires. Some of our subsidiaries and jointly-controlled entities are entitled to preferential tax treatment, allowing us to enjoy a lower effective tax rate that would not otherwise be available to us. We cannot predict to what extent the new tax rate will impact the preferential tax treatment enjoyed by our Company and its members, nor can we predict any future effective tax rates. To the extent that there are any changes in, or withdrawals of, our preferential tax treatment, or increases in the effective tax rate, our tax liability may increase correspondingly.

We may not be able to expand further into or operate successfully in markets outside of China.

We are exploring business opportunities in selected foreign markets and strategically expanding the global footprint of our overseas operations. Expansion into new markets outside of China exposes us to substantial risks such as differences in general business environment, high entry barriers for foreign players, established incumbent players in these markets, legal and regulatory requirements, potentially adverse tax consequences, insufficient operating experience in new markets licensing regimes, tendering regimes, payment and business practices, local competition and protectionism. We cannot assure you that we will be able to further expand into or operate successfully in markets outside of China.

Moreover, we have been operating part of our construction business outside of China, including in developing or less developed countries and regions that are subject to changing economic and political conditions beyond our control. We currently have operations in more than 60 overseas countries and regions including Nigeria, Algeria, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, Tanzania, Botswana and Hong Kong. For the year ended 31 December 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, 2.3% and 3.4%, respectively, of our revenue was generated from our work on projects located in these foreign countries and regions. Approximately 20.8% and 38.7%, respectively, of our projected backlog during the same periods consisted of backlog derived from our overseas construction projects. We expect that a significant amount of our revenue and profits will continue to be derived from our overseas projects in the foreseeable future. As a result of our overseas operations, we are exposed to various risks associated to conducting business in foreign countries and territories that include, among other factors:

- political risks, including risks of loss due to civil unrest, acts of terrorism, acts of war, regional and global political or military tensions and strained or altered foreign relations;
- economic, financial and market instability and credit risks;
- abrupt changes in foreign government regulations or policies;
- preferential treatments or corrupt business practices;
- expropriation and nationalization of our assets in foreign countries;
- foreign currency controls and fluctuations;
- tax increases or adverse tax policies;
- trade restrictions;
- sanctions imposed by certain countries against transactions with other countries in which we conduct business which may limit our ability to obtain funding for certain overseas projects;
- discrimination against ethnic Chinese or protectionism against Chinese companies;
- competition from other international large-scale construction companies;
- economic sanctions;
- adverse labor conditions;
- potential disputes with foreign partners, customers, subcontractors or suppliers;
- cyclical nature and demand of international construction markets; and
- lack of a well-developed or independent legal system in the foreign countries in which we have overseas operations, which may create difficulties in the enforcement of contractual rights.

As our overseas operations are susceptible to changes in the overseas countries' respective local economic, political and regulatory environments as well as changes the global economy, a variety of factors, many of which are beyond our control, could significantly affect the profitability and growth of these operations. Any slowdown or downturn of the global economy could result in reduced infrastructure spending, which could in turn affect our overseas operations. In addition, we are often required to deploy management resources and personnel to high-risk areas where our overseas projects are located. As such, we may incur substantial costs to implement safety and security measures to protect our personnel and assets. Such measures may not always be adequate. Our level of exposure to certain risks varies with respect to each project, and is dependent on the particular work stage of each project. Any of the above factors could lead to, amongst others, project disruptions, losses of personnel and assets, which could harm our international business operations, overall financial condition and profitability.

We have in the past conducted and will in the future continue to conduct infrastructure construction operations in Macau. Recently, individual officials at the Department of Transport and Public Works who were formerly in charge of supervising and awarding construction projects have been under investigation or sentenced by the relevant authorities of the Special Administrative Region of Macau for bribery and corruption. These unlawful acts have drawn a high degree of public attention. We cannot assure you that similar unlawful incidents will not recur, nor can we guarantee that the recurrence of a similar incident will not affect any of our projects in Macau.

Our operations expose us to inclement weather, acts of God, adverse work environments and acts of terrorism or war.

Our business operations, particularly our construction business, are mostly conducted outdoors, and are vulnerable to inclement weather. We may as a result of persistently unfavorable weather conditions be prevented from performing work at our construction sites, and thereby fail to meet specified milestone dates. Should we be required to halt operations during such inclement weather, we may continue to incur operating expenses even while we experience reduced revenues and profitability. Moreover, natural disasters and other acts of God which are beyond our control may adversely affect the economy, infrastructure and communities in the countries and regions in which we have operations. We also operate in areas that are under the threat of floods, earthquakes, sandstorms or drought. In the event that any of these natural disasters occur, we may be forced to stop work on the affected project.

In addition, we conduct our construction work under a variety of conditions, including on difficult terrain, under harsh site conditions, in busy urban centers where delivery of materials and availability of labor may be affected and on sites which may previously have been exposed to environmental hazards. Such conditions may result in personal injuries or fatalities or have a negative effect on our work performance and efficiency.

Acts of war and terrorist attacks, including those in foreign countries in which we have overseas operations, may cause damage or disruption to us, our employees, our subcontractors, our operations, our equipment, and our facilities, as well as to our markets, any of which could impact our public image, turnover and cost of sales. The potential for war or terrorist attacks may also create uncertainty and cause our business to suffer in ways that we cannot currently predict.

We are a party to certain litigation and legal proceedings. Any unfavorable outcome may adversely affect our financial condition and business operations, as well as result in payment of damages.

We may at times either receive claims brought against us by, or assert claims against, our clients, subcontractors or suppliers involving contract disputes arising from the ordinary course of our business. Claims brought against us may include claims for the recovery of back charges for breach of contract or delayed completion, liabilities for defective products or workmanship, or compensation for damage to, or destruction of, property. Claims brought by us may include claims for the recovery of costs incurred in excess of current contract provisions resulting from the performance of extra or change order work. If we are unable to resolve such claims through negotiation, we may face litigation or arbitration proceedings which can be expensive, lengthy and disruptive to our normal business operations. The results of complex legal proceedings are often difficult to predict. Aggregated claims may also result in an adverse impact on our business, financial condition and results of operations.

Compensation ultimately received from any successful determination of a lawsuit may be significantly lower than the balances included in our financial statements. Moreover, legal proceedings resulting in judgments or findings against us may harm our reputation, cause economic losses and damage our prospects for future contract awards.

Our competitiveness may be reduced if we are unable to adequately protect our intellectual property rights.

We rely on a combination of patents, copyrights, trademarks, construction methods and contractual rights to protect our intellectual property. As of the Latest Practicable Date, we held 67 trademarks, 87 patents, 67 National Construction Methods and 351 Provincial Construction Methods in China. We market our construction business and construction machinery and equipment under the well-recognized brand name, CRCC, which we believe has been critical to our competitiveness and success. In addition, we have developed a number of advanced systems, trade secrets, patented technology, construction methods, processes and other intellectual property, which have enabled us to improve our production efficiency and to secure an increased number of projects. We cannot guarantee that the measures we have taken will be sufficient to prevent any misappropriation of our intellectual property, or that our competitors will not independently develop, or obtain through licensing, alternative technologies that are substantially equivalent or superior to ours.

China's intellectual property laws are still evolving and the levels of protection and means of enforcement of intellectual property rights in China differ from those in other jurisdictions. Enforcement of our intellectual property rights could be costly, and we may not be able to immediately detect unauthorized use of our intellectual property and take the necessary steps to enforce our rights in such property. In the event that the measures taken by us or the protection afforded by law do not adequately safeguard our proprietary technology and other intellectual property rights, we could suffer losses in revenues and profits due to competing sales of products and services that exploit our intellectual property. Furthermore, we cannot assure you that any of our intellectual property rights will not be challenged by third parties. Adverse rulings in any litigation or proceeding could result in the loss of our proprietary rights and subject us to substantial liabilities, or even disrupt our business operations.

The departure of key members of our management team and senior technicians may impact our business and results of operations, and our inability to attract and retain qualified personnel may limit our development.

The growth of our business operations is dependent upon the continued service of our senior management team. The industry experience, extensive expertise and contributions of our executive Directors and other members of our senior management whose names are set out in "Directors, Supervisors, Senior Management and Employees" of this Prospectus are essential to our continuing success. We will require an increasing number of experienced and competent executives in the future to implement our growth plans. If we were to lose the services of any of our Company's key management members disclosed in this Prospectus and were unable to recruit and retain personnel with equivalent qualifications at any time, the management and growth of our business could be affected.

In addition, our performance and development depend on our ability to employ, train and retain highly skilled personnel, including design, engineering, and project management and marketing professionals. We expect that, in order to comply with applicable construction regulations and to complete our construction projects on time and within budget, we will have to continue to train our employees and require additional qualified professionals. Demand for employees who have industry-related experience and expertise will increase as our customers increase their capital expenditure and the use of our services. The ability to attract qualified employees is dependent on the resources available in individual geographic areas and the effect on the labor supply caused by general economic conditions. We cannot assure you that we will be able to maintain an adequate skilled labor force necessary for us to operate efficiently and according to project schedules, nor can we guarantee that labor costs will not increase as a result of a shortage in the supply of skilled personnel. Failure to attract and retain personnel with technical or marketing expertise may result in our non-compliance with applicable construction regulations and the inability to prevent misappropriation of our technology or maintain our client contacts.

We have not obtained valid titles or rights to use certain properties that we occupy.

As of 31 December 2007, we or our landlords had not obtained valid title or rights to certain properties that we occupy or lease. See "Business — Properties". These properties are used primarily for ancillary use as office buildings. As of 30 November 2007, the value of our properties with defective titles represented approximately 0.78% of our net asset value. We have applied to the appropriate authorities to obtain the relevant title certificates, and expect that such title certificates will be obtained by the end of 2008. We cannot give any assurance that such ownership dispute or claim will not occur or that third parties will not assert any claims against us for compensation in respect of any illegal and/or unauthorized use of their land.

We may not be able to monitor and deploy internal control measures with respect to our business operations in an effective and timely manner because of our large number of operating subsidiaries and their broad range of businesses.

The development of our management and internal control measures has largely coincided with the expansion of our businesses. Some of our internal control and coordinating measures relating to our operations may currently be insufficient because we have many subsidiaries, a broad range of businesses and oversized management. As a result, competition often arises among our subsidiaries, particularly in the area of construction work. In addition, we conduct our overseas operations in many countries and jurisdictions, and may be governed by different laws, regulations and business practices and conventions. As a result of our unfamiliarity with these foreign laws and regulations or our inability to effectively manage the activities of our overseas subsidiaries, joint ventures or third parties, our overseas operations through these subsidiaries, joint ventures or third parties (such as local proxy organizations) could expose us to legal risks and liabilities, including corrupt business practices. Accordingly, as we integrate the operations of our various subsidiaries and operations, we aim to continue to strengthen our management and internal control mechanisms to address such integration issues, through measures such as the integrated management of our financial data, risk management, consolidation of internal resources, and a uniform information system. However, we cannot assure you that we will be able to implement internal control mechanisms that will promptly and adequately respond to our expanded scope of operations; nor can we guarantee that our employees will not, in their personal capacity, act in such a way that contravenes our internal control procedures.

RISK FACTORS

We will be controlled by CRCCG, our Controlling Shareholder, whose interests may differ from those of our other shareholders.

Upon the completion of A Share Offering and the Global Offering, assuming the Over-allotment Option is not exercised, CRCCG will beneficially own and control approximately 64.4% of our share capital. Subject to the Articles of Association, CRCCG will continue to have the ability to exercise a controlling influence over the management, policies, business and affairs of our Company by controlling the composition of our Board, determining the timing and amount of dividend distributions, approving material property transactions, major overseas investments, approving our annual budgets and amending our articles of incorporation. We cannot guarantee that CRCCG will not cause us to enter into transactions, to take or fail to take, any other actions or make decisions that conflict with the best interests of our other shareholders. Furthermore, as several of our Directors, supervisors and members of our senior management may serve concurrently as managers or officers of CRCCG, there may be appearances of conflicts of interest. See "Relationship with CRCCG".

Our limited operating history as a separate entity could affect our operating efficiency and your ability to evaluate our business and growth prospects.

We were established on 5 November 2007 as a result of the Restructuring, under which CRCCG transferred to us substantially all of its assets, liabilities and interests in relation to its construction, survey, design and consultancy, manufacturing operations and other operations in exchange for an equity interest in us in the form of state-owned shares. Accordingly, we have a limited operating history as an independent operating entity, which may impact your ability to evaluate our business and growth potential. We have included historical and pro forma financial information in this Prospectus that may not necessarily be indicative of our future financial condition, results of operations and cash flows. We may also have difficulty managing our future growth and the increased scale of our operations, as well as developing and maintaining management and administrative systems, resources and supporting infrastructure sufficient to effectively manage the operations of our subsidiaries and to keep pace with our planned growth or to handle the additional responsibilities of becoming a public company.

Our historical dividends may not be indicative of our future dividend policy.

In accordance with the "Provisional Regulation Relating to Corporate Reorganization of Enterprises and Related Management of State-owned capital and Financial Treatment" (the "Provisional Regulations") issued by the MOF, which became effective from 27 August 2002, and the Restructuring Agreement entered into between CRCCG and the Company, we are to make a distribution to CRCCG (the "Pre-establishment Distribution"), our sole shareholder prior to the initial offering of our A Shares, in an amount equal to the net profit attributable to shareholders for the period from 1 January 2007 to 5 November 2007 (the date on which the Company was incorporated).

In addition, pursuant to the resolution of a shareholders' meeting dated 30 November 2007, our sole shareholder, CRCCG, has resolved to make a special distribution to itself, as our sole shareholder, in an amount equal to the net profit of our Company for the period from 6 November 2007, the date immediately after the date on which the Company is incorporated, to 30 November 2007 (the "Special Dividend"). The net profit of our Company for the Pre-Establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend in aggregate will be determined based on the audited accounts prepared in accordance with PRC GAAP for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, after giving effect to relevant necessary adjustment. The total aggregate amount of the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend is RMB2,423.9 million. We will publish an announcement of the final amount of the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend prior to the payment of the Pre-establishment Distribution to CRCCG.

Holders of our H Shares under the Global Offering will not be entitled to the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend. CRCCG is the only shareholder entitled to the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend. In addition, any distributable profits available for distribution to our shareholders after the Global Offering will exclude the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend. The payment of Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend may adversely impact the total value of our assets and your investment.

The Pre-establishment Distribution and Special Dividend are not indicative of the dividends that our Company may declare or distribute in the future. We cannot guarantee whether and when any dividends will be paid in the future and the amount of dividends that we may have declared historically is not indicative of the amount of dividends that we may pay in the future. Details of our Company's dividend policy after completion of the Global Offering are set out in the section headed "Financial Information — Dividend policy". The declaration, payment and the amount of any future dividends are determined at the discretion of our Board and will depend upon general business conditions and strategies, our financial results and capital requirements, the interests of our shareholders, taxation conditions, statutory and regulatory restrictions and other factors that our Board deems relevant.

We may not be able to detect and prevent bribery or other misconduct committed by our employees or third parties.

There have been a number of publicized cases involving bribery or other misconduct by employees or third parties, including our subcontractor, in recent years. Bribery and other misconduct by employees or third parties may be difficult to detect and deter and could subject us to litigation or harm our reputation. Although we are increasing our efforts to detect and prevent employee and third party misconduct, it is not always possible to detect or deter such activities, and the precautions we take to detect and prevent these activities may not be effective in all cases, particularly as we expand into overseas jurisdictions. We cannot assure you that any employee or third-party misconduct, whether involving past acts that have gone undetected or future acts, will not have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

RISKS RELATING TO OUR INDUSTRY

The PRC Government may reduce public spending on infrastructure construction.

Our construction operations, which constitute our core business, primarily focus on infrastructure construction, such as the construction of transportation infrastructure, logistics systems and commercial properties. For the year ended 31 December 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, our revenue derived from our construction operations before inter-segment elimination accounted for 94.7% and 93.9%, respectively, of our total revenue before inter-segment elimination in the same period. Our largest customers are the business entities, such as project companies, established and directed by the central and local governments of the PRC. The future growth of the infrastructure construction industry in China depends primarily upon the continued availability of major infrastructure projects. The nature, extent and timing of these projects will, however, be determined by the interplay of a variety of factors, including the PRC Government's spending in the infrastructure construction industry in China and the general conditions and prospects of China's economy. Since the majority of the funding for the infrastructure construction projects in China comes from governmental budgets, implementation of the projects relies to a significant degree on the PRC Government's public policy and spending. Changes in public policy or governmental budgets may therefore have an impact on our business operations and financial performance. In addition, our survey, design and consultancy business and large track maintenance machinery manufacturing business are also affected by the foregoing factors. As a result, any changes in the governmental budgets, public spending and public policies of the PRC Government could have an impact on our other main businesses.

The PRC Government's spending on infrastructure has historically been, and will continue to be, cyclical in nature and vulnerable to China's economic growth and direction. The PRC Government has, in recent years, implemented various policies in an effort to control the growth rate of certain industries and to limit inflation, which has impacted upon the level of public spending on infrastructure construction projects. A significant decrease in public spending on infrastructure construction in China could reduce the number of available construction projects and thus reduce the market demand for our core business.

We are exposed to risks associated with entering into public construction contracts.

We are a provider of infrastructure construction and design services mainly to the business entities, such as project companies, established and directed by the central and local governments of the PRC and are therefore exposed to risks associated with public construction contracts. For example, many of our contracts with such governmental bodies are for large and high profile infrastructure projects, which can result in increased political and public scrutiny of our work. Changes in government budgets and policy considerations could result in delays or changes to these projects because these projects are publicly funded. In addition, disputes with the business entities established and directed by the PRC Government could potentially lead to contract termination if unresolved or may take a considerably longer period of time to resolve than disputes with our private sector counter parties, and payments from the business entities may be delayed as a result. Such business entities may from time to time require the construction methods or equipment utilized to be changed, directing us to reconfigure our designs or purchase machinery and equipment for the relevant project, thereby subjecting us to additional costs. Changes to government budgets and policies relating to our projects could lead to delays in project completion, adverse changes to such projects or a withholding of, or delay in, payments to us. Government agencies generally exercise significant discretion in the performance of their contracts with us. If a public or governmental entity terminates or fails to renew a contract with us, our backlog may be reduced. See "Business — Backlog".

Moreover, significant government pricing oversight and control limit our ability to obtain favorable prices for our services and products relating to infrastructure construction projects such as railway and highway construction projects. Government agencies such as the MOR and the Ministry of Communications often publish reference prices relating to transportation infrastructure projects as a measure to determine the maximum amount that may be charged on a project. Any downward adjustment in these reference prices or failure to increase them sufficiently to offset rising raw material, labor or other costs could reduce our margins and have a negative effect on our financial condition and results of operations. Our limited pricing power is also attributable to the operation of market practice and our dealing with a very limited number of customers for some of our businesses.

All of the foregoing risks may impair our ability to execute and collect payments on our government contracts.

Intense competition in the construction industry in which we operate could reduce our market share and profits.

We operate in a highly competitive construction industry. The number of construction companies in China has increased in recent years as a result of the growth of the construction sector. The relatively low entry barrier to the construction sector where market participants offer labor-intensive construction services to clients on a contract basis and compete against each other on the basis of low labor costs without utilizing advanced technologies, and insufficient market regulations can, at times, result in unregulated and fierce competition. As a result of intense market competition, there may be an increase in the mergers or restructurings of domestic construction companies under the guidance or encouragement of the PRC Government or as a result of market trends. Some of our domestic competitors, including state-owned enterprises and private companies, may therefore merge in the future to become companies of an even larger scale, and any consolidation of the industry resulting from government policies or market trends may pose new challenges to us. Without the burden of a long history, emerging private construction companies that are able to operate at lower costs and with greater flexibility may be able to acquire a larger share of the market. The PRC Government has issued a number of notices announcing its intention to encourage further competition within the railway construction industry in China by allowing companies with the relevant prescribed professional qualifications in the areas of construction, survey, design and consultancy and compliance certification in other infrastructure industries, such as roads, ports and municipal works, to engage in railway construction in China. Domestic competitors may also have advantages over us in terms of pricing and bidding for projects sponsored by local governments that may prefer to contract with locally based contractors. Since the issuance of these notices, a number of construction companies have begun competing for railway construction projects, and we expect to face increasing competition from both local and international players in the future.

In addition, as part of its commitment to WTO accession, the PRC Government has in recent years implemented certain policies to open up the domestic infrastructure construction industry, and foreign invested companies are now allowed to participate in various types of infrastructure projects, despite certain qualification restrictions. As a result, we also compete with foreign market entrants in addition to domestic competitors in our domestic infrastructure construction business and we expect competition from foreign participants to continue increasing. The ability to compete in our industry depends on numerous factors, such as capacity, access to capital, management expertise, quality of services, availability of resources and price. Our foreign competitors may have greater financial, technical, management and/or other resources and may provide more services than we do, and could possibly form mergers or joint ventures with some of our domestic competitors or other foreign competitors to our detriment. Our market position depends on our ability to anticipate and respond to various competitive factors, including pricing strategies adopted by competitors, changes in customer preferences, availability of capital and financing resources and the introduction of new or improved products and services.

We cannot assure you that our competitors will not develop the expertise, experience and resources necessary to provide services that are superior in quality or price or both to our services, or that potential changes in the relevant governmental regulations, industry trends or market conditions will not alter the competitive landscape for our services beyond our projections. During economic downturns that correspond with decreased government funding for infrastructure construction projects or periods in which there is low market demand but a simultaneous increase in the number of industry players, competition for available projects is likely to intensify and may impair our ability to compete at acceptable profit margins. Failure to maintain or enhance our competitive position within the industry or maintain a customer base at current levels may result in pressure to reduce prices for our services, and decreased profit margins and loss of market share.

RISK FACTORS

Our real estate development operations are subject to the influence of macro-economic control measures and intense competition and involve numerous complicated procedures.

China's real estate sector is in its early stages of development and social, political, economic, legal and other factors may affect its development. A significant downturn in China's economy could adversely affect demand in the real estate sector. The PRC Government from time to time implements macro-economic control measures to guide the orderly development of the real estate sector. Since April 2006, the PRC Government has announced and adopted a series of measures to control the land, taxes, loans, and sales of real estate development, as well as to regulate the ratio of newly constructed to existing residential buildings. The PRC Government intends to intervene in real estate development by increasing supply and reducing demand as a means of discouraging speculation in real estate investments and controlling unreasonable increases in housing prices. As the success of our real estate development business depends on the potential and development of the real estate industry, including our ability to complete and market our real estate development projects as well as to continue to acquire property, we are directly affected by such macro-economic control measures. Moreover, if these measures do not effectively control unreasonable price increases in residential buildings, the PRC Government may implement new policies to further influence its control of the market. We cannot assure you that any new measures will not adversely affect our real estate development operations. In addition, we will be required to replenish our land reserves with suitable land sites for development and our ability to do so is subject to many factors that are beyond our control.

Real estate development also involves numerous complicated procedures, lengthy periods of development and large investments. In addition, our real estate development operations are smaller in scale compared to that of our competitors in China, many of whom possess greater financial resources, enjoy greater economies of scale and broader brand recognition. Moreover, the internal resources of our various real estate development operations are still subject to ongoing integration. We cannot assure you that our strategy of developing our real estate development operations will be successful considering the intense competitive environment in China.

The success of our real estate development business is dependent on whether the PRC property sector can sustain positive performance. Demand for private residential and commercial properties in China has grown rapidly in recent years but such growth is often coupled with volatility in market conditions and fluctuations in property prices. It is not possible to predict whether demand for real properties in China will continue to grow in the future, as many social, political, economic, legal and other factors may affect the development of the property market. In addition, interest rate increases in China implemented by the PBOC have a direct effect on the demand for property, and thus on the real estate development industry. A rise in interest rates could adversely affect the affordability and attractiveness of mortgage financing to potential purchase of our properties. As a result, the demand for our real estate development projects may be negatively affected.

We may not be able to identify, obtain or retain a sufficient number of land sites suitable for our real estate development operations.

The profitability of our real estate development operations is substantially affected by our ability to complete and sell our property developments. To grow our business in the future, we also need to identify and acquire properties for development.

Land supply in the PRC is substantially controlled by the PRC Government and any changes in government policy may lead to a decrease in land supply for our future projects. In addition, the PRC

RISK FACTORS

Government regulates the means by which property developers can obtain land for property development. For example, in May 2002, the PRC Government introduced regulations requiring that land use rights for residential or commercial property developments be granted through a public tender, auction or listing for bidding process. As a result, we may have difficulty in continuing to acquire sites suitable for our future property developments at acceptable prices, or at all.

The PRC Government also regulates the manner in which land can be developed. If a site is not developed pursuant to the terms of the relevant land grant contract, the property developer may be subject to various penalties by relevant government authorities, up to and including, the confiscation of the property without full compensation. We cannot guarantee that delays in the completion of a property site or circumstances leading to confiscation of land will not arise in the future.

Any inability to identify, acquire, or complete the development of sufficient appropriate sites at reasonable costs could negatively impact our financial condition, profitability and future growth prospects.

Failure to comply with regulations of the relevant PRC authorities and the extensive environmental, health and safety laws, regulations and quality control standards to which we are subject may result in liabilities.

We, like other infrastructure design and construction companies and large-scale machinery manufacturers in China, are subject to the extensive regulations, policies and controls of governmental agencies such as the MOR, the Ministry of Communications and the MOC. Moreover, our domestic and overseas operations are subject to numerous environmental, health and safety laws and regulations, as well as quality control standards. Given the magnitude, complexity and constant evolution of these laws and regulations, compliance with them may be onerous or may involve substantial financial and other resources to establish efficient compliance and monitoring systems. The liabilities, costs, obligations and requirements associated with these laws and regulations may therefore be substantial and may delay the commencement of, or cause interruptions to, our operations. Non-compliance with the the relevant industry regulations as well as the environmental, health and safety laws and regulations and quality control standards applicable to our operations may even result in suspension of our operations, failed evaluation when the project is delivered for review, as well as substantial penalties or fines, suspension or revocation of our relevant licenses or permits, or termination of government contracts. Such events could impact our operating results, financial condition and reputation. In addition, we cannot reliably predict the effect of the regulatory developments relating to such industry regulations or environmental protection, health and safety laws and regulations, nor can we guarantee that the PRC Government or the governments of foreign jurisdictions in which we operate will not impose additional or stricter laws or regulations, compliance with which may cause us to incur significant costs that we may not be able to pass on to our customers. Any changes or amendments to such laws or regulations may cause us to incur additional capital expenditure, other obligations or other liabilities. Furthermore, some of the new overseas markets that we are seeking to enter may have more onerous environmental, safety and health regulations than China, compliance with which may be costly and could hinder our endeavors to enter these new overseas markets. Specific governmental policies and regulations that have a significant effect on our operations include:

Industry qualification regulations. We are subject to various qualifications approval by governmental authorities at different levels to carry out construction activities within the scope of our respective qualifications. The qualifications of construction enterprises in China can be divided into three categories, namely general contracting, specialized contracting and labor service sub-contracting, each of which is further divided into various qualification ratings depending on the nature and technical specifications of the project.

RISK FACTORS

Each of these qualification ratings are then further subdivided into certain grades based on prescribed conditions. Enterprises that have obtained the qualification for general contracting may undertake general contracting construction projects. Enterprises that have obtained the qualification for specialized contracting may undertake specialized projects subcontracted by general contractors or by developers according to relevant provisions. Enterprises that have obtained the qualification for labor service subcontracting may undertake labor service subcontracted by general contractors or specialized contractors.

Safety regulations. We are subject to extensive work safety laws and regulations that require us to implement national or industrial standards prescribed for the purpose of ensuring work safety, and must provide conditions that comply with work safety requirements set forth in applicable laws, administrative regulations and national or industrial standards. Entities that fail to provide such conditions in the workplace are not permitted to engage in production or business operations. A chief person-in-charge of the respective construction entity is responsible for the overall work safety of the entities concerned. In a general contracting construction project, the general contractor is liable for the overall work safety on the construction site. Where the general contractor subcontracts the construction project to another entity, it is required by law to explicitly stipulate each party's rights and obligations in regard to work safety in the subcontract. The general contractor and the subcontractors bear joint liability for the work safety of the subcontracted projects. If the subcontractors do not follow the work safety management policies of the general contractor, they will incur significant liabilities for work safety accidents caused by their non-compliance. A construction entity must provide occupational accidental injury insurance for the employees, and is required to pay the insurance premium. In a general contract project, the insurance premium is paid by the general contractor. The insurance coverage typically applies from the commencement of the project to when the project is determined as qualified upon the inspection and certification of its completion.

Environmental protection policies. We are subject to extensive and increasingly stringent environmental protection laws and regulations that impose fees for the discharge of certain waste substances, require the establishment of reserves for reclamation and rehabilitation, and impose fines for serious environmental offences. The PRC Government, adopting a rigorous approach when enforcing the applicable laws and regulations and implementing increasingly stringent environmental standards, may shut down any facility that fails to comply with orders requiring it to correct or cease operations that raise environmental concerns. If we fail to comply with existing or future environmental laws and regulations, we may be required to pay penalties or fines or take remedial actions, any of which could have a material adverse effect on our business, operations, financial condition and results of operations.

Periodic inspections, examinations, inquiries or audits by regulatory authorities may result in fines, other penalties or actions that could adversely affect our financial performance and reputation, and we may not be able to obtain or renew the appropriate permits, licenses and certifications required for our continued operations.

CRCCG Group, including our Company, are subject to regular inspections, examinations, inquiries and audits by governmental authorities as part of the process of maintaining or renewing the various licenses, certificates and permits required for infrastructure and construction projects as well as machinery and equipment manufacturing. We are also subject to periodic and spot inspections conducted by governmental authorities at various levels in order to maintain our licenses, certificates and permits. In the event that any of our or our subsidiaries facilities or products fail such inspections, our business, profitability and reputation in the industry may be adversely affected. We cannot assure you that we will be able to maintain or renew our existing licenses, certificates, permits, or any other regulatory approvals or obtain future licenses, certificates, permits or other approvals required for our continued operation on a timely basis or at all. In the event that we fail to comply with applicable laws and regulations or fail to maintain, renew or obtain the necessary licenses, certificates, permits or approvals, our qualification to conduct any construction business may be impacted. We may also be subject to fines or other financial penalties in such events.

RISKS RELATING TO THE PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF CHINA

Changes in China's economic, political and social conditions as well as governmental policies could affect our financial condition and results of operations.

China's economy differs from the economies of most developed countries in many respects, including:

- structure;
- level of government involvement;
- level of development;
- growth rate;
- control of foreign exchange; and
- allocation of resources.

China has been one of the world's fastest growing economies as measured by gross domestic product, or GDP, in recent years. However, China may not be able to sustain such a growth rate. In recent years, the PRC Government has implemented a series of measures referred to as the "macro-economic control measures" to curb the rapid growth of the economy in relation to certain industries, particularly the real estate development sector. The key purpose of the measures was to forestall threatening inflation and ensure a stable economy. These measures included the tightening of control over investments and extension of bank credit, raising the deposit-reserve ratio for financial institutions, raising the proportion equity investment in the sectors which we conduct businesses, strict enforcement of land acquisition and use regulations and abandoning or delaying industrial projects which were expected to lead to economic inefficiencies. In addition, any future calamities, such as natural disasters or epidemic outbreaks, may lead to a severe decline in the level of economic activity and adversely affect economic growth in China, Asia or elsewhere in the world. If China's economy experiences a significant slowdown or even a downturn, we may experience a delay or reduction in, or cancellation of, the projects available to us. Moreover, unfavorable financing conditions for the industries that we serve could negatively impact our customers and their ability or willingness to fund capital expenditure in the future or pay for past services.

In addition, China's economy has been transitioning from a planned economy to a more market-oriented economy. For the past two decades, the PRC Government has implemented economic reform measures to emphasize the utilization of market forces in economic development. We cannot predict whether changes in China's political, economic and social conditions, laws, regulations and policies will have any material adverse effect on our current or future business, financial condition and results of operations.

Changes in foreign exchange regulations and future movements in the exchange rate of Renminbi may affect the financial condition and results of operations of our Company and our ability to pay dividends.

The conversion of Renminbi is under government regulation in China. Renminbi is freely exchangeable in current account transactions, but controlled in capital accounts.

RISK FACTORS

Under existing foreign exchange regulations, following completion of the Global Offering, we will be able to pay dividends in foreign currencies without prior approval from the SAFE by complying with certain procedural requirements. However, there is no assurance that these foreign exchange policies regarding payment of dividends in foreign currencies will continue in the future.

A significant portion of our operating revenue is denominated in Renminbi, but some of our construction operations are conducted overseas and, as such, the total amount of our borrowings denominated in foreign currencies was equivalent to RMB316.9 million and RMB793.1 million, respectively, as of 31 December 2006 and 30 November 2007. Our foreign exchange assets may increase following the development of our overseas operations. In addition, some of our machinery and equipment are imported from overseas. Accordingly, we are required from time to time to make payments in Euro or in other foreign currencies. Loans borrowed in foreign countries and the interests on these loans may need to be paid in U.S. dollars or in other foreign currencies. The conversion of Renminbi to repay foreign loans via foreign currency remittances and to pay dividends may subject us to the relevant PRC foreign exchange regulations. As a result, we are exposed to foreign exchange fluctuations and movements in the exchange rate of Renminbi, which may have a direct impact on our profit.

On 21 July 2005, the PRC Government reformed the Renminbi exchange rate mechanism so that the Renminbi was no longer pegged to the U.S. dollar but to a basket of currencies. A revaluation of Renminbi resulted in the appreciation of Renminbi against the U.S. dollar and Hong Kong dollar by approximately 7%. The relaxation of the Renminbi-U.S. dollar peg may contribute to volatility or increased fluctuations in the value of Renminbi. Further appreciation of Renminbi could cause our costs to increase or our operating revenues to decrease. In addition, we plan to deposit the unused proceeds from the Global Offering in bank accounts outside of China without remitting those funds into China and converting them into RMB assets. In the event that the appreciation of Renminbi against the U.S. dollar and Hong Kong dollar continues, we may incur foreign exchange loss. Conversely, depreciation of Renminbi could adversely affect the value of dividends, if any, payable on, the H Shares by our Company in foreign currency terms, and could increase the cost of importing equipment and facilities that are quoted in foreign currencies.

The PRC legal system is continuously evolving and has uncertainties, and the legal protections available to our shareholders may be limited.

As we are a company incorporated under PRC law and substantially all of our businesses are conducted in China, our operations are principally governed by PRC laws and regulations. The PRC legal system is based on written statutes and prior court decisions can only be cited as reference. Since 1979, the PRC Government has promulgated laws and regulations in relation to economic matters such as foreign investment, corporate organization and governance, commerce, taxation and trade, with a view to developing a comprehensive system of commercial laws. However, due to the fact that these laws and regulations have not been fully developed, and because of the limited volume of published cases and their non-binding nature, the interpretation of PRC laws and regulations still involves a degree of uncertainty.

Substantial amendments to the PRC Company Law and the PRC Securities Law came into effect on 1 January 2006. As a result, the State Council and the CSRC may revise the Special Regulations and the Mandatory Provisions and adopt new rules and regulations, to implement and to reflect the amendments to the PRC Company Law and the PRC Securities Law. We cannot assure you that any revision of the current rules and regulations or the adoption of new rules and regulations by the State Council and the CSRC will not have an adverse effect on the rights of holders of H Shares.

RISK FACTORS

As a PRC company offering and listing its H Shares outside the PRC, we are subject to the Special Regulations and the Mandatory Provisions. Upon the listing of the H Shares on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange, the Hong Kong Listing Rules will become the principal bases for the protection of the rights of holders of H shares. The Hong Kong Listing Rules impose particular standards of conduct and disclosure on our Company, our Directors and the controlling shareholders of our Company. As far as we are aware, China has not published any case report that involves a request by a holder of H shares of a PRC company to exercise his or her rights under any constitutional document of a joint stock company with limited liability, the Company Law or any regulatory provisions of the PRC applicable to PRC joint stock limited liability companies.

It may be difficult to enforce any judgments obtained from non-PRC courts against our Company or our Directors, Supervisors or senior executive officers residing in China.

The legal framework to which our Company is subject is substantially different from the Companies Ordinance or corporate law in the United States and other jurisdictions with respect to certain areas, including the protection of minority shareholders. In addition, the mechanisms for enforcement of rights under the corporate governance framework to which our Company is subject are also relatively undeveloped and untested. However, in 2006, amendments made to the PRC Company Law came into effect to allow shareholders to commence an action against the directors, supervisors, officers or any third party on behalf of a company under certain circumstances.

Although we will be subject to the Hong Kong Listing Rules and the Hong Kong Codes on Takeovers and Mergers and Share Repurchases, upon the listing of the H Shares on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange, the holders of H Shares will not be able to bring actions on the basis of any violations of the Hong Kong Listing Rules and must rely on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange to enforce its rules. The Hong Kong Codes on Takeovers and Mergers and Share Repurchases do not have the force of law and only provide standards of acceptable commercial conduct for takeover and merger transactions and share repurchases in Hong Kong.

On 14 July 2006, the Supreme People's Court of the PRC and the Hong Kong government signed an Arrangement on Reciprocal Recognition and Enforcement of Judgments in Civil and Commercial Matters by the Courts of the Mainland and of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region Pursuant to Choice of Court Agreements between Parties Concerned. Under such arrangement, where any designated People's Court of the Mainland or any designated Hong Kong court has made an enforceable final judgment requiring payment of money in a civil and commercial case pursuant to a choice of court agreement in writing by the parties, any party concerned may apply to the relevant People's Court of the Mainland or Hong Kong court for recognition and enforcement of the judgment. However, the rights under the arrangement are limited and as of the Latest Practicable Date, no announcement had been made on when the arrangement will come into effect. When the arrangement is implemented, the outcome and effectiveness of any action brought under the arrangement may still be uncertain.

Our Articles of Association and the Hong Kong Listing Rules provide that most disputes between holders of H Shares and our Company, our Directors, Supervisors or officers arising out of the Articles of Association or the Company Law and related regulations concerning our Company's affairs, such as transfer of its H Shares, are to be resolved through arbitration. On 18 June 1999, an arrangement was made between Hong Kong and the PRC for the reciprocal enforcement of arbitral awards. This arrangement, made in accordance with the spirit of the New York Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards, was approved by the Supreme Court of the PRC and the Hong Kong Legislative Council and became effective on 1 February 2000. Under the arrangement, awards that are made by the PRC arbitral authorities pursuant to the Arbitration Law of the PRC can be enforced in Hong Kong, and awards made by Hong Kong arbitral authorities under the Arbitration Ordinance of Hong Kong are also enforceable in the PRC. However, so far as we are aware, no action has been brought in the PRC by a holder of H Shares to enforce an arbitral award made by the PRC arbitral authorities or Hong Kong arbitral authorities, and there are uncertainties as to the outcome of any action brought in the PRC to enforce an arbitral award made in favor of a holder of H Shares. Accordingly, we are unable to predict the outcome of any such action.

China is not a party to any treaties providing for the reciprocal recognition and enforcement of judgments of courts with foreign countries such as the United States, the United Kingdom and Japan, and therefore enforcement in the PRC of judgments of a court in these jurisdictions may be difficult or impossible.

The exemption from withholding tax on dividends and income available to holders of H Shares may not continue in the future.

Under current PRC tax laws, regulations and rulings, dividends paid by our Company to holders of H Shares outside the PRC are currently exempt from PRC income tax. In addition, gains realized by holders of H Shares upon the sale or other disposition of H Shares are currently exempted from PRC income tax. If the exemptions are withdrawn in the future, holders of H Shares may be required to pay PRC income tax, or we may be required to withhold such tax from dividend payments. Such PRC income tax or withholding tax on dividends is currently imposed at the rate of 20%, unless there is an applicable tax treaty between the PRC and the jurisdiction in which such overseas holders of H Shares reside which reduces or exempts the relevant tax.

There may be an occurrence of a widespread public health problem.

An outbreak of any widespread public health problem in China, such as SARS, could have a negative effect on our operations and results. Our operations may be affected by a number of health-related factors, including quarantines or closures of some of our offices and manufacturing facilities, travel restrictions, any major sickness or death of our key officers and employees, import and export restrictions and a general slowdown in China's economy.

Payment of dividends is subject to restrictions under PRC law.

Under PRC law, dividends may be paid only out of distributable profits. Distributable profits are our net profit as determined under PRC GAAP or IFRS, whichever is lower, less any recovery of accumulated losses and appropriations to statutory and other reserves that we are required to make. As a result, we may not have sufficient or any distributable profits to enable us to make dividend distributions to our shareholders in the future, including periods for which our financial statements indicate that our operations have been profitable. Any distributable profits that are not distributed in a given year are retained and available for distribution in subsequent years.

Moreover, because the calculation of distributable profits under PRC GAAP is different from the calculation under IFRS in certain respects, our operating subsidiaries may not have distributable profits as determined under PRC GAAP, even if they have profits for that year as determined under IFRS, or vice versa. Accordingly, we may not receive sufficient distributions from our subsidiaries. Failure by our operating subsidiaries to pay dividends to us could have a negative impact on our cash flow and our ability to make dividend distributions to our shareholders in the future, including those periods in which our financial statements indicate that our operations have been profitable.

RISKS RELATING TO THE GLOBAL OFFERING

We have completed an A Share Offering prior to the H Share Offering. There are significant differences in the characteristics of the A share and H share markets.

We have completed an A Share Offering in the PRC prior to the Global Offering and have listed such shares on the Shanghai Stock Exchange. Pursuant to PRC law, trading in our A Shares is currently available only to PRC residents and selected foreign institutional investors under the China Qualified Foreign Institutional Investors (QFII) regulations. Non-PRC residents are not permitted to trade in A Shares. Our H Share Offering and our A Share Offering are two separate and independent Offerings, and the H Share Offering is not conditional upon the A Share Offering. Under the current laws and regulations, our H Shares and A Shares are neither interchangeable nor fungible, and there is no trading or settlement between the H share and the A share markets. The H share and A share markets have different trading characteristics and investor bases, including different levels of retail and institutional participation. As a result of these differences, the trading prices of our H Shares and A Shares may not be the same. Fluctuations in our A Share price may, however, adversely affect our H Share price.

Future sales or perceived sales of substantial amounts of our H Shares, A Shares or other securities relating to our H Shares or A Shares in the public market, including any future offerings, or a decline in the market price of our A Shares could impact the prevailing market price of our H Shares and our ability to raise capital in the future, and may result in dilution of your shareholdings.

The market price of our H Shares could decline as a result of future sales of substantial amounts of our H Shares, A Shares or other securities relating to our H Shares or A Shares in the public market or the issuance of new H Shares, A Shares or other securities relating to our H Shares or A Shares, or the perception that such sales or issuances may occur. A decline in the price of our A Shares could also reduce the market price of our H Shares. Moreover, future sales, or perceived sales, of substantial amounts of our H Shares, A Shares or other securities relating to our H Shares or A Shares, could adversely affect our ability to raise capital in the future at a time and at a price which we deem appropriate. Our shareholders may experience dilution in their holdings to the extent we issue additional securities in future offerings.

There has been no prior public market for the H Shares. The liquidity and market price of the H Shares following the Global Offering may be volatile.

Prior to the Global Offering, there has been no public market for the H Shares. The initial price range disclosed in this Prospectus for the H Shares was the result of negotiations among our Company and the Underwriters, and the Offer Price may differ significantly from the market price for the H Shares following the Global Offering. We have applied to list and deal in the H Shares on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange. There is no assurance that the Global Offering will result in the development of an active, liquid public trading market for the H Shares. In addition, the price and trading volumes of the H Shares may be volatile. Factors such as variations in our revenue, earnings and cash flows or any other developments of our Company may affect the volume and price at which the H Shares will be traded.

Disposal of H Shares by NSSF following the listing of the H Shares or potential conversion of Domestic Shares into H Shares may result in an increase in the number of H Shares available on the market and may affect the price of the H Shares.

Pursuant to the approvals of the relevant PRC authorities and in accordance with PRC regulations, we are required to transfer to NSSF such number of Domestic Shares as shall be in aggregate equivalent to 10% of the number of Offer Shares. These Domestic Shares will be converted into H Shares on a one-for-one basis upon completion of the Global Offering and will be held by NSSF immediately thereafter. NSSF will retain approximately 170,600,000 H Shares, representing approximately 1.4% of our total issued share capital, if the Over-allotment Option is not exercised, or 196,190,000 H Shares, representing approximately 1.6% of our total issued share capital if the Over-allotment Option is exercised in full. As advised by our PRC counsel, Beijing Deheng Law Office, the H Shares to be held by NSSF shall not be subject to any lock-up period under the PRC Company Law and there is no legal restriction on NSSF transferring or disposing of such H Shares following the listing of the H Shares. The above-mentioned arrangement will result in an increase of the number of H Shares available on the market if NSSF disposes of its H Shares and such increase may, directly or indirectly, affect the trading price of the H Shares following completion of the Global Offering. See "Share Capital".

In addition, subject to the approval by the securities supervisory and administrative authorities of the State Council, holders of Domestic Shares may transfer their Shares to overseas investors and such Shares may be listed or traded on an overseas securities exchange. Any listing or trading of the above-mentioned Shares on an overseas securities exchange shall also comply with the regulatory procedures, rules and requirements of the relevant overseas securities exchange. Unless otherwise required by the overseas securities exchange, there is no requirement for the listing and trading of the above-mentioned Shares to be approved in a class meeting of our Company. Potential conversion of a substantial amount of Domestic Shares into H Shares could further increase the supply of the H Shares in the market and could negatively impact the market price of the H Shares.

Because the Offer Price is higher than the net tangible book value per share of our Company, the holders of the H Shares will incur immediate dilution.

The Offer Price of the H Shares is higher than the net tangible book value per Share. Therefore, purchasers of the H Shares in the Global Offering will experience an immediate dilution in the net tangible book value per H Share.

Shareholders' interests may be diluted as a result of additional equity fund-raising.

We may need to raise additional funds in the future to finance further expansion of or new developments relating to our existing operations or new acquisitions. If additional funds are raised through the issuance of new equity or equity-linked securities of our Company other than on a pro-rata basis to existing shareholders, the percentage ownership of such shareholders in our Company may be reduced and such new securities may confer rights and privileges that take priority over those conferred by the H Shares.

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

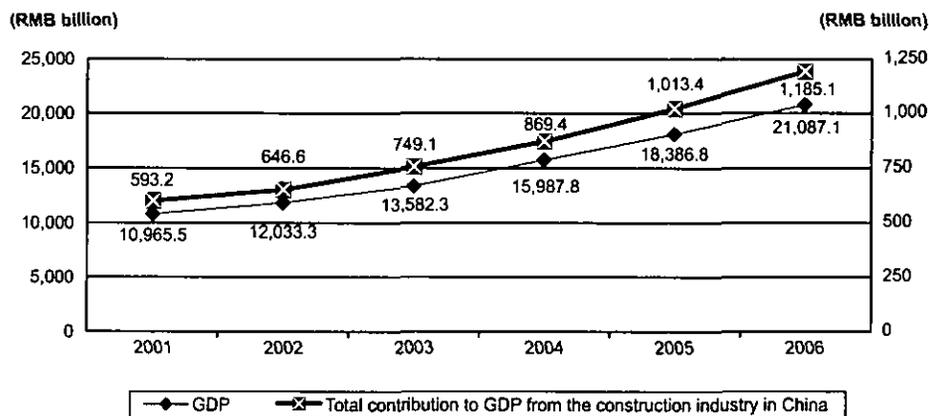

This section of this Prospectus contains information relating to China's economy and the PRC infrastructure construction industry and international infrastructure construction markets. Certain information contained within has been derived from official government publications. Although the Joint Sponsors and our Directors have reproduced the data and statistics extracted from such official government publications in a reasonably cautious manner, neither we, the Underwriters nor any of their respective affiliates or advisers have independently verified the information directly or indirectly derived from these sources, and such information may not be consistent with other information compiled within or outside China. We make no representation as to the completeness or accuracy of such information and accordingly such information should not be relied on.

CHINA'S ECONOMIC GROWTH

China's economy has grown significantly since it began its economic reforms in the late 1970s. Since China became a member of the WTO in 2001, the forecasts for its economic growth have continued to be strong. China's GDP increased from approximately RMB11.0 trillion in 2001 to approximately RMB21.1 trillion in 2006, representing a nominal CAGR of 14.0%. GDP per capita increased from RMB8,622 in 2001 to RMB16,084 in 2006, representing a nominal CAGR of 13.3%.

The Eleventh Five-Year Plan for National Economic and Social Development of the People's Republic of China (2006-2010) (the "Eleventh Five-Year Plan") was promulgated by the State Council during the Tenth National People's Congress in March 2006. The goals of the Eleventh Five-Year Plan include: (i) average real GDP growth rate of 7.5% per year; and (ii) increase in GDP per capita to U.S.$2,400 (approximately RMB19,200) by 2010.

The growth of China's economy has spurred the development of its construction industry. The growth of China's construction industry grew at a CAGR of 14.8% between 2001 and 2006. The following chart sets forth the increase in both China's GDP and total contribution to GDP from the construction industry in China between 2001 and 2006:

DEVELOPMENT OF TRANSPORTATION INFRASTRUCTURE IN CHINA

The PRC Government is currently implementing a comprehensive upgrade of China's existing transportation infrastructure. The Ministry of Communications invested approximately RMB2.2 trillion in

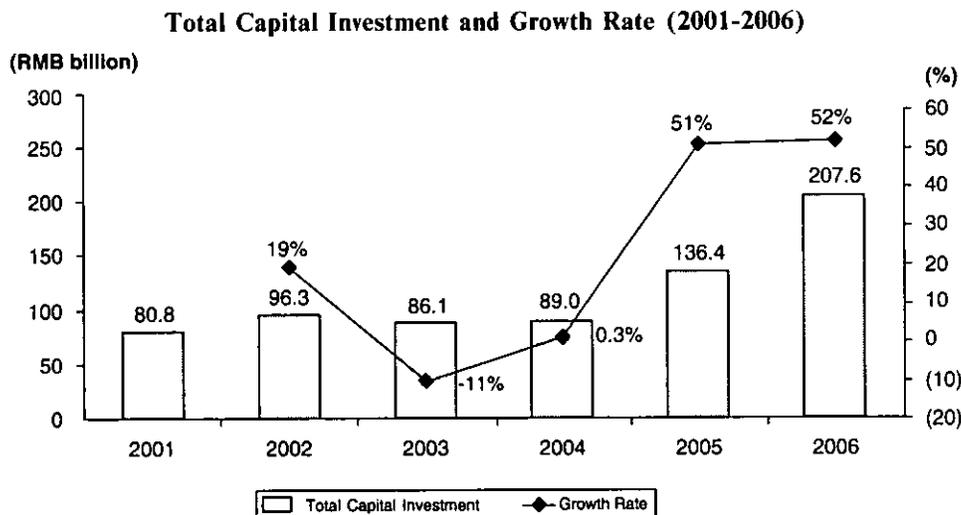

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

China's transportation infrastructure (including highways and waterways) between 2001 and 2005, representing a 117% increase from the previous five-year period (1996-2000). In 2006, the PRC Government invested a total of RMB738.4 billion in transportation infrastructure construction, an increase of 14.6% over investments made in 2005. According to the Eleventh Five-Year Plan, the PRC Government proposes to increase overall investment in transportation construction by (i) implementing a comprehensive national transportation network, (ii) accelerating the development of railway and metropolitan railway lines, (iii) further improving existing roadway networks, and (iv) further developing pipelines as well as airway and waterway transportations. The Eleventh Five-Year Plan includes a total investment by the Ministry of Communications of approximately RMB3.8 trillion in China's transportation infrastructure (including highways and waterways) during the five-year period between 2006 and 2010, representing an increase of 73% from the previous five-year period.

Railway Construction

In recent years, railway transportation has developed rapidly in China. In 2005, the total passenger transportation volume, passenger turnover volume, cargo transportation volume and cargo turnover volume totaled approximately 1.156 billion persons, 606.2 billion passenger-kilometers, 2.693 billion tonnes and 2.07 trillion tonne-kilometers, respectively, representing a CAGR of 2.4%, 6.2%, 8.7% and 9.0%, respectively, from 2001 to 2005. These increases were particularly pronounced in 2004 and 2005, during which passenger volume, passenger turnover, cargo transportation volume, and cargo turnover rate rapidly increased by 3.4%, 6.1%, 8.1%, and 7.4%, respectively. This development continued in 2006 when China ranked first in the world in terms of cargo transportation volume and density of railway transportation, according to the MOR.

Major achievements in railway network construction occurred in the Tenth Five-Year Plan period between 2001 and 2005. During that period, newly constructed railway lines reached a total of 7,063 km and total capital investments in China's railway infrastructure also increased substantially, with a total investment of approximately RMB315.4 billion in railway infrastructure in China for the same period. The following chart sets forth the total capital investment and growth rate in China's railway networks for the periods indicated:

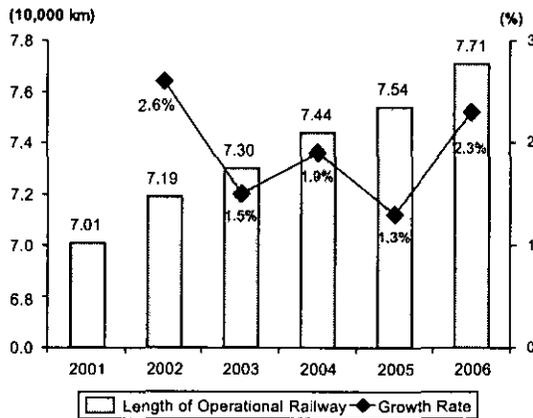

Source: Statistical Communique of the MOR (2001-2006)

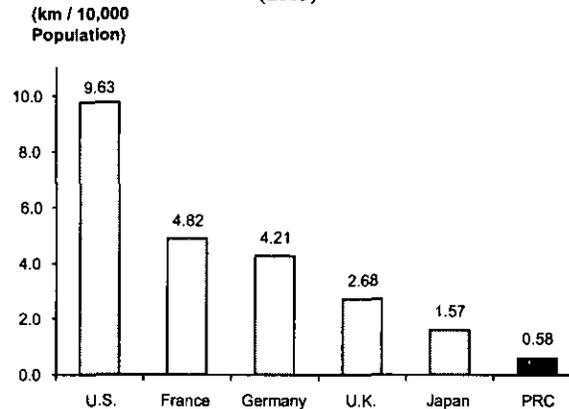

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

The following charts set forth the length of operational railways and growth rate as well as the comparables of density of railway network in China for the periods indicated:

(1) For comparables of railway network density, the figures for China represent 2005 numbers; the figures for all other countries represent 2004 numbers.

On 1 July 2006, the Qinghai-Tibet Railway Line commenced commercial operations, extending the total length of operational railways in China to nearly 80,000 km and expanding the domestic railway network in virtually all regions of China. On 18 April 2007, the MOR implemented the sixth round of speed increases for certain railway lines, such as the Beijing-Harbin, Beijing-Shanghai and Beijing-Guangzhou lines. Following this increase, the length of railways operating at maximum speeds ranging from 120 km/h or above reached 22,000 km, of which the length of railways operating at maximum speeds of 160 km/h or above reached 14,000 km.

However, regardless of the substantial growth, railway transportation capacity in China currently accommodates only approximately 35% of public demand, which causes transportation bottlenecks. China's railway system still requires significant upgrades in technologies and facilities. In addition, the railway transportation sector as a whole is not completely market-oriented. Despite occupying approximately 6% of the world's railway lines by total length, China's railway system carries 24% of the world's total transportation volume. China's rail network is the third longest in the world. However, the PRC has a much lower railway network density compared to countries such as the United States, France, Germany, the United Kingdom and Japan. The expansion and modernization of China's railway network has therefore become an area of critical concern.

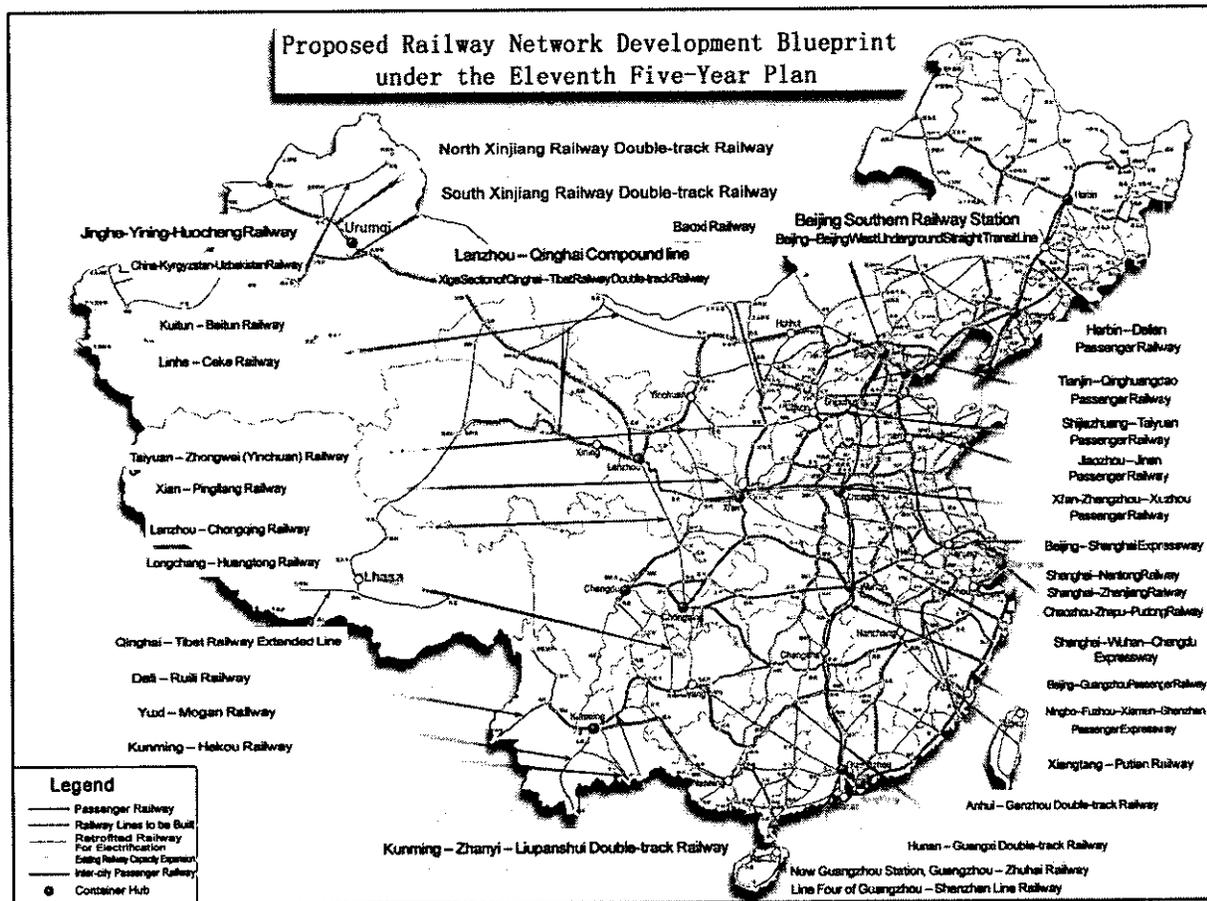

The PRC Government has initiated various plans with a view to achieve nationwide leap-forward development of China's railway system, including the construction of 17,000 km of new railway lines by 2010, which includes 7,000 km of passenger railway lines. Pursuant to these plans, by 2010, China's railway lines will be extended to over 90,000 km in total length, of which more than 45% will consist of electrified lines and more than 45% will consist of multi-track lines.

According to The Mid- and Long-term Plans for China's Railway Network approved by the State Council in 2004, by 2020, the PRC Government also plans to (i) construct over 12,000 km of passenger railway lines, (ii) establish new inter-city express railway lines connecting provincial capitals and major cities, and (iii) complete the network for passenger railways consisting of four north-to-south and four east-to-west dedicated passenger railway lines. Upon successful completion of the plan, the total operational railway lines will be over 100,000 km by length, of which more than 50% will consist of electrified lines and more than 50% will consist of multi-track lines.

The following map illustrates the planned railway network under the Eleventh Five-Year Plan:

Source: MOR

During the period of the Eleventh Five-Year Plan (2006-2010), the total investment in railway construction projects from the PRC Government is expected to reach RMB1,250 billion, or an increase of approximately 300% over the total investment in similar railway construction projects during the previous five-year period. It is estimated that total investment in railway construction will have exceeded RMB2,000 billion by 2020, with an average annual investment of over RMB100 billion. Prior to 2005, funding for the construction of China's railway system came primarily from the MOR. However, to expand the number of sources of funding, the MOR began to encourage investment in railway construction from non-governmental sources in 2005. By 2020, an additional RMB500 billion from non-governmental sources will be required for the construction of the railway system in China. In order to maintain the development of China's railway transportation, the railway construction funding scheme, pursuant to which the only role played by the PRC Government will be market regulator, will become more diversified and market-oriented. The future funding channels might include the issuance of railway construction bonds, loans from National Development Bank and large state-owned commercial banks such as Industrial and Commercial Bank of China and China Construction Bank, and investments by social security funds.

Roadway Construction

According to the Statistics Gazette on National Economy and Society Development in 2006 as of the end of 2006, the total length of China's roadways reached 2,024,000 km, representing an increase of 93,500 km from the end of 2005. As roadways continue to be extended in all regions throughout China, the roadway construction technologies have also gradually been improved. During the period of the Tenth Five-Year Plan (2001-2005), a substantial amount of roadway construction projects were completed.

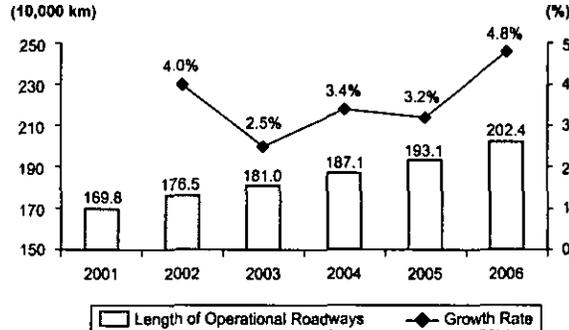

The following charts set forth the total investment and growth rate, the length of operational roadways and the respective growth rate for the periods indicated:

Total Investment and Growth Rate
(2001-2006)

Length of Operational Roadways and

Source: China Statistical Yearbook 2007 & The Statistics Gazette on National Economy and Society Development in 2006

The rapid growth of China's economy has increased demands on China's roadway system. In 2006, total passenger transportation volume, passenger turnover volume, cargo transportation volume, and cargo turnover volume totaled approximately 18.6 billion persons, 1,013.1 billion passenger-kilometers, 14.7 billion tonnes and 975.4 billion tonne-kilometers, respectively, representing increases of 9.6%, 9.0%, 9.3%, and 12.2%, respectively, over the volume in 2005. The Eleventh Five-Year Plan for Roadway and Waterway Transportation published by the Ministry of Communications estimates that, by 2010, total passenger and cargo to be transported by the roadway system in China will be 24.0 billion persons and 16.0 billion tonnes, respectively, with corresponding turnover of 1,500 billion passenger-kilometers and 1,200 billion tonne-kilometers, respectively. The Planning of the National Freeway Network published by the Ministry of Communications further estimates that, by 2020, total passenger and cargo to be transported by the roadway system in China will be 36.5 billion persons and 19.9 billion tonnes, respectively, with corresponding turnover of 2,500 billion passenger-kilometers and 1,500 billion tonne-kilometers, respectively. The PRC Government will therefore increase its overall investment in roadway construction.

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

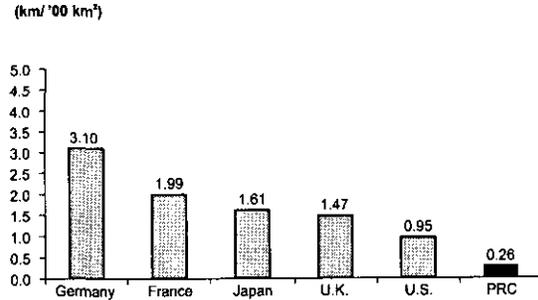

The following charts set forth the length of operational freeways and the growth rate, and the comparables of density of freeways in China for the periods indicated:

The development of China's current freeway network is not as comprehensive as those in other developed countries around the world. Accordingly, the PRC Government has decided to focus on the construction of a national freeway network in its Eleventh Five-Year Plan. According to The Planning of the National Freeway Network issued by the Ministry of Communications in 2004, China's national freeway network will eventually comprise seven lines radiating from Beijing, along with nine north-south lines and

18 east-west lines. The total length of this freeway network, or the “7918 Network”, will be 85,000 km. The following map illustrates the planned freeway network or the “7918 Network”:

Source: Ministry of Communications

The PRC Government plans to complete the “7918 Network” within 30 years by investing approximately RMB2 trillion, with an average annual investment of approximately RMB140 billion prior to 2010 and approximately RMB100 billion per year thereafter until 2020.

Currently, the main funding source for the construction of China’s roadways includes bank loans and funds raised locally. The future funding channel for China’s construction of freeways is expected to include non-governmental funds raised through the issuance of shares or corporate bonds by project companies.

Metropolitan Railway Construction

Since Beijing began trial operations of its subway system in 1969, major cities in China such as Shanghai and Guangzhou began construction of their own metropolitan railway lines. Currently, Beijing’s metropolitan railways consisting of subways and light rails comprises 142 km of tracks and Beijing’s subways transport an average of 1,795,000 people per day. Excluding the maglev train, Shanghai’s metropolitan railway lines currently under commercial operation are over 145 km long and frequently transport more than 2,000,000 people per day. During the past 10 years, the metropolitan railways in China have developed rapidly pursuant to public policies and municipal infrastructure plannings. However, metropolitan railways in China are still relatively underdeveloped. As of the end of 2006, only ten cities across mainland China had metropolitan railways with approximately 20 lines. The rapid growth of China’s economy is expected to lead to increased development of its metropolitan railway lines. Currently, over 20 Chinese cities, including Beijing, Shanghai,

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

Guangzhou, Tianjin, and Dalian are constructing, preparing to construct, or designing new metropolitan railway lines. According to an announcement from the Development and Reform Commission of Beijing Municipality, the total length of Beijing's metropolitan railway lines will reach a total length of approximately 561 km by the year of 2015. Shanghai will also have metropolitan railway lines of over 500 km long by the year of 2012, according to Recent Construction Planning of Shanghai Metropolitan Railway Lines. The NDRC estimates that the total length of China's metropolitan railway lines will be approximately 1,300 km by 2010 and will be approximately 1,500 km by 2015, with an estimated investment of approximately RMB500 billion.

Over the next few years, more construction projects for new metropolitan railway lines than ever before will commence in the cities of the Pearl River Delta such as Guangzhou and Shenzhen and the cities of the Yangtze River Delta such as Nanjing, Suzhou and Hangzhou, which are all experiencing rapid economic growth, as well as in Beijing and Shanghai, which will be hosting the 2008 Olympics Games and the 2010 World Expo, respectively.

Currently, the funding source for the construction of China's metropolitan railway lines mainly relies on bank loans. Due to the large investment scale and high construction cost, the PRC Government encourages foreign and domestic private enterprises to invest in China's metropolitan railway sector.

CHINA'S CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY

Overview of China's Construction Market

With an increasing number of projects being undertaken by private, as opposed to state-owned, construction companies, China's construction industry has become increasingly market-oriented and competitive. In addition, an increasing number of Chinese construction enterprises have emerged from the labor-intensive construction sector, where they offer construction services on a contract basis and compete against each other on the basis of low labor costs and less advanced technologies. These enterprises have moved beyond providing project management services to providing engineering, procurement and construction services utilizing advanced technologies and modern management methods while achieving higher profit margins through their provision of comprehensive services. Current participants in China's construction sector generally possess better technology, stronger management, better equipment and a higher level of expertise than ever before.

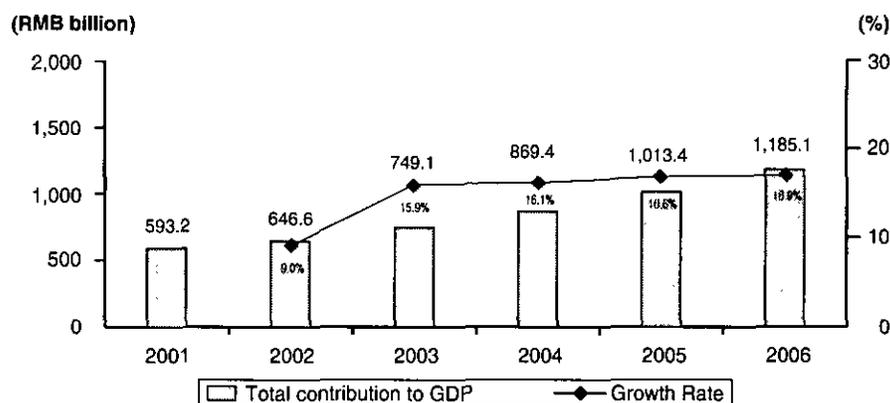

In 2007, 35 construction companies were listed among the Top 500 Chinese Enterprises elected by the China Enterprise Confederation and the China Enterprise Directors Association. In the same year, three Chinese construction companies, including the CRCCG, were listed among the Fortune Global 500 companies. The total revenues of these three largest Chinese construction companies amounted to RMB459.6 billion in 2007, representing approximately 41.0% of the total revenue of the 35 largest construction companies in China.

In addition, 25 Chinese construction companies were elected among the Top 225 Global Contractors, with CRCCG ranking sixth in terms of total construction services revenue in 2006.

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

The construction sector in China grew steadily in recent years as a result of the increased investments in infrastructure and real estate development. The following charts set forth the total contribution to GDP from the construction industry in China and the growth rate for the period indicated:

Total Contribution to GDP from the Construction Industry in China and Growth Rate

Source: National Bureau of Statistics, PRC

However, the relatively low entry barrier to the labor-intensive construction market that does not use advanced technology contributed to the rapid increase in the number of market participants. The large number of market participants and insufficient market regulations have resulted in unregulated and fierce competition. As a result, growth in profit has slightly lagged behind growth in revenue in the construction sector as a whole. On the other hand, entry barriers for the construction market that requires substantial investment in advanced equipment remain high, which is evidenced by the small number of enterprises possessing special construction qualifications in China.

Known Trends of China's Construction Industry

The following are trends that we believe will influence China's construction industry:

- Continued economic growth, backed by industry-friendly government policies, is expected to result in further public spending on infrastructure projects, including transportation, natural resources, municipal infrastructure, electric power, water conservancy and telecommunications.
- While irregularities, such as unfair pricing, local protectionism and irresponsible payment practices, continue to exist in the market and could threaten the development of emerging market participants, the domestic construction market is becoming increasingly regulated as a result of administrative measures that have been progressively promulgated by the PRC Government, such as the PRC Construction Law and the PRC Bidding Law.
- Large-scale construction companies are developing new business models. General contracting, project management, and other aspects of operations have gradually improved to narrow the gap between domestic and international standards, intensifying industry reforms, raising the overall quality of construction management and enhancing investment returns.
- China's construction market will ultimately open up to foreign participants as a result of its accession to the WTO. The PRC Government has issued a number of notices announcing its intention to further encourage selective competition within the railway construction industry in China by allowing companies with the relevant prescribed professional qualifications to engage in railway construction in China. Domestic construction companies may be less competitive than their foreign competitors due to fewer financial resources, less sophisticated technologies and heavier administrative burdens.

- Competition in the market is intense and the construction sector is highly fragmented. State-owned and private enterprises are qualified to conduct construction business, with large numbers of market participants creating disorderly competition and forcing large-scale construction companies to change their business models from project management to general contracting. However, the industry is gradually experiencing a trend towards consolidation whereby smaller enterprises are being acquired by larger companies. Given this trend, participation in large-scale infrastructure construction projects is expected to be limited to only a small number of large construction enterprise groups.

OVERSEAS CONSTRUCTION MARKET

Overview

While China's overseas contracting market is primarily and substantially comprised of the overseas construction business, Chinese companies also provide other services outside of China, such as industrial manufacturing, petrochemical refining, and the development of telecommunication networks. By providing financial support in the form of preferred credit loans to various countries, the PRC Government has contributed to the growth of China's overseas contracting market and increased business opportunities for China's overseas contracting companies, including its overseas construction companies. Therefore, the growth of China's overseas contracting market is closely related to the development of China's overseas construction industry.

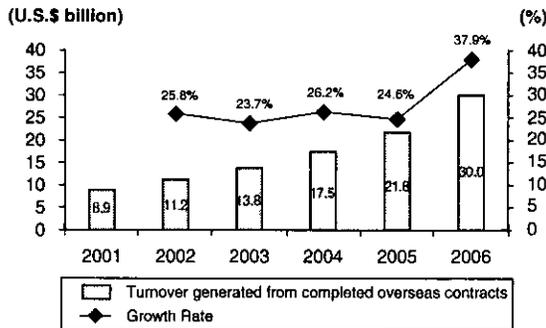

In 2006, the global economy grew by 3.8% from 2005, while international trade grew by 9.4% from 2005 to U.S.$11.7 trillion. At the same time, international investments increased by 22% from 2005 to US$1.2 trillion. The growth of the world's local economies, particularly in Asia, Africa, and Latin America, has increased business opportunities in the construction market due to accelerated infrastructure spending. According to an evaluation by the U.S. research agency, Global Insight, investments made in the global construction market amounted to U.S.$4.6 trillion in 2006.

Under such favorable conditions in the both domestic and international markets, China's overseas contracting industry experienced unprecedented growth in 2006. According to statistics published by the MOFCOM, in 2006, turnover from overseas contracting was US$30 billion and new contract value was U.S.$66 billion, representing an increase of 37.9% and 123.0%, respectively, from 2005. As of the end of 2006, total turnover from overseas contracts and new contract value were U.S.$165.8 billion and U.S.$251.9 billion, respectively.

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

The following chart illustrates the turnover generated from completed overseas contracting projects and new overseas contract value and the respective growth rate between 2001 and 2006:

The following chart sets forth the turnover from completed overseas contracting projects in 2006 by industry sector:

In the past few years, new contract value from the building construction sector steadily accounted for approximately 30% of total new contract value. However, following the commencement of several major overseas transportation projects in 2006, new contract value in the transportation sector surpassed new contract value in the building construction sector for the first time. In 2006, new contract value in the transportation sector was U.S.$22.5 billion, accounting for 34% of total new contract value in the same year, while new contract value in the building construction sector was U.S.$14.9 billion, accounting for only 22.5% of new contract value. Following the current trends, we expect that the turnover from the transportation sector will surpass turnover from the building construction sector in the next two years.

In 2006, traditional markets for China's overseas contracting industry, such as those in Asian and African countries and territories and emerging markets in Latin America, grew rapidly. Chinese companies continued to enter into contracts for major projects in Africa and therefore there was a noticeable increase in new contract value in the African market, which amounted to U.S.$28.7 billion and surpassed new contract value in the Asian market for the first time. The new contract value of Asian and African markets combined in 2006 amounted to U.S.$55.9 billion, accounting for 84.7% of new contract value of China's overseas contracting market compared to 81.8% in 2005. This growth in the Asian and African markets, largely due to increased infrastructure spending, reinforces the predominant position of these markets in China's overseas contracting industry, and also increases business opportunities in the overseas construction market.

Trends in China's Overseas Contracting Market

Aggressive and Rapid Development and Continued Growth in Project Scale

According to statistics published by the Division of Foreign Economic Cooperation of MOFCOM, Chinese companies were engaged in a total of 212 new overseas projects in 2006, each valued at over U.S.$50 million. Of these 212 projects, 96 were valued at over U.S.$100 million and five were valued at over U.S.$1.0 billion. Three particularly large projects, all of which are overseas construction projects, include: (i) a high-speed railway project in Turkey, valued at approximately U.S.$1.27 billion; (ii) the Algerian East-West Expressway Project, valued at nearly U.S.$6.3 billion; and (iii) Nigeria's Lagos-Kano Railway Modernization Project, valued at U.S.$8.3 billion. Our Company is the general contractor for all three exceptionally large projects.

Growth of Business Entities and Greater Competitiveness

A substantial number of Chinese contractors are gradually competing with their foreign counterparts in the overseas contracting market. In 2006, a number of countries extended open invitations to Chinese companies to participate in their contracting projects.

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

The following table lists the ten largest Chinese companies in terms of new overseas contract value in 2006:

Chinese contractors have become increasingly competitive in the international market. The competitive strengths of Chinese contractors are not limited to low labor costs and prices, but also include advanced technology, modern equipment and technical expertise. For example, the technology used by Chinese contractors in the construction of transportation facilities and electric power facilities is already among the most advanced in the world. Moreover, when the Qinghai-Tibet Railway Line commenced commercial operations on 1 July 2006, Chinese contractors demonstrated their ability to construct the world's longest, highest and most technologically sophisticated plateau railway.

Increased Cooperation

Currently, large-scale contractors in Europe, the U.S. and Japan may have an advantage with respect to technologies, patents, financing resources and management expertise. However, contractors from developing countries continue to improve their technology and management skills to enter the international market, leading to increased divisions of expertise. The increase in divisions of expertise promotes cooperation among companies operating in the overseas contracting market. Increased cooperation does not only occur among Chinese contractors, but also between Chinese contractors and foreign large-scale contractors as well as between Chinese contractors and local subcontractors.

This trend toward increased cooperation in the overseas contracting market reflects a similar trend in the overseas construction market. For example, during the bidding process for the Algerian East-West Expressway Project, more than 64 international construction companies cooperated to form seven consortiums to compete for the contract.

Government Sponsored Cooperation Programs Prompt the Growth of the Overseas Contracting Business

One of the trends following China's accession to the WTO is global competition by Chinese enterprises. Pursuant to the "going out" strategy that encourages Chinese enterprises to conduct businesses in the global market, the PRC Government will increase the size and scope of funding support for Chinese contractors to conduct their businesses in overseas markets. In recent years, the PRC Government has enhanced its trade relations with other countries, particularly with its regional neighbors and African countries. In 2006, large projects with contract value of over U.S.$50 million for which Chinese contractors were engaged were concentrated in Asian and African countries, including Angola (17 projects), Vietnam (10 projects), Saudi Arabia (10 projects), Pakistan (9 projects), Indonesia (9 projects), India (8 projects), Algeria (8 projects), Malaysia (7 projects) and Ethiopia (6 projects).

Major Infrastructure Projects in Hong Kong to Create Business Opportunities

In accordance with the 2007-2008 Policy Address, the Hong Kong government has initiated a policy to accelerate local and cross-boundary infrastructure development to boost the economy of Hong Kong, which includes the extension of current metropolitan railway lines, the development of the West Kowloon and the Kai Tak district, the Guangzhou-Shenzhen-Hong Kong Passenger Railway Line, the Hong Kong-Zhuhai-Macau Bridge, the Hong Kong-Shenzhen airport cooperation project and the Hong Kong-Shenzhen Joint Development of the Lok Ma Chau loop. Such projects will not only improve the domestic transportation network, but will further strengthen the connection between the socio-cultural and business activities, while fostering cross-boundary integration with mainland China. Such major infrastructure projects will also create many employment opportunities and increase the demand for large and sophisticated construction contractors.

CONSTRUCTION SURVEY AND DESIGN

The growth in the construction survey and design industry in China is directly related to the growth in domestic infrastructure construction projects. According to the MOC, total revenue generated from the construction survey and design industry was approximately RMB371.4 billion for the year 2006, and total revenue generated in the industry grew at a CAGR of 38.9% from 2001 to 2006. The following chart illustrates the total revenue generated from China's construction survey and design industry and growth rate for the periods indicated:

LARGE TRACK MAINTENANCE MACHINERY MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY IN CHINA

Development of the Large Track Maintenance Machinery Industry

Large track maintenance machinery is the crucial railway transportation equipment for the service, maintenance and repair of railway tracks. Track maintenance machinery is primarily used for major repair and maintenance of a railway's high-traffic main line and the construction of new tracks. Large track maintenance machinery possesses automated and coupling functions similar to those of a locomotive, as well as the ability to meet a track's repair needs. Large track maintenance machinery utilizes state-of-the-art mechanical, electrical, hydraulic pressure, pneumatic, a laser computing machine and automated technology.

Since 1997, speed limits of China's major railway lines have already been significantly increased six times. Successful increases of the speed limits are based on the mechanization of track maintenance, which has replaced the traditional manual work. China's railway operators currently own a total of nearly 600 sets of track maintenance machinery, with an annual major repair capacity of approximately 5,000 km. The demand for large track maintenance machinery will continue to increase to meet the demand generated by new railway construction projects and speed limit increasing projects of existing railway lines.

Market for Domestically Manufactured Large Track Maintenance Machinery

Domestic production of large track maintenance machinery and equipment plays an important role in the development of China's track maintenance manufacturing industry. The PRC Government promotes the domestically manufactured track maintenance machinery business so that the production will meet domestic demands. The introduction of advanced foreign technology in the mid-1980s enabled Chinese manufacturers to begin producing major repair and maintenance equipment in China. Chinese manufacturers have repeatedly won bids against foreign competitors in the sale of track machinery equipment based on the price advantages. Currently, track maintenance machinery and equipment made in China accounts for 90% of all large track maintenance machinery used by all railway operators.

The key players in the industry include Kunming China Railway Large Road Maintenance Machinery Co., Ltd., a subsidiary of our Company, Golden Eagle Railway Vehicle & Machinery Co., Ltd. and XingPing Maintenance Machinery Factory. The following chart sets forth the approximate market share held by each of these companies in 2006:

Known Trends in the Development of the Large Track Maintenance Machinery Manufacturing Industry

The trends influencing the development of large track maintenance machinery manufacturing industry include:

- As large track maintenance machinery is critical to railway maintenance, construction of new railway lines in China will significantly increase the market demand for large track maintenance machinery.

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

- Equipment manufacturing is critical to China's economy and national security. As such, the PRC Government encourages the development of the domestic equipment manufacturing businesses. We expect that the favorable industry policy will benefit the large track maintenance manufacturing industry.
- Manufacturing of large track maintenance machinery utilizes state-of-the-art mechanical, electrical, hydraulic pressure, pneumatic, a laser computing machine and automated technology. Large track maintenance machinery manufacturers in China continue to develop advanced technology and strengthen their scientific research capabilities, laying the groundwork for steady and rapid growth of the industry.
- Development of new technology continues at a rapid rate, causing those products currently on the market to become increasingly obsolete. Manufacturers must therefore be diligent in updating their products and exploring the implementation of new technology in order to adapt to higher market standards.
- Expanding business operations to other geographical markets is critical to the manufacturers of large track maintenance machinery since the domestic market is subject to a limited amount of customers and the demand may not be sufficient.

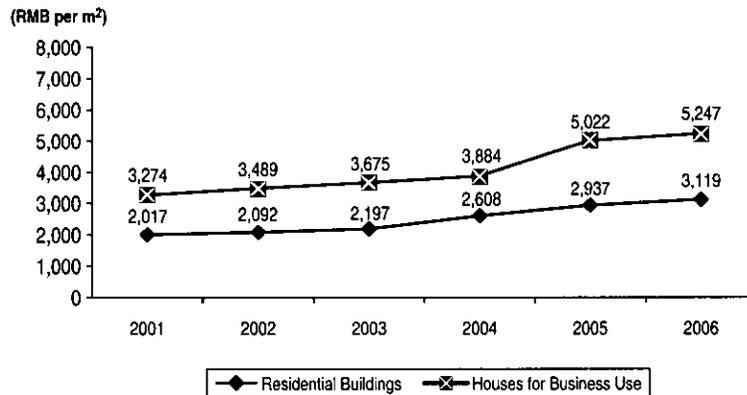

REAL ESTATE INDUSTRY IN CHINA

Since its transition into a market-driven sector, the significant but volatile growth of China's real estate industry has been driven by a number of developments in China including, among others, strong economic growth, rising levels of disposable income, improvement of China's credit-lending industry, increased investment activities and growing urbanization rate. According to China Statistical Yearbook 2007, disposable annual income per capita for urban households in China increased from RMB6,860 in 2001 to RMB11,759 in 2006, representing a CAGR of 11.4%, indicating increased purchasing power for urban households throughout China. The coincidental growth of outstanding mortgages in China suggests that a fair portion of China's new disposable income has been channeled into its real estate market. From 2001 to 2006, China's outstanding mortgage loans increased from RMB560.0 billion to RMB2,252.9 billion according to the National Bureau of Statistics, representing a CAGR of 32.1%.

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

According to the National Bureau of Statistics, residential real estate prices in China grew at a CAGR of 9.1% from RMB2,017 per m² to RMB3,119 per m² from 2001 to 2006. For the same period, houses for business use increased at a CAGR of 9.9% from RMB3,274 per m² to RMB5,247 per m². The following chart illustrates the average prices for residential buildings and houses for business use in China for the periods indicated:

Real Estate Prices in China

The PRC Government has steadily increased the extent of its control over the real estate industry because the real estate industry has a significant impact on the economic and social stability of China. Intervention by the PRC Government generally is implemented through macro-economic control measures that are aimed to temper the growth of the industry and stabilize real estate prices. Since 2004, the PRC Government has announced and adopted a comprehensive series of measures with the twin goals of suppressing general demand for property, particularly for speculative purposes, and controlling the supply of property to ensure sufficient affordable housing. These measures include, among others, increasing taxes on short term gains from real estate sales, tightening lending standards, facilitating the construction of affordable housing and increasing the reserve ratios of financial institutions to limit credit availability. For residential properties, the PRC Government has imposed bans on excessive increases in housing prices.

These measures have had limited effectiveness in slowing the growth of China's real estate industry as the volume of and revenue generated from property sales continue to grow at rapid rates. According to China Statistical Yearbook 2007, the total GFA sold in China reached 618 million m² in 2006 and generated RMB2,082.6 billion in sales, compared to the 224 million m² sold in 2001 that generated RMB486.3 billion. These figures represent a CAGR of 22.5% for GFA sold and a CAGR of 33.8% for property sales revenue during the indicated period. The growth of property sales continued up through the first ten months of 2007, during which a total of 536 million m² of GFA was sold in transactions that aggregate to RMB2,130 billion, exceeding the total sales revenue for 2006. Compared to figures for the first ten months of 2006, property sales

LOGISTICS SERVICES INDUSTRY IN CHINA

The logistics services industry in China is characterized by strong growth and increasing consolidation. The logistics services industry provides services that facilitate the transportation and distribution of goods in the stream of commerce. There is a direct correlation between the growth of both the economy and demand for logistics and logistical services as increased trading activities require logistics and logistical services to support it. China's heavy investment in logistics infrastructure in recent years has facilitated the rapid development of the logistics service industry and the steady increase of freight traffic across various modes of transportation. The chart below shows the freight traffic by railway in China and the growth rate for the periods indicated:

China's Freight Traffic by Railway and Growth Rate

Source: National Bureau of Statistics

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

China's logistics costs are currently relatively high compared to those of developed countries but are expected to decrease due to growing competition in the industry. According to China's Third Party Logistics Market Research co-produced by Mercer Management Consulting and China Federation of Logistics and Purchasing, China's logistics costs amounted to 20% of GDP in 2001. Even in 2006, the logistics costs still remained 18.3% of GDP, almost double the corresponding level in developed countries. High logistics costs in China increase the costs of conducting economic activities and could adversely affect economic growth.

The Eleventh Five-Year Plan of the PRC has targeted the logistics industry as one of the key industries for development, and policies have been implemented to encourage the development of third party logistics services, investment in modernization and technology adoption and competition in the industry. In recent years, foreign competition in China's domestic logistics services industry has increased as a result of phased deregulation and the perceived potential market for logistic services in China, resulting in rapid consolidation in China's logistics service industry as logistics service providers reposition themselves in the new competitive landscape.

CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY

Pursuant to the Construction Law of the PRC, prior to the start of construction projects, project owners must, in accordance with relevant provisions of the State, apply to competent construction administrations at or above the county level for construction permits, except for small projects below a value set by the competent construction administration of the State Council.

Construction projects approved in accordance with authorities and procedures stipulated by the State Council are exempted from obtaining construction permits.

Laws and Regulations on the Administration of Qualifications

According to the Railway Law of the People’s Republic of China, the Highway Law of the People’s Republic of China, the Construction Law of the People’s Republic of China, the Provisions on the Administration of Qualifications of Enterprises in Construction Industry, the Regulation on Quality Control of Construction Projects, the Provisions on Quality Control of Railway Construction Projects, the Measures for the Administration of Construction Permits for Construction Projects and other applicable laws and regulations, an enterprise engaged in railway and/or highway construction and other relevant construction projects may only carry out construction activities within the scope of their respective qualifications.

Qualifications of Entities Engaged in the Construction Business

The qualifications of construction enterprises can be divided into three categories, namely general contracting, specialized contracting and labor service sub-contracting, each of which is further divided into various qualification ratings depending on the nature and technical specifications of the project.

Each of these qualification ratings is then further subdivided into certain grades based on prescribed conditions.

- Enterprises that have obtained the qualification for general contracting may undertake general contracting construction projects. In addition, an enterprise possessing such qualification may either perform the specialized construction work within the general contracting construction projects by itself, or subcontract any specialized construction work or labor service work to other construction enterprises equipped with the appropriate qualification for specialized contracting or labor service sub-contracting.

- Enterprises that have obtained the qualification for specialized contracting may undertake specialized projects subcontracted by general contractors or by developers according to relevant provisions. Furthermore, an enterprise possessing such qualification may either perform the specialized work on its projects by itself, or sub-contract the labor service work to other enterprises equipped with the appropriate qualification for labor service contracting.
- Enterprises that have obtained the qualification for labor service subcontracting may undertake labor service subcontracted by general contractors or specialized contractors.

Law Governing Construction Activities

Pursuant to the PRC Construction Law, a project owner must be legally licensed prior to the start of construction. Construction engineering enterprises, surveying entities, designing entities and supervising entities engaged in construction activities must be equipped with corresponding professional qualifications. Contract awarding and the contracting of construction projects must be legally carried out. The construction supervising entity with appropriate qualifications must, on behalf of the project owner, supervise the contracting entity in accordance with the laws, administrative regulations, technical standards, designing documents and agreements of the project contract. The survey, design and construction engineering must comply with the relevant national safety standards on construction projects. The project owner, the surveying entity, the designing entity and the construction engineering entity of a construction project will, through the performance of their respective functions, ensure the quality of the project.

Laws and Regulations on the Administration of Tender and Bidding

The Construction Law of the PRC, the Bidding Law of the People's Republic of China, the Measures for Implementing Tender and Bidding of Railway Construction Projects, the Measures for Administration of Bid Invitation and Tendering for Survey and Design of Highway Projects, and the Measures for Administering Design Tendering of Construction Projects stipulate provisions governing tender and bidding in the contract awarding and contracting of survey, design, construction and consultancy related to construction projects.

Projects Subject to Tender and Bidding

General Rules on Construction Projects

According to the Bidding Law of the People's Republic of China, tender is required for the survey, design, construction and consultancy of projects in China, including projects involving large-scale infrastructure and public utility relating to public interest and security, projects entirely or partially financed by state-owned funds or loans by the State and projects financed by loans and financial aid from international organizations or foreign governments.

Special Rules on Railway Construction

According to the Measures for Implementing Tender and Bidding of Railway Construction Projects, railway construction projects that meet any of the following criteria are subject to tender: a) total project investment with a minimum of RMB2 million or estimated price of any individual construction contract at RMB1 million or above; b) estimated price of any individual consultancy service contract exceeding RMB100,000; and c) estimated price of any individual purchase contract of important equipment and primary materials exceeding RMB500,000.

Measures for the Administration of Bid Invitation and Tendering for Survey and Design of Highway Projects

According to the Measures for the Administration of Bid Invitation and Tendering for Survey and Design of Highway Projects, the following highway construction projects must be subject to competitive bidding, excluding those concerned with national security, state secrets, emergency handling, disaster relief or poverty relief, and for which the method of competitive bidding is improper: a) a highway construction project with a total investment of RMB30 million or more; b) a highway construction project with an estimated price of a single construction contract in the sum of RMB500,000 or more; or c) other highway construction projects that must be subject to competitive bidding as required by any other laws or administrative regulations.

Tender, Bidding and Winning

Tender

Pursuant to the Construction Law of the PRC, construction projects must be contracted through tender and bidding, except for those projects unsuitable for tender and bidding, which can be directly awarded. The tender and bidding of construction projects must abide by the principles of transparency, impartiality and fair competition, and the most qualified and competitive contractors should be selected.

For construction projects subject to tender and bidding, contract awarding entities shall, in compliance with legal procedures and methods, publish bidding invitations and provide tendering documents containing the major technical requirements of the target construction project, key terms of the contract, the standards which will be used to evaluate bids as well as procedures for the opening, evaluating and awarding the bids.

Bidding

According to the Bidding Law of the People's Republic of China and special regulations governing railway construction, a bidder for railway construction projects subject to tender must meet the following requirements: a) possess a business license registered with and approved by the Administrations for Industry and Commerce; b) possess relevant railway industry qualifications related to the tendering project and the corresponding capabilities required by the tendering project; c) possess production licenses or special licenses of important equipment and primary materials; d) provide a credit certificate from a valid bank account; and e) provide the annual auditing report issued by an intermediary agency based on the bidder's annual financial statements.

The construction, survey, design and consultancy entities of a construction project may each separately bid for the project, or two or more legal persons or other organizations may form a consortium and jointly participate in the bidding as one bidder. All members of such a consortium must be equipped with the appropriate capabilities required by the tendering project, and meet the qualification requirements, if any, prescribed by the State's applicable regulations or by the tendering documents. The qualification rating of a consortium composed of entities of a same profession must be that of the entity with the lowest qualification rating. In the event that the consortium wins the bid, all parties to the consortium must sign the contract together with the tendering party and jointly assume responsibilities to the tendering party for the awarded project.

REGULATIONS

The winner of the bid is determined by the tendering party amongst the candidates recommended in accordance with the written bidding evaluation report presented by the bid evaluation committee, or is directly determined by the bid evaluation committee under the authorization of the tendering party.

Winning a Bid

The winning bid must, to the fullest extent, meet the comprehensive evaluation criteria set forth in the tendering documents, or must fulfill the substantial requirements prescribed in the tendering documents while under normal circumstances providing the lowest bid, exclusive of below-cost bids.

Once the bid winner is determined, the tendering party must issue a bid winning notice to the winner and notify the bidding result to the other bidders. The bid winning notice is legally binding on the tendering party and the bid winner.

Laws and Regulations on the Administration of Quality Control and Inspection for Completion

The Regulation on Quality Control of Construction Projects, the Measures for Quality Control in Survey of Construction Projects took effect on 30 January 2000 and 1 February 2003, respectively. Both contain provisions regulating the survey, design, construction and consultancy of construction projects. Besides these laws, the Measures for Acceptance and Inspection for Completion of Railway Projects, which took effect on 27 November 2001; the Regulation on Quality Control of Railway Construction Projects, which took effect on 1 March 2006; the Measures for Acceptance and Inspection for the Completion (Delivery) of Highway Projects, which took effect on 1 October 2004 and the Provisional Measures for Administration of Acceptance, Inspection and Filing of Completion of Building Construction Projects and Municipal Infrastructure Projects, on 7 April 2000 also provide provisions related to quality control and inspection for completion of construction projects of different categories.

General Rules on Construction Projects

According to the Construction Law of the People's Republic of China and Regulations on Quality Control of Construction Projects, the survey, design and construction of projects must meet requirements of the State on safety standards of construction projects. The developer as well as the survey, design, construction and consultancy entities of a construction project are responsible for the quality of the project.

The developer must award the project to entities with appropriate qualifications, and coordinate the design, construction and consultancy entities to conduct the inspection and certification of completion after receiving the report on the completion of the construction project. The construction entity must legally obtain the appropriately rated qualification certificate and assume responsibility for the construction quality of the project. The consultancy entity must legally obtain the appropriately rated qualification certificate and assume responsibility for the quality of its supervision service. After completion, inspection and acceptance, construction projects must comply with stipulated quality standards of construction projects, be equipped with complete technical and economic data of the projects and executed warranties and meet other requirements of completion stipulated by the State.

No construction project shall be delivered for use before meeting relevant standards and requirements on qualities. Any construction project that has not been inspected and accepted, or has failed inspection and acceptance is prohibited from being delivered for use.

REGULATIONS

According to the Regulation on the Administration of Survey and Design of Construction Projects, entities engaged in the survey and design of construction projects must legally obtain the appropriately rated qualification certificates and assume responsibility for the quality of the survey and design services.

Special Rules Governing Railway Construction Projects

According to the Provisions on Quality Control of Railway Construction Projects, the MOR is responsible for the supervision and control of the quality of railway construction projects in China. Railway developers are generally responsible for the quality of the projects; survey and design entities are responsible for the quality of the survey and design services; construction entities are responsible for the quality of the construction; and consultancy entities are responsible for the quality of the supervision service.

A construction entity may only undertake railway construction projects within the scope permitted by its qualification rating and must assume responsibilities for the quality of projects. It must, pursuant to the requirements of ISO 9000 quality standards, establish a quality control department in its on-site management institution, provide a sufficient number of full-time quality control staff for the project, set up a quality control system for the project, establish and perfect the quality guarantee system, and define and ascertain quality control responsibilities.

For a special project that has been subcontracted, the subcontractor is responsible to the general contractor for the quality of the work so subcontracted and the general contractor bears joint responsibility with the subcontractor for the quality of the subcontracted works. In the event that a consortium wins the bid, the leading party of the consortium is generally responsible for the quality of the project awarded. All parties to the consortium must sign the contract with the tendering party and assume joint responsibilities to the tendering party for the quality of the project awarded.

Entities involved in the construction, survey and design, construction and consultancy of railway construction projects, including their respective staff members, if found to have violated the Provisions on Quality Control of Railway Construction Projects, will be ordered to make corrections according to applicable clauses of the above Provisions, and will be subject to administrative penalties by the MOR or its authorized quality supervision institution of railway construction projects, in accordance with the Regulation on Quality Control of Construction Projects. Such penalties include: rectification of the violation; disciplinary warnings to the entity and the person(s) with direct responsibility; revocation of license; restrictions on the participation in bidding or competitive plan selections of railway survey and design projects; restrictions on the participation in bidding for railway construction and supervision projects; and prosecution for criminal liabilities by the judicial authority for any crime committed.

Laws and Regulation on Environmental Protection

The Environmental Law of the People's Republic of China, the Environmental Protection Law of the People's Republic of China, the Prevention and Control of Atmospheric Pollution Law of the People's Republic of China, the Prevention and Control of Water Pollution Law of the People's Republic of China, the Prevention and Control of Environmental Pollution by Solid Waste of the People's Republic of China, the Construction Law of the People's Republic of China, the Environmental Effect Appraisal Law of the People's Republic of China, the Regulation on the Administration of Environmental Protection of Construction Projects and other relevant laws and regulations contain provisions concerning environmental protection during the course of construction projects.

REGULATIONS

Construction entities must, in accordance with laws and regulations concerning environmental protection and work safety, adopt measures to control environmental pollution and harm resulting from dust, waste gas, waste water, solid waste materials, noise and vibration at construction sites. The State Environmental Protection Administration and local governmental authorities in charge of environmental protection are responsible for the supervision and administration of environmental protection during the course of construction.

The sanctions imposed for entities in breach of environmental protection laws vary in accordance with the extent of the pollution and the circumstances of the breach. These sanctions include warnings, fines, remedial actions within prescribed timelines, suspension or cessation of operations. Entities in breach will also be liable to indemnify entities who have suffered losses as a result of the pollution. Breaches of the Environmental Law of the People's Republic of China resulting in serious environmental pollution is a criminal offence.

Laws and Regulations on Work Safety

Laws and regulations such as the Construction Law of the PRC, the Work Safety Law of the People's Republic of China ("Work Safety Law"), the Regulation on Work Safety Licenses and the Administrative Regulation on Work Safety of Construction Projects provide standards for the administration of work safety for construction projects.

Relevant departments of the State Council implement the supervision and administration of work safety within their respective scope of functions and duties pursuant to the Work Safety Law and other applicable laws and administrative regulations. Departments of the local governments at or above the county level implement the supervision and administration of work safety within their respective scope of functions and duties pursuant to the Work Safety Law and other applicable laws and administrative regulations.

According to the Work Safety Law, entities engaged in production and business operations must implement national or industrial standards prescribed for the purpose of ensuring work safety, and must provide conditions that comply with work safety requirements set forth in applicable laws, administrative regulations and national or industrial standards. Entities that fail to provide such conditions in the workplace are not permitted to engage in production or business operations. Designers and designing entities of safety facilities of construction projects are liable for the design of safety facilities. Entities engaged in production and business operations must install prominent warning signs on relevant dangerous operation sites, facilities and equipment.

According to the Administrative Regulation on Work Safety of Construction Projects and the Regulation on Work Safety Licenses enacted by the State Council, construction enterprises are not permitted to engage in construction projects without work safety licenses.

According to the Administrative Regulation on Work Safety of Construction Projects enacted by the State Council, entities involved in the work safety of construction projects must assume liability for the work safety of construction projects. The surveying entities conduct surveys in accordance with laws, regulations and mandatory standards for construction projects, and documents related to the surveys must be authentic and accurate so as to meet the work safety requirements of construction projects. Designing entities must produce designs in compliance with laws, regulations and mandatory standards for construction projects so as to prevent any work safety accident that might occur from non-compliant designs. Consultancy entities must examine whether the safety technologies and measures in the construction designs or special construction plans are in line with the mandatory standards for the construction of projects.

REGULATIONS

The chief person-in-charge of the construction entities is responsible for the overall work safety of the entities concerned. In a general contracting construction project, the general contractor is liable for the overall work safety on the construction site. Where the general contractor subcontracts the construction project to another entity, it is required by law to explicitly stipulate each party's rights and obligations in regard to work safety in the subcontract. The general contractor and the subcontractors bear joint liability for the work safety of the subcontracted projects. If the subcontractors do not follow the work safety management policies of the general contractor, they will incur significant liabilities for work safety accidents caused by their non-compliance.

A construction entity must provide occupational accidental injury insurance for the employees engaged in dangerous work on site, and is required to pay the insurance premium. In a general contract project, the insurance premium is paid by the general contractor. The insurance coverage applies from the commencement of the project to when the project is determined as qualified upon the inspection and certification of its completion.

Laws and Regulations on Overseas Construction Projects and Overseas Labor Cooperative Labor Arrangements

Overseas Construction projects

According to the Foreign Trade Law of the People's Republic of China, any entity engaged in overseas construction projects or an overseas labor cooperative arrangement must possess corresponding eligibilities or qualifications.

In addition, pursuant to the Management Measures of Operating Qualification Certificate for Foreign Economic Cooperation in the People's Republic of China, enterprises and entities involved in overseas construction projects are required to apply to the MOFCOM for a qualification certificate, which serves as the certificate for enterprises to be engaged in the business of overseas economic cooperation. When conducting such business, enterprises may be asked to present the qualification certificate to competent authorities, relevant entities, exported laborers and foreign investors in accordance with the relevant provisions.

The MOFCOM is in charge of the centralized administration of qualification certificates in China, and is responsible for printing the certificate, stipulating measures for the administration of the certificate and supervising the implementation of the local authorities in charge of commerce.

Overseas cooperative labor arrangements

According to the Measures for the Administration of Operational Qualifications for Overseas Cooperative Labor Arrangements, enterprises may not enter into overseas cooperative labor arrangements until relevant permissions are granted by the MOFCOM. Enterprises are required to obtain the appropriate operational qualification for overseas cooperative labor arrangements pursuant to the measures hereof, as well as obtain the Operational Qualification Certificate of the People's Republic of China for Overseas Cooperative Labor Arrangements. In addition, overseas enterprises, natural persons or foreign institutions with operations in China may not directly recruit labor employees within the territory of China.

Enterprises with the operational qualification for overseas construction projects as approved by the MOFCOM may dispatch labor workers for overseas projects on an as needed basis.

REGULATIONS

SURVEY, DESIGN AND CONSULTANCY INDUSTRY

According to the Regulation on the Administration of Survey and Design of Construction Projects, the Provisions on the Administration of Eligibilities of Construction Survey and Design, the Measures for the Administration of Survey and Design of Railway Construction Projects, the Provisions on the Administration of Eligibilities of Project Supervising Enterprises and other applicable laws and regulations, enterprises providing survey, design and consultancy services are subject to industry-specific supervision and regulation, and all enterprises are required to be engaged in business activities within the scope permitted by their respective eligibilities as approved by the competent regulatory authorities.

The MOC is responsible for administering eligibilities applicable to survey, design and consultancy in China's construction industry, and relevant authorities of the State Council such as the MOR must cooperate with the MOC in the administration of relevant types of eligibilities related to survey, design and consultancy in the construction industry. The governmental departments at the provincial level in charge of construction survey, design and consultancy must collaborate with the construction administrative authorities at the same provincial level to implement the administration of eligibilities of such enterprises.

Survey and Design Regulations

General Provisions on Eligibilities of Survey and Design Enterprises

Eligibilities of project survey and design are classified into the eligibilities of survey and the eligibilities of design. The former is further classified into three categories: the comprehensive eligibility; the specialized eligibility; and the labor service eligibility. The comprehensive eligibility only contains one category, Grade A, under which an enterprise may undertake any and all survey projects (excluding marine engineering survey projects). The specialized category is classified into Grade A, Grade B and Grade C based on the nature and technical specifications of the project. There is no grading system for the labor service eligibility. Enterprises with the specialized eligibility can provide corresponding specialized survey services at the corresponding rating, while those with the labor service eligibility can provide surveying labor services for geotechnical works, exploration drilling, and well-digging.

The eligibilities of design are further classified into four categories: the comprehensive eligibility, the industrial eligibility, the special eligibility and the specific eligibility. The comprehensive eligibility only contains one classification, Grade A, while the industrial, special and specific eligibilities contain both Grade A and Grade B classifications. The industrial, special and specific eligibilities also contain a Grade C classification, while the special eligibility can include a Grade D classification based on the nature and technical specifications of a project. There is no limitation on the type of business engaged in by enterprises with the comprehensive eligibility classification to undertake design projects. Enterprises with the industrial eligibility classification can undertake design projects at the corresponding rating within the corresponding industry or special or specific design projects (excluding the projects which require the integrated eligibilities of both design and construction) at the corresponding rating within the corresponding industry. Enterprises with the special eligibility classification can undertake special design projects at the corresponding rating or specific design projects (excluding the projects which require the integrated eligibilities of both design and construction) at the corresponding rating within the corresponding specialized industry. Enterprises with the specific eligibility classification can undertake specific design projects at the corresponding rating.

REGULATIONS

Special Provisions on Eligibilities of Surveying and Designing Enterprises of Railway Construction

According to the Administrative Measures for Survey and Design of Railway Construction, enterprises and major practitioners engaged in the survey and design of railway construction must possess the appropriate eligibilities for survey and design as well as the appropriate individual practicing qualifications. Furthermore, they must only carry out business within the scope of approved eligibilities and qualifications.

Requirements on Preparing Survey and Design Documents for Construction Projects

As required by the Regulation on the Administration of Survey and Design of Construction Projects, survey and design documents of construction projects are prepared based on:

- approvals of the project;
- urban planning;
- mandatory construction standards; and
- requirements by the State on the scope of the project regarding the survey and design of construction projects.

The survey and design documents of specialized construction projects such as railway, transportation and water resources projects must also incorporate the requirements of professional planning.

Technical indicators such as specification, type and performance of selected materials, components and fittings and equipment must be specified in design documents, and their quality must conform to the standards prescribed by the State.

Consultancy Regulations

Eligibilities of Consultancy Enterprises

Pursuant to the Provisions on the Administration of Eligibilities of Project Supervising Enterprises, eligibilities of consultancy enterprises are classified into three categories: the comprehensive eligibility, the specialized eligibility and the firm-level eligibility. The specialized eligibility is divided into a number of project types depending on the nature and technical character of the projects. No ratings are set under the comprehensive eligibility and the firm-level eligibility. The specialized eligibility contains Grade A and Grade B, and Grade C can be set for specialties including building construction, water resources and hydropower projects, roads and municipal public utilities.

Consultancy Services

According to the Construction Law of the People's Republic of China, the State Council may stipulate the scope of construction projects subject to mandatory consultancy. Construction projects subject to mandatory consultancy are overseen by consultancy entities with appropriate eligibilities authorized by developers. The developers and the authorized supervising entities enter into written contracts with respect to the consultancy. Prior to the commencement of the consultancy of construction projects, the developer informs the construction enterprises in written form of the consultancy entities authorized, contents for consultancy and the scope for the consultancy.

The consultancy entities are required to carry out supervision of the quality of the construction work on behalf of developers, as well as adhere to the proposed timetable for the construction project, use of construction funds pursuant to laws, administrative regulations, applicable technical standards, design documents and contracts for project contracting. When the consultants believe that the construction is not in line with the design requirements of the project, technical standards for construction and the terms of the contracts, they are entitled to demand corrections from the construction entities. When the consultants find that the project design is not in conformity with quality standards for construction projects or the quality requirements agreed to in the contracts, they may report to the developers who may then demand corrections from the designing entities.

LABOR LAW

Compared to the PRC Labor Law, the new PRC Labor Contract Law provides additional protection to the legitimate rights of the employees by requiring written labor employment contracts and long-term contractual employment relationships, limiting the scope of the circumstances under which employees could be required to pay penalties for breach of employment contracts and imposing stricter sanctions on employers who fail to pay remuneration or social security premiums for their employees. These requirements help establish stable and harmonious labor relationships between employers and employees.

LAWS AND REGULATIONS IN RELATION TO OUR BUSINESS ACTIVITIES OVERSEAS

We have complied with all relevant regulations in relation to our business activities overseas in all material respects. As the revenue generated from our business activities overseas is relatively lower than that generated from our business activities in the PRC and given the large number of overseas countries in which we operate, this Prospectus does not include a description of the regulatory authorities and the regulatory requirements relating to our business activities overseas.

RESTRUCTURING

HISTORY AND DEVELOPMENT

The Company was established as a joint stock limited company under the PRC Company Law on 5 November 2007 following the restructuring of our controlling shareholder, CRCCG, in preparation for the A Share Listing and the Global Offering. CRCCG is a State-owned enterprise and is wholly-owned by SASAC.

Pursuant to the Decision on the Establishment of CRCCG issued by the MOR and the Political Division of the MOR (Tie Lao [1989] No. 69) on 13 June 1989, CRCCG was established as a wholly State-owned enterprise and was registered with SAIC on 28 August 1990. Pursuant to the approval of the SASAC on 3 September 2003, CCECC, which was also a State-owned enterprise and was wholly-owned by SASAC, was merged with CRCCG. Subsequently, CCECC was transferred to us as part of our Restructuring. CCECC is principally engaged in overseas construction business.

Historically, minority equity interests in certain subsidiaries of CRCCG were held by the relevant Employee Share Ownership Committees, which could have thousands of members who are employees of the subsidiaries in which they are employed. Employee Share Ownership Committees held equity interests in the subsidiaries of CRCCG by (1) capitalizing the unutilized staff remuneration in the respective subsidiaries as capital contribution; and (2) cash contribution by the employees. Such Employee Share Ownership Committees were set up in accordance with the then applicable PRC laws and regulations. During the Track Record Period, CRCCG had a majority equity interest of 51% or more in all those subsidiaries with minority equity interests held by Employee Share Ownership Committees. As a result of the change in government policies and as part of our Restructuring for the preparation of the public listing of the Shares of the Company, all equity interests held by such Employee Share Ownership Committees were transferred to CRCCG or its subsidiaries. Equity interests held by capitalization of the unutilized staff remuneration were considered as equity interests which had all along been owned by the State at the inception and were transferred to the relevant subsidiaries of CRCCG without consideration. Equity interests held through capital contribution by the employees were acquired by CRCCG for consideration which was determined with reference to independent valuation and were accounted for by using the entity concept method, whereby the difference between the consideration and the book value of the share of net assets acquired is recorded in the equity. The transfer of all minority equity interests held by the Employee Share Ownership Committees has all been completed and registered with the local SAIC and there are not any trust arrangement between CRCCG and the Employee Share Ownership Committees. We have been advised by Beijing Deheng Law Office, our PRC legal adviser, that the transfer of the minority equity interests held by the Employee Share Ownership Committees to CRCCG or its subsidiaries is in accordance with the applicable PRC laws and regulations.

Pursuant to the Restructuring Agreement entered into between CRCCG and the Company, CRCCG transferred to our Company as capital injection substantially all of the assets, liabilities and interests of its construction operations, survey, design and consultancy operations, manufacturing operations, real estate development, capital investment and logistics operations. CRCCG owned 100% of the share capital of the Company prior to the A Share Listing. Immediately after the completion of the A Share Listing, CRCCG will own approximately 76.6% of our issued share capital. Immediately after the completion of the H Share Listing and the Global Offering, CRCCG will own approximately 64.4% of our issued share capital if the Over-allotment Option is not exercised (or approximately 62.9% if the Over-allotment Option is exercised in full), and will be our controlling shareholder. For further details of our Restructuring, see “— Restructuring Agreement” below.

RESTRUCTURING

Restructuring Agreement

We underwent our Restructuring in preparation for the A Share Listing and the Global Offering. Pursuant to the Restructuring Agreement effective on 5 November 2007, CRCCG transferred to the Company substantially all of its businesses (including the associated assets, liabilities and interests) in return for the issuance of 8,000,000,000 Domestic Shares by the Company. The specific assets and businesses CRCCG transferred to the Company include its entire interests in:

- all of the core assets and liabilities relating to its construction operations, including, among others, CRCCG's equity interests in 19 wholly-owned subsidiaries;
- all of the core assets and liabilities relating to its design, survey and consultancy operations, including, among others, CRCCG's equity interests in five wholly-owned subsidiaries;
- all of the core assets and liabilities relating to the large track maintenance machinery and railway track components manufacturing, including, among others, CRCCG's equity interests in two wholly-owned subsidiaries;
- other businesses, including real estate development, capital investment and logistics operations;
- contractual rights and obligations relating to the businesses, assets and liabilities;
- employees associated with the businesses transferred to the Company;
- qualifications, licenses and approvals related to the businesses transferred to the Company; and
- business and financial records, books and data and technological data and know-how related to the businesses transferred to the Company.

Pursuant to the Restructuring Agreement, in consideration of the assets and businesses transferred to the Company, the Company issued 8,000,000,000 Domestic Shares to CRCCG. The number of shares issued in connection with our Restructuring was determined by reference to the net assets valued at RMB9,498.74 million as of 31 December 2006 by DeveChina International Appraisal Co., Ltd., an independent appraiser registered in China.

CRCCG has provided certain representations and warranties in favor of the Company in respect of the Restructuring, including:

- full compliance with its articles of association, bylaws and other internal regulations;
- receipt of all the government approvals and third party consents;
- no breach of any laws, regulations, court judgments, arbitral awards and administrative rulings;
- all the information provided by CRCCG to the Company and the intermediaries hired for our Restructuring being complete, true and accurate in all material aspects;
- no material and adverse change in the financial status of the businesses that CRCCG transferred to us pursuant to the Restructuring Agreement during the period from 1 January 2007 to 5 November 2007, being the date of establishment of the Company; and
- except as disclosed in this Prospectus, no litigation, arbitration or other proceedings against CRCCG that may have a material adverse effect on the operation, assets or equity interests transferred by CRCCG to the Company pursuant to the Restructuring Agreement.

RESTRUCTURING

Pursuant to the Restructuring Agreement, CRCCG has agreed to indemnify the Company against, among other things:

- tax liabilities on all the assets and interests retained by CRCCG;
- tax liabilities due to the increase in asset value arising from the asset valuation of the assets transferred to the Company;
- claims incurred in connection with the assets transferred to the Company which arose before 31 December 2006 unless estimates of such expenditure have been disclosed and provision has been made in the accountants' report;
- all losses and damages suffered by the Company in relation to the title defects in the land use rights and real estate properties transferred to the Company; and
- claims incurred by CRCCG for breach of any provisions of the Restructuring Agreement.

Following our Restructuring, CRCCG retained certain businesses and assets, its interests in certain entities (referred as the "Retained Operations" in "Relationship with CRCCG"), the businesses of which are not directly related to ours or are intended to be dealt with or disposed of over time. For details of such businesses and assets retained by CRCCG, see "Relationship with CRCCG". After the completion of our Restructuring, CRCCG will no longer have independent capability to engage in business which is similar to our core businesses.

In connection with our Restructuring, the Company entered into the Non-competition Agreement with CRCCG on 5 November 2007. See "Relationship with CRCCG" for details. As part of our Restructuring, the Company has also entered into certain connected transaction agreements with CRCCG. Pursuant to these agreements, the Company and CRCCG and certain CRCCG subsidiaries will continue to provide relevant products and support services to one another. See "Connected Transactions" for details.

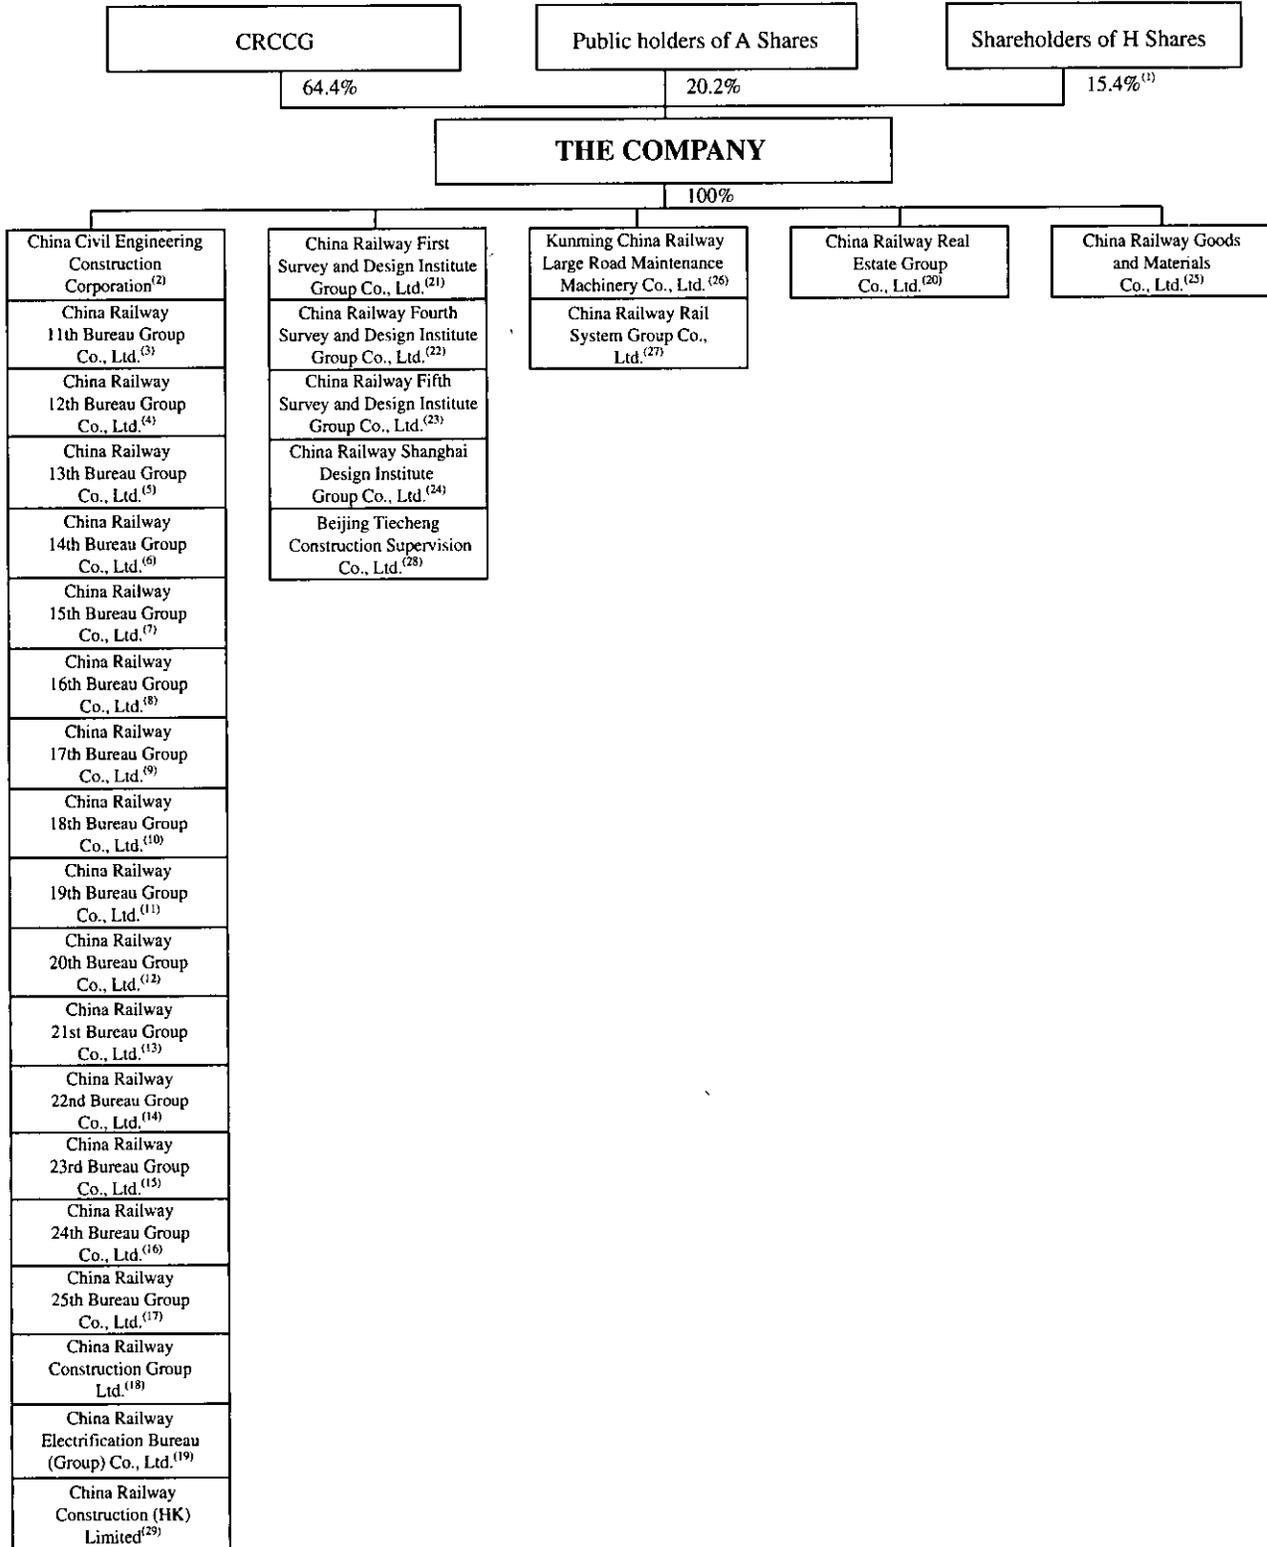

In accordance with the Provisional Regulation on Corporate Restructuring in relation to State-owned Capital Management and Financial Treatment, the Company is required to make a distribution to CRCCG in the amount equal to the net profit attributable to the shareholders of the Company for the period from 1 January 2007 to 5 November 2007, the date on which the Company was incorporated.

Our Restructuring required approvals from relevant PRC government authorities, including, among others, the State Council, the SASAC, the MOF and the MLR. The SASAC, with the approval from the State Council, approved our Restructuring on 17 August 2007. Beijing Deheng Law Office, our PRC legal adviser, confirmed that we have obtained the necessary approvals from the relevant PRC government authorities in relation to our Restructuring.

OVERVIEW

We are one of the ultra-large integrated construction enterprises in the world. In 2007, we were listed among the Fortune Global 500 companies, ranking 384th in terms of total revenue. In the same year, we were also ranked sixth out of the Top 225 Global Contractors in terms of total revenue from 2006 construction operations according to ENR magazine and 15th out of the Top 500 Chinese Enterprises elected by the Chinese Enterprise Confederation and the China Enterprise Directors Association in terms of total revenue.

Our businesses are divided into four major segments, namely: (i) construction operations; (ii) survey, design and consultancy operations; (iii) manufacturing operations; and (iv) other businesses, including real estate development and the provision of logistics services that relate to our main businesses. In addition, we generate revenue from our capital investment operations, which involve investments in certain BT, BOT and BOO projects.

Construction Operations

Our construction operations, primarily focusing on infrastructure construction, constitute our core business and cover nearly all types of construction projects, including railway, highway, metropolitan railway, water conservancy and hydropower facility, airport, port, industrial and civil construction and municipal projects. We are one of the largest providers of railway construction services in China. We have participated in the construction of almost all railway lines in China constructed after 1949 and have independently constructed approximately 34,000 km of railways, which account for the majority of China's railway lines constructed since 1949. We are the largest provider of highway construction services in China, with a focus on the construction of freeways as well as bridges and tunnels as part of our highway construction projects, and we have constructed more than 100 freeways and highways with a total length of approximately 22,600 km. Moreover, we are a leading provider of construction services in terms of revenue in the domestic market for bridges and tunnels, and have completed various bridge, tunnel and underground construction projects that meet international standards. We are also a leader in the construction of metropolitan railways, having participated or are currently participating in the survey, design and construction of metropolitan railway projects in all cities throughout China with such projects. As of 30 November 2007, we had provided construction services in 31 provinces, autonomous regions and municipalities in China, Hong Kong, Macau and more than 60 countries and territories around the world. The largest customers of our domestic construction operations are primarily business entities, such as project companies, set up and managed by central and local governments. The largest customers of our overseas construction operations are primarily governmental and semi-official entities. We have completed 287 overseas projects and are currently engaged to provide construction services for 137 overseas projects located in 27 different countries and territories. Major overseas projects completed by us include the Hong Kong West Rail, the rehabilitation of the Nigeria Railway Systems, the Macau Parliament Building, the East Wing of the Venetian Casino in Macau and the Tanzania-Zambia Railway Project. Significant overseas projects in which we were engaged as of the Latest Practicable Date include the Algerian East-west Expressway Project, Nigeria's Lagos-Kano Railway Modernization Project, the Saudi Arabia North-South Railway Line CTW200 Section, the Israel Camel Tunnel and the Turkey Ankara-Istanbul Railway Reconstruction Project. Although we generated insignificant revenue from overseas projects during the Track Record Period, which represented only 1.6%, 2.0%, 2.3% and 3.4% of our total revenue for the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005, 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, respectively, based on the substantial amount of the new contract value and backlog for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, which represented 39.8% and 40.0% of our total new contract value and backlog of the construction operations for the same period, respectively, we expect that the revenue from our overseas construction projects will increase in coming years and constitute a larger part of our total revenue from construction operations.

Survey, Design and Consultancy Operations

We are a leading provider of survey, design and consultancy services in terms of revenue to the domestic infrastructure construction industry. We focus our survey, design and consultancy business mainly on the infrastructure construction of railways, bridges, tunnels, metropolitan railways, freeways, municipal projects, industrial and civil buildings, airports and ports. As of 30 November 2007, we had provided survey, design and consultancy services for 117 major construction projects at the national or provincial level as well as survey and design services for 12 of the 17 passenger railways currently under construction in China. We are highly competitive in the survey, design and consultancy industry in China, and two of the only four large-scale railway survey and design institutes servicing China's railway systems are our subsidiaries, while the other two are owned by the MOR and another domestic company, respectively. We held 61 government-issued certificates relating to our survey, design and consultancy operations as of 30 November 2007, and have assisted the MOR in setting over 40 industry standards currently in effect in China through our survey and design institutes. We possess comprehensive technologies for the survey and design of railways, including those situated on high plateaus and in mountainous regions, permafrost zones and deserts, as well as sophisticated technologies for electrified railway lines, passenger railway lines, underwater construction, long tunnels, wireless train dispatching and scheduling systems and large interchange traffic construction. Our survey and design technologies are among the most advanced in China and are considered advanced by international standards, and we have received over 430 awards for our survey, design and consultancy work since 1982. Our survey, design and consultancy operations extend throughout China and a number of overseas countries and territories. Major customers of our survey, design and consultancy operations include government agencies and business entities set up and managed by central and local governments, such as construction project companies. In 2007, we were ranked 69th out of the Top 150 Global Design Firms in terms of revenue for design services performed during 2006 according to ENR magazine.

Manufacturing Operations

We are the second largest manufacturer of large track maintenance machinery in the world in terms of annual production volume. As of the Latest Practicable Date, we were the largest company in both China and Asia engaging in the research and development, manufacturing, sales, maintenance and repair of large track maintenance machinery, occupying more than 80% of the domestic market share for large track maintenance machinery.

We participated in the recent development of the large track maintenance machinery industry in China, having imported leading technologies for the manufacturing of large track maintenance machinery and, within two years, successfully manufactured our proprietary machinery domestically by utilizing our strong research and development capabilities. Our state-of-the-art track maintenance machinery products promoted the significant upgrades from manual to automatic railway maintenance practices in China, as well as the successful increases in maximum train speeds on China's railway networks on numerous occasions. In addition, we recently entered the high-speed railway track components market, an emerging market in China, and have been appointed by the MOR as one of only two designated manufacturers of high-speed railway switches in China. We successfully developed and produced a line of components manufactured specifically for China's high-speed railways, such as high-speed railway switches and rail fasteners. Major customers of our manufacturing operations include large enterprises, such as state-owned railway operators, construction companies, local railway companies, subway companies and mining companies with railway facilities.

Other Businesses

In addition to the foregoing operations, we have developed various businesses that relate to our construction and design operations and demonstrate potential for growth, such as businesses involving real estate development and logistics. We are also engaged in capital investment operations. Although contribution from our real estate development, logistics and capital investment operations was insignificant to our overall operations in terms of revenue and profit during the Track Record Period, we believe that these new businesses will not only promote our main operations because of their synergies with and utilization of our well-established expertise, but may also become our significant businesses in the future because of their tendency to have higher profit margins compared to our other operations.

As an important and profitable growth area, our real estate development business is a major focus of our business growth strategy. We plan to consolidate our resources and increase our capital and land reserves through various means to promote our real estate development business. We focus on the development of residential buildings as our main business, and the development of commercial properties, such as shopping malls and office buildings, as ancillary businesses primarily intended for sale to the public. We principally carry out real estate development in economically developed cities with a focus on municipalities, such as Beijing, and provincial capitals. As of 31 December 2007, we had 21 on-going real estate development projects which occupy an aggregate site area of approximately 2.3 million m², an expected GFA of approximately 5.4 million m² and an unsold GFA of approximately 4.9 million m². As of 31 December 2007, our major real estate development projects were expected to be completed within the next three to four years. Our subsidiary, China Railway Real Estate Group Co., Ltd., has also successfully established the brand "Zhong Tie Di Chan" ("中鐵地產"), which was ranked one of the Top 10 real estate brands in Beijing in 2007. Our logistics operations include the transportation of railway materials, storage of construction equipment and materials and trading of construction materials. We have enhanced the competitiveness of our modern logistics operations and trading operations through the expansion of our business scale and development of our business strategic partnerships. China Railway Goods and Materials Co., Ltd., our subsidiary specializing in logistic operations, was ranked the largest railway construction logistics services provider in China and the second largest railway materials logistic enterprise in the world. It has also been ranked 20th among the 50 most competitive supplier in China in 2006. Our capital investment operations involve investments in certain BT, BOT and BOO projects, which are usually implemented according to customers' requests and are fully or partially financed by contractors. We believe that infrastructure construction projects completed on a BT, BOT, BOO and PPP basis will be increasingly common in China, and therefore intend to expand our capital investment operations by increasing our involvement in BT, BOT, BOO or PPP projects in relation to our construction operations and increasing our relevant operating capacities.

BUSINESS

Notable Achievements

We possess leading technologies relating to infrastructure construction and design and have made notable achievements in recent years. For example:

- We undertook all the survey and design work for Phase I and Phase II of the Qinghai-Tibet Railway Line, and were solely responsible for the construction of 71.1%, or approximately 1,406 km of both phases of the Qinghai-Tibet Railway Line, including all construction beyond 4,900 m above sea level and the majority of the difficult railway lines beyond 4,600 m above sea level of Phase II of the railway, as well as the sections of the railway crossing the Tanggula and Kunlun mountains. We overcame three significant challenges presented by permafrost, low oxygen levels due to high altitudes and the fragile ecology of the Qinghai-Tibet Plateau. The Qinghai-Tibet Railway Line was completed in 2006.
- We are currently the only company in China possessing proprietary knowledge of high-precision maglev track beam manufacturing technology, and we participated in the construction of the world's first commercially operated high-speed maglev line, the Shanghai Maglev Demonstration Line, which recorded maglev train speeds of up to 432 km/h.
- We participated in the construction of the Qinhuangdao-Shenyang Passenger Railway Line, including the testing section, which recorded train speeds of up to 321 km/h during trial operations. The project was completed in 2002.
- We designed and constructed the Wushaoling Tunnel, which was the longest tunnel in Asia at the time of its completion in 2006.
- We participated in the construction of Asia's longest pipeline, the East-West Gas Pipeline, and completed construction of the section of the pipeline that crosses over the Yellow River at Zhengzhou at the end of 2004.
- We are currently constructing the Nanjing Yangtze River Tunnel utilizing shield tunneling machines. This is the longest tunnel with the widest shield diameter crossing the Yangtze River.
- We are also undertaking the majority of the survey and design work for the Beijing-Shanghai High-Speed Railway Project, which is expected to commence construction soon. As of the Latest Practicable Date, we were independently awarded two sections of the Beijing-Shanghai High-Speed Railway Project with a construction contract value of RMB33.7 billion. In addition, we were awarded another section of this project with a construction contract value of RMB14.3 billion through a consortium entered into with China Hydraulic and Hydroelectric Construction Group Corporation, and our share in the total construction contract value is expected to be over RMB5.2 billion. As a result, we expect to be awarded over RMB38.9 billion, or over 46.5%, of the total contract value for Beijing-Shanghai High-Speed Railway Project. Of the four companies awarded the contract for this project, we were awarded the highest proportion of the project in terms of contract value.
- In 2006, we completed the construction of over 1,038.5 km and 1,076.0 km of bridges and tunnels, respectively.

For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, our new contract value amounted to approximately RMB144,539.8 million, RMB193,044.2 million, RMB202,341.4 million and RMB232,928.7 million, respectively. For the years ended 31 December 2004,

2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, our total revenue was RMB86,187.5 million, RMB110,794.7 million, RMB153,609.0 million, RMB138,283.7 million and RMB146,667.0 million, respectively, while our net profit was RMB192.6 million, RMB525.9 million, RMB1,502.0 million, RMB1,233.4 million and RMB2,005.5 million, respectively.

OUR COMPETITIVE STRENGTHS

As one of China's largest integrated construction companies primarily focusing on infrastructure construction, and with our long operating history, comprehensive range of qualifications, extensive experience and strong capabilities, we have the potential for continued growth and are well-positioned to take advantage of business opportunities in both domestic and international markets.

We are a leader in the domestic construction market. Our extensive business scope, which includes infrastructure construction, survey, design, consultancy, as well as the manufacture of large track maintenance machinery and logistics operations, enables us to provide comprehensive construction services. We have made a number of notable achievements through our ability to offer integrated, multifaceted services to our customers by effectively utilizing the facilities and resources from our various business segments, which has given us significant advantages in the undertaking of large-scale and complicated projects.

As of 30 November 2007, we held through our subsidiaries hundreds of qualifications which enable us to undertake 44 different types of construction projects in China. These include a large number of special qualifications which cover a broad range of construction projects including railway, highway, bridge, tunnel, metropolitan railway, water conservancy and hydropower facility, airport, port, real estate, municipal projects, as well as geological hazards prevention projects and which are obtainable only by large-scale construction companies with reputable track records and operational assets. We are ranked among the top companies in terms of both the number of qualifications we held and the broad coverage of our qualifications. As of 30 November 2007, we had 19 special qualifications and 251 Grade A qualifications to conduct general construction contracting services, 324 Grade A qualifications to conduct specialized construction contracting services, and 17 qualifications to conduct specialized construction services for metropolitan railway lines. We have the most special qualifications to conduct construction services for railway projects among all domestic construction companies and are one of the few integrated construction contractors in China that have 20 Grade A qualifications to provide general construction contracting services for water conservancy and hydropower facility projects. With our broad range of qualifications, we are able to bid for and to undertake an expansive portfolio of projects and to focus on emerging market opportunities created by the continued development of the infrastructure construction industry, allowing us to effectively diversify our operational risks and ensuring the sustainable development of our Company.

We inherited a prominent history and extensive expertise from our predecessor, the Railway Engineering Corps which was established in July 1948. As of 30 November 2007, we had constructed more than 100 new and existing multi-track and main railway lines, with a total length of approximately 34,000 km, which account for the majority of China's railway lines constructed since 1949. Landmark railway lines include the Qinghai-Tibet (Phases I and II), Beijing-Kowloon, Datong-Qinhuangdao, Southern Xinjiang, Nanning-Kunming, Neijiang-Kunming, Guangzhou-Shenzhen, Qinhuangdao-Shenyang, Chongqing-Huaihua, Xi'an-Hefei, Yangshou-Huanghe, Xiangfan-Chongqing, Chengdu-Kunming, Yingtian-Xiamen, Baoji-Lanzhou railway lines and the Guangdong Sea Passageway. Our participation in the four-electrification projects increases with our ability to construct electrified railway lines. We won approximately 42% of all the four-electrification projects in the bidding program of the MOR between 30 November 2006 and 30 November 2007. We have also constructed more than 100 freeways and highways, with a total length of approximately 22,600 km. Landmark freeways and highways we have constructed include the Shenyang-Dalian, Jinan-Qinghai, Taiyuan-Yangquan, Xuanwu-Dalian, Tongjiang-Sanya, Chengdu-Chongqing, Beijing-Zhuhai, Beijing-Shanghai, Beijing-Fujian, Beijing-Shenzhen, Beijing-Chengde and Jiangxi-Guangdong freeways. We have participated in the construction of 30 airports, 130 large-scale water conservancy and hydropower facilities, 148 subways and metropolitan railways, and 41.14 million m² of buildings. Our accumulated experience in construction and technological know-how over the years have become a highly valued asset and are instrumental to our continued growth.

Our comprehensive abilities and expertise, the growth of the domestic and international construction markets and our solid customer relationships have provided us with opportunities for business development. The PRC Government plans to develop China's transportation network in the next five years through increased investment in China's railway network, particularly in passenger railway lines, highway networks and metropolitan railway lines, as well as investment in port construction, river treatment, the development and usage of water resources, alternative energy resources, real estate development, environmental protection and ecological engineering. In addition, the outlook for the global construction market continues to be positive due to increasing globalization of the world economy, a growing investment in Asia's construction industry, continued investment in infrastructure construction in African countries, and the substantial increase in infrastructure construction in developing countries and regions.

We believe that, with our comprehensive strengths and extensive experience, the opportunities created by the growth of the global construction industry and the "going out" strategy encouraged by the PRC Government, we will be able to strengthen our core operations and develop our businesses both domestically and in overseas markets, ensuring the continued growth of our Company.

We possess a solid foundation for continued growth of our core operations as a result of our numerous core technologies in each of our business operations, ability to develop proprietary technologies and use of sophisticated equipment.

We continually import sophisticated technologies and develop innovative, proprietary technologies, ensuring that we possess the core technologies needed to develop our businesses in various markets. During the Track Record Period, we participated in complex and challenging projects and, in doing so, accomplished the following:

- Undertook all survey and design work for Phase I and Phase II of the Qinghai-Tibet Railway Line, and overcame three significant challenges presented by permafrost, low oxygen levels due to high altitudes and the fragile ecology of the Qinghai-Tibet Plateau. We were solely responsible for the construction of 71.1%, or approximately 1,406 km of both phases of the Qinghai-Tibet Railway Line, including all construction beyond 4,900 m above sea level and the majority of the difficult railway lines beyond 4,600 m above sea level of Phase II of the railway, as well as the sections of the railway crossing the Tanggula and Kunlun mountains. The project was completed in 2006.
- Mastered advanced technologies used in constructing foundations and surfaces of freeways and airport runways.
- Achieved a leading position internationally in bridge construction technologies, such as those for the construction of cable-stayed bridges, cable supported bridges, light rail PC beams and high-precision maglev track beams. We are currently the only company in China possessing proprietary knowledge of high-precision maglev track beam manufacturing technology. We also mastered the advanced box-beam and mobile frame construction and assembly technologies. We successfully increased the maximum weight of our bridge beam construction technology to 900 tonnes and extended bridge spans from less than 200 m to operating spans of 430 m and design spans of 580 m.

- Acquired sophisticated design and construction techniques for passenger railways and participated in the construction of the Qinhuangdao-Shenyang Passenger Railway Line, which was completed in 2002 including the testing section, which recorded train speeds of up to 321 km/h during trial operations; participated in the construction of the world's first commercially operated high-speed maglev line, the Shanghai Maglev Demonstration Line, which was completed in 2002 and recorded maximum train speeds of up to 432 km/h; and successfully utilized breakthrough technology for long rail track-laying; mastered design and construction technologies for the foundation of passenger railways and contributed to the substantial improvement in railway construction technology in China. As of the Latest Practicable Date, we were independently awarded two sections of the Beijing-Shanghai High-Speed Railway Project with a construction contract value of RMB33.7 billion. In addition, we were awarded another section of this project with a construction contract value of RMB14.3 billion through a consortium entered into with China Hydraulic and Hydroelectric Construction Group Corporation, and our share in the total construction contract value is expected to be over RMB5.2 billion. As a result, we expect to be awarded over RMB38.9 billion, or over 46.5%, of the total contract value for Beijing-Shanghai High-Speed Railway Project. Of the four companies awarded the contract for this project, we were awarded the highest proportion of this project in terms of contract value.
- Undertook and participated in almost all of China's major landmark underground construction projects by leveraging our globally leading expertise for tunnel and underground construction. The projects that we have worked on include the longest tunnel in Asia at the time of its completion in 2006 — the Wushaoling Tunnel; the longest railway tunnel built using the TBM construction method in China at the time of its completion — the Qinling Tunnel of the Xi'an-Ankang Railway Line, which was completed in 2000; the longest highway tunnel in China at the time of its completion — the Qinling Zhongnanshan Tunnel which was completed in 2007; and the world's highest rail tunnel — the Fenghuoshan Tunnel, which was completed in 2007. Utilizing the shield tunneling method, we also designed the longest tunnel with the widest shield pipe diameter crossing the Yangtze River in Nanjing and completed the section of Asia's longest pipe jacking project that crosses the Yellow River. We are currently participating in the construction of mainland China's first undersea tunnel in Xiamen.
- Achieved a leading position in China for our line of high-precision automated maintenance machinery, thereby changing the traditional manual track maintenance practice in China.
- Applied sophisticated technologies of shield tunneling, permafrost excavation, pile foundation underpinning and excavation in complex geographical conditions, and participated in the construction of metropolitan railway lines in various cities in China.

As of the Latest Practicable Date, we owned 87 patents and 67 National Construction Methods in China. We also have four design institutes and a team of experts consisting of one academic from the Chinese Academy of Engineering, five national design master expert, 6,375 senior engineers and 16,207 engineers. Our subsidiary, Kunming Zhong-Tie, also possesses research and development capabilities for large track maintenance machinery and equipment. We believe the core technologies we possess in our business operations and our capacity in research and development enable us to continue growing our operations.

BUSINESS

With our extensive experience in the overseas construction business and notable accomplishments in the industry, we are currently the largest, fastest-growing Chinese construction contractor in the overseas infrastructure construction market.

Our overseas operations are conducted mainly through our major subsidiary CCECC, which was established in 1979 and is one of the first Chinese companies to enter the international market. CCECC's predecessor, the Foreign Aid Office of the MOR, had organized, designed and constructed China's largest foreign aid project at the time — the Tanzania-Zambia Railway Project. The successful completion of this significant international, cross-border project was of significant importance to the development of China's overseas market. CCECC specializes in railway construction, including construction, design and consultancy, and cooperative labor arrangements in overseas countries and regions. In 2007, 49 Chinese construction companies were elected among the Top 225 International Contractors, with CCECC alone ranking 82nd in terms of construction revenue generated outside of the home country (the PRC) in 2006. We have established 31 representative offices, project engineering departments and branch offices in over 20 countries and regions around the world, and our operations extend across more than 60 countries and regions. We have a team of experts who are familiar with international commerce, tendering and construction management. We have developed our operations in overseas markets by leveraging CCECC's strength and presence in such markets since it joined our Company in February 2004, and by building upon our own design and construction expertise and the expertise of our other subsidiaries. Over the years, we have gradually established "CRCC" and "CCECC", the two brand names we own, and our reputation in the international construction industry. We have achieved preeminent status in countries and regions such as Hong Kong, Nigeria, the United Arab Emirates, Tanzania, Algeria, Turkey, Saudi Arabia, Israel and Botswana.

As a result of the efforts and resources we have expended in overseas markets, the contracts we have won since 2005 include: (i) construction of a high-speed railway in Turkey, a joint construction project led by our Company, valued at U.S.$1.27 billion; (ii) construction of the central and western sections of the Algerian East-West Expressway Project, a joint project with the CITIC Group pursuant to a standard contract valued at U.S.$6.25 billion; and (iii) Nigeria's Lagos-Kano Railway Modernization Project with a total investment of U.S.$8.3 billion, the largest project ever tendered by a Chinese construction company in the international market. In recent years, we have been the fastest-growing Chinese construction contractor in the overseas infrastructure construction market in terms of the growth of new contract value. For the year ended 31 December 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, our new overseas contract value was approximately RMB43.6 billion and RMB89.1 billion, respectively, which was the highest among all Chinese construction companies with overseas operations.

We believe that, with the experience we continue to acquire through our overseas design and construction projects, our well-established brand name and the encouragement of the PRC Government's "going out" strategy, we will be able to continue with our fast-paced growth in the overseas infrastructure construction market and increase our market share in overseas markets.

We are a leading and highly proficient provider of survey, design and consultancy services for major infrastructure construction projects, and have made notable achievements in the domestic industry.

As of 30 November 2007, we owned five Grade A construction design and research institutes in China, namely, the China Railway First Survey and Design Institute, China Railway Fourth Survey and Design Institute, China Railway Fifth Survey and Design Institute, China Railway Shanghai Design Institute Group Co., Ltd. and Beijing China Railway Construction Electrification Design and Research Institute. China Railway First Survey and Design Institute and China Railway Fourth Survey and Design Institute are two of the four large-scale survey and design institutes servicing China's railway systems, while the other two large-scale survey and design institutes are owned by the MOR and another large domestic construction company, respectively. In 2007, China Railway First Survey and Design Institute was ranked the first among Chinese construction survey, design and consultancy enterprises in terms of project management and operation revenue in an evaluation jointly organized by China Exploration and Design Association and China National Consulting Association. In addition, China Railway First Survey and Design Institute and the China Railway Fourth Survey and Design Institute are fellow members of the International Federation of Consulting Engineers, or FIDIC, and were listed among the Top One Hundred Chinese Survey and Design Enterprises for eight consecutive years.

As of 30 November 2007, we employed 2,116 senior survey and design engineers for large-scale infrastructure projects in China, including designs for railway, highway, bridge, tunnel, metropolitan railway, water conservancy and hydropower facility, airport, port, industrial and civil construction and municipal projects. Through our research institutes, we assisted the MOR in setting over 40 industry standards relating to railway construction design, quality inspection and other project-specific standards currently in effect in China. During the Track Record Period, our institutes provided survey and design services to 117 key projects at the national or provincial levels, including:

- all of Phase I and Phase II of the Qinghai-Tibet Railway Line, the highest plateau railway in the world;
- the Beijing-Kowloon Railway Line, which has received the largest amount of investment at the time for any railway project in China and is China's largest and longest railway line constructed in a single phase;
- the Zhengzhou Hub, the largest railway hub in Asia;
- the Dayaoshan Railway Tunnel, the longest electrified twin-track railway tunnel in China; and
- the Guangzhou-Shenzhen Quasi High-Speed Railway Line, the first quasi high-speed railway in China.

As of the Latest Practicable Date, we had provided survey and design services for approximately 70% of the existing passenger railways in China with speeds of over 300 km/h, including the Wuhan-Guangzhou Passenger Railway Line, currently the longest passenger railway line in China. We provide survey and design services for 12 of the 17 passenger railways currently under construction in China, which have an aggregate length of 3,448.1 km and comprise 63.3% of the total length of the 17 railway lines. Of these 17 passenger railways, we were given sole responsibility for the design of seven. As of the 30 November 2007, we held 61 government-issued certificates which is evidence of our qualifications for construction surveying, design and consultancy, engineering surveying, geological hazards prevention evaluation, designing supported by intelligent design software, and environmental impact assessment and surveying.

We possess comprehensive technologies for the survey and design of railways, including those situated on high plateaus and in mountainous regions, permafrost zones and deserts, as well as sophisticated technologies for electrified railway lines, passenger railway lines, underwater construction, long tunnels, wireless train dispatching and scheduling systems and large interchange traffic construction. Our survey and design technologies are among the most advanced in China and are considered advanced by international standards. Since 1982, we have received 60 national "Four Excellence" Design Awards and 373 provincial "Four Excellence" Design Awards, as well as multiple national awards for our survey, design and consultancy work for various other projects. We believe that the awards granted to us support our well-established brand name. Our survey, design and consultancy operations extend throughout China and a number of overseas countries and territories. In 2007, we were ranked 69th out of the Top 150 Global Design Firms in terms of revenue for design services performed during 2006 according to ENR magazine.

We benefit from overall cost advantages resulting from our strong competitiveness in providing survey, design and consultancy services to large construction projects, which also ensures our ability to expand our market shares and achieve a sustainable development in both domestic and international survey, design and consultancy markets, which have a promising outlook due to the PRC Government's large investment in the development of China's transportation system and key infrastructure construction projects, and the overall growth of the global construction market.

Leveraging our strong financing, survey, design and technological capabilities, we have developed our real estate development business in major cities across China and have established our well-recognized brand name, "Zhong Tie Di Chan", in the market.

China's real estate industry has continued its rapid growth in recent years, with average real estate prices in China's largest 70 cities on the rise in 2006. This promising industry outlook has created new opportunities for companies such as ours. We obtained the approval of the SASAC to engage in real estate development as a significant business and, on 20 April 2007, we established China Railway Real Estate Group Co., Ltd., our subsidiary, to focus on the development of residential buildings as a main business as well as the development of commercial properties as ancillary businesses. Through China Railway Real Estate Group Co. Ltd., we successfully established the brand "Zhong Tie Di Chan" (中鐵地產), which was ranked one of the Top 10 real estate brands in Beijing in terms of influence.

We principally carry out real estate development in economically developed cities with a focus on provincial capitals and other large cities. Leveraging our construction, survey, design and consultancy operations as well as our sophisticated technologies and strong financing capabilities, we have been able to rapidly expand our real estate development business in recent years. As of 31 December 2007, we had 21 ongoing real estate development projects. These projects occupy an aggregate site area of approximately 2.3 million m² and have an expected GFA of approximately 5.4 million m². These projects have an unsold GFA of approximately 4.9 million m². We believe that the real estate development business will grow rapidly and become one of our significant profit drivers in the foreseeable future.

We are the largest large track maintenance machinery manufacturer in Asia and the second largest in the world. Moreover, the strategic location of our manufacturing facilities and utilization of advanced technologies have enhanced our competitiveness in the high-speed railway track components market.

As of 30 November 2007, we were the largest company in both China and Asia engaging in the research and development, manufacturing, sales, maintenance and repair of large track maintenance machinery, occupying more than 80% of the domestic market share for large track maintenance machinery. We are the second largest manufacturer of large track maintenance machinery in the world in terms of annual production volume.

We participated in the recent development of the large track maintenance machinery industry in China, having imported leading technologies for the manufacturing of large track maintenance machinery and, within two years, successfully manufactured our proprietary machinery domestically using our strong research and development capabilities. Our state-of-the-art track maintenance machinery products promoted the significant upgrades from manual to automatic railway maintenance practices in China, as well as the successful increases in maximum train speeds on China's railway networks on numerous occasions. We will continue to participate in the development of China's railway network by manufacturing and supplying important technology and equipment.

Kunming Zhong-Tie, our subsidiary, enjoys a long history and has extensive experience and advanced technologies in the large track maintenance machinery manufacturing industry. Kunming Zhong-Tie manufactures machinery for a number of railway operators in China and, in recent years, began to explore overseas markets.

As part of our strategic entrance into the high-speed railway track components market, we established CRRS, a technology-intensive company that has been appointed by the MOR as one of only two designated manufacturers of high-speed railway switches in China. We successfully developed and produced a line of components manufactured specifically for China's high-speed railways, such as high-speed railway switches and rail fasteners. The strategic location of our manufacturing facilities in southern China has enabled us to capture increasing opportunities to supply our products to economically developed areas where major high-speed railways are located. We believe that the addition of these new products and facilities has broadened the scope of our manufacturing operations.

Given that the PRC Government encourages the bulk purchase and utilization of large track maintenance machinery manufactured in China, we believe that we benefit from overall cost advantages resulting from our large track maintenance machinery and railway track components manufacturing operations.

We are the largest railway construction logistics services provider in China and the second largest railway materials supplier in the world, possessing an expansive logistics network and a high potential for growth in this business.

We operate our logistics business through our subsidiary, China Railway Goods and Materials Co., Ltd., or CRGMG. CRGMG has recently achieved rapid development in its logistics operations and has accumulated extensive experience in this area. In 2006, it ranked as the largest railway construction logistic service provider in China and the second largest railway materials supplier in the world. It was also ranked 20th among the 50 most competitive logistics enterprises in China in 2006.

We have 31 storage bases in 25 nationwide logistic hubs with the total storage area of approximately 1,330,000 m² and eight exclusive railways with a total length over 40 km for our logistics operations. We also engage in the trading of construction materials, enabling us to strengthen our ability to purchase and supply key materials. We have established strategic relationships with China National Petroleum Corporation, China Petroleum and Chemical Corporation and several major steel companies in China, and expanded the geographical coverage of our operations. The sales volume of our steel rail business exceeded 300,000 tonnes in both 2005 and 2006, accounting for over 20% of the domestic steel rail market. We believe that, in addition to being an independent business, our logistics operations provides us with the ability to lower our purchase costs of materials utilized in the construction business, thereby further enhancing our profitability and competitiveness.

Our experienced and knowledgeable management team and highly-skilled workforce have established "CRCC" as a widely-recognized brand name, effectively maintained our corporate culture and ensured the continued growth of our businesses.

Our senior management team consists of experts with an average industry experience of over 20 years, with extensive experience in large-scale infrastructure design and construction projects, the manufacture of large track maintenance machinery and other areas related to infrastructure construction. We believe that our management team is equipped with the critical industry knowledge required to take advantage of market opportunities, formulate sound business strategies, assess and manage risks, and implement measures relating to management and production, all of which are expected to increase our overall profit and maximize shareholder value.

Our management team's expertise and commitment to high quality have contributed to the successful establishment of our brand name, "CRCC". We believe that, when selecting contractors for major infrastructure construction projects, the PRC Government, foreign governments and project commissioners place importance on the bidders' industry experience and brand name. As a result of the widespread recognition of our brand name in both domestic and overseas markets, we are often among the primary choices of contractors for such projects. In 2007, we were listed among the Fortune Global 500 companies, ranking 384th in terms of total revenue. We have been ranked among the Top 225 Global Contractors in terms of total revenue from 2006 construction operations according to ENR magazine for a number of years, ranking sixth in 2007.

We view our research and development capacities and innovative technologies as key to our continued development and have established special research and development facilities and a strong professional team. As of 30 November 2007, we had six research and development facilities specialized in construction engineering, four post-doctorate research centers mainly employing Ph.D graduates, 16 technology centers and five new, high-technology enterprises. As of 30 November 2007, we had over 86,000 technical personnel at the junior, mid- or senior levels, including one academic from the Chinese Academy of Engineering, five state-level design masters, 188 experts receiving special subsidies from the State Council, 21 experts with outstanding contributions at the provincial and ministerial level, 217 professor-level senior engineers who work in the research and development department and 6,375 senior engineers, 8,050 senior technicians, 16,207 engineers. In addition, we also have many professionals from the construction industry, including 3,391 State Grade A project managers and 5,061 State Grade A construction engineers.

We believe that our success is partly due to our management team's adherence to our corporate culture. Our management team endeavors to maintain the spirit of the Railway Engineering Corps, including its enthusiasm for discipline and innovation, and is committed to executing our business strategies and willing to accept new challenges. We believe our Company will continue its rapid growth under the leadership of our core management team.

OUR BUSINESS STRATEGIES

We aim to develop into a globally-competitive and progressive company with a principal focus on our construction business, construction survey, design and consultancy business, and manufacturing business, as well as large-scale construction projects development and management business. Our ultimate goal is to enhance our cross-regional, cross-sector and cross-border operations by integrating our business operations with our capital investment operations, coordinating our construction business with our survey and design services, and consolidating our domestic operations with our international operations. We believe that the following strategies will help us to leverage our strengths to capture future growth opportunities in China's construction industry, increase the globalization of our operations, enhance our core competitiveness and maintain our industry leading position in China.

BUSINESS

Continue to enhance our leading position and increase our market share in China's construction industry.

Our traditional and core business operations involve the provision of construction services, which accounted for 93.9% of our total revenue before inter-segment elimination in the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2007. As of the Latest Practicable Date, we held a leading position in China's construction industry in terms of total assets, total revenue or new contract value. We aim to increase our overall share of the domestic market aggressively. We plan to maintain our leading position in China's infrastructure construction market by ensuring steady growth of our operations in the construction of infrastructure for railways, particularly passenger railways and high-speed railways, highways, tunnels, bridges, ports and airports, as well as increase our market share in construction of real estate, metropolitan railway, water conservancy and hydropower facility, and municipal projects. In addition, we will expand our operations to cover new, high-growth areas such as port construction and environmental-related and energy-related businesses with a view to increasing our overall share of the domestic market. The foregoing plans will be facilitated by fully utilizing our construction techniques, taking advantage of our economies of scale, using our capital effectively and procuring advanced equipment and facilities while improving our construction technology and consolidating our Company's resources. Leveraging our advantages of having an integrated structure, we will continue to reinforce our leading position in the industry. We also plan to develop new operations and generate steady income through various types of capital investment projects, including BT, BOT, BOO and PPP.

The PRC Government's plans to develop China's transportation network in the next five years include: (i) an investment of RMB1,200 billion to build the network for a passenger railway, consisting of four East-West and four North-South lines; (ii) the construction of an additional 350,000 km of highways, including 25,000 km of freeways; (iii) a total investment of nearly RMB500 billion in the construction of an additional 1,000 km of metropolitan railway lines; and (iv) a focus on investment in port construction, river water treatment, the development and usage of water resources, alternative energy resources, real estate development, environmental protection and ecological engineering. We intend to capture the opportunities created by these plans, develop the domestic market and select projects that generate higher profit. We intend to adopt a more profitable engineering, procurement and construction management, or EPC, business model that requires technological consolidation. We believe that such efforts will enable us to maintain strong growth and a leading position in the domestic infrastructure construction market.

Develop our overseas business and continue to expand the global footprint and scale of our overseas operations.

We intend to strengthen our competitiveness in our overseas construction, survey and design operations. We will take advantage of the opportunities created by the PRC Government's "going out" strategy of encouraging large Chinese construction companies to expand their overseas operations and compete in the global market. We plan to consolidate our internal construction technology and design resources and use our headquarters as a platform to contract and coordinate overseas businesses, while leveraging the strength and presence of CCECC and its affiliates in overseas markets to expand our experiences and cultivate talents. We will also develop the overseas markets for large track maintenance machinery and railway track components, such as high-speed railway switches and rail fasteners. We aim to become a high-quality, technologically-advanced international company, and we plan to strengthen our working relationships with overseas government agencies with a view to increasing our participation in foreign aid, government-financed projects and energy resources related projects in various developing countries, such as those in Asia, Africa and Latin America. We will develop new, high value-added businesses while ensuring the high-quality execution and completion of our current overseas railway or highway projects by our localized project management team. In addition, we intend to achieve sustainable development of our overseas operations by exploring markets in certain developed countries in Europe and North America through close cooperation with other leading international and domestic construction companies, thereby enlarging the proportion of our revenue and profit generated from overseas operations to our total revenue and profit.

Realign our corporate focus and become a fully-integrated company while developing new businesses with high return.

We plan to enter into new businesses associated with our main operations and to realign our corporate focus. We believe that we are able to maintain our position as one of the few ultra-large construction companies in China capable of providing a full range of services through our highly integrated operations, including construction, survey, design and consultancy, manufacturing, real estate development, logistics, and capital investment operations.

Our Company consists of more than 20 subsidiaries that specialize in project design, construction and machinery and equipment manufacturing. With a view to achieving economies of scale and enhancing our market competitiveness, after our Restructuring, we plan to fully utilize our technological expertise and sophisticated equipment, as well as our financing capacity and consolidated resources, to develop innovative business models for our main operations and explore new businesses with high growth potential and high returns by way of business re-alignment, mergers and acquisitions, majority investments, minority investments, restructuring, joint ventures, cooperative efforts and asset swaps.

Specific development plans for new businesses are as follows:

Real estate development: The rapid and steadfast growth of China's economy and trends towards urbanization have led to an increase in capital flow and investments in real estate projects. Moreover, the PRC Government has implemented various macroeconomic measures, including raising the barriers to entry into the market and restricting competition to large-scale enterprises, in an effort to ensure the stable and systematic growth of the market. Our goal is to capture the opportunities created by favorable market conditions to continue to expand our operations in real estate development, with an emphasis on commercial real estate. As part of our growth strategy, we established China Railway Real Estate Group Co., Ltd., through which we have integrated related resources within our Company among various subsidiaries and will continue to operate our real estate development business.

We intend to further expand our overall land reserves and our scale of operations by increasing our capital expenditure in our real estate development business, forming strategic alliances and carefully selecting projects with promising prospects, with the aim of benefiting from synergies and economies of scale and securing stable sources of income, thus strengthening our market presence. We plan to focus on developing our operations in large cities and municipalities that have shown high economic growth and activity, including Beijing, Shanghai, Tianjin, Chongqing and Guangzhou.

Logistics: We aim to enhance our own procurement and supply capabilities to meet the procurement needs of our construction and other businesses by leveraging our qualifications and existing raw materials distribution businesses. We will integrate our resource supply systems through our subsidiary, China Railway Goods and Materials Co., Ltd., while developing our procurement operations in the domestic railway and other markets. We plan to further develop modernized logistics operations to enhance our overall cost advantages for our core business and generate new sources of profit for our Company.

BUSINESS

Capital investment: In 2002, we began to engage in capital investments in relation to our construction operations that we believe will generate more cash flow in the future. We also believe that, as an important element propelling the development of the domestic infrastructure construction industry, construction projects completed through BT and BOT models will continue to increase. We intend to expand our capital investment operations, increase our involvement in BT, BOT, BOO or PPP projects and increase our relevant operating capacities. We plan to create a financing platform to centralize our capital and explore investment in fields such as transportation, energy resources development and new high-tech industries. We also plan to develop new operations and generate steady income through various types of capital investment projects, including BT, BOT, BOO and PPP.

Manufacture of railway track components: We plan to leverage the qualifications of CRRS, one of only two designated manufacturers of passenger railway switches by the MOR, grasp opportunities that arise as a result of the development of domestic passenger railway lines, develop the domestic market and increase our market shares. In addition, we will continuously upgrade and develop railway track component products, including high-speed railway switches and rail fasteners, to enter the overseas market. We expect to generate new sources of profit through the increased scale of this business.

Through the foregoing measures, we will increase our vertical integration. We will also balance our construction business through our equipment manufacturing and maintenance, project operation and management and our after-sale consultancy services. We aim to provide comprehensive services which not only concentrate on construction, but also extend to other operations such as project design, consultancy, investment, financing, and management services.

Enhance our research and development efforts to further enhance our core competitiveness.

Our continued development is dependent upon our advancements in science and technology. Through our main research institutes and engineering laboratories, we plan to establish a project-based technology development system, which will enable us to research and develop, educate our employees on, and produce new technologies to eventually realize proprietary technologies. Our main research institute will allow us to better integrate the research and development resources of our subsidiaries. In addition, we will be able to improve advanced technologies imported from overseas and customize such technologies for the domestic market.

In the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005, and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, we invested RMB39.0 million, RMB27.9 million, RMB99.6 million, RMB88.4 million and RMB84.9 million, respectively, in research and development. Our core technologies, including those relating to our construction business, such as technologies used for the construction of passenger railways, plateau railways, railway tracks, bridges, tunnels and railway maintenance equipment, will facilitate our ability to produce innovative products based on technological know-how imported from overseas that are customized for China's railway network, particularly for passenger railways, thereby meeting the demands of the domestic railway market and ensuring the continued development of our Company.

We will also continue our research and development, and enhance the protection, of new proprietary technologies used in our main businesses through China Railway First Survey and Design Institute, China Railway Fourth Survey and Design Institute, China Railway Fifth Survey and Design Institute, China Railway Shanghai Design Institute Group Co., Ltd., Beijing China Railway Construction Electrification Design and Research Institute and Kunming Zhong-Tie. Currently, our proprietary technologies mainly include those relating to our construction operations, survey, design and consultancy operations, and manufacturing operations.

Implement innovative management strategies, improve management efficiency and reduce costs to maintain cost-effective operations and optimize our overall profitability.

Our Company maintains a sizable staff force and has significant assets. To optimize our management decision-making process and improve our efficiency and productivity, we have defined the management roles for our headquarters to promote a flat management structure. After our Restructuring, our headquarters will focus on investment policy-making, capital investments, market development and integration of resources, while our subsidiaries will be responsible for construction and production. Decision-making and risk evaluation mechanisms will be established to strengthen our internal controls. We will also enhance the management of our project costs, with a particular focus on implementing uniform management standards among our subsidiary construction companies and optimizing the profitability of our operations.

We view improving efficiency and cost control as critical for maximizing our profitability and maintaining our competitiveness. Our Company will continue to rationalize and consolidate our internal management and further integrate our internal resource allocation system to strengthen our management control and increase our resource utilization rates. In addition, we will continue to enhance the centralized procurement of raw materials and plan to enter into long-term contracts with main suppliers of key raw materials, such as steel, to reduce our exposure to the volatility of raw material prices. We believe that centralizing raw material procurement will lower our procurement costs, ensure the consistent quality of raw materials and increase our rate of return.

We intend to enhance the efficiency of our supply chain, customer relations, on-site and financial information management systems. We will establish a uniform, computerized accounting and financial information management system to improve our financial risk management and to oversee our overall capital investments, operations and profits, as well as a uniform database that will allow our various subsidiaries to share consolidated research and development, sales and marketing and client information. We expect to implement a centralized capital management system which we believe will enable us to enhance the efficiency of our fund utilization, increase our sources of funding and reduce our financing costs. This system would enable us to integrate our capital investment operations and increase our investment flexibility to seek higher returns.

Further develop our outstanding corporate culture, promote the "CRCC" brand name and strengthen our reputation for excellence.

We value the brand "CRCC" as our most valuable intangible asset and the representation of our corporate culture. We will therefore enhance our integrated brand management and utilization and increase our brand awareness. For example, we plan to promote our brand name during major functions, such as the Olympic Games 2008 and the World Expo 2010, in order to fully explore business opportunities, attract investment, expand markets and recruit talents. We will also focus on promoting the brand name "CRCC" in overseas markets by associating our brand image with high quality landmark construction projects and products.

During our consolidation and business development progress, we will unify our corporate culture through the promotion of our brand name "CRCC". We believe our employees and member companies will be able to maximize profit for our shareholders under a uniform corporate culture.

Railway Construction

Our predecessor was the Railway Engineering Corps, and, therefore, the construction of railways have always been a significant part of our core operations. We are one of the largest providers of railway construction services in China. We have participated in the construction of almost all railway lines constructed after 1949 and have independently constructed approximately 34,000 km of railways, which account for the majority of China's railway lines constructed since 1949. Our market share for railway construction in China in terms of new contract value is approximately between 45% and 50%. For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, our total revenue generated from the contracting of railway construction projects before elimination of inter-segment sales was RMB22,461.1 million, RMB32,434.3 million, RMB61,496.9 million, RMB58,477.0 million and RMB62,497.9 million, respectively.

Completed Projects

Since our establishment, we have constructed more than 100 new multi-track and main railway lines. Landmark railway lines include the Qinghai-Tibet (Phases I and II), Beijing-Kowloon, Datong-Qinhuangdao, Southern Xinjiang, Nanning-Kunming, Neijiang-Kunming, Guangzhou-Shenzhen, Qinhuangdao-Shenyang, Chongqing-Huaihua, Xi'an-Hefei, Yangshou-Huanghe, Xiangfan-Chongqing, Chengdu-Kunming, Yingtan-Xiamen, Baoji-Lanzhou railway lines and the Guangdong Sea Passageway, with a total length of approximately 34,000 km, accounting for the majority of China's railway lines constructed since 1949. We have completed the following landmark railway or railway system projects in recent years:

- Qinghai-Tibet Railway (Phase I and Phase II): The Qinghai-Tibet Railway Line is the world's longest, highest and most technologically sophisticated plateau railway. This renowned railway project connecting Xining and Lhasa has two phases that commenced commercial operations on July 1984 and July 2006, respectively. We were solely responsible for the construction of 71.1%, or approximately 1,406 km of both phases of the Qinghai-Tibet Railway Line, including, all construction beyond 4,900 m above sea level and the majority of the difficult railway lines beyond 4,600 m above sea level of Phase II of the railway, as well as the sections of the railway crossing the Tanggula and Kunlun mountains. We successfully overcame three significant challenges presented by permafrost, low oxygen levels due to high altitudes and the fragile ecology of the Qinghai-Tibet Plateau. The total contract value of Phase II was approximately RMB13.1 billion;

- Datong-Qinhuangdao Railway: This is the first dual line electrified railway specially designed for coal transportation by standardized heavy-haul freight wagons, and was completed in 1991. We have participated in the construction of both Phase I and Phase II of this railway line with a total contract value of RMB3.0 billion. We also undertook the expansion project which allowed this railway line to support annual transportation volumes of 200 million tonnes. We won a Luban Award, China's most prestigious architecture and construction award, as well as the Golden Prize of National Excellent Construction Project, for our outstanding construction quality;
- Qinhuangdao-Shenyang Passenger Railway Line: This is the first passenger railway in China, which was completed in 2002 with a total contract value of RMB5.2 billion. We constructed part of the railway, including the testing section, which recorded maximum train speeds of over 321 km/h. We have developed the technical capacity to build passenger railways through the completion of this project;
- Ji'an-Dingnan Section of the Beijing-Kowloon Railway Line: The Beijing-Kowloon Railway Line is the second north-south railway artery in China. It was built across areas with complex geographical conditions and under significant time pressures and completed in 1995. We completed the construction of 346.2 km of railways with a total contract value of RMB7.9 billion within 39 months and received a Luban Award for the outstanding construction quality of this project; and
- Guangzhou-Shenzhen Quasi High-Speed Railway Line: This is the first quasi high-speed railway in China and the first electrified 4-line railway with separate lines for cargo and passenger transportations, which was completed in 1994. We constructed the passenger transportation lines with a total contract value of RMB3.9 billion which are currently integrated parts of the Guangzhou-Shenzhen inter-city commuter network with a maximum operation speed over 200 km/h.

Projects under Construction

Based on our expertise and our recognized brand name, we are actively participating in the construction of China's new passenger railway network. We have undertaken approximately 45% of passenger railway projects currently under construction in China. As of 30 November 2007, the total value of backlog contracts for railway construction was approximately RMB91.7 billion. As of the Latest Practicable Date, we were independently awarded two sections of the Beijing-Shanghai High-Speed Railway Project with a construction contract value of RMB33.7 billion. In addition, we were awarded another section of this project with a construction contract value of RMB14.3 billion through a consortium entered into with China Hydraulic and Hydroelectric Construction Group Corporation, and our share in the total construction contract value is expected to be over RMB5.2 billion. As a result, we expect to be awarded over RMB38.9 billion, or over 46.5%, of the total contract value for Beijing-Shanghai High-Speed Railway Project. Of the four companies awarded the contract for this project, we were awarded the highest proportion of the project in

Bridges

We are a market leader in the provision of bridge construction services in China. We achieved a leading position internationally in bridge construction technologies, such as those for the construction of cable-stayed bridges, cable supported bridges, light rail PC beams and high-precision maglev track beams. We are currently the only company in China possessing proprietary knowledge of high-precision maglev track beam manufacturing technology. Completed Projects

Since our establishment, we have constructed over 5,390 km of tunnels as part of our railway and highway projects. Landmark tunnel projects include the Qinling Tunnel on Xi'an-Ankang Railway Line, the Fenghuoshan Tunnel on the Qinghai-Tibet Railway Line, and the Wushaoling Tunnel on the Lanzhou-Wuhan Railway Line. We have completed the following landmark highway or railway tunnel projects in recent years:

- Qinling Tunnel of the Xi'an-Ankang Railway Line:* This tunnel consists of two single-line tubes, which are almost parallel to each other. We applied TBM excavation technology for the first time during the tunnel's construction and successfully solved the difficulties created by unfavorable geographical conditions, single-ended ventilation in the tunnel and hard rock blasting. We achieved six new national records in tunnel construction and successfully completed the project before the deadline. The project was completed in 2000 with a total contract value of RMB750 million. We received the National Science and Technology Advancement Award in 2003, the Luban Award in 2002 and the Zhan Tianyou Award in 2003 for this project;

- Fenghuoshan Tunnel on Qinghai-Tibet Railway Line: This tunnel is situated at an altitude of 4,905 m and located in the Fenghuoshan Mountain of the Qinghai-Tibetan Plateau. The tunnel was constructed in permafrost and has been listed in the Guinness World Records as the world's highest rail tunnel built in permafrost. The project was completed in 2006 with a total contract value of RMB850 million. We were awarded the second prize of the National Science and Technology Advancement Award in 2005 for the project;
- Wushaoling Tunnel: This tunnel on the Lanzhou-Wuhan Railway Line crosses through four distinct regions in the high and middle mountainous areas of the Qilian Mountains and is situated at an altitude of over 2,400 m. It is the first railway tunnel to exceed a length of 20 km in China and serves to reduce bottlenecks on the Eurasian Continental Bridge. The project was completed in 2006 with a total contract value of RMB200 million.; and
- Qinling Zhongnanshan Highway Tunnel: This tunnel crosses through the Qinling Mountains and was the longest double-tube tunnel in China when it was completed in 2007. It was one of the three landmark transportation projects in Shaanxi during the Tenth Five-Year Plan period. The total contract value of this project is RMB910 million.

Metropolitan Railways

We are a leader in the construction of metropolitan railways in China. We independently constructed the first subway in China — Line One of the Beijing City Subway. We have participated or are currently participating in metropolitan railways projects in all cities throughout China with such projects, including Dalian, Tianjin, Chongqing, Wuhan, Beijing, Guangzhou, Shanghai, Nanjing and Shenzhen. In recent years, our business has significantly developed in the area of metropolitan railways. As of 30 November 2007, we had constructed or participated in the construction of 148 metropolitan railway projects. We have made certain breakthrough achievements in the construction of urban light rail systems, shield tunneling, pile foundation underpinning, large cross-section excavation technology in complex geographical conditions and the utilization of anti-vibration and noise reduction technologies for metropolitan railway lines. Our customers mainly consist of transportation bureaus and transportation system operators of major cities in China. For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, our revenue generated from the construction of metropolitan railway projects before elimination of inter-segment sales was RMB2,055.3 million, RMB2,690.8 million, RMB4,823.8 million, RMB3,626.2 million and RMB4,424.9 million, respectively.

Completed Projects

We have completed the following landmark tracks and metropolitan railway projects in recent years:

- Shanghai Maglev Demonstration Line: In 2001, we participated in the construction of this maglev track, which is the first and only maglev track currently in commercial operation in China. The track recorded maximum train speeds of up to 432 km/h during trial operations. The project was completed in 2002 with a total contract value of RMB540 million. We are currently the only company in China possessing proprietary knowledge of high-precision maglev track beam manufacturing technology and have obtained two intellectual property rights for technologies developed for this project;
- Beijing Metropolitan Railway Lines: We have constructed subway routes No. 1, No. 2, No. 5, No. 13 and the Bawangfen-Tongzhou Line of the Beijing Metropolitan Railway Lines System, the combined subway and light rail connecting Beijing Capital International Airport with the city center of Beijing. The construction of routes No.1 and No.2 was completed in 1989 with a total contract value of RMB1.7 billion. As part of the subway line crosses the city center, we employed underground excavation technology to minimize interference with city center traffic;

- Chongqing Light Rail: This is a straddle-type, single-rail transportation system. We used our own PC beam technology, having obtained three patents in the beam body, mold and construction methods, and successfully overcame difficulties such as steep slopes, multiple curves and the manufacture and erection of an S-shape reverse curve PC beam. The project was completed in 2004 with a total contract value of RMB110 million. In 2005, this project received Top Ten Construction Technology Achievement in China; and
- Extension for West-end of No. 2 Subway in Shanghai: The project is an extension of the west-end of the No. 2 Subway in Shanghai with a total length of approximately 6.1 km. Other Construction Projects

We also participated in the construction of other types of projects, such as electric engineering, airport, port and municipal construction projects.

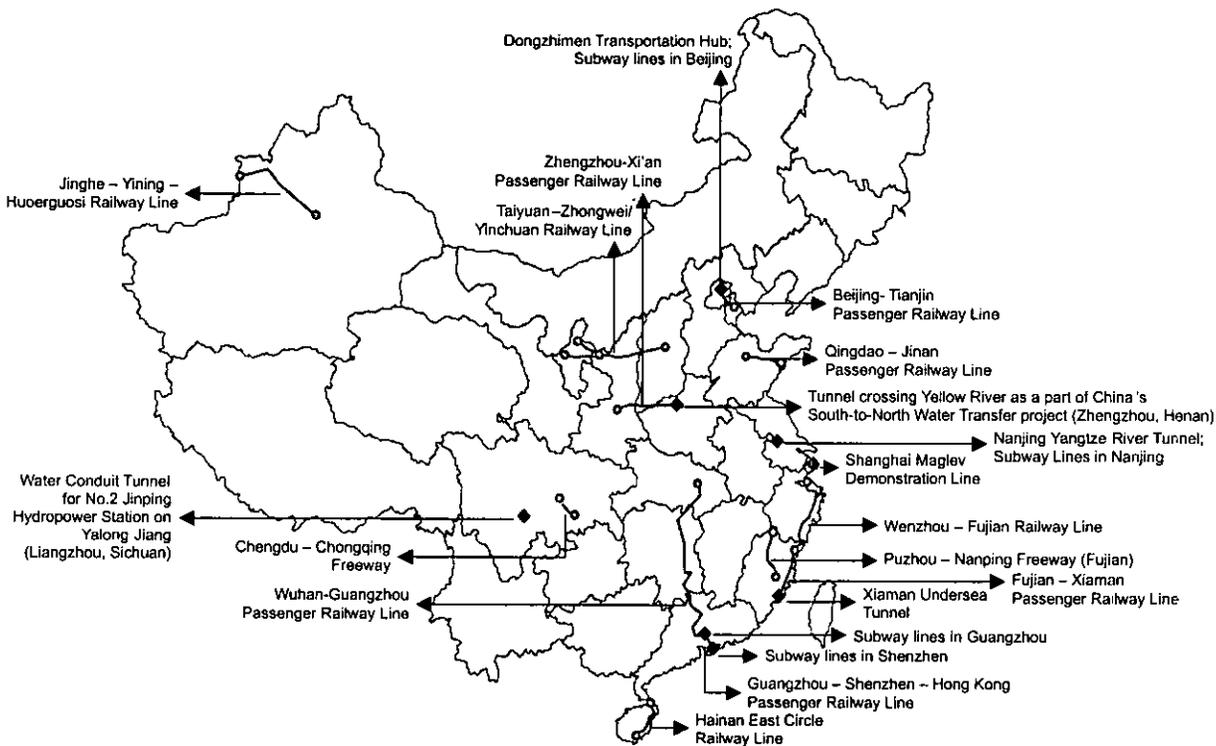

We are pursuing opportunities for construction or reconstruction of airports, train stations and ports. Although we occupy only a small market share in these markets, we expect that these businesses will generate substantial profits in the future. Our major customers in these markets are the transportation divisions of provinces and cities, administrators of airports and ports, and construction project entities established and managed by central or local governments. We have designed and/or participated in the construction of over 30 airport projects as well as many ports and train stations, such as the Beijing International Airport Terminal 3, Hongqiao and Pudong Airports in Shanghai, Huanghua Airport in Changsha, Meilan Airport in Hainan, Wenzhou Airport, Jiangbei Airport in Chongqing, Qingdao Harbor Project, the new Guangzhou Train Station and the new Wuhan Train Station. We won the Luban Award for the construction of Wenzhou Airport, Jiangbei Airport in Chongqing and Dayaowan Phase I of Dalian Port.

We also participate in real estate construction projects for municipalities. The experience gained from such projects enhances our competitiveness in this area. The Sinosteel Mansion we constructed was recognized by the Beijing Municipal Construction Committee as a project meeting leading international standards. We received Luban Awards for our other projects, such as The Library of the Chinese Academy of Science in Beijing, the Natural Science Buildings Group of Beijing University and the Headquarters of the China Construction Bank, or Xinda Finance Tower.

Overseas Construction Projects

In recent years, we have been the fastest-growing Chinese construction contractor in the overseas infrastructure construction market in terms of growth of new contract value. We aim to develop our overseas construction operations diligently. We conduct our overseas operations mainly through our subsidiary, CCECC, which was established in 1979 and is one of the first Chinese companies to enter into the international construction market. CCECC was formerly a foreign aid office of the MOR that organized and implemented the Tanzania-Zambia Railway Project, China's largest foreign aid project at the time. CCECC specializes in railway construction, including construction, design and consultancy, and cooperative labor arrangements in overseas countries and territories. In 2007, 49 Chinese construction companies were elected among the Top 225 International Contractors, with CCECC alone ranking 82nd in terms of construction revenue generated outside of the home country (the PRC) in 2006. We have developed our operations in overseas markets by leveraging CCECC's strength and presence in such markets since it was injected into our Company in February 2004 and by building upon our own design and construction expertise and the expertise of our other subsidiaries. Over the years, we have gradually established "CRCC" and "CCECC", the two brand names we own, and our reputation in the international construction industry. We have established 31 representative offices, project engineering departments and branch offices, including branch offices in Hong Kong and Macau and other countries and territories in Asia and Africa, affiliated companies in Oman, Dubai, Thailand, Saudi Arabia, Nigeria and Botswana, a branch office in Algeria, headquarters for construction projects in Angola and a construction division for projects in Israel. The main businesses of these branches and subsidiaries consist primarily of the provision of construction and survey, design and consultancy services. We have achieved prominent status in countries and territories such as Hong Kong, Algeria, Nigeria, the United Arab Emirates, Tanzania and Botswana. We have completed 287 overseas projects, and are currently engaged to provide construction services for 137 overseas projects located in 27 different countries and territories. We have participated in many cooperation projects in countries with abundant energy resources, and completed feasibility research for construction of new railway lines in Angola, Ghana, Benin and Nigeria. Our efforts have established a solid foundation for our further development in overseas markets.

As a non-U.S. corporation with operations in various parts of the world, we engage in activities in and with parties from certain countries in which U.S. laws prohibit the engaging in business activities by U.S. citizens and other persons subject to U.S. laws, including, in some cases, foreign persons and corporations. We conduct business in Sudan, a country that is currently, and during the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 has been, subject to sanctions administered by the United States Treasury Department's Office of Foreign Assets Control ("OFAC"). No U.S. individuals employed by us or U.S. companies with which we conduct business are involved in the supply of our products and services in the countries subject to OFAC sanctions, and we are not involved in re-exporting goods of U.S. origin to countries subject to U.S. trade sanctions. We note that any past or future business activities conducted in Sudan could prevent us from pursuing business opportunities in the United States or obtaining financing from the United States. In the years ended 31 December 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, revenue generated from our construction projects in Sudan was approximately RMB39.9 million, RMB58.8 million, and RMB70.4 million, representing approximately 0.05%, 0.05% and 0.05% of our revenue in the same period. We did not generate revenue from projects in Sudan in the year ended 31 December 2004. Although the relevant regulations are generally applicable only to U.S. persons and certain other persons subject to U.S. jurisdiction and therefore have a limited effect on us, they may potentially affect our ability to obtain investments or other financing from U.S. persons.

We will not use any of the proceeds of the Global Offering to fund activities that a U.S. corporation would be prohibited from undertaking under sanctions administered by OFAC. We, through our Strategic and Investment Committee of the Board of Directors, will closely oversee the use of proceeds so that they are utilized according to approved plans which do not involve any projects or plans in OFAC countries.

For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, our revenue generated from overseas construction projects was RMB1,417.3 million, RMB2,167.7 million, RMB3,516.6 million, RMB3,221.7 million and RMB4,983.2 million, respectively. As of 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and 30 November 2007, the total amount of our backlog for the overseas

Business Models

The business models adopted in the construction industry in China mainly include:

- Construction contracting, by which the contractor performs the constructions work in accordance with the construction plan and design supplied by the customers and is generally only responsible for the construction work. The project owner is generally responsible for the procurement of raw materials and controls the project timetable.
- Project management contracting, by which the contractor performs the construction contract in accordance with the designs and timetable supplied by the designers and project owner. The contractor generally takes full responsibility for the project while it is allowed to subcontract part of the project to third parties. During the construction process, the project owner will supervise the construction work with the assistance of the designers or retain a supervisor to monitor the progress of the project. Project management contracting is usually adopted by middle- to large-scale construction enterprises.

BUSINESS

- Engineering, procurement and construction, or EPC, by which the contractor undertakes all or part of the survey, design, procurement, construction and trial operations on a turnkey basis. An EPC contractor is responsible to the project owner for the quality, time progress and costs of the construction. EPC is generally the model adopted in the global construction market.

The business models we adopt in our construction operations mainly include construction contracting, project management contracting and EPC. During the Track Record Period, substantially all of our projects are contracted based on project management contracting, either in terms of number or contract value of projects. However, we are leveraging our integrated survey, design and consultancy and construction expertise to develop the EPC model as our key business model.

Business Procedures and Contract Terms

We have developed a comprehensive set of business procedures for our construction operations, key points of which are set out as follows:

Evaluation of projects

We establish tendering departments to accommodate our project bidding needs. Members of these tendering departments include our management and professional personnel who are familiar with the technology, proposal, contract terms and budgets related to bidding. After obtaining the information for bidding and performing an initial assessment of facts including our qualification to undertake the project, sufficiency of our resources and costs and profitability of the project, the tendering department will make an initial judgment on whether to proceed. If the tendering department reaches a favorable decision on a project, they study the bidding documents and relevant criteria and prepare for the bidding. Following a determination of which projects to pursue, the tendering department evaluates factors such as the natural, economic and social conditions of the project, project size and location, duration, availability of personnel, equipment required to undertake the project, the cost and predictable life of such equipment, credit analysis of our customers, the terms of payment, current backlog, competitive advantages and disadvantages, prior experience, status of competitors and negotiation with counterparties in order to accurately estimate construction costs or profits, evaluate bidding risks and develop bidding strategies. This assessment will need to be reviewed and approved by the relevant internal controls department, consisting of accounting, legal, financing and auditing personnel, of the subsidiary that will engage in the projects before we proceed. Generally, the review and approval of assessments of large projects with a contract value exceeding RMB1 billion will be submitted to and reviewed by our senior management and higher level holding companies.

Submitting pre-qualification materials

Upon determining which projects to pursue and before the negotiation or acceptance of our bid for the respective projects, we are generally required to complete a pre-qualification process with the relevant project owner. Project owners generally require us to meet certain qualification requirements before they will negotiate or accept our bid for a project. The pre-qualification process may require that we submit information concerning our financial condition, past professional experiences and the availability of our personnel and equipment before the submission of our bid.

BUSINESS

Bidding

After meeting the pre-qualification requirements for a project, we carry out a detailed study of the relevant project before submitting a bid. This generally involves a study of the technical and commercial conditions and requirements of the tender, followed by a site visit. Our tendering departments also invite quotations from suppliers and subcontractors for various items or activities relating to the tender. Our tendering departments analyze the information collected to arrive at the cost of items included in our bill of quantities, which is then marked up accordingly to arrive at the bidding price presented to the customer.

Signing contracts

Our technical and business personnel work in coordination for the negotiation and signing of contracts. Generally, we enter into standard forms of contracts promulgated by the relevant construction authorities for particular types of projects. Most of our contracts are awarded and carried out on a fixed-price basis with a pre-determined timetable for project completion, and our bids are therefore also prepared on this basis. Such contracts generally commit the contractor to carry out the construction in accordance with the rules of quantity calculation, the technical standards and the completion requirement as prescribed in the bidding documents. Some contracts contain escalation or risk-sharing clauses to cover increased raw material costs.

Estimating the costs involved in a fixed-price contract is crucial to our profitability. We carefully estimate the costs of a project prior to submitting our bid. Our estimates rely on both the project owners' estimates of required materials and our own experience in estimating project costs. There are a number of factors that can influence the final project costs as compared to the original bidding price. The most important of these include site and environmental conditions that differ from those assumed in the original bid, geographic location of the project, availability and pricing of raw materials, accuracy of the bidding price and inclement weather conditions.

The measures we take to control projects costs include, subject to the requirement for guaranteed timetable and standard of quality, the monitoring and allocation of the relevant resources and expenditures during the course of construction, the strengthening of financial and accounting management to correct any possible deviation, and the controlling of expenses accrued within the estimated project costs to meet our cost estimates.

Construction designs and blueprints

Construction designs and blueprints are key parts of EPC contracts, which include executive summaries of design, interpretation of ground plans and layouts, overall estimated budgets, budgets for particular construction sections, calculations and relevant design software. Design annotation shall follow the completion of designs and blueprints and the designer or design department must, after the designs and blueprints are determined to be in compliance with the requirements of and approved by the project owner and upon delivery of the construction project designs, give a detailed explanation of relevant design documents as required by law. The content of the design annotation must include a general introduction to the designs and an explanation of the designs, special construction requirements, architecture, structure, construction methods and equipment, possible difficulties and common issues in the process of construction.

Construction, measurement and calculation

Construction, measurement and calculation are key to a project. First, a project department is established. The contractor and owner subsequently conduct on-site confirmations of control points and inspection surveys. They then arrange the construction organization in accordance with designs and blueprints and the timetable designated by the owner and build temporary facilities. Finally, the construction is executed in accordance with designs and blueprints and monthly or quarterly measurements and calculations are conducted in accordance with the contract. The project department compiles completion documents for the owner's inspection before acceptance and effects the relevant procedures for completion.

Change orders

During the ordinary course of most projects, the owner, and sometimes the contractor, may initiate modifications or changes to the original contract to reflect, among other things, changes in specifications or design, method or manner of performance, facilities, equipment, materials, site conditions and period for completion of the work. The scope and price of such modifications or changes are typically documented in a "change order" to the original contract and reviewed, approved and paid for in accordance with the normal change order provisions of the contract. We are often required to perform extra work or change orders as directed by the customer even if the customer has not agreed in advance to the scope or price of the work to be performed. See "Risk Factors — Risks relating to our business operations — Actual overall risks or costs of our contracts may exceed our initial evaluation and lead to cost overruns, resulting in a reduction in revenues, lower profitability or even losses on such contracts". Performing additional work or change of order may result in disputes over the scope of work originally agreed upon by the parties or the price our client is willing to pay for such additional work. In addition, any delay caused by additional work or change orders may impact the progress of our project and our ability to meet specific contract milestones dates. However, during the Track Record Period, we did not experience any incidents relating to cost overruns that had a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations.

Payment terms

Most contracts provide for an advance payment and monthly or periodic progress payments, and completion of each stage of the project is certified by a site engineer and accepted by the project owner. Our projects usually require a minimum advance payment from our customers of 10% of the overall contract sum in accordance with the contract terms for the payment of our raw materials, fuel procurement and labor costs. To ensure the advanced payment is used in due course, our customers may require us to deposit the advanced payment in a bank account designated by the project owner. With respect to such requirement, a letter of credit issued by a bank is generally provided as a substitute.

Most contracts provide for monthly or periodic completion checks and progress payments. At each stage of a project, the project department submits reports on completed construction to both the supervisory engineers and the project owner. The project department then settles the progress payment in accordance with the contract terms and progress reports which have been verified by the owner. In general, the completion of certain stages of a construction are inspected and certified by independent third parties, such as supervisory engineers. We carefully monitor costs throughout the life of a project to protect ourselves against or minimize significant cost overruns.

A substantial amount of our revenue is generated from infrastructure construction projects. We issue our invoices to our domestic customers in accordance with terms specified in the contracts governing the relevant transactions, which generally require payment within one to 30 days after the receipt of an invoice that complies with the relevant laws. To ensure the timely collection of our account receivables and to minimize and avoid the incurrence of bad debts, we have implemented management measures and established collection responsibility and investigation systems to reduce our account receivables. The payment terms for our overseas projects are similar to those of our domestic projects. We may grant different credit terms to clients based on their credit qualifications. In order to attain a better recovery rate for our trade and bill receivables generated from the overseas market, we require prepayments from time to time from overseas clients before we commence construction on projects. We have also adopted a series of policies and internal controls consistent with those for our domestic collections to monitor the collection of overdue construction payments from overseas clients.

Our accounts receivable management team may consist of different internal departments, including financial, management, engineering, legal and supervision departments, to investigate, monitor, manage and collect our accounts receivable. Through timely confirmation and prompt recognition of the amount for account receivables, stringent collection and loss management measures to reduce the amount of our account receivables, we are able to efficiently enhance our turnover of capital and increase the efficiency of capital utilization. For sales of products and provision of services, a credit period typically ranging from three to six months may be granted to major or long-term customers with good payment histories. Payment from small, new or short-term customers are usually settled shortly after the provision of services or delivery of goods.

During the ordinary course of some of our projects, we may encounter unexpected or unforeseen site conditions which could cause us to incur costs beyond our original estimates. We typically add such extra costs, or project claims, to the overall contract sum and include them as part of the total revenue from our construction operations.

Project bonds

We are generally required under contract to provide the project owner with various bonds throughout the term of the project. When bidding for a project, a bid bond (in the form of a letter of credit, a confirmed check, a money order or cash) is usually required to be delivered with the bid. The bid bond is generally for a fixed amount, or a percentage of the bid price. If we are awarded the project but subsequently elect not to enter into the contract, the project owner can call on the bid bond.

After a successful bid and upon the signing of a contract, the bid bond is returned to us and a performance bond is procured by us and delivered to the project owner. The performance bond is provided in accordance with the requirements specified in the bidding documents or determined by the project owner after the bidding, in the form and amount of cash, performance undertakings or the letter of credit. The performance bonds must represent an amount sufficient to provide us with incentive to perform our contract obligations and is traditionally in an amount equal to 10% of the contract sum presented for payment by the project owner to the relevant issuing bank or finance company if we default. The performance bond is returned to us after the completion certificate is issued and the project owner confirms completion of the contract.

Upon completion of the project, the customer usually withholds an amount equal to 5% of the contract sum as quality bonds. At times, the customer may be willing to accept maintenance bonds from us in lieu of the whole or part of the quality bonds. The maintenance bond will be held by the customer for the duration of the maintenance period, which usually lasts for 24 months after the issuance of the completion certificate.

Consistent with what we believe to be customary practice, we typically provide performance bonds and quality bonds in the amount mentioned above and in the form of letters of guarantee issued by commercial banks. As of 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and 30 November 2007, the project bonds we had amounted to approximately RMB1,774.9 million, RMB1,908.5 million, RMB2,601.5 million and RMB2,883.6 million.

BUSINESS

Liquidated damages

Pursuant to our contracts, if a project is delayed through no fault of ours, such as delay caused by inclement weather, technical issues or unexpected complex geographic conditions, we are usually granted an extension equal to such delay. However, if the delay is due to our fault, we are usually required to pay liquidated damages, typically at an agreed rate per day and up to a maximum of 10% of the contract sum. In the case of a delay due to our fault or defective work, the customer may also have the right to appoint a third party to complete the work, and to deduct the additional costs or charges incurred for completion of the work from the contract sum. We implemented a series of project management regulations applicable to each stage of a construction project according to the nature and characteristics of a specific project and the actual needs of the construction, including project implementation, labor management, raw materials procurement and monitoring, quality control to ensure a project could be completed according to the contract terms, particularly with respect to time and scope of work. We have also adopted a strict award and penalty scheme that is applied to our employees as well as subcontractors to ensure that they strictly comply with our project management regulations. We also implement routine and non-routine goal management, responsibility management and on-site inspections to ensure that our employees and subcontractors comply with our project management regulations. In the Track Record Period, we did not experience any material incidents that resulted in material damage to our business. In circumstances where clients modify the agreed scope of work of a project during the construction phase due to a change in design or correction of design errors, we will negotiate adjustments in payment or construction timetables with our customers in accordance with the change in scope of work.

Maintenance

Generally, our contracts provide for a contractual maintenance period of 12 months after the completion of inspection before acceptance and commencing from the date of issuance of the completion certificate for the project. In accordance with the terms of the contract, we are liable for any defects in our work during this maintenance period. However, the period between our completion date and the date on which the project owner completes inspection before completion can be relatively long for certain construction projects. In such cases, we do not assume any responsibility for any defects caused by natural forces.

Project implementation

Our construction units are responsible for carrying out all project activities. The construction units typically prepare and implement a detailed plan and operation manual for the project in accordance with the construction guidelines of our Company and subject to approval of our general engineer and the project owner. The detailed plan and operation manual generally include: (i) a work schedule in line with work conditions and payment schedule; (ii) labor deployment in line with the required skill levels and the estimated number of workers for each type of work; and (iii) programs detailing the work planned for each phase of the project.

The implementation process includes devising a detailed construction plan, procuring materials, delegating work to subcontractors, coordinating with project owners or their consultants, coordinating with our subcontractors and suppliers, and taking charge of the overall management of these works.

We will continue to enhance the management of project implementation in terms of organizational structure, management methods and on-site management measures. We will also continue to refine our management procedures, optimize management details and implement meticulous management mechanisms.

BUSINESS

Subcontractors and Joint Ventures

In any given project, we act as the turnkey contractor, a member of a consortium, joint venture partner, or a subcontractor depending upon the requirements of the project and the terms of the awarded contract. In the domestic market, we generally submit tenders for projects on our own to act as the turnkey contractor rather than as part of a joint venture or consortium, because as an integrated construction company, we are able to execute such projects with our own resources. On the international front, we submit tenders for overseas projects both on an individual basis and as a member of a joint venture or a consortium. Where we act as a member of a consortium or joint venture, we share the scope of work and responsibilities with the other consortium members or joint venture partners as defined in the consortium or joint venture agreement, respectively. We normally bear joint and several liabilities to the customer with other members of the consortium or joint venture, as provided for in the consortium or joint venture agreement. We generally undertake construction projects as an independent contractor. In most of our joint construction projects, we enter into a consortium with other parties and decide each party's share of interest through negotiations based on the underlying agreement. Parties will share the revenue according to the share of interests and be jointly liable for the quality of the construction projects.

We act as the turnkey contractor in most projects. When necessary, we subcontract within our Company, employ temporary workers or outsource to independent third-party subcontractors to provide certain services that we are unable to or do not generally provide, or if we require additional labor as a result of manpower shortages or where we are required to accelerate the rate of work on a project. In the year ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, our subcontracting costs amounted to RMB8,612.8 million, RMB8,852.7 million, RMB10,707.8 million, RMB9,539.3 million and RMB10,258.7 million, representing 10.8%, 8.6%, 7.4%, 7.4% and 7.5% of our total cost of sales, respectively. Terms of the master contract are reflected in our contracts with subcontractors. We and our subcontractors are jointly liable with regard to work safety on a subcontract. In selecting independent third-party subcontractors, we consider factors such as previous cooperation experience and our evaluation of their performance. We require the same standards of work to be performed by subcontractors as we would expect of work done by our own subsidiaries. We have adopted a stringent testing and recognition mechanism to test and review the qualifications of those subcontractors we consider for retention. In order to ensure the quality of the subcontractor, we observe measures including the implementation of stringent evaluations to monitor quality, performance and credit history of each subcontractor and apply our quality control requirements to monitor and supervise subcontractor through construction. In addition, pursuant to either our contracts or applicable laws, we are ultimately liable to project owners for the entire construction project and, as such, we maintain close supervision over our subcontractors' performance to ensure high-quality work. We maintain a list of preferred subcontractors that is regularly reviewed and updated. We also maintain long and close relationships with reliable subcontractors through training programs and technical cooperation arrangements.

Seasonality

Our construction business is subject to seasonality, mainly due to the vast territory of China and the different climate conditions of various regions in which we operate. We typically record higher revenues between July and December relative to revenues recorded between January and June. We attribute this seasonality to the effect that the winter months (generally from January to March) have on our construction operations in the northern part of China as well as the effect of the Chinese New Year during which some of our projects and construction are halted. We anticipate that, as we improve our technology and equipment, we may gradually overcome seasonality in our business operations. Nevertheless, we may still experience cost increases or delays in progress when conducting our business operations during particular seasons.

Raw Materials and Suppliers

We adopt three different methods of procurement for our construction operations, namely, procurement by owner, procurement controlled by owner and procurement by contractor, in accordance with different provisions under our construction contracts. The raw materials we use for infrastructure construction include steel, cement, explosives, waterproofing materials, admixtures and track materials.

In general, certain raw materials such as steel, explosives, wood and cement are purchased by the project owners. Under the procurement by owner method, we compile a list for the main raw materials required for our construction and then submit the list to the owner. After the owner confirms such list, the owner becomes responsible for the purchase of raw materials.

Procurement controlled by the owner means that the owner will first supervise the contractor in the organization of the bidding and determination of the raw materials supplier, then the contractor will negotiate business terms and enter into a purchase agreement with the suppliers designated by the owner.

Most of our contracts are fixed-price contracts under which we are responsible for procuring raw materials. The procurement costs consist of part of our construction costs and the owner will not refund the payments already made for raw material procurement.

Currently, our purchases are made through decentralized procurement, whereby each procurement department of our construction subsidiaries is independently responsible for calculation and procurement of the raw materials required for projects undertaken by the respective subsidiaries. However, in recent years, we have been promoting centralized procurement. Centralized procurement may lower our procurement costs, ensure consistent quality of raw materials and increase our rate of return. We expect to increase our centralized procurement of raw materials significantly.

By entering into long-term purchase agreements or strategic alliances with our suppliers, we believe that we have maintained stable relationships with our main suppliers of raw materials, enabling us to secure reliable supplies of raw materials used in infrastructure construction. We manage the fluctuation of raw material costs through our stable relationships with our suppliers. We also believe that the raw materials we purchase are fungible commodities. In addition, we conduct logistics and materials supply businesses and therefore anticipate that it will not be difficult to procure sufficient raw materials. However, we may still be subject to risks of price fluctuation of raw materials. See "Risk Factors — Risks relating to our business operations — We may be unable to continue to procure an adequate supply of raw materials and energy supplies at acceptable prices and quality in a timely manner".

Electricity and fuel are the main types of energy we use. We obtain water supplies from local sources depending on the location of our projects. During recent years, we have not encountered any significant shortages of electricity, fuel or water supply.

For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, approximately 0.51%, 0.61%, 0.38%, and 0.38% respectively, of our cost of sales of our Company as well as of our construction business, was attributable to purchases from our largest supplier. For the same periods, approximately 1.11%, 0.99%, 0.73%, and 1.45%, respectively, of our cost of sales of our construction business was attributable to purchases from our five largest suppliers which are all state-owned enterprises.

BUSINESS

All of the above five largest suppliers are independent third parties. None of the Directors or Supervisors, their respective associates or any shareholders of our Company holding more than 5% of our issued capital, to the knowledge of our Directors, held any interest in any of the above five largest suppliers as of the Latest Practicable Date.

Marketing and Customer Relationships

Our largest customers of our domestic construction operations are primarily business entities, such as project companies, set up and managed by central and local governments. The largest customers of our overseas construction operations are primarily governmental and semi-official entities.

Infrastructure projects usually adopt the open bidding process, inviting the participation of qualified construction companies. After obtaining the relevant information for projects and conducting the evaluation process, our Company and our subsidiaries will, either separately or collaboratively through consortiums or our joint ventures, participate in the bidding.

With our integrated capacity and reputation, we maintain close relationships with our customers. We work closely with professional institutions and consulting companies to obtain significant project information and potential business opportunities. We also designate specific personnel to observe public bidding announcements of significant construction projects.

For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, approximately 1.6%, 2.7%, 3.0%, and 3.6%, respectively, of our revenue from our construction business was generated from sales made to our largest customer for our construction business. Our five largest customers for our Company are all state-owned enterprises and are also our five largest customers for our construction business. For the same periods, approximately 4.6%, 7.5%, 10.2%, and 12.8%, respectively, of our revenue from our construction business was generated from sales made to our five largest customers for our construction business.

All of our five largest customers are independent third parties. None of the Directors or Supervisors, their respective associates or any shareholders of our Company holding more than 5% of our issued capital, to the knowledge of our Directors, held any interest in any of the above five largest customers as of the Latest Practicable Date.

Industry Trend and Our Competitive Position

Our own strengths, as well as market factors, have an impact on the opportunities for us to undertake major infrastructure construction projects. Our strengths include our industry experience qualifications, capital, financing resources, level of technology and technical expertise, equipment, quality of manpower and brand name. Market factors include government policies, regulatory environments, economic development and price levels. We believe that, by leveraging our strong capacity, advanced equipment and technologies, as well as our outstanding management, design and construction team, we are well-positioned to compete in the domestic market and certain overseas markets.

Domestic Market

The PRC construction industry, except railway construction, is generally fragmented. Industry participants primarily include state-owned enterprises, international construction companies and a small number of private enterprises. The industry is currently experiencing a trend towards consolidation whereby smaller enterprises are acquired by larger companies. We believe that the trend will eventually lead to participation by only a small number of large construction enterprise groups in large-scale infrastructure constructions projects, and we believe we will be one of the primary participants for such projects. Meanwhile, certain foreign construction companies have expanded their businesses in China through joint ventures or foreign investments. However, due to regulations restricting the participation of foreign construction companies, competition posed by international market participants is not yet significant. We believe that our Company is in a favorable competitive position.

Our primary competitors in the domestic market include large construction enterprises with whom we share similarities in terms of capital resources, technological abilities, employee qualifications and brand names, such as China State Construction Engineering Corporation, China Railway Engineering Corporation and China Communications Construction Company Limited.

The business model of the construction industry has evolved from the construction contracting model to the project management contracting and EPC models, and the tendency towards splitting major construction projects into distinct phases to be worked on by different contractors has noticeably decreased. A single contractor may now be required to undertake all of the design and construction work up until the delivery or transfer of the project. Given the trend away from segmenting the work on construction projects and the preference to hire fewer contractors to perform larger portions of the work on major construction projects, competition among construction companies will continue to intensify. The competition among market participants in China is increasingly focusing on professionals and construction technology employed by construction enterprises as well as the capacity to provide clients with comprehensive services, including survey, design and consultancy.

With the rapid development of China's economy and accelerated urbanization, we believe there will be an increasing demand for infrastructure construction, particularly of railways and highways. Relying on the advantages we have in terms of business scale, technology and experience, and in particular our ability to operate extra large and complicated projects, we believe that we will be able to maintain our current leading position in China's construction market and achieve sustainable development.

Overseas Market

In 2006, our turnover from our overseas construction business and new contract value increased by 62.2% and 237.9%, respectively, from 2005. PRC companies are now invited to participate in construction projects in more foreign countries and territories than in the past. As a result of the PRC Government's "going out" strategy encouraging domestic Chinese contractors to take part in overseas construction projects, an increasing number of PRC construction companies with whom we share similar levels of technical expertise and construction experiences are entering into the international construction market. Consequently, we face intense competition not only from foreign but also from large Chinese construction contractors when contending for the leading position in overseas markets.

Currently, large-scale contractors in Europe, the U.S. and Japan may have an advantage with respect to technologies, patents, financing resources and management expertise. The capacity to deliver comprehensive construction services, including survey, design and consultancy services to customers and the ability to implement modern management for maximum profit is vital to remain competitive in the international construction markets. We will continue to improve our competitive edge through our attractive labor costs and prices and our ability to provide large track maintenance machinery and advanced technologies. With the increase in division of expertise and project responsibilities promoting cooperation among companies in the construction sector, we intend to compete with other competitors by continuing our collaboration with foreign companies possessing stronger management expertise or by forming consortiums with local contractors in foreign countries.

The construction industry is becoming increasingly highly regulated following certain administrative measures progressively promulgated by the PRC Government. In addition, the PRC Government is encouraging PRC companies to undertake overseas contracting projects and has recently committed to contributing more to the infrastructure development in Africa. We believe these policies will further improve and increase overseas opportunities for Chinese contractors. These measures have enhanced the competitive strength of overseas Chinese contractors, including our Company. Under such policies and with our continued development and strengths, we believe we can strengthen our position and increase our market share in the international arena.

SURVEY, DESIGN AND CONSULTANCY OPERATIONS

Overview

Survey, design and consultancy operations are one of our main businesses. As of 30 November 2007, we owned four Grade A1 (甲一級) railway construction design and research institutes out of only seven in China, namely, the China Railway First Survey and Design Institute, China Railway Fourth Survey and Design Institute, China Railway Fifth Survey and Design Institute and China Railway Shanghai Design Institute Group Co., Ltd. Our operations include the provision of survey, design and consultancy services for civil engineering and transportation infrastructure projects, including the construction of railways, bridges, tunnels, metropolitan railways, highways, municipal works, industrial and civil buildings, airports and ports. We provide services for the management, research and development of new technology and new equipment. In recent years, we have also increased our services for electrical power supply and telecommunications networks. These services are provided throughout China as well as to a number of foreign countries and regions. As of 30 November 2007, we held 61 government-issued certificates for construction surveying, design and consultancy, engineering surveying, geological hazards prevention evaluation, designing supported by intelligent design software, and environmental impact assessment and surveying, and have assisted the MOR in setting over 40 industry standards relating to railway design, quality inspection and other project-specific standards currently in effect in China through our railway survey and design institutes. We possess comprehensive technologies for the survey and design of railways, including those situated on high plateaus and in mountainous regions, permafrost zones and deserts, as well as sophisticated technologies for electrified railway lines, passenger railway lines, underwater construction, long tunnels, wireless train dispatching and scheduling systems and large interchange traffic construction. Our survey and design technologies are among the most advanced in China and are considered advanced by international standards.

Our survey, design and consultancy business and our construction business are closely connected, especially in the railway construction sector, where most of the major customers of the survey, design and consultancy operations are also major customers of our construction operations. We will continue to integrate these two businesses in order to more efficiently allocate resources in our construction projects, improve our control over the progress and quality of projects, increase our profit margin through increased productivity and lower project costs. Through our research institutes, we assisted the MOR in setting many of the existing railway industry standards in China. As of 30 November 2007, we have provided survey and design services to 117 key projects at the national or provincial levels.

Revenue generated by our survey, design and consultancy operations before inter-segment elimination in the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007 was RMB2,345.6 million, RMB2,909.3 million, RMB3,348.5 million, RMB2,995.8 million and RMB2,748.7 million, respectively, representing 2.7%, 2.6%, 2.2%, 2.2% and 1.9%, respectively, of our total revenue before elimination of inter-segment sales during those years.

The following table sets forth the sales revenue, percentage of total sales revenue and percentage and new contract value, represented by our survey, design and consultancy operations in the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007:

Railway Survey, Design and Consultancy Business

Over 80% of the total revenue from our survey, design and consultancy business is derived from railway construction projects. As of the Latest Practicable Date, we occupied over 50% of the market share for survey, design and consultancy services for railway construction projects in China. As of 30 November 2007, our design institutes have accomplished 117 key construction projects at the national or provincial levels. We have been responsible for the survey, design and consultancy of approximately 45,569 km of railway lines, accounting for a large portion of the total domestic railway construction projects since 1949. The landmark projects we have completed include:

- all of Phase I and Phase II of the Qinghai-Tibet Railway Line, the highest plateau railway in the world;
- the Beijing-Kowloon Railway Line, which has received the largest amount of investment at the time for any railway project in China and is China's largest and longest railway line constructed in a single phase;
- the Zhengzhou Hub, the largest railway hub in Asia;
- the Dayaoshan Railway Tunnel, the longest electrified twin-track railway tunnel in China; and
- the Guangzhou-Shenzhen Quasi High-Speed Railway Line, the first quasi high-speed railway in China.

As of the Latest Practicable Date, we had provided survey and design services for approximately 70% of the existing passenger railways in China with speeds of over 300 km/h, including the Wuhan-Guangzhou Railway Line, currently the longest passenger railway line in China. We provide survey and design services for 12 of the 17 passenger railways currently under construction in China, which have an aggregate length of 3,448.1 km and comprise 63.3% of the total length of the 17 railway lines. Of these 17 passenger railways, we were given sole responsibility for the design of seven.

We have been analyzing both domestic and international railway construction markets in depth, and have devoted significant resources to the research of railway repairs in times of war or military conflict, the design and construction of railways on plateaus and in areas prone to sandstorms, soft soil railway construction, large-scale mountain railway tunnel construction, the design and construction of cross-river and cross-sea railway bridges or underwater tunnels, subway construction, bridge design and construction, non-ballast tracks, and "four-electrification" equipped projects for passenger railways. We have also developed industry-leading

Other Survey, Design and Consultancy Business

In addition to the railway sector, in recent years, we have also engaged in activities such as the design of highways, bridges, tunnels, municipal projects and metropolitan railways. In addition, we have conducted technology research and development in 13 municipalities and cities, such as Beijing, Shanghai, Xi'an, Shenzhen, Nanjing, Guangzhou, Harbin, Chengdu and Chongqing, to design subway systems and structural technologies, design and construct large-scale structures and railway stations, and to conduct survey and inspections. We were awarded the copper medal for the National Excellent Project Design in 2000 for our design services relating to the construction of the highway serving the Three-Gorges Hydropower Station on the Yangtze River. We were also awarded silver medals for the National Excellent Project Survey in the years 1996 and 2000 for the provision of survey services for the Tianjin New Harbor and 108 National Freeway construction projects, respectively.

The following table sets forth a select list of landmark projects undertaken by us in our other survey, design and consultancy business in recent years:

Qualifications

As of the Latest Practicable Date, we held 61 government-issued certificates which is evidence of our qualifications for construction surveying, construction design, construction assessment, design and consultancy, engineering surveying, geological hazards prevention evaluation, designing supported by intelligent design software, and environmental impact assessment and surveying. We make strong efforts, with respect to quality control, environmental protection and safety to ensure our compliance with the requirements for the certificates we hold and continue our research and development of technology to maintain our certificates and relevant qualifications. Our Directors believe that, to their knowledge, there are no impediments for us to maintain or renew our certificates and qualification. In addition, the China Railway First Survey and Design Institute and the China Railway Fourth Survey and Design Institute are fellow members of the International Federation of Consulting Engineers, or FIDIC.

Awards

We possess comprehensive technologies for the survey and design of railways, including those situated on high plateaus and in mountainous regions, permafrost zones and deserts, as well as sophisticated technologies for electrified railway lines, passenger railway lines, underwater construction, long tunnels, wireless train dispatching and scheduling systems and large interchange traffic construction. Our survey and design technologies are among the most advanced in China and are considered advanced by international standards. Since 1982 to date, we have received 60 national "Four Excellence" Design Awards and 373 provincial "Four Excellence" Design Awards, including:

- "The First Prize of National Science and Technology Progress" in 2004, "Gold Prize for National Geological Survey" in 2005 and "Gold Prize for National Excellent Projects" in 2006 for our design work on the Qinling Tunnel of Xi'an-Ankang Railway Line;
- "Special Prize for the Advancement of Science and Technology of China" in 1992 for the Dayaoshan railway tunnel;
- "Special Prize for the Advancement of Science and Technology of China" in 1987 for sand-controlling construction of the Baotou-Lanzhou Railway project;
- "Gold Prize for National Design Excellence" in 1993, the highest award for national design excellence, received for the Xuzhou Interchange Terminal Extension and related constructions;
- "Gold Prize for National Design Excellence" in 1999 for general design work for the Beijing-Jiulong Railway Line; and
- "Gold Prize for National Design Excellence" in 2000 for design work for the Guangzhou-Shenzhen Quasi High-Speed Railway Line.

The awards we received are generally reviewed and granted annually or every two years. The awards granted to us also support our well-established brand name.

Technology, Research and Development

As of 30 November 2007, we had one academic from the Chinese Academy of Engineering and 2,116 senior survey and design engineers, all of whom possess strong design, research and development capabilities and the capacity to conduct research and development of new construction technologies and equipment according to the needs of our customers.

The core competencies of our primary research institute are as follows:

- China Railway First Survey and Design Institute: design of large-scale mountain railway tunnels, as well as plateau and desert railways;
- China Railway Fourth Survey and Design Institute: design of railways on soft soils and other special terrains, as well as the design of cross-river and cross-sea tunnels and special bridges. It has recently been exploring the provision of design and consultancy services for the construction of highways, metropolitan railways, inter-city passenger lines and municipal projects;
- China Railway Shanghai Design Institute Group Co., Ltd.: design of metropolitan railways;
- China Railway Fifth Survey and Design Institute: research, development and production of equipment, construction machinery, tools and related technologies for railway and metropolitan railway construction projects and the research and development of other mobile machinery for bridge construction; and

- Beijing China Railway Construction Electrification Design and Research Institute: research and design of electrification of mainline railway, power system of metropolitan railway and the high and low voltage power distribution lines and transformer and distribution stations and related technologies.

We believe that our design teams' constant technological improvements and innovative activities in various projects will enable us to integrate our survey, design and consultancy operations with our other business operations, thereby allowing us to provide our customers with optimized services.

Customers

Major customers of our survey, design and consultancy operations include government agencies and business entities set up and managed by central and local governments, such as construction project companies. We generally grant our customers with good payment histories a credit period ranging from one month to three months with respect to our survey, design and consultancy services. We usually require the settlement of accounts for small, new or short-term customers within one month after the provision of our services in addition to the milestone payment they are required to pay.

Industry Trend and Competition

We are highly competitive in the survey, design and consultancy industry and we own five first-tier construction design and research institutes in China. In 2007, we were ranked 69th out of the Top Global Design Firms in terms of revenue for design services performed during 2006. In 2006, China Railway First Survey and Design Institute was ranked the first among Chinese construction survey, design and consultancy enterprises in terms of project management and operation revenue in an evaluation jointly organized by China Exploration and Design Association and China National Consulting Association. In 2005, the China Railway Fourth Survey and Design Institute alone was ranked tenth in an evaluation organized by the Ministry of Construction of the top 100 survey and design companies in China in terms of revenue. In addition, China Railway First Survey and Design Institute and the China Railway Fourth Survey and Design Institute are fellow members of the International Federation of Consulting Engineers, or FIDIC, and were listed among the Top One Hundred Chinese Survey and Design Enterprises for eight consecutive years.

Notwithstanding, our Company actively competes with various other integrated construction companies in the survey, design and consultancy business in the domestic market, such as other companies that own survey and design institutes and several design institutes at the provincial level. However, because of the high entry-barrier to the railway survey, design and consultancy business, the competition is currently limited to two dominant enterprises, including our Company, and this situation has remained unchanged for the past few years. We will rely on our strong capacities to maintain our leading position and a continued growth in this market.

We believe that there is an industry trend towards the coordination between our survey, design and consultancy business and our construction business, which will result in more comprehensive and integrated services. We will utilize the expertise and resources within our various businesses to improve our research and development capabilities and upgrade our proprietary technologies by leveraging our extensive experience and market-leading technologies, thereby maximizing our profit.

MANUFACTURING OPERATIONS

Overview

We are the largest manufacturer of large track maintenance machinery in China and Asia, occupying more than 80% of the domestic market share for large track maintenance machinery. We are also the second largest manufacturer of large track maintenance machinery in the world in terms of annual production volume, after Plasser & Theurer Company, Austria, or P&T Austria. Our large track maintenance machineries are modern facilities essential to the operation and maintenance of China's railway network. We design, research, develop, manufacture and maintain large track maintenance machinery, as well as maintenance and construction components through our two subsidiaries, namely Kunming Zhong-Tie, and CRRS.

Kunming Zhong-Tie was established in 1954. In 1989, the MOR issued guidelines providing that China should rely on both domestic and foreign technologies to develop large track maintenance machinery, emphasizing, however, the role of domestic technology. Over the years, we have established ourselves in China's large railway maintenance machinery industry through Kunming Zhong-Tie. Currently, we produce large, medium and small equipment and supplementary equipment including ballast cleaning and tamping machinery. All of our machinery has been developed through technology transfer, joint-development and independent development.

CRRS, a newly-established technology-intensive company, focuses on the manufacture of railway switches and rail fasteners for high-speed railways and is expected to commence production in February 2008. As of the Latest Practicable Date, CRRS was appointed by the MOR as one of only two designated manufacturers of high-speed railway switches and has obtained a new contract from the MOR for its railway switches with a contract value of RMB760.0 million at the end of 2007. We expect that the manufacture of high-speed railway track components will become a substantial part of our manufacturing operations.

In the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, revenue generated from our manufacturing operations before inter-segment elimination was approximately RMB1,362.5 million, RMB1,388.3 million, RMB1,355.2 million, RMB1,237.4 million and RMB1,633.8 million, respectively, representing 1.6%, 1.2%, 0.9%, 0.9% and 1.1%, respectively, of our total revenue before inter-segment elimination.

Products

As of 30 November 2007, we had manufactured 603 pieces of large and medium track maintenance machinery and equipment, of which 587 consisted of four main machine types: ballast cleaning machines, tamping machines, stabilizing machines and ballast distributing machines. Our large track maintenance machineries, used by 18 railway bureaus for 17 large railway sections in China, represent more than 80% of the large track maintenance machineries currently in service.

We independently develop and manufacture the following types of large track maintenance machinery: tamping machines, continuous tamping machines, track switch tamping machines, full section track bed ballast processors, switch grinding machines, dynamic stabilizers, ballast distributing and trimming machines, turnout laying and changing machines and bulk material automatic loading machines. We developed our WD-320 Dynamic Track Stabilizer and our SRJ-21 Automatic Ballast Distributing and Regulating Machine, which meet international standards of quality, by incorporating foreign technology. We also developed some maintenance machinery products for passenger railways, including track grinder cars and railway shunting equipment.

BUSINESS

Our six main large track maintenance machineries are the SRM80 Ballast Cleaning Machine, the CD08-475 Switch Tamping Machine, the D09-32 Continuous Tamping Machine, the D08-32 Duomatic Track Lifting, Lining, Leveling, and Tamping Machine, the WD320 Dynamic Track Stabilizer and the SPZ-200 Ballast Regulating Machine. The following table presents the manufacturing capacity, production volumes and sales volumes for the foregoing large maintenance machineries for the periods indicated:

2006	80	85	86
30 November 2007	111	111	123

(1) Manufacturing capacity is calculated using the D08-32 Automatic Track Lifting, Lining, Leveling, and Tamping Machine standard as it is one of our major products and is the product with the highest volume.

We recently established CRRS to produce components for high-speed railways, such as high-speed railway switches, rail fasteners, high-speed railway box girder concrete structures and steel structure products. We expect that the manufacturing facilities of CRRS in Zhuzhou will commence its commercial production by February 2008.

Manufacturing Facilities

The following table shows the location, area and main products of our major manufacturing facilities as of the Latest Practicable Date:

Name	Location	Area (m ²)	Major products
Kunming Zhong-Tie	Kunming City, Yunnan Province, China	54,806	Tamping machines, continuous tamping machines, track switch tamping machines, full section track bed ballast processors, switch grinding machine, dynamic stabilizers, ballast distributing and trimming machines, turnout laying and changing machines and bulk material automatic loading machines
CRRS	Zhuzhou City, Hunan Province, China	114,000	Track system products, cement structuring components, steel structuring products and machinery

Raw Materials and Energy Suppliers

We purchase raw materials for our manufacturing operations through a purchase plan using the bidding method. The primary raw materials we purchase include steel, cement, electro-mechanical equipment and non-ferrous metals. Electricity, the main source of energy used in our manufacturing operations, is primarily purchased from local power grids where our facilities are located.

Technology, Research and Development

We are the leader in the research and development as well as the production of large track maintenance machinery in China. We import machinery manufacturing technology from our foreign partners and conduct further research and development activities on such technology to meet domestic production requirements for large track maintenance machinery, thereby improving our own research and development capabilities.

BUSINESS

Since 1988, Kunming Zhong-Tie has introduced three technologies from P&T Austria used in the production of large track maintenance machinery. We have also successfully developed our own products to meet the specific needs of the domestic market by research and modification of these imported technologies. We were able to assist the PRC Government in increasing the maximum train speeds of the domestic railway system on numerous occasions. With over 20 new products developed by us through this process of integration and innovation, we have successfully established a completed product line of large track maintenance machinery.

We have received awards for a number of achievements attributable to our research and development team, including:

- The Serial Equipment and Technologies of Railway Large Maintenance Machinery and Their Utilization developed by Kunming Zhong-Tie won the second National Science and Technology Award in 2006;
- D09-32 Continuous Tamping Machine won the first Kunming City Advanced Science and Technology Award in 2004; and
- CD08-475 Switch Tamping Machine won the second Kunming City Advanced Science and Technology Award in 2005.

As a result of our research and development efforts, we have won seven National Advanced Science and Technology Awards and National New Product Awards, as well as eight MOR and Yunnan Advanced Science and Technology Awards. We have obtained 16 patents for technology inventions and design. In addition, we have 20 pending patents. We also own copyrights for five pieces of software.

Kunming Zhong-Tie has been named High and New Technology Enterprise of Yunnan Province, Outstanding Enterprise in Employees' Economic Technology Innovation in Yunnan Province, Advanced Enterprise for Quality and Efficiency in Yunnan Province, and Top 30 Well-known Brands in Yunnan Province, because of its accomplishments.

Sales and Marketing; Customers

We receive purchase orders for large track maintenance machinery primarily through the government channel and private channels. The government channel involves the assignment of purchase orders to us by the MOR through the bidding process, following an annual/periodic review of state-owned railway operators' demands. Purchase orders received through the government channel depend largely on prevailing government policies. However, the order is relatively stable once it is placed. Purchase orders from the government channel generated approximately 80% of our total revenue from our manufacturing operations during the Track Record Period. Private channels involve purchase orders made directly to us by state-owned railway operators, construction companies and mining companies. Purchase orders from private channels are based on the customers' demands. Competition for orders through private channels is more intense. We acquire such orders by way of price comparing and bidding. Purchase orders made through the private channels accounted for approximately 20% of our total revenue from our manufacturing operations during the Track Record Period.

Major customers of our manufacturing operations include large enterprises, such as state-owned railway operators, construction companies, private railway companies, local railway companies, subway companies and mining companies with railway facilities. We have also been actively exploring the international market in recent years.

We usually grant credit terms of three to six months to customers of our manufacturing operations.

BUSINESS

As of the Latest Practicable Date, none of our Directors or shareholders holding more than 5% of our shares or their associates was related to or held any interest in any of these customers.

Industry Trends and Competition

We expect that the PRC Government will continue to implement policies favorable to domestic production of large track maintenance machinery. We therefore believe we will be able to maintain our leading position in the large track maintenance machinery industry. Although most of our domestic competitors are currently smaller than us in terms of business scale, we cannot assure you that the PRC Government will not support or sponsor the development and expansion of any of our competitors, thereby intensifying competition in the market.

Kunming Zhong-Tie is currently the largest large track maintenance machinery manufacturer in China and possesses the largest capacities for the manufacturing, research and development of large track maintenance machinery. The other two manufacturers in China are Xiangfan Gold Eagle Vehicle and Machinery Co., Ltd. and Xingping Maintenance Machinery Factory. As of 30 November 2007, Kunming Zhong-Tie had manufactured 603 pieces of large and medium maintenance machinery and equipment, occupying more than 80% of the total market share in China.

We believe that the outlook for the large track maintenance machinery market is promising particularly with the continuous development of China's railway network and the rising demand for increased train speeds on China's railway lines. Despite intense market competition, Kunming Zhong-Tie has notable advantages in terms of production volumes, quality, comprehensive performance-price ratio, technical capacity, brand name and industry reputation. Over the next three years, we expect to maintain or increase our share of the large track maintenance machinery market.

As a result of the expertise and large capital required for large track maintenance machinery manufacturing, the entry barrier for this market remains high. The main competitive factors in the industry include technologies, research and development, product quality, manufacturing capacity, price and after-sales services. As such, we believe that we are well-positioned to compete in both domestic and international markets.

OTHER BUSINESSES AND CAPITAL INVESTMENTS

Our Other Businesses

In addition to our main businesses, we are engaged in a variety of other businesses, mainly including real estate development and logistics services, by leveraging our established businesses.

The following table sets forth revenue before inter-segment elimination derived from these businesses and the percentage of our total revenue before inter-segment elimination for the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007:

BUSINESS

Real Estate Development

Our real estate development business was previously conducted on a sporadic basis by affiliated construction group companies. Recently, due to the impact of certain macroeconomic controls and more stringent policies in respect of land and financial credit, the entry barrier for the real estate industry has been raised significantly. The real estate industry in China has continued to grow. In 2006, average real estate prices in China's largest 70 cities increased by 5.5% on average, creating new opportunities for companies such as ours. The integration of different industries has given us unique insight into real estate development opportunities. In addition, we have obtained the approval of the SASAC to engage in real estate development as a significant business. On 20 April 2007, we established China Railway Real Estate Group Co., Ltd., our subsidiary, to focus on the development of residential buildings as a main business as well as the development of commercial properties, such as shopping malls and office buildings, as ancillary businesses. We principally carry out real estate development in economically developed cities with a focus on municipalities, such as Beijing, and provincial capitals. In addition, through China Railway Real Estate Group Co., Ltd., we successfully established the brand "Zhong Tie Di Chan" ("中鐵地產"), which was ranked one of the Top 10 real estate brands in Beijing in terms of influence.

We plan to consolidate our resources and increase our capital and land reserves through various means to promote our real estate development business, along with our construction business. As of 31 December 2007, we had 21 on-going real estate development projects. These projects occupy an aggregate site area of approximately 2.3 million m² and have an expected GFA of approximately 5.4 million m². These projects have an unsold GFA of approximately 4.9 million m². The table below sets forth details of these projects:

- ▶ C-Park International Apartment (西派國際公寓): Located in the Western District of Beijing, this project has an aggregate site area of approximately 24,533 m² and an expected GFA of approximately 138,600 m². Construction of this project commenced in October 2006 and is expected to be completed in 2009. This project has approximately RMB0.86 billion in estimated total development cost excluding the RMB0.54 billion in land costs. As of 30 November 2007, we had completed approximately 50% of the construction of this project.

As of 31 December 2007, we had been awarded approximately 107,000 m², 235,000 m² and 180,000 m² of land through bidding in Fangshan of Beijing, Changchun and Chengdu, respectively. However, as of the Latest Practical Date, the land transaction agreements for these three properties had not been signed yet. We also hold a 49% minority interest in Shandong Qingdao Feng Huang Cheng (山東青島鳳凰城) which has an expected GFA of approximately 10,000 m² and a 40% minority interest in Hubei Ezhou Kai Xuan Cheng (湖北鄂州凱旋城) which has an expected GFA of approximately 25,000 m².

The operational process of our real estate development business is summarized as below:

- ▶ Site selection;
- ▶ Land acquisition;
- ▶ Financing property development and land premium;
- ▶ Project planning and design work;
- ▶ Construction work, including tendering and procurement of raw materials;
- ▶ Fitting and decoration work;
- ▶ Inspection and quality control;
- ▶ Pre-sale, including applications for requisite regulatory permit to sell properties and reparation work;
- ▶ Marketing and sales;
- ▶ Payment arrangement; and
- ▶ After-sale customer service.

The sales and marketing function for our real estate development operations are delegated to our individual subsidiaries or affiliated project companies, which either have dedicated internal sales teams or retain external professional marketing and sales service providers.

According to the relevant PRC laws and regulations, real estate developers must obtain qualifications in order to carry out real estate development businesses in the PRC. As of the Latest Practicable Date, we and our affiliated construction group companies possessed valid qualifications and were competent to conduct real estate development operations. We maintain such qualifications through continuing compliance to relevant regulatory requirements or timely renewal for such qualifications. According to Beijing Deheng Law Office, our PRC legal adviser, we were in compliance, in all material respects, with the relevant laws and regulations applicable to our real estate development operations, including the pre-sale of properties in the PRC, as of the Latest Practicable Date.

BUSINESS

Logistics

Our logistics business is mainly operated by China Railway Goods and Materials Co., Ltd., or CRGMG, a subsidiary of our Company specializing in logistics operations. CRGMG has recently achieved rapid development in its logistics operations and has accumulated extensive experience in this area. In 2006, it ranked as the largest railway construction logistic service provider in China and the second largest railway materials supplier in the world. It has also been ranked 20th among the 50 most competitive logistic enterprises in China in 2006. The logistics centers of our Company are found in seven regions, including northeastern China, northwestern China, eastern China, southwestern China, mid-western China and northern China. We have 31 storage bases in 25 nationwide logistic hubs with the total storage area of approximately 1,330,000 m² and eight exclusive railways with a total length over 40 km for our logistics operations. In recent years, we have obtained operational qualifications for various key materials, enabling us to develop multiple logistics hubs.

We also engage in the trading of construction materials, enabling us to strengthen our ability to purchase and supply key materials. We have established strategic relationships with China National Petroleum Corporation, China Petroleum and Chemical Corporation and several major steel companies in China, and expanded the geographical coverage of our operations. We have well-developed our logistic business of railway construction materials, especially through rapid increase of our passenger railway materials logistic business. The sales volume of our steel rail business exceeded 300,000 tonnes in both 2005 and 2006, accounting for over 20% of the domestic steel rail market. We have been certified by the relevant PRC government authorities to wholesale oil products within our Company, thereby enabling us to reduce our overall purchasing costs for oil products.

We believe that, in addition to being an independent business, our logistics operations provide us with the ability to lower our purchase costs of materials utilized in the construction business, thereby further enhancing our profitability and competitiveness.

Capital Investment Operations

We invest in certain of our construction projects by way of BT, BOT and BOO. Build-Operate-Transfer, or BOT, is a mode in which government or local authorities grant the rights to us by concession agreement to undertake the financing, construction, operation and maintenance of a construction project. Upon expiry of the concession period, the relevant facilities will be transferred back to the contracted government authority without consideration. Build-Transfer, or BT, is a variant of BOT in which we undertake the financing of construction expenditures and transfer the project back to our customer upon completion and inspection for acceptance. Our customer will compensate us for such construction expenditure and financing costs in installments pursuant to agreement. Build-Own-Operate, or BOO, is a mode of business in which we build and operate a property project pursuant to the concession rights granted by the government. Such an infrastructure project will not be transferred back to the public sector.

We believe that infrastructure construction projects completed on a BT, BOT, BOO and PPP basis will be increasingly common in China and become an important element in the continued development of China's infrastructure industry. BT, BOO or BOT projects are usually implemented according to customers' requests and the contractors are required to provide financing, fully or partially, for the projects. BT and BOT projects generally provide better returns because of the contractor's increased ability to control project costs. BOT projects also offer the possibility of attractive returns on investment and stable cash flows to the contractor.

BUSINESS

We intend to expand our capital investment operations, increase our involvement in BT, BOO, BOT or PPP projects and increase our relevant operating capacities.

As of 30 November 2007, we had operated and implemented twelve BT projects, including the East Line of the Nanjing Express Inner Circle, the Chongqing Yudong Yangtze River Bridge and the Guangxi Guilin Suqiao Garden, three BOT projects, including the northeast section of the Highway Circle of Harbin, the Jiyang Yellow River Highway Bridge and Shannan Railway Special Line in Hubei Province and three BOO projects, including Huhhot — Zhungeer Railway line and the Sichuan Naxu Local Railway Line. We account the revenue from BT and BOT projects during the Track Record Period as part of our revenues for the construction operations. In addition, toll revenue but not construction revenue was generated from BOO projects during the Track Record Period. See “Financial Information — Management’s discussion and analysis of financial condition and results of operations — Description of selected components of results of operations”. Due to commercial considerations, in August 2007, we entered into a disposal agreement with a third party for the disposal of our entire shareholding of 35% in Huhhot-Zhungeer Railways, in which we invested on 26 February 2003 as a promoter. Our total cost of investment made to Huhhot-Zhungeer Railways as at 30 November 2007 was RMB210 million. The other shareholders of Huhhot-Zhungeer Railways were Ordos State-owned Assets Investment Operation Company Limited, a state-owned enterprise, Inner Mongolia Yitai Coal Company Limited, a private enterprise and Huhhot Railway Bureau, a state-owned enterprise. As of 30 November 2007, the construction of the entire project has been completed. The consideration for the disposal is based on 35% of the net assets of Huzhun Railways as determined from an independent valuation. The independent valuation is still in progress and hence the consideration for the disposal has not been finalized.

BACKLOG

Backlog represents our estimate of the contract value of work that remains to be completed as of a certain date. The contract value of a project represents the amount that we expect to receive under the terms of the contract assuming the contract is performed in accordance with its terms. Backlog is not a measure defined by generally accepted accounting principles.

Backlog may not be indicative of our future operating results. Our revenue amounts do not include backlog for a variety of reasons, including the fact that some projects begin and end within a short-term period. Many contracts do not require our customers to purchase a minimum amount of services and are subject to termination by the customer on short notice. The contract value of such projects may be recorded in our backlog, and the scope of work with respect to contracts reflected in our backlog may at times be adjusted. In addition, poor project selection or difficulties in contract performance may lead to inaccuracies with respect to the estimated income from uncompleted contracts. Furthermore, the termination or modification of any one or more sizeable contracts or the addition of other contracts may have a substantial and immediate effect on the dollar amount to our backlog and the revenue and profits we may earn from such contracts, and may have a material adverse effect on our financial condition and profitability. As a result, our backlog information presented in this Prospectus should not be relied on as the indicator of our future earnings. However, during the Track Record Period, we did not experience any incidents relating to our backlog that had a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations. See "Risk Factors — Risks relating to our business operations — Projected revenue amounts reported in our backlog may decline and may not result in actual revenue or translate into profits".

The following table sets out the aggregate value of projects in our backlog of our construction operations, survey, design and consultancy operations and manufacturing operations for the periods indicated:

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

We place significant importance on the development of our research and development capabilities. In addition to our professional research and development institutes, such as our affiliate design institutes or companies, our headquarters has technology research centers and our construction group companies have technology centers for research and development work. Our Company has also established the relevant rules and guidelines to regulate our technology research centers, technology research investments, technology research projects, and technology research results evaluation and rewarding system. As of 30 November 2007, we had over 86,000 technical personnel of junior, mid- or senior levels, including one academic from the Chinese Academy Engineering, five state-level design masters, 21 experts with outstanding contributions at the provincial and ministerial level, 188 experts receiving special subsidies from the State Council, 217 professor-level senior engineers, 6,375 senior engineers and 16,207 engineers.

As of 30 November 2007, we had undertaken 404 research projects sponsored by government agencies at the provincial and ministerial levels. We were awarded 48 National Technology Advancement Awards, 60 National "Four Excellence" Design Awards, 325 Provincial Technology Advancement Awards, 373 Provincial-level Survey and Design "Four Excellence" Design Awards, 18 Zhan Tianyou Awards, 87 patents, 67 National Construction Methods, and 351 Provincial Construction Methods.

In the next five years, our Company will focus on developing and innovating new technologies for passenger railways, plateau railways, bridge construction, tunnels, underground construction, and non-ballast railways. We will also optimize our investment, evaluation, incentive, training, and performance review systems and cultivate the innovative skills of our managerial, research and development, and technical personnel.

We are currently devoting our efforts to the research and development projects which we anticipate will make significant progress in 2010, such as the development of comprehensive technologies for passenger railways, underwater tunnels, loess area construction systems, non-ballasted construction facilities, research and production of large railway switches and railway maintenance equipment manufactured in China.

Our total expenditure on research and development for the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007 amounted to RMB39.0 million, RMB27.9 million, RMB99.6 million, RMB88.4 million and RMB84.9 million, respectively, representing 0.05%, 0.03%, 0.06%, 0.06% and 0.06% of our total revenue, respectively.

QUALITY CONTROL AND MANAGEMENT

We have implemented a quality management system pursuant to the ISO9001:2000 standard and have stipulated and implemented a quality control system by establishing 71 procedural management systems for sales, production, after-sales services, inspection, resource management, including the management of the invitation and submission of bids, contract management, materials procurement management, and production plan management.

Our “Provisional Measures for the Administration of Construction Projects” sets out detailed regulations with respect to the quality management system for construction projects, responsibilities of personnel of different levels, control measures, examination standards and procedures, performance reviews, management qualifications for subcontracting projects, accident reporting and management, reward and punishment measures and other measures. We require the establishment of a qualified supervision and management division for each project management department, as well as the establishment of a “Project Quality Management Leading Group”, consisting of a project manager, technology director and various department leaders from the relevant departments. Quality control measures are implemented at each stage. For each project, we set preliminary quality standards, stipulate project qualification plans, and define quality control measures for the project’s preparatory stage prior to construction, for the construction stage itself, and for the completion and examination stage following completion of construction. The project manager is fully responsible for the quality management of the project.

Our subsidiary, China Railway Construction Group Co., Ltd., was awarded the National Quality Control Award in 2005 for its quality control and management system. China Railway 12th Bureau Group Co., Ltd., also our subsidiary, was awarded the first prize of the 10th Modernizing Enterprise Management and Achievements of the Chinese Construction Industry Award in 2003 and the second prize of the 7th Modernizing Enterprise Management and Innovating Achievements of the Chinese Enterprise Award, also in 2003. On 29 April 2006, we published and implemented our management system regulations. On 7 July 2006, we were accredited with the ISO9001:2000 quality management system and obtained a certificate for our new quality management system. In addition to construction contracting and general contracting, the scope of this certification has been expanded to include general road construction, management of general contracting for construction designs, capital investment operations, management on behalf of owners and performance of responsibilities as investor on behalf of affiliated enterprises of the SASAC. The extensive scope of this certification is unprecedented. Currently, 18 subsidiaries and four design institutes of our Company have obtained certificates for their respective quality management systems.

OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH, SAFETY AND ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION

Our operations generate air pollution, noise, hazardous material, polluted water and solid wastes, and we are subject to the relevant rules and regulations on occupational health, safety and environmental protection such as the Safe Production Law of the People’s Republic of China, the Regulations for the Reporting and Handling of Injuries and Fatal Accidents of Enterprise Employees, the Regulations for the Administration of Production Safety in Construction Projects, the Regulations on Production Safety Permits, and the Law of the People’s Republic of China Concerning Environmental Protection, the Law of the People’s Republic of China for Prevention and Control of Environmental Noise Pollution, the PRC Measures for Administration of Environmental Protection in Construction Projects. According to our PRC counsel, Beijing Deheng Law Office, we have not caused any material environmental pollution incident as a result of breaching the environmental law in the Track Record Period.

BUSINESS

We published and implemented our health, safety and environmental management system on 29 April 2006. On 7 July 2006, we became one of the first state-owned large-scale enterprises that received ISO9001:2000 certification for our quality management system, ISO14001:2004 certification for our environmental management system, and GB/T28001-2001 certification for our occupational health and safety management system. Our 18 subsidiaries with principal operations in construction and four design institutes have obtained “three-in-one” certificates for their respective safety, quality and environmental protection management systems.

In addition, we have a Safety and Quality Management Department and an Environmental Protection Department located at our head office with offices at our principal operating affiliated companies, which are responsible for: (i) supervising and examining the safety and quality control measures of construction companies and construction management companies; (ii) regulating labor, hygiene and safety conditions; and (iii) monitoring compliance with statutory environmental protection regulations relating to air, water, noise and solid waste pollution. We impose safety and anti-pollution measures, as well as regular internal safety and environmental inspections, at all stages of our operations in order to minimize the possibility of work-related accidents and injuries. We also monitor the safety and environmental protection aspects of our subcontractors' operations. As we believe that safe practices are essential to ensure employee safety, we conduct regular safety training sessions and provide safety education to employees. We have established safety standards in connection with matters such as purchasing, installation and operation of new equipment, construction of new facilities and renovation of existing facilities. We invest in training our employees that are involved with formulating and implementing measures to comply with occupational health, safety and environmental protection issues, and assist such personnel in attaining certifications to ensure they are qualified and have the appropriate expertise to handle such matters.

All of our operating subsidiaries have obtained and maintained a safe production permit issued by relevant PRC local authorities. The safe production permit review is performed once every three years. Based on the confirmation issued by the local Municipal Environmental Protection Bureaus in areas in which we operate, we have complied with all national, provincial and municipal environmental regulatory requirements during the past three years. We have not yet experienced a termination or suspension of the safe production permit by relevant PRC local authorities. In addition, there have been no unfavorable results or remedial actions taken by our Company as a result of inspections of our property or projects conducted by the relevant PRC authorities.

With regard to our overseas operations, we are committed to strict compliance with applicable local laws on occupational health, safety and environmental protection. Our ability to comply with local laws is an important consideration before we decide to commence operations in foreign jurisdictions. Our safety, health and environmental protection department oversees our operating affiliated companies' compliance with local occupational health, safety and environmental protection requirements of the foreign jurisdictions in which we operate. Regular reviews by our safety, health and environmental protection department of our operating affiliated companies located in foreign jurisdictions are instrumental in monitoring their compliance with relevant safety and environmental protection regulations. When necessary, we engage local counsel to advise us with respect to these requirements.

Although we have stringent safety measures in place, our construction operations involve inherent occupational risks. In the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006, the fatality rate per ten billion RMB revenue of our Company was 1.18, 2.27 and 1.35, respectively, which is substantially lower than the actual average death rate per ten billion RMB revenue in the construction industry, which is approximately 4.76, 3.43 and 2.65, respectively in the same period, according to the relevant government authority. During the Track Record Period, we experienced 43 severe injuries and 96 fatalities, and we were liable for a total of approximately RMB19 million as compensation for these fatalities. On 5 August 2007, flooding and debris-flow suddenly occurred at the tunnel face of Yiwan Railway Yesanguan Tunnel during its construction by the Fourth Engineering Company of China Railway 16th Bureau Group Co., Ltd., under our subsidiary, China Railway 16th Bureau Group Co., Ltd.. This accident resulted in the deaths of 10 workers. Due to the complex geographical conditions of the surrounding area, the relevant authorities are still conducting an investigation of this accident and have not yet reached a conclusion. The total amount of compensation that we paid for as a result of this accident as of 30 November 2007 was RMB2.9 million. According to the legal opinion of our PRC legal adviser, Beijing Deheng Law office, we have duly and fully paid this compensation amount. In March 2007, a sudden collapse occurred to a tunnel during its excavation for the Beijing subway No. 10, which resulted in the deaths of six workers. Investigations into this accident in Beijing were commenced by the relevant authorities. As of 30 November 2007, several management personnel at Second Engineering Company of China Railway 12th Bureau Group Co., Ltd., under our subsidiary, China Railway 12th Bureau Group Co., Ltd., received disciplinary action and other penalties. Three of them have been removed from their management positions as a result of this accident and no senior management personnel of our Company has been removed from management position for this accident. We have provided various forms of compensation to the families of the workers, including monthly dependency payments, funeral assistance payments and payments to relatives of the deceased who have experienced economic hardship as a result. The total amount of compensation that we paid for as a result of this accident as of 30 November 2007 was RMB2.2 million. According to the legal opinion of our PRC legal adviser, Beijing Deheng Law Office, we have duly and fully paid this compensation amount. We have also performed a comprehensive investigation of the accident resulting in the implementation of additional protective measures to be followed during future tunnel construction work. We have made efforts to strengthen our safety measures at our construction sites to prevent such accidents from occurring again, including modifying our construction methods for tunnel projects to prevent the occurrence of similar accidents, educating our employees to recognize dangers and take measures to deal with emergency situations, and improving the safety of our construction sites by increasing our investment in safety production. On 23 January 2008, certain workers hired by a subcontractor of the Second Engineering Company of China Railway 16th Bureau Group Co., Ltd. (中鐵十六局集團第二工程有限公司), under our subsidiary, China Railway 16th Bureau Group Co., Ltd., entered the work area of the Jiaoji Railway Line (which has operational speeds of up to 200 km/h) before scheduled maintenance hours. A subsequent major railway accident occurred, resulting in nine injuries and 18 fatalities. As of the Latest Practicable Date, this accident was under investigation by the relevant authorities. No other accident has had, individually or in the aggregate, a material effect on us. We cannot guarantee that such safety-related incidents will not have an adverse impact on our reputation, corporate image and results of operations.

INTERNAL CONTROLS

Our Board is responsible for monitoring our internal control system and for reviewing its effectiveness. In accordance with applicable laws and regulations, we have implemented internal procedures with a view to establish and maintain our internal control system, which covers our material production and operational decisions, the development of an information technology system, protection of our intellectual property, the establishment of risk and asset management systems, maintenance of an internal audit system and compliance with local laws and rules in both domestic and international markets. In 1987, we established an Internal Audit Department at our head office consisting of financial, auditing, engineering and legal personnel. The department is responsible for establishing the structure of internal audit institutions, allocating responsibilities, determining work procedures, and implementing specialized audit rules and ancillary measures. Our Audit Department directly reports to our Audit Committee.

Our Directors believe our current internal control system is reasonable, sufficient and effective based on the unqualified advice we received from time to time from independent third parties, and has been implemented effectively in the past. However, although such internal control system, which includes rules, policies and procedures, is in place and in effect, there may still be weaknesses in the implementation of such internal control system. Moreover, we cannot guarantee that our employees will not, in their personal capacity, act in such a way that contravenes our internal control procedures. See “— Legal proceedings”. As we have undergone the Restructuring recently and will become a publicly listed company through the Global Offering, our internal control system may require refinement following the expansion of our business that requires recruitment of professional staff. For details, see “Risk Factors — Risks relating to our business operations — We may not be able to monitor and deploy internal control measures with respect to our business operations in an effective and timely manner because of our large number of operating subsidiaries and their broad range of businesses.”

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS

We rely on patents, copyrights, trademarks and contractual rights to protect our intellectual property rights. The intellectual property rights are critical to our businesses. As of the Latest Practicable Date, we held 67 trademarks, 87 patents, 67 National Construction Methods and 351 Provincial Construction Methods. We continuously submit patent applications for products and technologies that we have developed. We also possess unregistered trade secrets, technologies, know-hows, processes and other intellectual property rights. As of the Latest Practicable Date, we have not suffered any infringement of our intellectual property and we have not violated any intellectual property rights of any third parties, to the best of our knowledge.

As of the Latest Practicable Date, our Company was not a party to any litigation brought by any third party due to infringement of intellectual property rights. Details of our intellectual property rights are set out in “Appendix IX — Statutory and General Information—Further information about our business” included in this Prospectus.

Brown in connection with its valuation are set out in "Appendix IV — Property Valuation" included in this Prospectus.

Land Use Rights

Pursuant to the Restructuring, CRCCG transferred to us the land use rights of 836 parcels of land in the PRC and the leases of 5 parcels of land leased from the State, particulars of which are as follows:

- (i) 317 parcels of granted land with a total site area of approximately 3,520,134.5 m² with granted land use rights certificates issued to us;
- (ii) 349 parcels of allocated land with a total site area of approximately 9,851,262.6 m² which have been injected into us as capital. The land use right certificates of the 349 parcels of allocated land are pending change of registration;
- (iii) 117 parcels of land with a total site area of approximately 1,856,822.5 m², which has been transferred to us as capital injection upon the transfer of the equity interests of the subsidiaries holding such land. The land use rights certificates of the 117 parcels of land have been obtained and are under the name of the subsidiaries;
- (iv) 53 parcels of land with a total site area of approximately 570,042.5 m², which are pending issuance of the granted land use rights certificates; and
- (v) the leases of five parcels of land with a total site area of approximately 101,588.4 m² leased from the State, with the land use rights of four parcels of land expiring in 2032 and one parcel of land in 2011.

As of 31 December 2007, of the 53 parcels of land referred to in (iv) above, we have entered into land grant contracts with the relevant government authorities and have paid or will pay the applicable land premium in accordance with the terms required under these contracts. Of the 53 parcels of land for which the granted land use right certificates are pending, aggregate GFAs of approximately 493,268.6 m², 51,258 m² and 25,515.9 m² are used by our construction operations, survey, design and consultancy operations and other business operations, respectively. We expect to settle all outstanding premium in the amount of RMB233 million for grant of the land use rights before the end of 2008.

Beijing Deheng Law Office, Our PRC legal adviser, is of the view that: (1) in respect of the 349 parcels of allocated land which are pending change of registration as referred to in (ii) above, there is no legal impediment for us to change the registration and obtain the relevant land use right certificates of such land, as the injection of such allocated land into us as capital contribution has been approved by the MLR; and (2) there is no legal impediment for us to obtain the granted land use right certificates for the 53 parcels of land referred to in (iv) above on condition the relevant land premium will be duly paid by us.

As confirmed by Deheng Law Office, our PRC legal adviser, we have obtained all land use right certificates in respect of the land held by us for our real estate development and investment.

Buildings

Pursuant to the Restructuring, CRCCG transferred to us a total of 3,322 buildings in the PRC as follows:

- 2,044 buildings with a total GFA of approximately 2,182,275.3 m², for which our Company has proper building ownership certificates or building title proof. Among these buildings, 1,877 buildings, with a total GFA of approximately 1,909,350.5 m², were built on land for which CRCCG has proper land use rights certificates. The remaining 167 buildings, with a total GFA of approximately 272,924.9 m², were built on land for which CRCCG has not obtained proper legal title. Of these 167 buildings, (i) 95 buildings, with a total GFA of approximately 128,094 m², were built on 43 parcels of allocated land which has not been transferred by CRCCG to us; and (ii) 72 buildings, with a total GFA of approximately 144,830.9 m², were built on land which has been transferred to us pursuant to the Restructuring and we are in process of applying the granted land use right certificates to us.

In respect of the 95 buildings on the 43 parcels of allocated land, CRCCG signed an undertaking letter on 10 December 2007 pursuant to which CRCCG undertakes, on a best endeavors basis, to complete the procedures for converting the allocated land use rights to granted land use rights in relation to the 43 parcels of land within 12 months from the date of our establishment, and then either transfer or lease the land use rights of such parcels of land to us. In the meantime, before the procedures have been completed, CRCCG also undertakes to (i) allow us to use the 43 parcels of land for nil consideration; (ii) acquire the buildings on the 43 parcels of land on the basis of valuation conducted by an independent valuer, if CRCCG cannot convert the allocated land use rights to granted land use rights within one year; (iii) indemnify us against, among other things, all losses and damages which may arise from any adverse effect on our business operations.

In respect of the 72 buildings on the land for which we are applying for the granted land use rights certificates, CRCCG has undertaken in the Restructuring Agreement to indemnify us in respect of any title defect of properties being acquired by us pursuant to the Restructuring.

- 1,278 buildings with a total GFA of approximately 977,794.5 m², for which our Company or the relevant subsidiaries of our Company do not have proper building ownership certificates. Among these buildings, 456 buildings, with a total GFA of approximately 499,067.3 m², were registered under the name of the predecessors or individuals. For the remaining 822 buildings, (i) 751 buildings, with a total GFA of approximately 403,218.3 m², were built on the land which CRCCG has proper land use rights certificates. We are in the process of applying the building ownership certificates for such buildings and expect to obtain them before the end of 2008. Since all such buildings were invested and built on land owned by CRCCG which were transferred to us pursuant to the restructuring, we are of the view, and with the support of legal opinion from Beijing Deheng Law Office, that there exists no legal dispute in relation to the use of such buildings; (ii) 42 buildings, with a total GFA of approximately 24,239.8 m², were built on the 43 parcels of allocated land for which CRCCG has not obtained proper legal title; and (iii) 29 buildings on land which is in the process of applying for the grant of land use rights. We expect to obtain the granted land use rights certificates for such buildings before the end of 2008. Of the 822 buildings, aggregate GFAs of approximately 445,134.1 m², 9,481.3 m², 16,006.2 m² and 8,105.7 m² are used by our construction operations, survey, design and consultancy operations, manufacturing operations and other business operations, respectively. We are of the view that such buildings with no proper titles are not crucial to our operations as (1) our infrastructure construction business is largely carried out in the open and none of the buildings with no proper titles is in respect of any infrastructure projects or for real estate development business; and (2) such buildings are mainly for ancillary use, such as offices, and we can easily relocate to other premises to conduct the same activities.

The change of registration to us of those buildings with building ownership certificates held by the predecessors of subsidiaries or individuals has not all been completed and as of 31 December 2007, the change of registration of 456 buildings is still outstanding. Beijing Deheng Law Office, our PRC legal adviser, is of the view that there is no legal impediment for us to change the registration of the building ownership certificates. The change of registration will be completed before the end of 2008.

Pursuant to the Restructuring Agreement, CRCCG has undertaken to provide all necessary assistance in our application for building ownership certificates. We expect to obtain all relevant building ownership certificates by the end of 2008, either under our name or the name of one of our subsidiaries. CRCCG has also undertaken to bear any costs or expenses arising from the transfer of these building ownership certificates, and has promised to compensate us for all losses or damages arising from CRCCG's lack of title to the buildings in question should we fail to obtain the building ownership certificates, to the extent such failure is not due to us.

Buildings under Construction

CRCCG transferred to us 18 new buildings which are currently under construction. Upon completion, these buildings will have an estimated total GFA of approximately 136,531 m². We have obtained all the relevant permits and approvals for the construction of the 18 new buildings. The relevant building ownership certificates of the buildings under construction will be obtained by us or our relevant subsidiaries following construction and property registration with the relevant authorities. We intend to use these buildings for production purposes, as offices and for other ancillary business uses.

Leased Buildings

As of 31 December 2007, we leased 172 buildings in the PRC. Among these 172 leased buildings, 96 of which have obtained building ownership certificates. Beijing Deheng Law Office, our PRC legal adviser, is of the view that the relevant leases are legally binding and enforceable. The remaining 76 leased buildings have not obtained building ownership certificates. Beijing Deheng Law Office, our PRC legal adviser, is of the view that there exists no legal dispute in relation to the use of such buildings. 164 of the lease agreements of such buildings, which are primarily for office use, have not been registered. We are arranging for registration of such lease agreements and expect to complete the lease registration before the end of 2008. The total GFA of the leased buildings is approximately 207,690.7 m². Among these leased buildings, we or our relevant subsidiaries leased from CRCCG 133 buildings with a total GFA of approximately 180,892 m² and we or our relevant subsidiaries also leased 39 buildings from various independent third parties with a total GFA of approximately 26,798.7 m². Beijing Deheng Law Office, our PRC legal adviser, is of the view that such matters will not affect the legality of the lease agreements. As we can easily relocate to other premises to conduct the same activities, our Directors are of the view that these leased buildings without valid registration are not material to our operation. Further, CRCCG has undertaken in the Restructuring Agreement to indemnify us in respect of any loss which may arise from any lease transferred by it to us.

Overseas Properties

As of 31 December 2007, we own 8 parcels of land with a total site area of approximately 51,563.4 square meters and 46 buildings in Poland, Botswana, Germany, Djibouti and Nigeria. We also own several properties in Hong Kong and Macau. Additionally, we have leased several properties in Hong Kong, Macau, Japan, Nepal, United Arab Emirates, Saudi Arabia, Libya, Madagascar and Afghanistan. Our Directors are of the view that such tenancy agreements are entered into in accordance with the local legal requirements and are valid and binding.

Waiver from Certain Valuation Report Requirements

Regarding the format and content of the valuation report, the property valuation report included in Appendix IV to this Prospectus includes a valuation report in full compliance with all applicable Hong Kong Listing Rules and Paragraph 34 of Part II of the Third Schedule to the Companies Ordinance of property interests held by us for our property development and investment business. However, except for the property interests held by us for our property development and investment business, owing to the substantial number of properties we own and lease, we have applied for and obtained a waiver from the Hong Kong Stock Exchange from strict compliance with Rule 5.01, Rule 5.06, Rule 19A.27(4) and Paragraph 3(a) of Practice Note 16 of the Hong Kong Listing Rules and an exemption from the SFC from strict compliance with Paragraph 34 of Part II of the Third Schedule of the Companies Ordinance on the grounds that:

- (a) it would be unduly burdensome to list each of the properties in Group I, Group II, Group VII and Group VIII of the valuation report included in Appendix IV to this Prospectus and show their particulars and values individually in this Prospectus; and
- (b) it would be unduly burdensome to prepare an English translation of the full valuation report in respect of properties in Group I, Group II, Group VII and Group VIII of the valuation report included in Appendix IV to this Prospectus, as substantially all of the properties of our Company are located in the PRC and consequently the underlying valuation and title information is in Chinese.

The exemptions were granted with conditions which are set out in “Appendix IX — Statutory and General Information”.

See “Appendix X — Documents Delivered to the Registrar of Companies and Available for Inspection — Documents available for inspection” for the time and place that the full valuation report will be available for public inspection.

INSURANCE

Pursuant to the general practice in the industry, we are required to obtain fire, liability or other property insurance for the property, equipment or inventory in relation to our major businesses, and are required to obtain construction project all-risk insurance for most of the construction projects we undertake. Such policies generally extend for the entire contract period, including the maintenance period following completion of the project. We also purchase pension insurance, medical insurance, unemployment insurance, workplace injury insurance and maternity insurance for our employees and personal injury insurance for our overseas and on-site workers pursuant to the relevant PRC laws and regulations.

Consistent with what we believe to be customary practice in China, we do not carry any third-party liability insurance to cover claims in respect of personal injury or property or environmental damage arising from accidents on our property or relating to our operations, nor do we carry any business interruption insurance or key-man life insurance on our key employees. Such insurance are not mandatory according to the laws and regulations of the PRC or would impose additional costs on our operations, which would reduce our competitiveness against our competitors in the PRC. See “Risk Factors — Risks relating to our business operations — Certain of our businesses expose us to potential liability claims”.

BUSINESS

Our Directors believe that we maintain adequate insurance coverage that is consistent with our risk of loss and industry practice. We will continue to examine and evaluate the risks of our Company, and will make necessary and appropriate adjustments to our insurance policies according to our needs and the customary practice in the PRC.

LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

As of the Latest Practicable Date, we had initiated three individual legal proceedings against three independent counterparties. The total relief sought against these three counterparties amounted to RMB253.4 million. We believe that the outcome of these three legal proceedings will not have a material adverse impact on our financial position and business operations due to the amount of relief sought and the fact that these proceedings arose from the ordinary course of our business.

In November 2007, a proceeding was initiated by the Court of Final Appeal of the Macau Special Administrative Region against the former Secretary for Transport and Public Works of Macau for alleged bribery and corruption. In a separate legal proceeding, a director of Chon Tit Macau Investment and Development, one of our indirect subsidiaries in Macau, was prosecuted as a defendant in relation to this incident which related to certain contracts we were awarded in Macau during the period the former Secretary of Transport and Public Works of Macau was in position. The director retired at the end of December 2007 due to health problems. Since the legal proceeding is still in its early stage, we are unable to predict the outcome of the judgment. Based on the legal advice of our special counsel in Macau, our Company will not be criminally liable under the laws of Macau. However, should our former employee be found liable in this proceeding, our Company may be liable for damages in this regard. Notwithstanding the outcome of the proceeding, we believe that this incident will not have a material impact on our business operations.

Except for the above legal proceedings, neither we nor any of our subsidiaries is a party to any other litigation or arbitration of which the relief sought amounts to more than RMB50 million, and no material litigation, arbitration or claim is known to us to be pending or threatened by or against us or our subsidiaries or with respect to any of our properties or operations.

EMPLOYEES

As of 31 December 2006 and 30 November 2007, we had 183,308 and 180,986 on-duty employees, respectively. The following table sets out the number of on-duty employees by position:

	Number of on-duty ⁽¹⁾ Employees
	As of 31 December 2006	As of 30 November 2007

Others	3,300	3,258
Total	183,308	180,986

(1) 'On-duty employees' are those that work and receive salary or wages or other forms of remuneration from our Company.

BUSINESS

As of 31 December 2006 and 30 November 2007, we had 54,527 and 53,182 off-duty employees, respectively, which mainly included personnel subject to early retirement and post assignment, whose living expenses and insurance were already reserved in state assets and we do not bear other costs in relation to these off-duty employees. We follow the "Settlement Regulations for Extra Employees of State Owned Enterprises" (State Council (1993) No. 111 Order) to provide welfare and benefit of these off-duty employees.

The salaries of our employees are mainly dependent on seniority and performance, and total compensation includes allowances, performance-based bonuses and special awards. For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, the total amount of salaries, bonuses and allowances paid by us to our employees was RMB6,186.4 million, RMB6,357.5 million, RMB7,884.6 million RMB7,167.7 million and RMB7,989.4 million, respectively.

Employees also receive welfare benefits including medical insurance, pension insurance, unemployment insurance, maternity insurance, workplace injury insurance, employee's housing fund and other benefits. According to applicable regulations, the premiums for basic pension insurance and unemployment insurance are contributed pursuant to PRC national, provincial and municipal regulation, among which basic pension insurance is contributed according to the national standard of 8% by the employee and 20% to 23% by the employer. Except for the above annual contributions, we are not responsible for other employee benefits. For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, we contributed employee benefits of RMB1,002.5 million, RMB1,092.2 million, RMB1,393.1 million, RMB1,270.4 million and RMB1,589.5 million, respectively. We also contribute to the housing reserve fund in accordance with applicable PRC regulations.

Employees must contribute 1% of their wages to unemployment insurance and employers must pay a corresponding rate of 2% of employee wages to unemployment insurance. Workplace injury insurance rates vary with different industries, ranging from 0.5% to 1.5% of employees' wages. We currently pay a 1% rate for workplace injury insurance. The contribution rate for medical insurance is set out in local regulations.

Currently, except for short-term temporary workers directly hired by us, all of our employees are hired pursuant to the terms of a written employment contract, which specifies the employee's position, responsibilities, remuneration and grounds for termination. We enter into short-term labor contracts (with a term of under one year) with certain temporary workers. The temporary workers are managed by the entity with which the worker is placed, and the wages, benefits and insurance are borne by the dispatching entity as stipulated in the labor contract.

Employees of our Company are protected by labor unions. We encourage employee participation in the management of our Company. The operating entities of our Company and our subsidiaries have separate branches of the labor union. We have not experienced any strikes or other labor disturbances which have interfered with our operations, and we believe that we have positive relations with our employees.

We have been advised by Beijing Deheng Law Office, our PRC legal adviser, that the new PRC Labor Contract Law calls for much stricter requirement in HR departments in terms of signing labor contracts with employees, stipulating probation and violation penalties, dissolving labor contracts, paying remuneration and economical compensation as well as social security premiums. We are requested to take a variety of intensified measurements to improve our employment relationship management and practically fulfill our statutory obligations accordingly. In addition, we shall also choose the forms of employment in accordance with the new law, particularly on worker service dispatches. The legal interpretation in this regard made by the competent central government authority provides that the term of worker service dispatch shall not exceed six months or otherwise the employer shall hire workers through ordinary employment. As for dispatch provided by law, the accepting entity is required to provide the corresponding working conditions and labor protection, pay overtime remunerations and performance bonuses and provide benefits relevant to the position. The accepting entity should not in turn dispatch the workers to any other employer. The new PRC Labor Contract Law provides that the accepting entity and the dispatching entity shall bear joint and several liability of compensation if any damage is caused to the legitimate right and interests of workers dispatched. Therefore the new regulations strengthened the protection to dispatched workers. In general, we believe that the new PRC Labor Contract Law will help us to establish a more stable and harmonious labor relationship between our employees and us.

RELATIONSHIP WITH CRCCG

OVERVIEW

The Company was established on 5 November 2007 with CRCCG as the sole promoter. CRCCG owned 100% of the share capital of the Company immediately prior to the A Share Listing. Immediately after the completion of the A Share Listing, CRCCG will own approximately 76.6% of the issued share capital of the Company. Immediately after the completion of the A Share Offering and the Global Offering, CRCCG will own approximately 64.4% of the issued share capital of the Company if the Over-allotment Option is not exercised (or approximately 62.9% if the Over-allotment Option is exercised in full), and will be the controlling shareholder of the Company.

Pursuant to the Restructuring Agreement, CRCCG transferred to the Company substantially all of its assets, liabilities and interests relating to its construction operations, survey, design and consultancy operations, manufacturing operations, real estate development, capital investment and logistics operations, with the exception of five BOT projects and certain other ancillary businesses. After the completion of the Restructuring, CRCCG itself no longer has the necessary licences to engage in our core businesses and will no longer have independent capability to engage in business which is similar to our core businesses, nor will it engage in any construction operations. CRCCG will function as our holding company and CRCCG will not conduct any business operations other than the Retained Operations.

Our core businesses are construction operations, survey, design and consultancy operations, manufacturing operations, real estate development, capital investment and logistics operations.

DELINEATION OF BUSINESS AND COMPETITION

As part of our Restructuring, certain businesses and operations have been retained by CRCCG, a summary of which is set out below.

The retained businesses and operations of CRCCG (the "Retained Operations") principally include:

- Retained BOT Projects — CRCCG has retained controlling interests in five retained BOT project companies (the "Retained BOT Projects"). The Retained BOT Projects are retained by CRCCG because: (1) all concession agreements relating to the Retained BOT Projects have provisions restricting assignment during the building period, thereby prohibiting the transfer of CRCCG's interests at the building stage; and (2) some projects are under negotiations with the relevant local authorities for increased amount of compensation with regard to expropriation of land, which results in the actual amount of such compensation paid exceeding the original budget. In addition to the above, upon completion of the projects, any future transfer of CRCCG's interests is subject to the pre-emptive rights of the joint venture parties to the project agreements. Particulars of the Retained BOT Projects are as follows:
 - ▶ CRCCG owns an 80% equity interest in Chongqing Tiefa Suiyu Highway Co., Ltd., which has a 111.8 km highway project from Chongqing City to Suining City of Sichuan Province. The other investor in the project is an independent third party. The board of directors of the project company comprises six members, three (one member of senior management and two employees) of which are holding positions in the Company. Construction works of the project commenced in December 2003. Phase I of the project has been opened to traffic since October 2006, while phase II of the project has been opened to traffic since the end of 2007. The concession period of the project is 30 years (i.e. building period of three years and operation period of 27 years) commencing from December 2004 to December 2034. The total investment of the project is RMB4,747 million. The actual investment contributed by CRCCG as at the Latest Practicable Date was approximately RMB1,328.8 million. As at 30 September 2007, the unaudited total asset value of the project company was approximately RMB3,264 million and its unaudited net asset value was approximately RMB1,384 million. For the nine months ended 30 September 2007, the project company has not generated any revenue. A transfer of equity interest in Chongqing Tiefa Suiyu Highway Co., Ltd. is subject to the pre-emptive right of the other joint venture partner, unless the transfer is from a joint venture partner to its related party. Since the project is subject to further negotiations with the relevant local authorities in relation to the amount of compensation with regard to expropriation of land, we consider that it is currently not appropriate for us to include the project in our Company.

- ▶ CRCCG owns an 80% equity interest in Nanjing Changjiang Tunnel Co., Ltd., which has a 6.2 km cross — Changjiang river tunnel project from Nanjing City centre to the Pukou region of Jiangbei, Nanjing. The other investors in the project are independent third parties. Construction works of the project commenced in September 2005 and is expected to be completed in September 2009. The concession period of the project is 30 years (i.e. building period of approximately three years and operation period of 27 years) commencing from October 2005 to October 2035. The board of directors of the project company comprises eight members, two (one Director and one employee) of which are holding positions in the Company and four of which are holding positions in our subsidiaries. The total investment of the project is RMB3,318 million. The actual investment contributed by CRCCG as at the Latest Practicable Date was approximately RMB833.2 million. As at 30 September 2007, the unaudited total asset value of the project company was approximately RMB1,122 million and its unaudited net asset value was approximately RMB1,042 million. For the nine months ended 30 September 2007, the project company did not generate any revenue. Since the project is in the process of being built and, pursuant to the project agreement, CRCCG's equity interest in the project company cannot be transferred to any party during the building stage, we consider that it is currently not suitable for us to include the project in our Company.
- ▶ CRCCG owns a 70% equity interest in Beijing Tongda Jingcheng Highway Co., Ltd., which is the project company responsible for the development of Jingcheng Highway Phase Two, a 49.7 km highway project from the 6th Ring Road of Beijing City to Miyun County. The other investor in the project is an independent third party. The board of directors of the project company comprises five members, two (one member of senior management and one employee) of which are holding positions in the Company. Construction works of the project commenced in May 2004 and the relevant section of the highway has been formally opened to traffic since October 2006. The concession period of the project is 28 years (i.e. operation period, excluding building period of 28 months) commencing from September 2006 to September 2034. The total investment of the project is RMB3,919 million. The actual investment contributed by CRCCG as at the Latest Practicable Date was approximately RMB896.0 million. As at 30 September 2007, the unaudited total asset value of the project company was approximately RMB3,571 million and its unaudited net asset value was approximately RMB1,220 million. For the nine months ended 30 September 2007, the unaudited net loss of the project company was approximately RMB44 million. Since the project is subject to further negotiations with the relevant local authorities in relation to the amount of compensation with regard to expropriation of land, we consider that it is currently not appropriate for us to include the project in our Company.

- ▶ CRCCG owns a 55% equity interest in Xianyang Zhongtie Road and Bridge Co., Ltd., which has a 1.9 km bridge project in the western part of Xianyang City, Shaanxi Province. A 35% equity interest was previously held by China Railway 20th Bureau Group Co., Ltd. (one of our subsidiaries) which, pursuant to our Restructuring, had been transferred to CRCCG pending completion of the transfer procedures. Subject to completion of the transfer and before the completion of the disposal below, CRCCG will have a 90% equity interest in the project company. The remaining 10% equity interest in this project company is held by an independent third party. The board of directors of the project company comprises seven members, four (one member of senior management and three employees) of which are holding positions in the Company and two of which are holding positions in our subsidiaries. The total investment of this project is RMB120 million. The actual investment contributed by CRCCG as at the Latest Practicable Date was approximately RMB36 million. Construction works of the project commenced in May 2003 and the bridge has been formally opened to traffic since September 2004. The concession period of the project is 25 years (i.e. operation period, excluding building period of 14 months) commencing from July 2004 to 30 June 2029. As at 30 September 2007, the unaudited total asset value of the project company was approximately RMB116 million and its unaudited net asset value was approximately RMB45 million. For the nine months ended 30 September 2007, the unaudited net profit of the project company was approximately RMB0.39 million. Prior to the commencement of our Restructuring, CRCCG and China Railway 20th Bureau Group Co., Ltd. had registered to dispose of a 70% equity interest in the project company through China Beijing Equity Exchange because of the small investment size of this project company, which results in relatively high management cost. CRCCG is negotiating with the buyer for details of the disposal but without significant progress to date.
- ▶ CRCCG owns a 90% equity interest in Guangdong Chaojie Highway Co., Ltd., which has a 29.3 km highway project from Chaozhou to Jieyang in Guangdong Province. The other investors in the project are independent third parties. The board of directors of the project company comprises ten members, eight (one Director and seven employees) of which are holding positions in the Company. The total investment of this project is RMB1,623 million. The concession period of the project is 25 years (i.e. building and operation period) commencing from April 2004 to April 2029. The project agreement was signed in April 2004, but, due to disagreement among the joint venture partners, the project was terminated at or around the end of 2006. Prior to the termination of its project, Guangzhou Chaojie Highway Co., Ltd. only commenced some pre-construction works, such as site clearance, construction of temporary structures. As at the Latest Practicable Date, CRCCG had not injected any capital into the project company but expended approximately RMB11.9 million as management expenses for the project. Prior to the commencement of our Restructuring, CRCCG approached the other parties to the concession agreement to vary the restriction against assignment during the building period but without success. CRCCG is exploring other possibilities to dispose of its equity interests in this project.

- Construction Support Services — CRCCG has retained minority equity interests in five survey companies, two construction supervision services companies and one construction testing company, which are engaged in the provision of construction contracting support services (“Construction Support Services”); and
- Ancillary support services — CRCCG has retained some ancillary businesses including hospitals, nurseries, printing, property management, hotels etc (“Ancillary Support Services”).

The Directors believe that the Retained BOT Projects themselves do not pose any competition with our core businesses as we do not have BOT projects at the same locations serving the same customers and purposes, nor are they substitutes or alternative means of traffic of any of our BOT, BT and BOO for customers or users. Three of the Retained BOT Projects are highway projects, which are located in Chongqing, Beijing and Guangdong province, respectively, whereas the only highway BOT project that we have is in Harbin. As for road and bridge projects, CRCCG has one Retained BOT Project which is a road and bridge combined project and is located in Xianyang City, Shaanxi province. We have one BT road project, which is located in Taizhou (Jiangsu province), two BT bridge projects located in Changzhou (Jiangsu province) and Chongqing, respectively, and one combined road and bridge BOT project in Jiyang (Shandong province). None of them is located in the vicinity of Xianyang City. The remaining Retained BOT Project is a cross-Changjiang tunnel in Nanjing and although we also have a cross-Changjiang bridge project in Chongqing, the two of them do not have any competition with each other because of the difference in locations. Our other BOT, BT and BOO projects are railways and metropolitan railways projects which are different from the Retained BOT Projects in terms of location, customers and purposes.

The Retained BOT Projects are managed and operated by their respective project companies, which have their respective boards of directors and senior management. The necessary concession rights to carry out construction and operations of the Retained BOT Projects are held by the relevant project companies. After our Restructuring, CRCCG has only retained majority equity interests in the project companies of such Retained BOT Projects and no longer has the capability to manage and/or operate BOT or similar projects, nor does it or will it have the capability to manage and/or operate any new BOO, BT or PPP projects, or the capability to compete with us.

Construction Support Services are categorized as ancillary businesses or assets, which, according to the relevant State regulations in relation to separation of main and ancillary businesses, are subject to further separation of main and ancillary businesses procedures and therefore are not suitable to be included in our Company. These operations are principally engaged in the provision of ancillary construction survey and supervision services, such as photocopying and printing of construction drawings, provision of labor services and railway survey services etc. For each of the three years ended 31 December 2006, the Construction Support Services generated unaudited revenue of approximately RMB309.7 million, RMB506.2 million and RMB557.0 million, respectively, and incurred unaudited net profit (loss) of approximately RMB1.8 million, (RMB3.4 million) and RMB15.0 million, respectively. As at 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006, the unaudited net asset value of the Construction Support Services were approximately RMB100.1 million, RMB120.5 million and RMB169.5 million. Compared to our revenue, profit and net asset value (see “Appendix I — Accountants’ Report”), the Construction Support Services are small scale operations or of negligible size, and some of them are running at a loss and will be dissolved or disposed of by CRCCG gradually. CRCCG is in the process of dealing with or disposing of the Construction Support Services and expects that such dealing or disposal will be completed by the end of 2009. The Construction Support Services do not pose any competition with our core businesses as they are small in scale and do not have the capacity to compete with us. In respect of the Ancillary Support Services, certain companies in relation thereto have ceased operations or are pending to be deregistered.

The Directors are of the view that the Retained Operations do not pose any competition or potential competition with our core businesses. Notwithstanding this, CRCCG entered into the Non-Competition Agreement (referred to below) by agreeing not to compete, either directly or indirectly, with us and by providing us with options and pre-emptive rights to purchase the Retained Operations. With the implementation of the protective measures as described in "Non-Competition Agreement" below, the Directors believe that we will not face competition from CRCCG. In connection with our Restructuring, we have entered into a number of agreements and arrangements to regulate our transactions with CRCCG. For details of such agreements and arrangements, see "Connected Transactions".

Non-Competition Agreement

The Company entered into a Non-Competition Agreement with CRCCG on 5 November 2007, under which CRCCG agreed not to compete with us in our core businesses and granted us options and pre-emptive rights to acquire the Retained Operations from CRCCG.

CRCCG has undertaken in the Non-Competition Agreement that it will:

- during the term of the Non-Competition Agreement, not compete with us, directly or indirectly, whether on its own or jointly with other entities in any activities or businesses which competes with our core businesses, whether inside or outside the PRC;
- procure that any other company in which CRCCG is a controlling shareholder will not compete with us; and
- not participate, whether directly or indirectly, in the management and operation of any new BOT, BOO, BT or PPP projects and not bid for any new BOT, BOO, BT or PPP projects.

Pursuant to the Non-Competition Agreement, CRCCG has granted us:

- an option to purchase any of the Retained Operations, subject to any relevant laws and applicable listing rules and existing joint venture parties' pre-emptive rights (if any); and
- pre-emptive rights to purchase any of the Retained Operations on terms no less favorable than those of third parties, if CRCCG or any of its associates intends to transfer, sell, lease or license such interests to any third party. Upon the exercise of such option or pre-emptive right, CRCCG shall transfer such interest to us.

In addition, pursuant to the Non-Competition Agreement, CRCCG has undertaken that if CRCCG becomes aware of a business opportunity which directly or indirectly competes, or may lead to competition, with our core businesses, CRCCG or any of its subsidiaries will notify us of such business opportunity immediately upon becoming aware of it. CRCCG shall also procure the companies of which CRCCG are controlling shareholders to comply with this provision.

In relation to our pre-emptive rights described above, under the Non-Competition Agreement, CRCCG must notify us before the transfer of its relevant interest to a third party. Such notice must set out the full terms of the proposed transfer and any information which may reasonably be required by us, so that we can be provided with sufficient details to make an informed decision as to whether we ought to exercise the pre-emptive rights. Any decision on whether to exercise the pre-emptive rights will be made by the independent non-executive Directors.

CRCCG will conduct semi-annual working meetings with all of its subsidiaries, including us. Members of the senior management of the Company will represent us at these meetings, at which they may make enquiries of the performance of the Retained Operations to enable us to consider whether exercising the options is in our interest. In addition, CRCCG has undertaken to provide and to procure the provision to our Company of such other information as may be necessary for us to properly consider whether to exercise the options under the Non-Competition Agreement. Based on the information provided by CRCCG, the independent non-executive Directors will consider and decide whether any option or pre-emptive right should be exercised. When considering whether to exercise any options or pre-emptive rights, the independent non-executive Directors will consider various factors including, among other things, (i) whether the Retained Operations to be acquired accord with our then development strategy; (ii) whether consents from the joint venture partners, if necessary, can be obtained; and (iii) the performance of the business and prevailing market conditions, for instance, in respect of the Retained BOT Projects, whether such Retained BOT Project has reached a sufficiently mature stage that it would be in the interest of our Company and our Shareholders as a whole to exercise the options or pre-emptive rights. The independent non-executive Directors may, where necessary and at our cost, engage an independent financial adviser to advise them. As the Retained Operations are State-owned assets, any transfer of such Retained Operations will be independently valued based on acceptable PRC valuation principles and consents of the relevant government authorities have to be obtained before any such transfer, if applicable. Further, any exercise or non-exercise of any option under the Non-Competition Agreement would constitute a connected transaction. When the Company decides whether to exercise or not to exercise any option or any pre-emptive right under the Non-Competition Agreement, the Company shall comply with the disclosure requirements under the Hong Kong Listing Rules, and shall disclose the decision in our annual report or announcement.

The independent non-executive Directors will review on an annual basis the compliance by CRCCG with the Non-Competition Agreement and the results of such reviews will be disclosed in our annual reports or by way of announcement to the public. CRCCG has undertaken to provide us with all information for the annual reviews by the independent non-executive Directors and the enforcement of the Non-Competition Agreement. In addition, CRCCG has taken to make a statement in our annual report relating to its compliance with the Non-Competition Agreement.

The Non-Competition Agreement took effect on 5 November 2007 and shall remain effective until the earlier of (a) the date on which CRCCG directly or indirectly beneficially holds less than 30% of issued share capital of the Company; and (b) the date on which the Shares cease to be listed on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange or the Shanghai Stock Exchange.

INDEPENDENCE FROM CRCCG

Having considered the following factors, we are satisfied that we can conduct our business independently from CRCCG and its associates after the Global Offering:

Management independence

The Board comprises nine Directors. Three members of the Board, namely, Mr. Li Guorui, Mr. Ding Yuanchen and Mr. Jin Puqing, are also directors of CRCCG. The appointments of all the directors of CRCCG have been designated by SASAC.

RELATIONSHIP WITH CRCCG

Set out below is a table summarizing the positions held by the Directors at the Company and CRCCG:

Directors	Position with the Company	Position with CRCCG
Li Guorui	Chairman and Non-executive Director	Chairman and General Manager
Ding Yuanchen	Vice Chairman and Executive Director	Vice Chairman
Jin Puqing	Executive Director, President	Director

Mr. Li Guorui, being the chairman and a non-executive director of the Company, is principally responsible for formulating our corporate and business strategies and making major corporate and operational decisions of our Company but he is not involved in our day-to-day management. Mr. Ding Yuanchen, being the vice chairman and an executive director of the Company, is principally responsible for assisting the chairman in formulating our corporate and business strategies and making major corporate and operational decisions of our Company. Mr. Jin Puqing, being the president and an executive director of the Company, is responsible for our administration and day-to-day management. Please refer to “Directors, Supervisors and Senior Management” for technical knowledge, expertise and experience of the overlapping Directors.

Since CRCCG will simply function as our holding company and that CRCCG will not conduct any business operations other than the Retained Operations, the roles of Mr. Li Guorui, Mr. Ding Yuanchen and Mr. Jin Puqing in CRCCG are non-executive in nature. Since after our Restructuring, CRCCG no longer has any business other than the Retained Operations, which have their own boards and management teams, Mr. Li Guorui, Mr. Ding Yuanchen and Mr. Jin Puqing do not have to participate in the day-to-day management of the Retained Operations. All of these overlapping Directors will allocate substantially all of their time to our operations and management.

Other than Mr. Li Guorui, Mr. Ding Yuanchen and Mr. Jin Puqing, none of the Directors, Supervisors or senior management members of the Company holds any position in CRCCG. Approximately 35 employees of our Company are still holding positions in the project companies of the Retained BOT Projects due to the fact that such employees have been transferred from CRCCG to us as part of our Restructuring. Among such employees, Mr. Li Guorui is currently the chairman of the board of directors of Nanjing Changjiang Tunnel Co., Ltd and Mr. Hu Zhenyi, being a member of the senior management of the Company, is also the chairman of the boards of directors of Xianyang Zhongtie Road and Bridge Co., Ltd. and Guangdong Chaojie Highway Co., Ltd, and a director of the boards of directors of Beijing Tongda Jingcheng Highway Co., Ltd. and Chongqing Tiefa Suiyu Highway Co., Ltd.. Our employees who hold positions in the project companies of the Retained BOT Projects receive no remuneration for their services provided to the Retained BOT Projects. The provision of such services is regulated by the Construction and Related Services Framework Agreement entered into between the Company and CRCCG dated 5 November 2007 (as supplemented by a supplemental agreement dated 29 January 2008). See “Connected Transactions” for further details of the Construction and Related Services Framework Agreement. We confirm that the directors and members of the senior management of the Retained BOT Projects who are holding positions in our Company will resign from the relevant project companies before the end of 2008. Save as disclosed in this Prospectus, such overlapping employees (including the overlapping Directors) do not hold any other positions in CRCCG and we do not have other employees who are holding positions in CRCCG.

Upon completion of our Restructuring, CRCCG does not have the necessary business licences and does not have the capability to independently engage in any business which is similar or likely to compete with our core businesses. The Directors expect that any conflicts of interest situation involving CRCCG or its associates will be unlikely to arise. In the event of any conflicts of interests, we believe that we have sufficient and effective control mechanism to enable the Directors to discharge their duties appropriately, avoid potential conflicts of interests and safeguard the interests of our shareholders as a whole on the following grounds:

- CRCCG entered into the Non-Competition Agreement by agreeing not to compete, either directly or indirectly, with us and by providing us with options and pre-emptive rights to acquire the Retained Operations. Any decision on whether to exercise the options or pre-emptive rights will be made by the independent non-executive Directors. A set of protective measures has been adopted by our Company to ensure the implementation of the Non-Competition Agreement, deal with potential conflicts of interests and safeguard the interests of our shareholders as a whole. Details of such protective measures have been set out in “Relationship with CRCCG — Non-Competition Agreement”.
- According to the Articles of Association, all conflicted or overlapping Directors shall absent themselves from such board meetings or such part of the meetings when matters involving our Company and CRCCG and/or matters in which any such Director or his associates have a material interest are discussed, nor can such overlapping Directors vote on any resolution in relation to such matters. Any such resolution will only be passed by the affirmative votes of at least half of the total number of the voting Directors who are not associated with any proposed counterparty.
- The overlapping Directors will allocate substantially all of their time to our management and operation and will continue to undertake the same duties as before our Restructuring.
- None of the overlapping Directors has any shareholding interests in our Company or CRCCG. Their appointments to CRCCG are made by SASAC and their duties are limited to managing the organization in accordance with the authorization of SASAC, who is the ultimate shareholder of the Company.
- All the Directors, including the overlapping Directors, will not receive any remuneration, benefits and rewards from CRCCG.

Operational independence

Pursuant to the Restructuring Agreement, CRCCG has transferred to us substantially all of its assets, liabilities and interests of its construction operations, survey, design and consultancy operations, manufacturing operations, real estate development, capital investment and logistics operations. The chains of production, supply and sales of the above businesses are complete, and their operations are independent. We and CRCCG do not have any common or shared facilities or resources and we have independent access to customers and suppliers. We hold all relevant licences that are material to our business operations and have sufficient operation capacity in terms of capital, equipment and employees to operate our business independently from CRCCG.

CRCCG has retained controlling interests in the Retained BOT Projects and minority interests in construction ancillary operations including printing of construction drawings and provision of labor services, etc. To govern the transactions between CRCCG and our Company arising from the Retained Operations, CRCCG and the Company have entered into several connected transaction agreements. The terms and conditions of these agreements are on normal commercial terms which we believe to be fair and reasonable and in the interests of our shareholders as a whole. We have entered into the Property Leasing Framework Agreement, Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement, Construction and Related Services Framework

Agreement and Services Mutual Provision Agreement with CRCCG. Further details about these transactions between our Company and CRCCG are set out in “Connected Transactions”.

Further, the operational decisions of our Company are made by and through our shareholders’ meeting, the Board, the supervisory committee and the management of the Company according to their respective duties.

We have our own organizational structure comprised of independent departments and business and administrative units, each with specific areas of responsibility. In addition to maintaining a set of comprehensive internal control procedures to facilitate the effective operation of our business, we have adopted a comprehensive set of protective measures to avoid conflicts or potential conflicts of interest and to safeguard the interests of our shareholders as a whole. Further details of such measures have been set out in “Relationship with CRCCG — Independence from CRCCG — Management Independence”. We have also adopted protective measures to ensure the enforceability of the Non-Competition Agreement between our Company and CRCCG. For further details of the enforceability of such protective measures, see “Relationship with CRCCG — Non-Competition Agreement”. We have also adopted a set of corporate governance manuals, such as Shareholders Meeting Manuals, Board Meeting Manuals, Rules on the Conduct of Connected Transactions etc., which set out the corporate governance framework of our Company.

Based on the above reasons, the Directors are of the view that there is no operational dependence by us on CRCCG.

Financial independence

We will settle all amounts due from us to CRCCG and its associates prior to the H Share Listing. All guarantees provided to us by CRCCG and its associates have been released. We have sufficient capital and banking facilities to operate our business independently, and have adequate internal resources, a strong credit profile to support our daily operations and independent access to third party financing. See “Financial Information — Working capital”.

We have our own finance department and have established our own internal control and accounting systems, and independent treasury function for cash receipts and payments. We have an independent bank account, have made independent tax registrations and have employed a sufficient number of dedicated financial accounting personnel.

CONNECTED TRANSACTIONS

OUR RESTRUCTURING

The Company was established on 5 November 2007 as a joint stock limited company under the PRC law. Pursuant to the Restructuring Agreement, CRCCG transferred to the Company substantially all its assets, liabilities and interests related to its construction operations, survey, design and consultancy operations, manufacturing operations and other operations including real-estate development and logistics, with the exception of certain operations that are clearly delineated from our businesses. After the completion of the Restructuring, CRCCG will no longer retain any licences in respect of construction contracting, nor will it provide any construction services. For further details regarding the Restructuring, see “Restructuring”.

Restructuring Agreement

On 5 November 2007, CRCCG and the Company entered into the Restructuring Agreement. Under the Restructuring Agreement, CRCCG has made various representations and warranties in relation to the businesses, assets, liabilities and interests transferred to the Company under the Restructuring, and has agreed to be responsible for all tax liabilities associated with such transferred businesses, assets, liabilities and interests incurred before the Restructuring. CRCCG has also agreed to indemnify the Company against claims, losses or expenses incurred by the Company in connection with or arising from, among other things:

- any breach of any provision of the Restructuring Agreement on the part of CRCCG Group (excluding our Company);
- the businesses, assets, liabilities and interests retained or held by CRCCG following the Restructuring;
- any rights and interests in relation to all employees of the Company who were employed by CRCCG Group before the Restructuring for the period of their employment by CRCCG Group;
- any title defect in respect of properties being acquired by the Company prior to our Restructuring; and
- any litigation or other claims against the Company that relate to events or circumstances occurring before the effective date of the Restructuring in relation to businesses, assets, liabilities and interests transferred to the Company under the Restructuring, except those that are disclosed and provided for in the audited financial statements.

Non-Competition Agreement

In connection with the Restructuring, CRCCG and the Company entered into a Non-Competition Agreement on 5 November 2007. Under the Non-Competition Agreement, CRCCG has undertaken to the Company that, for so long as such agreement remains effective, it shall not, and shall procure its associates (excluding our Company) not to, directly or indirectly and in whatever manner, engage, participate or be interested in, or provide support to, any business or activity which competes or may compete with our current or future core businesses. CRCCG has also granted us an option and pre-emptive rights to acquire certain interests retained by CRCCG following our Restructuring and certain future business. Further details about the Non-Competition Agreement are set out in “Relationship with CRCCG”.

CONNECTED TRANSACTIONS

Implications under the Hong Kong Listing Rules

Any transaction that might take place after the H Share Listing pursuant to any agreement or arrangement described in this “— Our Restructuring” is made in the performance of the relevant transaction already entered into before the H Share Listing. Such transaction will therefore not constitute connected transactions or continuing connected transactions of the Company under Chapter 14A of the Hong Kong Listing Rules, and will not be subject to further regulatory requirements under the Hong Kong Listing Rules, except as described in “Relationship with CRCCG — Non-Competition Agreement”.

CONNECTED PERSONS

In addition to the Restructuring Agreement and the Non-Competition Agreement, the Company has entered into certain other agreements or transactions with entities which will become connected persons (as defined under Chapter 14A of the Hong Kong Listing Rules) of the Company upon the H Share Listing, and such agreements or transactions will, constitute connected transactions or continuing connected transactions of the Company under the Hong Kong Listing Rules. These entities include:

- (i) CRCCG: Immediately following completion of the Global Offering, CRCCG will own approximately 64.4% of the Company’s then issued share capital if the Over-allotment Option is not exercised (or approximately 62.9% if the Over-allotment Option is exercised in full). CRCCG will therefore be the controlling shareholder of the Company, and hence a connected person of the Company by virtue of Rule 14A.11(1) of the Hong Kong Listing Rules.
- (ii) Certain associates (as defined under Chapter 19A of the Hong Kong Listing Rules) of CRCCG, excluding us. Such associates will be connected persons of the Company by virtue of Rule 14A.11(4) of the Hong Kong Listing Rules.

CONTINUING CONNECTED TRANSACTIONS

Exempt Continuing Connected Transactions

The Company has entered into certain agreements or transactions which will, upon the H Share Listing, constitute exempt continuing connected transactions of the Company. These transactions are made on normal commercial terms where each of the relevant “percentage ratios” calculated for the purpose of Chapter 14A of the Hong Kong Listing Rules will, as the Directors currently expect, not be more than 0.1% on an annual basis. By virtue of Rule 14A.33(3)(a) of the Hong Kong Listing Rules, these transactions are exempt from the reporting, announcement and independent shareholders’ approval requirements under Chapter 14A of the Hong Kong Listing Rules, and they include:

1. Property Leasing Framework Agreement

Following the Restructuring, the Company has agreed to lease from CRCCG and its associates certain buildings and properties in the PRC for general business and ancillary purposes. The Company and CRCCG entered into a Property Leasing Framework Agreement on 5 November 2007 to regulate their relationship in this regard. The principal terms of the Property Leasing Framework Agreement are as follows:

- The properties leased to us from CRCCG and its associates comprise 133 properties occupying an aggregate GFA of approximately 180,892 m² and are mostly for production and operation uses.
- We and CRCCG or its relevant associates shall enter into separate agreements to set out the specific terms and conditions in respect of the relevant properties leased according to the principles, and within the parameters, provided for under the Property Leasing Framework Agreement.

- In respect of the 56 buildings with an aggregate GFA of 51,339 m², which are mainly for ancillary use such as office for which CRCCG or its relevant associates have not yet obtained property ownership certificates, CRCCG has agreed to grant a licence for us to use such properties, and has undertaken to obtain the requisite property ownership certificates within one year from the date of the Company's incorporation.
- We are entitled to lease additional properties from CRCCG during the term of the Property Leasing Framework Agreement.
- CRCCG has agreed to indemnify us against any loss or damage we may suffer or incur because of any issues relating to title arising from the use of such properties with title defect.
- If CRCCG or its relevant associates intend to sell any property leased to us under the Property Leasing Framework Agreement, we shall have the pre-emptive right to purchase such property under the same terms offered to third parties.
- Either party may, at any time before the Property Leasing Framework Agreement expires, by giving not less than six months' notice to terminate any lease made pursuant to and comprised under such agreement, and the rentals will accordingly be reduced.

The validity of the lease in respect of the buildings without building ownership certificates is uncertain and may be subject to challenge by a third party. CRCCG has undertaken in the Property Leasing Framework Agreement to indemnify us in respect of any loss or damage we may suffer or incur because of any loss which may arise from the use of any leased properties with title defects. Beijing Deheng Law Office, our PRC legal adviser, is of the opinion that there are no issues relating to those buildings which may materially affect our operations.

The Property Leasing Framework Agreement is for a term of ten years commencing on 5 November 2007, being the date of incorporation of the Company, and is subject to renewal. The agreement is of a duration longer than three years as otherwise normally permitted under the connected transaction regulatory regime of the Hong Kong Listing Rules. The Company considers the term of the Property Leasing Framework Agreement to be consistent with normal commercial terms and can secure long term property rights for us, avoiding unnecessary disruptions to our business and enabling us to ensure long-term development and continuity of its operations. The Joint Sponsors are of the view that it is consistent with normal business practice for the Company to enter into the Property Leasing Framework Agreement with a term of longer than three years. Sallmanns, the independent property valuer, is also of the view that it is normal business practice for property leasing agreements involving PRC properties to be of longer than three years and be such duration.

Pricing

Under the Property Leasing Framework Agreement, the rentals shall be determined and paid as follows:

- We shall pay annual rentals in an aggregate amount of up to approximately RMB16.77 million to CRCCG and its relevant associates in respect of the buildings and properties leased to us.

CONNECTED TRANSACTIONS

- The party taking up any lease shall also be responsible for all utility charges and other miscellaneous expenses (property tax excluded) incurred in using the relevant property during the term of the lease.
- The rentals are payable annually in arrears, and are subject to review and adjustments every three years during the term of the Property Leasing Framework Agreement by reference to the prevailing market rates. The adjusted rentals shall not exceed the then applicable market rates as confirmed by an independent property valuer.
- Further, any downward adjustment in rentals for such properties leased to us may be made at any time during the term of the Property Leasing Framework Agreement notwithstanding the normal three-year rental adjustment mechanism provided for under that agreement as described above.

Sallmanns has confirmed that the rentals under the Property Leasing Framework Agreement reflect, and are no higher than the prevailing market rates.

Historical figures

The above property leasing arrangements did not exist during the three years ended 31 December 2006, and were put in place as a result of the Restructuring. Accordingly, no relevant or comparable historical figures are available or readily ascertainable.

Annual caps

The annual rentals payable by us as provided for under the Property Leasing Framework Agreement are fixed at a maximum of RMB16.77 million subject to adjustments and taking into account market rates, such adjustments may be made once every three years as described above. Such rentals are determined on the basis of the relevant property valuation reports issued by independent qualified PRC property valuers, and Sallmanns has confirmed that such rentals reflect the prevailing market rates. The total annual rentals payable by us to CRCCG and its associates are expected to be approximately RMB19 million. This amount is accordingly used as the proposed annual cap for each of the three years ending 31 December 2009.

2. Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement

Following the Restructuring, CRCCG and its associates have agreed to lease to us, subject to CRCCG having obtained proper land use rights in respect thereof, certain land use rights in the PRC, representing 43 parcels of land occupying an aggregate gross site area of approximately 244,730 m², for general business and ancillary purposes. Our 144 buildings, with a total GFA of approximately 0.224 million m², were built on these 43 parcels of allocated land for which CRCCG has no proper legal title. CRCCG signed an undertaking letter on 10 December 2007 pursuant to which CRCCG undertakes, on a best endeavour basis, to complete the procedures for converting the allocated land use rights to granted land use rights in relation to the 43 parcels of land within 12 months from the date of the establishment of the Company, and then either transfer or lease the land use rights of such parcels of land to us. See “Business — Properties — Land use rights” for further details of these 43 parcels of allocated land. As such, the Company considers that it is important for us to secure the tenure of these parcels of land and entered into a Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement with CRCCG on 5 November 2007 to agree to further enter into a lease agreement in relation to the lease of these 43 parcels of land with the annual rental value to be finalized if CRCCG obtains proper land use right title to such parcels of land. In the event that there are any material changes to the Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement, including the annual rental value, we will comply with the relevant requirements under Chapter 14A of the Hong Kong Listing Rules, including but not limited to obtaining independent shareholders' approval, if necessary. The principal terms of the Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement are as follows:

- We and CRCCG (or its relevant associate) shall enter into separate leases to set out the specific terms and conditions in respect of the relevant parcel(s) of land leased according to the principles, and within the parameters, provided for under the Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement.
- If CRCCG or its relevant associate(s) intend(s) to transfer any land use rights leased to the Company under the Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement, the Company shall have the pre-emptive right to acquire such land use rights under the same terms offered to third parties.
- Upon expiry of the Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement, if CRCCG or its relevant associate(s) intend(s) to continue any lease, we shall also have the pre-emptive right to lease the relevant land use rights under the same terms offered to third parties, even if it has not exercised its right of renewal.
- We are entitled to lease additional land use rights from CRCCG during the term of the Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement.
- In respect of those parcels of land for which CRCCG or its relevant associates have not yet obtained land use rights certificates, CRCCG has undertaken to obtain the requisite land use rights certificates within one year from the date of incorporation of the Company. CRCCG has agreed to indemnify us against any loss or damage we may suffer or incur because of title issue arising from the use of such parcels of land for which land use rights certificates have not been obtained.

The Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement shall be for a term of 20 years commencing from 5 November 2007 and shall be subject to renewal. The Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement shall be of a duration longer than three years as otherwise normally permitted under the connected transaction regulatory regime of the Hong Kong Listing Rules. The Company considers the term of the Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement to be consistent with normal commercial terms and can secure long term property rights for us, avoiding unnecessary disruptions to our business and enabling us to ensure long-term development and continuity of its operations. The Joint Sponsors are of the view that it is consistent with normal business practice for us to enter into the Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement with a term of longer than three years and for such duration.

We may, at any time before the Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement expires, terminate any lease made pursuant to and comprised under such agreement by giving three months' notice, and the rentals payable by us will accordingly be reduced.

Pricing

Under the Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement, the rentals shall be determined and paid as follows:

- The current estimated aggregate annual rental is approximately RMB10.71 million but the final rental will be finalized and determined by Sallmanns based on the then market rent of the 43 parcels of land at the time of the commencement of the lease.

CONNECTED TRANSACTIONS

- The rentals will be payable annually in arrears, and are subject to review and adjustments every three years during the term of the Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement by reference to the prevailing market rates in respect of similar parcels of land located in the same regions or areas under comparable conditions, provided that the adjusted rentals shall not exceed the then applicable market rates as confirmed by an independent property valuer.
- Further, any downward adjustment in rentals may be made at any time during the term of the Land Use Rights Leasing Framework Agreement notwithstanding the normal three-year rental adjustment mechanism provided for under the agreement as described above.

Non-Exempt Continuing Connected Transactions

As a result of the Restructuring, the Company has also entered into certain other agreements or transactions with CRCCG and other connected persons of the Company which will, upon the H Share Listing, constitute non-exempt continuing connected transactions of the Company under Chapter 14A of the Hong Kong Listing Rules. These transactions are as follows:

3. Construction and Related Services Framework Agreement

CRCCG has retained equity interests in the project companies of five BOT projects (the “Retained BOT Projects”), namely, an 80% equity interest in Chongqing Tiefa Suiyu Highway Co., Ltd., an 80% equity interest in Nanjing Changjiang Tunnel Co., Ltd., a 70% equity interest in Beijing Tongda Jingcheng Highway Co., Ltd., a 55% (subject to completion of the transfer procedures, 90%) equity interest in Xianyang Zhongtie Road and Bridge Co., Ltd. and a 90% equity interest in Guangdong Chaojie Highway Co., Ltd. A summary of the major particulars of the Retained BOT Projects is as follows:

BOT project company	Estimated total investment	Date of commencement of work	Date or expected date of completion of major construction works
Chongqing Tiefa Suiyu Highway Co., Ltd.	RMB4,747 million	December 2003	End of 2007
Nanjing Changjiang Tunnel Co., Ltd.	RMB3,318 million	September 2005	September 2009
Beijing Tongda Jingcheng Highway Co., Ltd.	RMB3,919 million	May 2004	October 2006
Xianyang Zhongtie Road and Bridge Co., Ltd.	RMB120 million	May 2003	September 2004
Guangdong Chaojie Highway Co., Ltd.	RMB1,623 million	December 2004	Terminated

For further information relating to the Retained BOT Projects, see “Relationship with CRCCG”. The construction works of the project of Xianyang Zhongtie Road and Bridge Co., Ltd. have been completed. Despite the fact that Chongqing Tiefa Suiyu Highway and Beijing Tongda Jingcheng Highway have been opened to traffic, certain construction works of these projects remain outstanding. In addition, the Nanjing Changjiang Tunnel project is still under construction.

The major part of the construction works, including construction services and related services such as construction, survey, design and supervision services (“Construction and Related Services”), of each of the Retained BOT Projects (other than the Guangdong Chaojie Highway project which has been terminated) was undertaken by certain of our subsidiaries under the existing construction contracts, which were awarded to our subsidiaries by the Retained BOT Projects through a public bidding process and were entered into by our subsidiaries with the relevant project companies prior to our Restructuring. In respect of the three Retained BOT Projects for which certain construction works remains outstanding, such Construction and Related Services will continue to be carried out by our relevant subsidiaries according to the terms of the existing construction contracts. Moreover, payments for the Construction and Related Services of the Retained BOT Projects which have been completed will continue to be paid by the Retained BOT Projects to our relevant subsidiaries after the H Share Listing. Such payments may include outstanding payments for works done and release of guarantee or retention monies.

In addition, approximately 35 employees of our Company are holding positions in the project companies of the Retained BOT Projects due to the fact that such employees have been transferred from CRCCG to us as part of our Restructuring. These employees are currently providing limited management and administrative services to the Retained BOT Projects. See "Relationship with CRCCG — Independence from CRCCG — Management independence" for further details.

In order to regulate the business relationship between our Company and the Retained BOT Projects, the Company and CRCCG entered into a Construction and Related Services Framework Agreement on 5 November 2007 (as supplemented by a supplemental agreement dated 29 January 2008). The principal terms of the Construction and Related Services Framework Agreement are as follows:

- Our subsidiaries shall continue to provide construction and related services (including but not limited to survey, design and supervision services) to the Retained BOT Projects, which have not yet been completed.
- The contracts in relation to the provision of construction and related services to the Retained BOT Projects entered into with our subsidiaries shall continue to be performed by the relevant contracting parties.
- If we (and our subsidiaries) and CRCCG (or its relevant associates) enter into further contracts in relation to the provision of construction and related services to the Retained BOT Projects, such contracts shall set out the specific terms and conditions of providing the services according to the principles, and within the parameters, provided for under the Construction and Related Services Framework Agreement.

The Construction and Related Services Framework Agreement dated 5 November 2007 (as supplemented by a supplemental agreement dated 29 January 2008) will expire on 31 October 2010, subject to renewal. The Company expects that the construction work in relation to the Retained BOT Projects will be fully completed by 2010. The Company believes that it is unlikely that the Retained BOT Projects will require new Construction and Related Services from us. However, in the event that they do, we will provide such services in accordance with the following pricing principle.

Pricing

The fees payable in respect of the Construction and Related Services to be provided for the Retained BOT Projects shall be determined by the tender price if the selection of the relevant service providers has to be determined through a tender process. Where service fees are not required to be determined by a tender process, the service fees shall be determined based on market price. When the bidding price and other terms offered by our Company are equal to or better than those offered by other independent service providers participating in the tender, the Retained BOT Projects must select our Company in preference to such independent service providers.

CONNECTED TRANSACTIONS

Historical figures

The amounts paid to us by the project companies of the Retained BOT Projects varied with the Construction and Related Services completed. In 2004, three of the four Retained BOT Projects (excluding the Guangdong Chaojie Highway project) were under construction and one of the projects was completed during the year. In 2005, the remaining three Retained BOT Projects with substantial total investments were under construction, thereby resulting in a greater amount of revenue recognized by our Company during the year. In 2006, one of the three Retained BOT Projects had been substantially completed and the revenue recognized by us in 2006 decreased to RMB756.4 million as compared to RMB778.3 million in 2005. The historical figures of the revenue recognized by us during the three financial years ended 31 December 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 are as follows:

	2004	2005	2006	30 November 2007
	(RMB million)
Revenue recognized by us in respect of the Retained BOT Projects for provision of Construction and Related Services	167.4	778.3	756.4	786.8

Annual caps

The above framework agreement is entered into between CRCCG and the Company to regulate the continuing connected transactions under the existing construction works relating to the Retained BOT Projects. As the construction works of the three Retained BOT Projects remain outstanding, the Directors have estimated the annual caps under the framework agreement principally based on the outstanding construction works to be performed under the existing construction contracts. The estimated total revenue to be recognized by us in respect of the Chongqing Tiefu Suiyu Highway, Nanjing Changjiang Tunnel projects and Beijing Tongda Jingcheng Highway projects for the year ended 31 December 2007 is approximately RMB900 million. As most of the construction works of Nanjing Changjiang Tunnel and a relatively small amount of construction works of Chongqing Tiefu Suiyu Highway and Beijing Tongda Jingcheng Highway projects remain to be completed in 2008, the Directors estimate the total revenue to be recognized by us for the year ending 31 December 2008 will be approximately RMB1,700 million. After completion of the major construction works of the Nanjing Changjiang Tunnel project, we may continue certain minor construction works of the project in the year ending 31 December 2009 and the Directors would fix the annual cap at RMB900 million for the year ending 31 December 2009.

4. Services Mutual Provision Framework Agreement

Following the Restructuring, CRCCG has retained certain other ancillary businesses which principally include printing, nurseries, reception centers, property management and other support services to us. In addition, CRCCG has retained certain ancillary operations relating to the provision of ancillary construction, survey and supervision services, such as photocopying and printing of construction drawings, provision of labor services such as lawn laying services and railway survey services etc., of China Railway First Survey and Design Institute and China Railway Fourth Survey and Design Institute. Such ancillary operations are retained by CRCCG pursuant to the government's policies on separation of core and ancillary businesses for the restructuring of State-owned enterprises. In accordance with the State policies for separation of core and ancillary businesses, such ancillary operations will be dissolved or disposed of by CRCCG gradually. Prior to their disposal, such ancillary operations will continue to provide ancillary construction survey and supervision services to the Company upon the H Share Listing. The ancillary operations of CRCCG provided services to us on a non-exclusive basis. We have also engaged third party service providers in relation to the provision of such ancillary services during the Track Record Period.

Commencing from 2005, certain of our subsidiaries have been providing survey, design and supervision services as well as construction services to CRCCG for the development of the office building of CRCCG at Fuxing Road, Beijing, PRC. The estimated total construction cost of the office building of CRCCG is approximately RMB350 million. Part of the construction works of the office building has already been completed, while the other part of construction services including interior decoration and utilities installation will continue to be provided by our relevant subsidiaries to CRCCG. Formal completion of the office building is expected to be in May 2008.

In order to regulate the provision of the above services between the Company and CRCCG, the Company and CRCCG entered into a Services Mutual Provision Framework Agreement on 5 November 2007 (as supplemented by a supplemental agreement dated 29 January 2008). The principal terms of the Services Mutual Provision Framework Agreement are as follows:

- CRCCG and its associates will provide ancillary services including ancillary construction survey and supervision services, such as photocopying and printing of construction drawings, provision of labor services such as lawn laying and railway survey services etc., and other services such as printing, nurseries, reception centers and property management services to us.
- We will continue to provide the minor construction services to finalize the construction of the office building of CRCCG at Fuxing Road, Beijing, the PRC.
- The provision of any of the above services by either party shall be made on terms no less favorable than those available to or, as appropriate, from an independent third party under comparable conditions. Otherwise, either party is entitled to engage such other supplier(s) for the raw materials and/or services required.
- The parties (or their relevant associates or subsidiaries) shall enter into separate contracts to set out the specific terms and conditions of providing the services according to the principles, and within the parameters, provided for under the Services Mutual Provision Framework Agreement.

The Services Mutual Provision Framework Agreement dated 5 November 2007 (as supplemented by a supplemental agreement dated 29 January 2008) will expire on 31 October 2010, subject to renewal.

Pricing

Under the Services Mutual Provision Framework Agreement, either party shall provide services to the other party, according to the following pricing principles (and in the following order):

- price prescribed by the PRC Government; or
- where there is no government-prescribed price, the guidance price set by the PRC Government; or
- where there is neither a government-prescribed price nor a government guidance price, a price determined through tender process or other available market price; or

- where none of the above is applicable or available, a price to be agreed between the parties. The agreed price will be calculated based on the reasonable costs incurred in providing the services plus profits reasonably earned. In setting the price, the parties may refer to prices for previous related transactions if available.

Historical figures

On an estimated basis as if the Company had been incorporated since 1 January 2004 and the Services Mutual Provision Framework Agreement had been in place since that date, a breakdown of the approximate historical transactions figures in respect of the provision of mutual services between CRCCG and us for the three years ended 31 December 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 were as follows:

	2004	2005	2006	30 November 2007
	(RMB million)
Revenue
Revenue recognized by us for Construction and Related Services provided in respect of the office building of CRCCG	0.6	25.7	43.8	85.8
Expenditure
Expenditure incurred by us for provision of services by CRCCG
(or its associates)	166.2	329.0	298.0	177.1

In 2005, CRCCG implemented the government policies relating to separation of core and ancillary businesses for the restructuring of State-owned enterprises. A number of ancillary operations were retained by CRCCG upon the restructuring of China Railway First Survey and Design Institute and China Railway Fourth Survey and Design Institute. Upon the separation of the ancillary operations from the core businesses and as a gesture of support, both China Railway First Survey and Design Institute and China Railway Fourth Survey and Design Institute increased their award of ancillary service contracts to such ancillary operations during the year 2005 with part of the expenditure of such increased awards recognized by the ancillary operations in the year 2006. As a result, the value of the ancillary services, comprising mainly construction survey and design services, provided by CRCCG to our Company significantly increased from RMB166.2 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB329.0 million in the year ended 31 December 2005. To implement the policy of separation of the ancillary business, lesser awards were made to the ancillary operations in 2006 and 2007 and the value of such transactions decreased to RMB 298.0 million in 2006 and further decreased to RMB 177.1 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007.

The survey and design of the office building of CRCCG commenced in 2004. A small sum of RMB0.6 million, mainly in respect of construction survey and design fees, was recognized as revenue by our Company in 2004 and a sum of RMB25.7 million was recognized as revenue by us in 2005. Actual construction works of the office building began in June 2006 and a sum of RMB43.8 million, mainly in respect of construction survey and design fees as well as foundation works, was recognized as revenue by our Company during that year. As at 30 November 2007, a total sum of RMB85.8 million had been recognized as revenue by us for the actual construction works completed. Most of the construction works of the office building of CRCCG were completed in 2007. The office building is expected to be completed by the end of 2008.

Annual caps

The Directors expect that the services to be provided by such ancillary operations will gradually diminish over time. The proposed annual caps have been calculated based on the historical figures and the Company's assumption that CRCCG may not have dealt with or disposed of such ancillary operations by 2009 and that there will be a decrease rate of approximately 10% per annum due to our gradual reduction in awards of ancillary service contracts to the ancillary operations.

The superstructure of the office building of CRCCG has already been completed, subject to completion of external walls, utility services and interior decorations within the next few months. The annual caps have been estimated principally based on the outstanding construction works to be performed under the existing construction contracts. The Directors expect to receive a total sum of approximately RMB110 million from CRCCG for the year ended 31 December 2007. The Directors further expect to receive RMB170 million for the remaining construction works from CRCCG in 2008 and no further construction services will be provided by us in 2009.

In addition, the non-exercise of any option will be treated as if the option were exercised and would constitute a connected transaction. The Company shall comply with the relevant disclosure and, where appropriate, independent shareholders’ approval requirements under the Hong Kong Listing Rules relating to the exercise or non-exercise of any options under the Non-Competition Agreement.

The transactions described in paragraphs 1 and 2 under “— Exempt Continuing Connected Transactions” above will constitute exempt continuing connected transactions of the Company under the Listing Rules once the H Shares are listed on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange.

CONNECTED TRANSACTIONS

Since we have our headquarters and most of our operations in the PRC, we do not, and in the foreseeable future, will not, have management presence in Hong Kong. Currently, all of the executive Directors reside in the PRC.

Accordingly, the Company has applied to the Hong Kong Stock Exchange for, and the Hong Kong Stock Exchange has granted the Company, a waiver from strict compliance with Rule 8.12 and Rule 19A.15 of the Hong Kong Listing Rules. The Company has made arrangements to maintain effective communication between the Company and the Hong Kong Stock Exchange as follows:

- another authorized representative of the Company, Mr. LAW Chun Bui, who is a joint company secretary of the Company and resident in Hong Kong, also acts as a channel of communication with the Hong Kong Stock Exchange;
- both of the authorized representatives of the Company have means of contacting all Directors (including the non-executive Directors) promptly at all times as and when the Hong Kong Stock Exchange wishes to contact the Directors on any matters;
- each of the Directors who is not ordinarily resident in Hong Kong possesses or will be able to apply valid travel documents to visit Hong Kong and will be able to meet with relevant members of the Hong Kong Stock Exchange within a reasonable period of time;

RANKING

A Shares and H Shares are ordinary shares in the share capital of the Company upon completion of the Global Offering. However, apart from the PRC qualified domestic institutional investors, H Shares generally cannot be subscribed for by or traded between legal or natural persons of the PRC. A Shares, on the other hand, may only be subscribed for by, and traded between legal or natural persons of the PRC (other than Hong Kong, Macau and China Taiwan) and qualified foreign institutional investors or qualified foreign strategic investors approved by CSRC and must be subscribed for and traded in Renminbi. All cash dividends in respect of H Shares are to be declared in Renminbi and to be paid by the Company in Hong Kong dollars, whereas all dividends in respect of A Shares are to be paid by the Company in Renminbi. In addition to cash, dividends may be distributed in the form of Shares. Any distribution of Shares, however, must be approved by special resolution of the Shareholders. For holders of H Shares, dividends in the form of Shares will be distributed in the form of additional H Shares. For holders of A Shares, dividends in the form of Shares will be distributed in the form of additional A Shares.

In addition, A Shares and H Shares are regarded as different classes of shares under the relevant terms of the Articles of Association. The differences between the two classes of shares are set out in the Articles of Association in details.

Further, under the Articles of Association, any change or abrogation of the rights of class shareholders should be approved by way of a special resolution of the general meeting of shareholders and by a separate meeting of shareholders convened by the affected class shareholders. However, as provided in the Articles of Association, the procedures for approval by separate class shareholders shall not apply (i) where we issue, upon approval by a special resolution of our shareholders in a general meeting, either separately or concurrently every 12 months, not more than 20% of each of the existing issued A Shares and H Shares; (ii) where our plan to issue A Shares and H Shares on establishment is implemented within 15 months from the date of approval by the securities regulatory authorities of the State Council; or (iii) where our promoter converts its Shares to overseas listed foreign invested shares to be listed and traded in a foreign stock exchange upon receiving the approval of the authorized securities approval authorities of the State Council, including the CSRC.

Except as described above and in relation to the dispatch of notices and financial reports to shareholders, dispute resolution, registration of shares on different parts of the register of shareholders, the method of share transfer and the appointment of dividend receiving agents, which are all provided for in the Articles of Association and summarized in “Appendix VIII — Summary of Articles of Association”, A Shares and H Shares will however rank pari passu with each other in all other respects and, in particular, will rank equally for all dividends or distributions declared, paid or made after the date of this Prospectus.

A Shares and H Shares are generally neither interchangeable nor fungible, and the market prices of the A Shares and H Shares may be different after the A Share Offering and Global Offering.

TRANSFER OF THE DOMESTIC SHARES FOR LISTING AND TRADING ON THE HONG KONG STOCK EXCHANGE

According to the stipulations by the State Council securities regulatory authority and the Articles of Association, the holders of the Domestic Shares (A Shares) may transfer the Domestic Shares held by them to overseas investors, and such transferred shares may be listed or traded on an overseas stock exchange provided that the transfer and trading of such transferred shares shall have obtained the approval by the State Council securities regulatory authorities, including the CSRC. In addition, such transfer shall have completed any requisite internal approval process and complied with the regulations prescribed by the State Council securities regulatory authorities and the regulations, requirements and procedures prescribed by the relevant stock exchange. No approval by separate class meeting is required for the listing and trading of such transferred shares on an overseas stock exchange.

In this regard, if any holder of our Domestic Shares is to transfer its Domestic Shares to overseas investors and for listing and trading on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange, such transfer and conversion will need to obtain the approval of the relevant PRC regulatory authorities, including the CSRC.

Based on the methodology and procedures for the transfer and conversion of the Domestic Shares into H Shares as disclosed below, we can apply for the listing of all or any portion of the Domestic Shares on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange as H Shares in advance of any proposed transfer to ensure that the transfer process can be completed promptly upon notice to the Hong Kong Stock Exchange and delivery of shares for entry on the H Share register. Any listing of additional Shares after our initial listing on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange is considered by the Hong Kong Stock Exchange to be a purely administrative matter. The relevant procedural requirements for the transfer and conversion of the Domestic Shares to H Shares are:

- (1) The holder of Domestic Shares is to obtain the requisite approval of CSRC or the authorized securities approval authorities of the State Council for the transfer of all or part of its Domestic Shares into H Shares.
- (2) The holder of Domestic Shares is to issue to us a removal request in respect of a specified number of the Shares attaching the relevant documents of title.

SHARE CAPITAL

- (3) Subject to obtaining the approval of the Board, the Company would then issue a notice to the H Share registrar with instructions that, with effect from a specified date, our H Share registrar is to issue the relevant holders with H Share certificates for such specified number of Shares.
- (4) Such specified number of Domestic Shares to be transferred to H Shares are then re-registered on the H Share register maintained in Hong Kong on the condition that:
 - (a) our H Share registrar lodges with the Hong Kong Stock Exchange a letter confirming the proper entry of the relevant H shares on the H Share register and the due dispatch of H share certificate; and
 - (b) the admission of the H Shares (converted from Domestic Shares) to trade in Hong Kong will comply with the Hong Kong Listing Rules and the General Rules of CCASS and the CCASS Operational Procedures in force from time to time.
- (5) Upon completion of the transfer and conversion, the shareholding of the relevant holder of Domestic Shares in our domestic share register will be reduced by such number of Domestic Shares transferred and the number of H Shares in the H Share register will correspondingly be increased by the same number of Shares.
- (6) We will comply with the Hong Kong Listing Rules to inform the shareholders of the Company and the public by way of an announcement of such fact not less than three days prior to the proposed effective date.

Upon completion of the Global Offering, CRCCG will be subject to the following regulatory transfer restrictions:

- Under the PRC Company Law, Shares which have been issued before we publicly issue Shares are prevented from being transferred within one year from the date of listing on a stock exchange.
- Under the Hong Kong Listing Rules, CRCCG as our controlling shareholder is prevented from, amongst others (i) disposing of or agreeing to dispose any of the Shares for a period of six months from the date of listing on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange; and (ii) during a period of six months thereafter, disposing of or agreeing to dispose of any of the Shares if, immediately after such disposition, they would respectively cease to be our controlling shareholder.

TRANSFER OF SHARES TO NSSF

According to relevant State policy of the PRC, shareholders who hold state-owned shares are generally required to reduce their shares in an amount of 10% of the entire offering in any overseas public offering and either remit the sale proceeds of such shares to NSSF or transfer such shares to NSSF for retention. Pursuant to the approvals of the relevant PRC authorities, CRCCG is required to transfer to NSSF such number of Domestic Shares as shall be equivalent to 10% of the number of Offer Shares. These Domestic Shares will be converted into H Shares on a one-for-one basis upon the listing of the H Shares on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange and will be held by NSSF immediately thereafter. Such share transfer to NSSF was one of the conditions of obtaining the necessary PRC regulatory approvals for the Global Offering.

Upon completion of the A Share Offering and the Global Offering, NSSF will hold approximately 170,600,000 H Shares, representing approximately 1.4% of our total issued share capital, if the Over-allotment Option is not exercised, or 196,190,000 H Shares, representing 1.6% of our total issued share capital if the Over-allotment Option is exercised in full. These H Shares will not constitute any part of the Global Offering but will be considered as part of shares to be held by the public investors for the purpose of Rule 8.08 of the Hong Kong Listing Rules. Neither CRCCG Group nor our Company will receive any proceeds from the transfer by CRCCG to NSSF of such Shares or any subsequent disposal of such H Shares by NSSF. NSSF will have no presence in the Board or our management team and have no influence over our normal business activities. NSSF will become our shareholder if the aforesaid transfer of our H Shares is completed. There is no legal restriction on NSSF to transfer or dispose of the H Shares following the listing of such H Shares. NSSF has not entered or proposed to enter into any agreement, arrangement, understanding or undertaking with us and our connected person(s).

As advised by our PRC legal adviser, Beijing Deheng Law Office:

- the aforesaid transfer is mandated by the relevant PRC authorities in accordance with the State policy and neither CRCCG nor the Company has any influence over the decision; and
- both the aforesaid transfer and conversion, and the retention of H Shares by NSSF following completion of the Global Offering, have been approved by the relevant PRC authorities and are in compliance with the relevant PRC law.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

- (1) EBITDA, which is used to measure our operating performance, is defined as profit for the year/period plus finance costs, share of losses/(profits) of associates and jointly-controlled entities, income tax expense and depreciation and amortization, and less finance revenue, or profit from operations plus depreciation and amortization. EBITDA margin is calculated by dividing EBITDA by total revenue. We present our EBITDA and EBITDA margin here to provide additional information regarding our operating performance and because our management believes EBITDA is useful to investors as a measure commonly used by securities analysts, investors and other interested parties in the evaluation of the performance of companies in the construction industry. EBITDA is not a standard measure under IFRS. EBITDA should not be considered in isolation or construed as an alternative to cash flows, profit for the year/period or any other measure of performance or as an indicator of our operating performance, liquidity, profitability or cash flows generated by operating, investing or financing activities. EBITDA does not account for taxes, interest expense or other non-operating cash expenses. In evaluating EBITDA, we believe that investors should consider, among other things, the components of EBITDA such as turnover and operating expenses and the amount by which EBITDA exceeds capital expenditures.

New contract value

New contract value represents the aggregate value of the contracts that we entered into during a specified period. The value of a contract is the amount that we expect to receive under the terms of the contract if the contract is performed in accordance with its terms. The following table sets out the aggregate value of new contracts entered into by our construction operations, survey, design and consultancy operations and manufacturing operations for the periods indicated:

MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

You should read the following discussion and analysis in conjunction with our consolidated financial information set forth in "Appendix I — Accountants' Report" in this Prospectus, and our selected historical consolidated financial information and operating data and the notes thereto included elsewhere in this Prospectus. Our consolidated financial information has been prepared in accordance with IFRS.

The following discussion and analysis contains certain forward-looking statements that reflect our current views with respect to future events and financial performance. These statements are based on assumptions and analyses made by us in light of our experience and perception of historical trends, current conditions and expected future developments, as well as other factors we believe are appropriate under the circumstances. However, the actual outcome and developments may be subject to a number of risks and uncertainties. See "Risk Factors" and "Forward-looking Statements".

Overview

We are one of the ultra-large integrated construction companies in the world. In 2007, we were listed among the Fortune Global 500 companies, ranking 384th in terms of total revenue. In the same year, we were also ranked sixth out of the Top 225 Global Contractors in terms of total revenue from 2006 construction operations according to ENR magazine and 15th out of the Top 500 Chinese Enterprises elected by the Chinese Enterprise Confederation and the China Enterprise Directors Association in terms of total revenue.

The rapid economic growth in China during the past few years has encouraged the PRC Government at each level to increase their investment in infrastructure construction. China therefore has become one of the largest markets in the world for the infrastructure construction business. We primarily conduct the following operations to meet the increasing demands of the domestic and overseas markets:

- Construction operations: Our construction operations, primarily focusing on infrastructure construction projects, have been our core business since our inception. We conduct the construction operations through our subsidiaries, namely CCECC, the Eleventh to the Twenty-Fifth Bureau Group companies, China Railway Construction Group Co., Ltd. China Railway Electrification Bureau (Group) Co., Ltd. and China Railway Construction (HK) Limited. The main focus of our construction operations is on the construction of railway, highway, metropolitan railway, water conservancy and hydropower facility, airport, port, industrial and civil construction and municipal projects. Business models adopted in our construction business include (i) construction contracting, (ii) project management contracting, or PMC, and (iii) engineering, procurement and construction management, or EPC. Currently, we conduct most of our construction operations through project management contracting. On certain circumstances, we are also engaged in the construction operations by way of BOT, BT and BOO. We have been engaged to provide services in 31 provinces, autonomous regions and, municipalities of China, as well as Hong Kong and Macau. In addition, we are involved in infrastructure construction projects located in overseas countries and territories, including those in Africa, Asia, the Middle-East and Europe. In the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, revenue generated from our construction operations before elimination of inter-segment sales accounted for 93.1%, 93.6%, 94.7%, 94.7% and 93.9% of our total revenue before elimination of inter-segment sales, respectively.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

- Survey, design and consultancy operations: Our survey, design and consultancy operations, primarily conducted through the China Railway First Survey and Design Institute, China Railway Fourth Survey and Design Institute, China Railway Fifth Survey and Design Institute, China Railway Shanghai Design Institute Group Co., Ltd., Beijing China Railway Construction Electrification Design and Research Institute and Beijing Tiecheng Construction Supervision Co., Ltd., constitutes one of our main operations. Our operations include the provision of survey, design, and consultancy services for civil engineering and transportation infrastructure projects, including those involving railway, highway, metropolitan railway, water conservancy and hydropower facility, airport, port, industrial and civil construction and municipal projects. We also provide services for the management, research and development of new technology and equipment. In recent years, we have also increased our services for electrical power supply and telecommunications networks. In the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, revenue generated from our survey, design and consultancy operations before elimination of inter-segment sales accounted for 2.7%, 2.6%, 2.2%, 2.2% and 1.9% of our total revenue before elimination of inter-segment sales, respectively.
- Manufacturing operations: We design, research, develop, manufacture and maintain large track maintenance machinery, as well as railway track components, primarily through our two subsidiaries, namely Kunming Zhong-Tie, and CRRS. As of the Latest Practicable Date, we were the largest company in both China and Asia engaging in the research and development, manufacturing, sales, maintenance and repair of large track maintenance machinery, occupying more than 80% of the PRC domestic market share for large track maintenance machinery. In the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, revenue generated from our manufacturing operations before elimination of inter-segment sales accounted for 1.6%, 1.2%, 0.9%, 0.9% and 1.1% of our total revenue before elimination of inter-segment sales, respectively.
- Other businesses: In addition to our main businesses, we have recently been engaged in the development of various business operations that relate to our main businesses and demonstrate potential for growth, such as businesses involving real estate development and logistics services. In the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, revenue generated from our other businesses before elimination of inter-segment sales accounted for 2.6%, 2.6%, 2.3%, 2.3% and 3.1% of our total revenue before elimination of inter-segment sales, respectively.

Basis of Presentation

Our Company was established in the PRC on 5 November 2007 as a joint stock company with limited liability under the Company Law as a result of a group reorganization of CRCCG. CRCCG is wholly-owned by SASAC. Pursuant to the Decision on the Establishment of CRCC issued by the MOR (Tie Lao 1989 No. 69) on 16 June 1989, CRCCG was established and was registered with the State Administration of Industry and Commerce on 28 August 1990. Prior to the establishment of our Company, construction, survey, design and consultancy, and manufacturing operations were carried out by companies wholly-owned or controlled by CRCCG.

Pursuant to the Restructuring, the Company issued 8 billion ordinary domestic shares with par value of RMB1.00 per share to CRCCG in exchange for all subsidiaries now comprising our Company as well as the principal operations and businesses of CRCCG that were transferred to us, which include: (i) all of the core assets and liabilities relating to its construction operations; (ii) all of the core assets and liabilities relating to its survey, design and consultancy operations; (iii) all of the core assets and liabilities relating to its manufacturing operations including large track maintenance machinery and railway track components manufacturing business; (iv) other businesses, including certain real estate development and logistics operations; (v) contractual rights and obligations relating to the businesses, assets and liabilities transferred to our Company; (vi) employees associated with the businesses transferred to our Company; (vii) qualifications, licenses and approvals relating to the businesses transferred to our Company; and (viii) business and financial records, books and data and technological data and know-how relating to the businesses transferred to our Company.

In connection with the Restructuring, the Retained Operations principally include, (i) certain buildings and prepaid land lease payments that do not have perfected titles and ownership certificates, which were historically associated with the Predecessor Operations; (ii) supplementary defined benefits of retirees; (iii) equity interests in certain companies not strategically complementary to our businesses; (iv) equity interests in the project companies of certain retained BOT projects; and (v) ancillary businesses including hospitals and nurseries. For details, see “Relationship with CRCCG”.

For selected historical financial information relating to the Retained Operations, see Note 2 of the Accountants’ Report in Appendix I to this Prospectus.

Since CRCCG controlled the business operations and the related assets that were transferred to us pursuant to the Restructuring, and continues to control us after the Restructuring, our historical consolidated financial information has been prepared as a combination of businesses under common control in a manner similar to a pooling-of-interests. Accordingly, the assets and liabilities transferred to us have been stated at historical carrying amounts. In addition to the businesses transferred to us, the historical consolidated financial information as presented in the Accountants’ Report in Appendix I and discussed herein also includes assets, liabilities and results of operations of certain of the Retained Operations according to the details set out in the agreement for the Restructuring entered into by the Company with CRCCG because they were an integral part of, and historically associated with, the transferred business.

The financial information presents the consolidated results and financial position of our Company as if the current structure of our Company had been in existence throughout the Track Record Period and as if the transferred businesses were transferred to our Company from CRCCG as of 1 January 2004.

Factors Affecting Our Results of Operations

Our results of operations and the period-to-period comparison of our financial results are affected by a number of external factors. Our consolidated financial statements may not be indicative of our future earnings, cash flows or financial position for numerous reasons, including those described below.

Investment in transportation infrastructure by the PRC Government

Our main operations primarily involve infrastructure construction in China and, in particular, transportation infrastructure construction. As a consequence, our businesses have benefited significantly from the PRC Government’s investments in transportation infrastructure, including investments in the construction and improvement of railways, highways, metropolitan railways, airports and ports. Spending on transportation infrastructure in China increased by 21.3% from 2004 to 2005 and 14.6% from 2005 to 2006, while the year-on-year growth rate of our revenue for the same periods was 28.6% and 38.6%, respectively. To meet the demands for continued and sustained economic growth, government investment in China’s transportation infrastructure will reach as high as RMB3.8 trillion during the five-year period between 2006 and 2010. We expect that continued investment in transportation infrastructure construction by the PRC Government will generate significant business opportunities for us in the next few years. However, if the PRC Government reduces spending on transportation infrastructure projects in China, and we fail to open up new markets in or outside China, our revenue growth could slow down and our turnover could decrease. See “Risk Factors — Risks relating to our industry — The PRC Government may reduce public spending on infrastructure construction”.

Pricing of our infrastructure construction services and products

Contractors for infrastructure construction projects are generally selected using a competitive tender process pursuant to which we must calculate our expected costs and submit a bid to project owner. In addition to considerations of projected costs, target profit margin and competitive landscape, our ability to price a project is subject to government pricing oversight and control. Pricing reference relating to transportation infrastructure projects are often published by the relevant PRC government agencies, as a measure to determine the amount that may be charged on a project. Our ability to obtain favorable prices for our infrastructure construction services is dependent on the relevant regulators taking action and raising pricing reference in line with increases in costs and upgrades in technical specifications. Any downward adjustment in reference prices or failure to increase them sufficiently to offset rising raw material, labor or other costs, particularly as the technical specifications for projects increase, could reduce our margins and have a material and adverse effect on our financial condition and results of operations. For example, the pricing reference for the construction of PD railway lines was temporarily established on the base of pricing reference for the construction of ordinary lines. Partly as the result of this factor, our gross margins for railway construction decreased from 8.2% for the year ended 31 December 2005 to 6.3% for the year ended 31 December 2006. As our largest customer and primary regulator to our railway construction projects, the MOR has significant bargaining power with regard to contract value and other aspects of the projects we undertake for it. We believe that, as deregulation continues and the industry is opened to an increasing number of participants, pricing will ultimately become more market-driven, enabling us to secure higher margins more consistently. However, we can give no assurance that this trend will actually result in more favorable pricing for us or that the resulting increased competition will not have a negative impact on our revenue.

Cost of raw materials and employee benefits

The cost of raw materials and consumables and employee benefits constitutes a significant part of the aggregate of our total cost of sales.

Our operations require various types of raw materials and consumables, including steel, cement, explosives, waterproofing materials, the costs of construction materials, non-ferrous metals, admixtures and track materials. These raw materials are commodities, and their availability and prices depend on local and global market conditions.

The prices of our raw materials are subject to fluctuations. After the signing of a contract, we generally require 12 months or more to complete a majority of our large-scale projects. Accordingly, prices of key raw materials at the time of entering into the contracts may not reflect the prices that we will eventually pay during the execution of our projects. Our ability to pass on increases in the purchase price of raw materials may be limited in the case of fixed-price or fixed unit price contracts or contracts with limited price escalation provisions. Under fixed price contracts, we commit to provide all of the resources required to complete a project for a fixed sum or at fixed unit prices. Under contracts with limited price escalation provisions, we are obligated to bear at least a portion of the increase in the purchase price of key raw materials, principally steel.

Our operations are also dependent on the availability of skilled labor at acceptable prices. Employee benefits comprise all expenses attributable to our employees (both production-related and those involved in selling and distribution as well as administrative activities), which include salaries, allowance and bonuses. We have recently rationalized the work force of some of our subsidiaries. The related termination and early retirement costs are included in our employee benefits.

The actual expenses we incur in executing a fixed-price contract may vary substantially from the expense assumptions underlying our bid for several reasons, including unanticipated increases in the cost of raw materials, labor and other inputs, unforeseen construction conditions, including a customer's inability to obtain the requisite environmental and other approvals, delays caused by local weather conditions and the failure of suppliers or subcontractors to perform. Unanticipated increases in the price of raw materials or the cost of labor not taken into account in our original bid or delays in performing parts of the contract could increase the costs of performing other parts of the relevant contract and thus result in compounding effects. These variations, as well as the risks which are generally inherent in the construction industry, may cause our actual profits to be different from our original estimates and may lead to reduced profitability or losses on projects. See “Risk Factors — Risks relating to our business operations — Actual overall risks or costs of our contracts may exceed our initial evaluation and lead to cost overruns, resulting in a reduction in revenues, lower profitability or even losses on such contracts”.

Subcontracting

Subcontracting costs, primarily from our construction operations and survey, design and consultancy operations, accounted for 10.8%, 8.6%, 7.4% and 7.5% of our cost of sales in the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. We mainly use subcontractors to provide additional workforce for some of our construction projects that are labor intensive and do not require advanced technology. We carefully select subcontractors through a bidding process in accordance with the law in order to reduce our overall costs. We use a number of subcontractors but we are not obliged to use any one or more of them for our construction projects. As a result of our long-term relationships with our subcontractors, we are generally able to realize higher gross margins on projects on which we use such subcontractors due to the stable fees they charge. We intend to continue using subcontractors to meet the additional capacity required for the growth of our business.

Taxation

From 1 January 2008, the normal statutory PRC corporate income tax rate has been reduced from 33% to 25% of taxable income as determined in accordance with the relevant PRC Corporate Income Tax Law. We wrote off deferred tax asset amounting to RMB600.2 million to the consolidated income statement for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 because of the newly approved PRC Corporate Income Tax Law. As a result, our tax expenses increased by 182.5% from RMB499.7 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB1,411.6 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. PRC national and local tax laws provide for a number of preferential tax treatments applicable to different enterprises. Certain of our subsidiaries are currently exempted or taxed at a preferential income tax rate of 15% available to high-technology businesses and businesses that participate in the PRC Government’s development plan for the western part of China. Termination or revision of the various types of preferential tax treatment that certain of our subsidiaries, associates and jointly-controlled entities currently enjoy would have a negative impact on our results of operations and financial condition. In addition, we pay applicable local taxes with respect to our overseas operations and businesses.

We are also required to pay income tax and value added tax in certain foreign countries and territories where we conduct business. Although our overseas construction operations based on the new contract value and backlog of relevant projects have been increased substantially and may increase our tax expenditures associated with our overseas operations due to the expected increases of revenue generated from overseas operations in the coming years, we do not expect that our tax burden from the enlargement of overseas operations will increase materially because most of our new overseas construction contracts are obtained from the customers in the countries and territories where we did business in the Track Record Period. The principal overseas countries in which we did business include Nigeria, Uganda, Rwanda and Tanzania. Currently, the income tax rate for these countries is 30% whereas the value added tax rate is 17% in Uganda and Rwanda and 20% in Tanzania. We do not expect their tax rates will have material change. In addition, the average tax rates in the countries and territories where we conduct business are generally similar to those of the domestic tax rates in the PRC.

Seasonality

We experience seasonality in our business, particularly in our construction business. We typically record higher revenues between July and December relative to revenues recorded between January and June. We attribute this seasonality to the effect that the winter months (generally from January to March) have on our construction operations in the north part of China and to the effect of the Chinese New Year and labor day holidays, during which some of our projects and construction are halted.

Finance costs

We finance a portion of our business operations and capital expenditures with short-term and long-term borrowings. Our borrowings incur interests. Our finance costs are accounted for based on the total interest less interest capitalized in construction in progress and construction contracts. The interest rate fluctuations and the balance of our total borrowings therefore will have an impact on our finance costs. For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, our finance costs were RMB416.2 million, RMB782.8 million, RMB909.3 million, RMB826.7 million and RMB1,077.5 million, respectively. See “— Indebtedness”.

Restructuring

Prior to the Restructuring, we did not exist as a separate legal entity. Our operations were conducted by CRCCG and its predecessors. As part of the Restructuring, CRCCG transferred to our Company as capital injection substantially all of the assets, liabilities and interests of its construction operations, survey, design and consultancy operations, manufacturing operations, real estate development, capital investment and logistics operations. Because CRCCG controlled these operations prior to the Restructuring and continues to control us after the Restructuring, our historical consolidated financial information included in this Prospectus has been prepared as a combination of businesses under common control in a manner similar to a pooling-of-interests. Accordingly, the assets and liabilities transferred to us have been stated at historical amounts in the consolidated financial statements. The consolidated financial information presents the results of our operations as if our operations had already been transferred to us from CRCCG as of 1 January 2004.

In addition, our consolidated financial statements also include assets, liabilities, and results of operations of certain of the businesses and assets historically associated with predecessor operations retained by CRCCG in the Restructuring, such as certain buildings and prepaid land lease payments that do not have perfected titles and ownership certificates, and supplementary defined benefits of retirees. As at 31 December 2004, 2005, 2006 and 30 November 2007, the impact of these assets and liabilities on our historical consolidated financial position resulted in a reduction of net assets of RMB632.7 million, RMB651.4 million, RMB653.0 million, and RMBNil, respectively. (See Note 2 of the Accountants' Report included as Appendix I to this Prospectus). These assets and liabilities were retained by the CRCCG and would not be reflected in our consolidated financial statements after the incorporation of our Company. Furthermore, because of the asset restructuring and the related carve-out accounting, the consolidated financial statements account for the carve-out of the above upon incorporation of our Company as distributions to CRCCG that are not expected to be indicative of future practices or results.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Critical Accounting Policies and Estimates

The discussion and analysis of our results of operations and financial condition is based on our audited consolidated financial information, which have been prepared in accordance with IFRS. Our results of operations and financial condition are sensitive to accounting methods, assumptions and estimates that underlie the preparation of our consolidated financial information. We base our assumptions and estimates on historical experience and on various other assumptions that we currently believe to be reasonable and which form the basis for making judgments about matters that are not readily apparent from other sources. Our management evaluates these estimates on an ongoing basis. Actual results may differ from these estimates as facts, circumstances and conditions change or as a result of different assumptions.

Our management considers the following factors in reviewing our consolidated financial information:

- the selection of critical accounting policies; and
- the judgments and other uncertainties affecting the application of those critical accounting policies.

The selection of critical accounting policies, the judgments and other uncertainties affecting application of those policies and the sensitivity of reported results to changes in conditions and assumptions are factors to be considered when reviewing our audited consolidated financial information. Our principal accounting policies are set forth in detail in Note 3 of “Appendix I — Accountants’ Report” in this Prospectus. We believe the following critical accounting policies involve the most significant judgments and estimates used in the preparation of our audited consolidated financial information.

Revenue recognition

The manner in which revenue is recognized involves estimates by management. As a general principle, we recognize revenue when it is probable that the economic benefits will flow to the Company and when the revenue can be measured reliably.

Construction contract revenue

Revenue from the construction contract is recognized under the percentage of completion method. When the contract has progressed to a stage where its profit can be reliably measured, its revenue is measured based on the stage of completion which is estimated by reference to the recoverable costs incurred during the period plus the related fee earned, measured by the proportion of costs incurred to date to the estimated total costs of the relevant contract.

If the outcome of a construction contract cannot be measured reliably, revenue is recognized only to the extent that the contract costs incurred is probable to be recoverable.

If it is probable that the expected construction contract revenue is less than expected contract costs, the expected loss is immediately recognized as an expense.

Rendering of survey, design and consultancy services

Revenue from the rendering of services is also recognized under the percentage of completion method similar to construction contract.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Sales of goods

Revenue from the sales of goods is recognized when all significant risks and rewards of ownership of goods have been transferred to the buyer and we do not have any continuing managerial involvement to the degree usually associated with ownership or effective control over the goods sold.

BT

Revenue recognition from BT projects is the same as construction contracts.

BOT and BOO

Revenue from toll revenue of BOT or BOO projects is based on the toll revenue received, net of any applicable revenue taxes.

Logistic services

Revenue from the provision of logistic services is recognized when the services are rendered.

Real estate development

Revenue from the sale of properties is recognized when the significant risks and rewards of ownership have been transferred to the buyer, which is when the construction work has been completed and the properties have been delivered to the buyer. Deposits and installments received in respect of properties sold prior to the date of revenue recognition are included in the balance sheet under current liabilities.

Contract work-in-progress

We value our contract work-in-progress at the cost of the work on a project that we have done, plus a proportion of the expected results upon completion of the project in proportion to the progress made and less progress billings and provisions. The cost relating to a project includes direct contract costs, comprising direct material costs, the costs of subcontracting, direct labor costs and an appropriate proportion of fixed and variable construction overheads. Provision will be made for foreseeable losses as soon as they are anticipated by management and will be deducted from the cost and charged to the income statement immediately as incurred.

When the costs incurred in the contract work for contracts in progress plus recognized profits less recognized losses exceed amounts invoiced, the surplus is recognized as the gross amount due from contract customers for contract work.

When the amounts invoiced exceed the costs incurred in the contract work for contracts in progress plus recognized profits less recognized losses, the surplus is recognized as the gross amount due to contract customers for contract work.

Depreciation and Amortization

The amount of depreciation and amortization expenses to be recorded on an asset is affected by a number of management's estimates, such as estimated useful life and residual value. If different judgments are used, material differences may result in the amount and timing of the depreciation or amortization charges related to the asset.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Property, plant and equipment

Depreciation expenses are calculated on a straight-line basis over their estimated useful lives. The useful life for each category of property, plant and equipment is established based on our experience with similar assets that are used in a similar way, our assessment of the use of the assets and anticipated technology evolution. The assumptions used in the determination of useful lives of property, plant and equipment are reviewed periodically. Fully depreciated assets are retained in the accounts without further depreciation until they are no longer in use.

Intangible assets and land use rights

Intangible assets, which include mainly computer software and concession assets, are amortized over their estimated useful lives on a straight-line basis. Their estimated useful lives are based on our assessment of the use and anticipated technology changes.

Land use rights are initially stated at cost and subsequently recognized on the straight-line basis over the lease terms ranging from thirty to fifty years.

Carrying value of assets

We make judgments about the carrying values of assets based on historical experience and on various other assumptions we believe to be reasonable under the circumstances. Whenever there is an event or change in circumstances indicating that the carrying amounts may not be recoverable, an impairment loss is recognized for the amount by which the asset's carrying amount exceeds its recoverable amount. The recoverable amount is the higher of the fair value of an asset less costs to sell and value in use.

Trade and other receivables

We review our trade and other receivables to assess whether impairment conditions exist. In determining the provision for impairment of trade and other receivables, this estimate is based on the credit history of our customers and current market conditions. We usually determine the possibility of recovery in advance based on the size of the clients' operations, and the clients' credit rating in order to assess to quantify the losses. Evidence for determining impairment may include observable data indicating that there has been an adverse change in the payment status of borrowers in a group, or national or local economic conditions that correlate with defaults on assets of our Company. We use estimates based on historical loss experience for assets with credit risk characteristics and objective evidence of impairment similar to those of the receivables balances when scheduling their future cash flows.

Current income tax and deferred income tax

Income tax comprises current and deferred tax. Income tax is recognized in the consolidated income statement, or in equity if it relates to items that are recognized in the same or a different period directly in equity.

Current tax assets and liabilities for the current and prior periods are measured at the amount expected to be recovered from or paid to the taxation authorities.

Deferred tax is provided using the liability method, on all temporary differences at the balance sheet date between the tax bases of assets and liabilities and their carrying amounts for financial reporting purposes.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Deferred tax liabilities are generally recognized for all taxable temporary differences. Deferred tax assets are generally recognized for all deductible temporary differences, carryforward of unused tax credits and unused tax losses, to the extent that it is probable that taxable profit will be available against which the deductible temporary differences and the carryforward of unused tax credits and unused tax losses can be utilized.

Judgments

In the process of applying our accounting policies, management has made judgments, apart from those involving estimations, which have the most significant effect on the amounts recognized in the financial statements:

Impairment of available-for-sale investments

Our Company determines that available-for-sale investments are impaired when there has been a significant or prolonged decline in the fair value below its cost. This determination of what is significant or prolonged requires judgment. In making this judgment, we evaluate, among other factors, the duration and the extent to which the fair value of an investment is below its cost. In addition, impairment may be appropriate when there is evidence of deterioration in the financial health of the investee, industry and sector performance, changes in technology, and operating and financing cash flows.

Contingent liabilities arising from litigations and claims

We are involved in a number of litigations and claims in respect of certain construction work performed in the present and the past. Contingent liabilities arising from these litigations and claims have been assessed by management with reference to legal advice. Provisions on the possible obligations have been made based on management's best estimates and judgments.

Estimation uncertainty

The key assumptions concerning the future and other key sources of estimation uncertainty at the balance sheet date, that have a significant risk of causing a material adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities within the next financial year, are discussed below.

Useful lives and residual values of items of property, plant and equipment

In determining the useful lives and residual values of items of property, plant and equipment, we periodically review the changes in market conditions, expected physical wear and tear, and the maintenance of the asset. The estimation of the useful life of the asset is based on our historical experience with similar assets that are used in a similar way. Depreciation amount will be adjusted if the estimated useful lives and/or the residual values of items of property, plant and equipment are different from previous estimation. Useful lives and residual values are reviewed, at each balance sheet date, based on changes in circumstances.

Current income tax and deferred income tax

We are subject to income taxes in numerous jurisdictions. Judgment is required in determining the provision for taxation. There are many transactions and calculations for which the ultimate tax determination is uncertain during the ordinary course of business. Where the final tax outcome of these matters is different from the amounts originally recorded, the differences will impact on the current income tax and deferred income tax provisions in the periods in which the differences arise.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Deferred tax assets relating to certain temporary differences and tax losses are recognized as management considers it is probable that future taxable profit will be available against which the temporary differences or tax losses can be utilized. The realization of the deferred tax assets mainly depends on whether sufficient future profits or taxable temporary differences will be available in the future. In cases where the actual future profits generated are less than expected, a material reversal of deferred tax assets may arise, which will be recognized in the income statement for the period in which such a reversal takes place.

Percentage of completion of construction work

We recognize revenue according to the percentage of completion of individual contract of construction work, which requires estimation to be made by management. The stage of completion is estimated by reference to the actual costs incurred over the total budgeted costs, and the corresponding contract revenue is also estimated by management. Due to the nature of the activity undertaken in construction contracts, the date at which the activity is entered into and the date at which the activity is completed usually fall into different accounting periods. Hence, we review and revise the estimates of both contract revenue and contract costs in the budget prepared for each contract as the contract progresses. Where the actual contract revenue is less than expected or actual contract costs are more than expected, an impairment loss may arise.

Impairment of trade receivables

We maintain an allowance for estimated loss arising from the inability of our customers to make the required payments. We make our estimates based on the aging of our trade receivable balances, customers' creditworthiness, and historical write-off experience. If the financial condition of our customers will deteriorate such that the actual impairment loss might be higher than expected, we would be required to revise the basis for making the allowance and our future results would be affected.

Retirement benefits

We establish liabilities in connection with benefits paid to certain retired and early retired employees. The amounts of employee benefit expenses and liabilities are determined using actuarial valuations, which are calculated by independent valuation professionals who will conduct annual assessment of the actuarial position of our retirement plans. These actuarial valuations involve making assumptions on discount rates, expected rates of return on assets, pension benefit inflation rates, medical benefit inflation rates, and other factors. Due to the long term nature of these plans, such estimates are subject to significant uncertainty.

Actual results that differ from the assumptions are recognized immediately and therefore, affect recognized expenses in the period in which such differences arise. While management believes that its assumptions are appropriate, differences in actual experience or changes in assumptions may affect the expenses related to the employee retirement benefit obligations.

Description of Selected Components of Results of Operations

- (1) Includes construction revenue from the BT and BOT projects as part of our capital investment operations. For the year ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, we generated construction revenue from BT and BOT projects of RMB185.9 million, RMB2,135.8 million, RMB1,604.6 million, RMB1,451.5 million and RMB1,434.8 million, respectively.
- (2) Includes revenues generated from real estate development, logistic services and other businesses excluding construction revenue from the BT and BOT projects as part of our capital investment operations.

We derived the majority of our revenue from our construction operations, historically and currently our largest revenue contributing segment. We recognize revenue from our construction operations under the percentage of completion method. Currently, we conduct most of our construction operations through project management contracting, or PMC. Under engineering, procurement and construction management, or EPC, projects, part of our construction revenues consists of service fees for survey, design and consultancy services provided by and payable to our survey, design and consultancy operations, and therefore is subject to inter-segment eliminations. During the Track Record Period, we also generated a limited amount of revenue in our construction operations from the construction projects that we engage by way of BOT and BT. For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005, 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, the construction revenue we generated from the BT and BOT projects amounted to RMB185.9 million, RMB2,135.8 million, RMB1,604.6 million and RMB1,434.8 million, respectively.

We also generated revenue during the Track Record Period from the provision of survey, design and consultancy services for major domestic infrastructure construction projects. The customers of our survey, design and consultancy operations pay service fees for the services we provide. Under engineering, procurement and construction management, or EPC, projects, part of our service fees for survey, design and consultancy services will be included in the total construction amount, and therefore subject to inter-segment eliminations.

Revenue from our manufacturing operations mainly includes sales of machinery and equipment manufactured by our subsidiary, Kunming Zhong-Tie, and service fees for installation of machinery and equipment. In addition, we derive revenue from the provision of maintenance services for our maintenance machinery and equipment. Part of our revenues are derived from sales of large track maintenance machinery and equipment to our construction operations, and therefore subject to inter-segment eliminations.

We also receive revenue from other businesses, specifically, from the development and sale of real estate and the provision of logistics services. In addition, we generated toll revenue from our BOT projects of RMB17.1 million, RMB19.4 million and RMB17.5 million for the years ended 31 December 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, respectively.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, inter-segment sales revenue amounted to RMB303.6 million, RMB509.0 million, RMB1,008.3 million, RMB760.4 million and RMB1,525.2 million, respectively, representing 0.4%, 0.5%, 0.7%, 0.6% and 1.1%, respectively, of our total revenue including external and inter-segment sales. Our inter-segment sales revenue was mainly derived from (i) the survey, design and consultancy services provided by our survey, design and consultancy operations to our construction operations; and (ii) sales of large track maintenance machinery by our manufacturing operations to our construction operations.

Cost of sales

Our cost of sales primarily include material costs, labor costs, machinery usage costs, subcontracting costs and other costs. The following table breaks down our cost of sales for the periods indicated:

Costs for the purchase of raw materials, which constitute the main component of our cost of sales, were RMB38,637.3 million, RMB50,246.0 million, RMB72,845.2 million, RMB65,581.3 million and RMB71,068.5 million, respectively, representing 48.4%, 48.8%, 50.6%, 50.6% and 51.9%, respectively of our total cost of sales for each of the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007. Raw materials used in our construction operations mainly include steel, cement, explosives, waterproofing materials, construction materials, non-ferrous metals, admixtures and track materials. Raw materials used in our manufacturing operations mainly include steel and electronic components. The increase in our cost of raw materials was a result of the increase in our business scale and the fluctuation in unit prices of raw materials in recent years.

Labor costs were a significant component of our cost of sales during the Track Record Period. Labor costs amounted to RMB12,748.4 million, RMB15,442.9 million, RMB22,517.0 million, RMB19,442.0 million and RMB22,544.8 million, respectively, representing 16.0%, 15.0%, 15.6%, 15.0% and 16.5%, respectively of our total cost of sales for each of the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007. They consisted mainly of compensation costs for our employees directly involved in producing goods and providing services, and costs for hiring temporary workforce in our construction operations and other operations. However, our labor costs have decreased as a percentage of our total cost of sales from 16.0% in the year ended 31 December 2004 to 15.0% in the year ended 31 December 2005 due to our efforts in rationalizing our management structure. Our labor costs have increased slightly as a percentage of our total cost of sales from 15.0% in the year ended 31 December 2005 to 15.6% in the year ended 31 December 2006, primarily as a result of the increase in salaries. For the same reason, our labor costs have raised slightly as a percentage of our total costs of sales from 15.0% in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to 16.5% in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007.

Machinery usage costs were a large component of our cost of sales during the Track Record Period, representing 14.2%, 14.6%, 14.4%, 14.6% and 14.7%, respectively of our total cost of sales for each of the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007. Machinery usage costs mainly comprise depreciation costs and costs for renting or leasing machinery and equipment for our construction operations.

Subcontracting costs also contributes to our cost of sales during the Track Record Period. In the year ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006, and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, our subcontracting costs amounted to RMB8,612.8 million, RMB8,852.7 million, RMB10,707.8 million, RMB9,539.3 million and RMB10,258.7 million, representing 10.8%, 8.6%, 7.4%, 7.4% and 7.5% of our total cost of sales respectively. The decrease in the subcontracting costs as a percentage of our cost of sales from the year ended 31 December 2004 to the year ended 31 December 2006 was primarily due to increased reliance on our internal resources in construction projects in order to ensure high quality in these projects. In the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, our subcontracting costs represented 7.4% and 7.5% of our total costs of sales, the relatively stable status was mainly due to our consistent control on subcontracting our projects to monitor the quality of projects closely. We incurred subcontracting costs for our construction operations and our survey, design and consultancy operations.

Our cost of sales on a consolidated basis is presented after elimination of inter-segment transactions. As a result, only the cost of sales incurred from purchases of goods or services from external suppliers is accounted for as cost in our consolidated results of operations.

Other income and gains, net

The primary source of our net other income and gains includes government grants, gains on disposal of items of property, plant and equipment, and net fair value gains on financial assets and available-for-sale investments. In 2003, the MOR assigned to us certain construction enterprises that did not have sufficient equipment. We received a one-off government grant in 2005 from the MOR to procure the necessary machinery and equipment for these construction enterprises. The subsidies are recognized as our income over the expected useful life of the relevant machinery and equipment. In 2005, our net other income and gains also included net foreign exchange gains in the amount of RMB87.4 million.

For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, our other income and gains net of other expenses and losses were RMB125.2 million, RMB202.8 million, RMB185.9 million, RMB133.1 million and RMB549.7 million, respectively. On 11 November 2007, we entered into an agreement for the disposal of our wholly-owned indirect subsidiary, China Railway Energy Investment Co., Ltd., to an independent third party for a consideration of RMB435.9 million. The principal activity of China Railway Energy Investment Co., Ltd. is investment holding in an entity engaging in investment and construction of water conservancy and hydropower facilities in Sichuan province. From this transaction, we realized a significant gain of RMB315.8 million.

Finance revenue

RMB280.7 million, RMB384.0 million, RMB546.6 million, RMB493.7 million and RMB537.8 million, respectively.

Finance costs

Our finance costs consist of financing payments on interests on bank loans, other loans, finance leases and discounted bills less the interests capitalized in construction in progress and construction contracts. For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, our finance costs amounted to RMB416.2 million, RMB782.8 million, RMB909.3 million, RMB826.7 million and RMB1,077.5 million, respectively. For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, the average interest rate of our interest-bearing loans and other borrowings was 4.86%, 6.70%, 6.17%, 5.93% and 6.58%, respectively.

Share of profits of jointly-controlled entities and associates

Our share of profits of jointly-controlled entities and associates is the profits attributable to us from our jointly-controlled entities and associates, net of the losses attributable to us from our jointly-controlled entities and associates, pursuant to our equity interests in such jointly-controlled entities and associates. A jointly-controlled entity is a joint venture that is subject to joint control, resulting in none of the participating parties having unilateral control over the economic activity of the jointly-controlled entity. Associates are entities, not being subsidiaries or jointly-controlled entity, in which we have a long term interest of generally no less than 20% of the equity voting rights and over which it is in a position to exercise significant influence. Interests in jointly-controlled entities are accounted for under the equity method of accounting, less any impairment losses, while investments in jointly-controlled entities and associates are accounted for under the equity method of accounting and are initially recognized at cost.

For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, our share of profits of jointly-controlled entities and associates was RMB50.0 million, RMB59.2 million, RMB22.6 million, RMB22.1 million and RMB15.1 million, respectively.

Tax

For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, we had income taxes of RMB179.3 million, RMB409.5 million, RMB596.3 million, RMB499.7 million and RMB1,411.6 million, respectively. Our effective tax rates were 48.2%, 43.8%, 28.4%, 28.8% and 41.3%, respectively.

Certain of our subsidiaries are currently exempted or taxed at a preferential income tax rate of 15% available to high-technology businesses and businesses that participate in the PRC Government's development plan for the western part of China.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

The table below sets out the corporate income tax rates of certain of our subsidiaries which were entitled to preferential tax treatments in the periods indicated:

Certain of our expenses are not deductible for tax purposes and include employee compensation costs exceeding certain limits and certain costs on construction contracts, not tax deductible at the time of recognition according to tax bureau policies. For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005, 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, we had expenses not deductible for tax purposes of RMB277.3 million, RMB244.5 million, RMB137.4 million, RMB112.9 million and RMB63.3 million. Moreover, certain of our income is not subject to taxation, including the profit generated from the Qinghai-Tibet Railway project and interest income from treasury bond investments. For the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, we had non-taxable income of RMB200.6 million, RMB145.3 million, RMB234.9 million, RMB186.0 million and RMB98.8 million.

We expect our effective income tax rate will continue to fluctuate and deviate from the statutory rate due to a combination of factors including preferential tax treatments and tax holidays that our subsidiaries enjoy, increases and decreases in expenses not deductible for and income not subject to taxation.

Minority interests

Minority interests represent the interests of outside shareholders not held by our Company in the results and net assets of our subsidiaries, and are presented separately in the consolidated income statement and within equity in the consolidated balance sheet, separately from parent shareholder's equity. Our total revenue after elimination of inter-segment sales increased by 6.1%, from RMB138,283.7 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB146,667.0 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. This increase was mainly attributable to an increase of RMB7,298.4 million in revenue from our construction operations, a decrease of RMB395.9 million in revenue from our survey, design and consultancy operations, an increase of RMB31.4 million in revenue from our manufacturing operations and an increase of RMB1,449.4 million in revenue from our other operations.

Our cost of sales after elimination of inter-segment sales increased by 5.6% from RMB129,682.1 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB136,934.5 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. The increase was generally consistent with the increase in our total revenue during the same period and was primarily due to the increase of RMB5,487.2 million in material costs, RMB3,102.8 million in direct labor costs, RMB1,189.0 million in machinery usage costs and RMB719.4 million in subcontracting costs, was partially offset by the decrease of RMB3,246.1 million in other expenses. The increase in materials costs for our construction operations was also attributable to the increase in the average purchase price of key raw materials, including steel, cement, explosives, waterproofing materials, admixtures and track materials. The increase in materials costs in our manufacturing operations was attributable to the increase in average purchase price of key raw materials such as steel, electro-mechanical equipment and non-ferrous metals. The increase in labor costs for our operations was mainly caused by the increase in construction operations in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. Increases in average wages for our construction workers in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 also contributed to the increases in our labor costs. The increase in machinery usage costs was mainly due to the increase of scale of our construction operations.

As a result of the foregoing, our gross profit increased by 13.1% from RMB8,601.5 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB9,732.5 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. Our gross profit margin also increased from 6.2% in eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to 6.6% for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. Increase of the gross profit margin were mainly due to the increase of our business scale and our efforts in controlling costs.

Our other net income and gains increased by 313.0% from RMB133.1 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB549.7 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. The increase was mainly attributed to an income generated from disposal of a subsidiary, China Railway Energy Investment Co., Ltd., during the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. On 11 November 2007, we entered into an agreement for the disposal of our wholly-owned indirect subsidiary, China Railway Energy Investment Co., Ltd., to an independent third party for a consideration of RMB435.9 million. The principal activity of China Railway Energy Investment Co., Ltd. is investment holding in an entity engaging in investment and construction of water conservancy and hydropower facilities in Sichuan province. From this transaction, we realized a significant gain of RMB315.8 million.

Our selling and distribution costs decreased by 28.3% from RMB812.1 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB582.5 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. The decrease in selling and distribution costs was mainly attributable to our implementation of flat management system, which improved the selling and distribution efficiency.

Our administrative expenses increased by 1.3% from RMB5,458.5 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB5,529.9 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. The increase in administrative expenses was primarily due to an increase in the salaries of our staff due to the expansion of our business during the respective period. However, administrative expenses as a percentage of revenue decreased from 3.9% in the year ended 31 December eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to 3.8% in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 due to our efforts to control costs and enhance our management efficiency.

Our other expenses decreased by 45.7% from RMB420.2 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB228.3 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007.

Our operating profit representing the sum of gross profit and other income, less selling, general, administrative and other expenses increased by RMB1,897.7 million, or 92.8%, from RMB2,043.9 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB3,941.6 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. At the same time, our operating profit margin increased from 1.5% to 2.7%.

The increase was mainly due to the increases in the revenues generated from railway projects.

Revenue generated from the construction of railways increased by RMB4,020.9 million, or 6.9%, in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 compared to the eleven months ended 30 November 2006, mainly due to the increase in the projects we undertook during the Eleventh Five-Year Plan period (2006-2010).

Revenue generated from the construction of highways decreased by RMB3,321.6 million, or 6.5%, in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 compared to the eleven months ended 30 November 2006. The decrease was mainly because we invested more resources to those projects with higher profit margin, including railway projects and metropolitan railway projects.

Inter-segment sales generated from our construction operations was RMB22.3 million and RMB250.2 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, respectively, mainly from the provision of construction services to our real estate development operations.

As a result, total segment revenue generated from external sales after elimination of inter-segment sales from our construction operations was RMB131,635.9 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and RMB138,934.3 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Cost of sales. Our cost of sales before elimination of inter-segment sales incurred from our construction operations increased by 5.3% from RMB124,305.1 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB130,894.0 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, mainly due to the increases in the cost of sales incurred from railway projects, partially offset by the decreases in the cost of sales incurred from the highway projects.

Cost of sales incurred from the construction of railways increased by RMB3,843.7 million, or 7.0%, in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 compared to the eleven months ended 30 November 2006, mainly due to the increase in railway projects that we commenced in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. In addition, increases in the average procurement price of raw materials such as steel and the depreciation expenses of the equipment for the construction of passenger railway lines also contributed to the increases in our cost of sales.

Cost of sales incurred from the construction of highways decreased by RMB3,510.8 million, or 7.2%, in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 compared to the eleven months ended 30 November 2006. The decrease was mainly caused by the decrease of highway projects we undertook and corresponding decrease of costs.

Gross profit. Gross profit from our construction operations for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 was RMB8,290.6 million, an increase of RMB937.6 million, or 12.8%, compared to RMB7,353.0 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006. However, gross margin from our construction operations increased from 5.6% for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to 6.0% for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, primarily due to our strengthened cost control and better project management. The increase was also partially caused by the changes of our product mix, by which we undertook more projects with higher profit margin, such as metropolitan railway construction projects, in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 compared with the comparable period in 2006.

Selling and distribution costs. Selling and distribution costs from our construction operations decreased by 37.9%, or RMB250.6 million, from RMB661.4 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB410.8 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, primarily due to our efforts to control costs.

Administrative expenses for our construction operations increased by 2.4% from RMB4,743.5 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB4,859.4 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. The increase was due to the growth in our business and the corresponding increase in costs. However, administrative expenses as a percentage of revenue from our construction operations decreased from 3.6% in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to 3.5% in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 as a result of our implementation of flat management system and improvement of management efficiency.

Segment revenue. Our segment revenue before elimination of inter-segment sales from survey, design and consultancy operations decreased by 8.2% from RMB2,995.8 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB2,748.7 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. The decrease was primarily because many survey, design and consultancy projects in which we were involved in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 were still at the early stages and we could not recognize the revenue of these projects yet.

Inter-segment sales revenue generated from our survey, design and consultancy operations was RMB151.4 million and RMB2.4 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 and 2006, respectively. The increase of inter-segment sales was mainly due to our efforts to integrate our operations of different segments. The inter-segment sales in our survey, design and consultancy operations comprised the infrastructure construction survey and design services provided to our construction operations projects.

As a result, total revenue generated from external sales after elimination of inter-segment sales of our survey, design and consultancy operations was RMB2,993.3 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and RMB2,597.4 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007.

Cost of sales. Our cost of sales before elimination of inter-segment sales incurred from our survey, design and consultancy operations decreased by 13.4% from RMB2,423.5 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB2,098.7 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, primarily due to a decrease in the revenue recognized in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. Our efforts to control costs also contributes to the decrease of total cost of sales in our survey, design and consultancy operations.

Gross profit. Gross profit from our survey, design and consultancy operations for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 was RMB650.1 million, an increase of RMB77.8 million, or 13.6%, compared to RMB572.3 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006. Gross margin from the survey, design and consultancy operations increased from 19.1% for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to 23.7% for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. The increase in our gross margin was mainly caused by the increase in the proportion of revenue generated from metropolitan railway construction projects in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, which have a relatively higher gross margin than those of our other projects.

Selling and distribution costs. Selling and distribution costs from our survey, design and consultancy operations decreased by 28.9%, or RMB26.4 million, from RMB91.3 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB64.9 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 due to our efforts to control costs.

Administrative expenses. Administrative expenses for our survey, design and consultancy operations decreased 13.2% from RMB389.0 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB337.7 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 mainly due to our efforts in streamlining management.

Segment results. Operating profit for our survey, design and consultancy operations increased from RMB73.2 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB195.1 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. The operating profit margin for our survey, design and consultancy operations increased from 2.4% for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to 7.1% for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, primarily due to the increase in the segment gross profit margin and a decrease in the administrative expenses, partially offset by an increase of other expense.

The substantial increase was mainly due to the substantial increases of sales of larger track maintenance machinery and equipment and railway track components.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Cost of sales. Our cost of sales before elimination of inter-segment sales incurred from our manufacturing operations increased by RMB350.4 million from RMB1,031.1 million to RMB1,381.5 million. The increase was primarily due to the increase of the scale of our manufacturing business.

Gross profit. Gross profit from our manufacturing operations for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 was RMB252.3 million, an increase of RMB46.0 million, or 22.3%, compared to RMB206.3 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006. Gross margin from the manufacturing operations decreased from 16.7% for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to 15.4% for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 due to increase of cost of raw materials.

Selling and distribution costs. Selling and distribution costs from our manufacturing operation decreased by 5.4% from RMB14.9 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB14.1 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, primarily due to our cost control efforts.

Administrative expenses. Administrative expenses for our manufacturing operations decreased by 2.7% from RMB141.8 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB138.0 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. Segment revenue. Segment revenue derived from other operations mainly included income from the sales of real properties and provision of logistics services to external customers. Revenue before elimination of inter-segment sales of these businesses increased by 46.7% from RMB3,152.8 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB4,625.0 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007.

In the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, we generated RMB636.4 million as revenue from the real estate development business, representing a 34.7% increase from RMB472.6 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006. The substantial increase in revenue was mainly due to the increase of sales and deliveries of real estate properties, as well as a general increase in property prices in the PRC.

In the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, we generated RMB3,988.7 million as revenue from the provision of logistics and other services, representing a 48.8% increase from RMB2,680.3 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006. The increase was mainly due to the expansion of the scale of our logistic services operations.

Inter-segment sales revenue generated from our other operations was RMB715.8 million and RMB738.6 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, respectively. The inter-segment sales in our other operations mainly comprised the logistic services of materials provided to our construction operations segment.

As a result, total revenue generated from external sales after elimination of inter-segment sales of our other operations was RMB2,437.0 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and RMB3,886.4 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Cost of sales. Our cost of sales before elimination of inter-segment sales incurred from our other operations increased by 52.3% from RMB2,682.8 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB4,085.6 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. The increase was primarily due to an increase of RMB117.0 million in the cost for real estate development and a RMB1,285.8 million increase in the cost for logistic and other services, both due to the expansion of our operational scales.

Gross profit. Gross profit from our operations other than construction, survey, design and consultancy and manufacturing operations for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 was RMB539.5 million, an increase of RMB69.5 million, or 14.8%, compared to RMB470.0 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006. Gross margin from other businesses within our operations decreased from 14.9% for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to 11.7% for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, mainly due to the decreases in our gross margin from the other businesses in our other operations.

Gross profit from our real estate development operations increased from RMB123.8 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB170.6 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 due to the expansion of our real estate development operations. The gross margin also slightly increased from 26.2% to 26.8% due to the increase in property prices in the PRC.

Gross profit from our logistics and other services increased from RMB346.2 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB368.8 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 due to the increase of the scale of our logistics business.

Selling and distribution costs. Selling and distribution costs from our other operations increased from RMB44.4 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB92.7 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007.

Selling and distribution costs from our real estate development business increased from RMB17.4 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB64.7 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, mainly due to the increases of expenses in sales and marketing activities for the real estate development business.

Administrative expenses. Administrative expenses for our other operations increased from RMB184.2 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB194.9 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. The increase was due to the growth of our business.

Administrative expense from our real estate development business for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 was RMB53.2 million, representing an increase of RMB5.7 million, or 12.0%, compared to RMB47.5 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006. This increase was primarily due to the increase of our scale of operations.

Other expenses, net of other income and gains. In the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007, our other expenses for our other operations amounted to RMB15.4 million and RMB8.7 million, respectively.

Other expenses from our real estate development business for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 was RMB17.4 million, representing an increase of RMB14.1 million, or 427.3%, compared to RMB3.3 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006.

Segment results. As a result of the foregoing reasons, total operating profit for our operations other than construction, survey, design and consultancy and manufacturing operations for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007 was RMB226.0 million and RMB243.2 million, respectively. However, our segment operating profit margin for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007 was 7.2% and 5.3%, respectively.

Discussion of other results in the income statement

The following discussion relates to our business as a whole and is not specific to any individual business segment.

Finance revenue. Our finance revenue increased by 8.9% from RMB493.7 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB537.8 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007. The increase was mainly due to the increase in our total bank deposits and the increase in interest rates during the eleven months ended 30 November 2007.

Finance costs. Our finance costs increased by 30.3% from RMB826.7 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB1,077.5 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, primarily due to the increase in interest on bank and other loans of RMB350.5 million, partially offset by the increase in capitalization of interest expenses to construction contracts of RMB99.7 million.

Share of profits of jointly-controlled entities and associates. Share of profits of jointly-controlled entities and associates decreased by RMB7.0 million, or 31.7%, from RMB22.1 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB15.1 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007.

Tax. Our tax expenses increased by 182.5% from RMB499.7 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB1,411.6 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, primarily due to the write-off of deferred tax asset amounting to RMB600.2 million to the income statement of our Company for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 as a result of the newly approved PRC Corporate Income Tax Law resulting in a reduction of income tax rate from 33% to 25% effective on 1 January 2008. In addition to the above, the increase in income tax charge for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 was partly due to the growth of operating results of our Company for the period in question.

Profit for the year. As a result of the foregoing, our profit for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007 increased by 62.6%, or RMB772.1 million, from RMB1,233.4 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 to RMB2,005.5 million in the eleven months ended 30 November 2007.

Minority interests. As part of the Restructuring, we acquired the equity interest in each of our entities which were previously held by the Employee Share Ownership Committee in 2007. In the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, the loss attributable to minority interests was RMB3.2 million, compared with the gain of RMB225.7 million in the comparable period of 2006.

Profit attributable to equity holder of the company. As a result of the foregoing, profit attributable to equity holder of the company was RMB1,007.7 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and RMB2,008.7 million for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007.

Our total revenue after elimination of inter-segment sales increased by 38.6%, from RMB110,794.7 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB153,609.0 million in the year ended 31 December 2006. This increase was mainly attributable to an increase of RMB42,236.7 million in revenue from our construction operations, an increase of RMB435.2 million in revenue from our survey, design and consultancy operations and an increase of RMB208.8 million in revenue from our other operations. However, the increase was slightly offset by a decrease of RMB66.5 million in revenue from our manufacturing operations.

Our cost of sales after elimination of inter-segment sales increased by 40.0% from RMB102,869.8 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB144,013.0 million in the year ended 31 December 2006. The increase was generally consistent with the increase in our total revenue during the same period and was primarily due to the increase of RMB22,599.2 million in material cost, RMB7,074.1 million in labor costs and RMB5,797.1 million in machinery usage costs, as well as other expenses incurred by our construction operations and manufacturing operations. The increase in materials costs for our construction operations was also attributable to the increase in the average purchase price of certain raw materials such as cement. The increase in materials costs in our manufacturing operations was attributable to the increase in average purchase price of key raw materials such as electro-mechanical equipment and non-ferrous metals. The increase in labor costs for our operations was mainly caused by the increase in construction projects that we commenced in the year ended 31 December 2006. Increases in average wages for our construction workers in the year ended 31 December 2006 also contributed to the increases in our labor costs. The increase in machinery usage costs was mainly due to the increases in the construction projects which required us to use more special machinery and equipment.

As a result of the foregoing, our gross profit increased by 21.1% from RMB7,924.9 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB9,596.0 million in the year ended 31 December 2006. However, our gross profit margin decreased from 7.2% in 2005 to 6.2% in 2006. Decreases of the gross profit margin were mainly due to the decrease of gross profit of our construction operations.

Our other net income and gains decreased by 8.3% from RMB202.8 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB185.9 million in the year ended 31 December 2006. Our other net income and gains in 2005 were higher because we recognized a RMB87.4 million gain from foreign exchange and a RMB14.3 million gain on disposals of property, plant and equipment. We had fewer gains in 2006.

Our selling and distribution costs decreased by 3.6% from RMB926.9 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB893.1 million in the year ended 31 December 2006. The decrease in selling and distribution costs was mainly attributable to our implementation of flat management system, which improved the selling and distribution efficiency.

Our administrative expenses increased by 14.3% from RMB5,251.7 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB6,002.1 million in the year ended 31 December 2006. The increase in administrative expenses was primarily attributed to an increase in the salaries of our staff and other expenses due to the expansion of our business during the respective period. However, administrative expenses as a percentage of revenue decreased from 4.7% in the year ended at 31 December 2005 to 3.9% in the year ended 31 December 2006 due to our efforts to control costs and enhance our management efficiency.

Our other expenses decreased by 33.5% from RMB674.2 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB448.3 million in the year ended 31 December 2006.

Our operating profit representing the sum of gross profit and other income, less selling, administrative and other expenses increased by RMB1,163.4 million, or 91.3%, from RMB1,274.9 million for the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB2,438.3 million for the year ended 31 December 2006. At the same time, our operating profit margin increased from 1.2% to 1.6%.

Segment revenue. Our segment revenue before elimination of inter-segment sales from our construction operations increased by 40.5%, or RMB42,226.0 million, from RMB104,133.7 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB146,359.7 million in the year ended 31 December 2006. The increase was mainly due to the increases in the revenues generated from railway projects and highway projects.

Revenue generated from the construction of railways increased by RMB29,062.6 million, or 89.6%, in the year ended 31 December 2006 compared to the year ended 31 December 2005, mainly due to the increase in the projects and total new railway projects we undertook, largely driven by increased total spending by the MOR on railway projects from approximately RMB100 billion in the year ended 31 December 2005 to approximately RMB200 billion in the year ended 31 December 2006 in connection with the beginning of the implementation of the Eleventh Five-Year Plan.

Revenue generated from the construction of highways increased by RMB9,360.0 million, or 19.7%, in the year ended 31 December 2006 compared to the year ended 31 December 2005, mainly due to an increase in major highway construction projects with which we were awarded in 2006 resulting from increased government investment in such projects in the same year.

Inter-segment sales generated from our construction operations was RMB104.2 million and RMB93.5 million in the years ended 31 December 2005 and 2006, respectively, mainly from the provision of construction services to our real estate development operations.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

As a result, total segment revenue generated from external sales after elimination of inter-segment sales from our construction operations was RMB104,029.5 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 and RMB146,266.2 million in the year ended 31 December 2006.

Cost of sales. Our cost of sales before elimination of inter-segment sales incurred from our construction operations increased by 41.4% from RMB97,680.1 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB138,146.2 million in the year ended 31 December 2006, mainly due to the increases in the cost of sales incurred from railway projects and highway projects.

Cost of sales incurred from the construction of railways increased by RMB27,837.3 million, or 93.4%, in the year ended 31 December 2006 compared to the year ended 31 December 2005, mainly due to the increase in railway projects that we commenced in the year ended 31 December 2006. In addition, the increased depreciation expenses of the equipment for the construction of passenger railway lines and subcontracting costs also contributed to the increase in cost of sales.

Cost of sales incurred from the construction of highways increased by RMB9,195.8 million, or 20.3%, in the year ended 31 December 2006 compared to the year ended 31 December 2005, mainly due to the increases in our revenue in the highway construction projects in the same period. In addition, increases in the average procurement price of raw materials and subcontracting expenses also contributed to the increase in cost of sales.

Gross profit. Gross profit from our construction operations for the year ended 31 December 2006 was RMB8,213.4 million, an increase of RMB1,759.8 million, or 27.3%, compared to RMB6,453.6 million for the year ended 31 December 2005. However, gross margin from our construction operations decreased from 6.2% for the year ended 31 December 2005 to 5.6% for the year ended 31 December 2006, primarily due to the higher equipment usage costs we incurred as a result of the higher technical specifications required for construction of high-speed passenger railway lines, as well as the increased raw material costs associated with such higher technical specifications without commensurate increases in contract price for such railway lines. The decrease was partially offset by the increase of gross margin in metropolitan railway construction projects, which have a relatively higher gross margin.

Selling and distribution costs. Selling and distribution costs from our construction operations increased by 0.3%, or RMB2.3 million, from RMB706.8 million for the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB709.1 million for the year ended 31 December 2006, primarily due to the increase in our business scale and the corresponding increase in costs.

Administrative expenses. Administrative expenses for our construction operations increased by 17.0% from RMB4,468.8 million for the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB5,226.7 million for the year ended 31 December 2006. The increase was due to the growth in our business and the corresponding increase in costs. However, administrative expenses as a percentage of revenue from our construction operations decreased from 4.3% in the year ended 31 December 2005 to 3.6% in the year ended 31 December 2006 as a result of our implementation of flat management system and improvement of management efficiency.

Other expenses, net of other income and gains. Other expenses for our construction operations decreased by 59.5% from RMB455.3 million for the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB184.2 million for the year ended 31 December 2006.

Segment results. Total operating profit for our construction operations increased by RMB1,270.7 million from RMB822.7 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB2,093.4 million in the year ended 31 December 2006. Operating profit margin for our construction operations increased from 0.8% for the year ended 31 December 2005 to 1.4% for the year ended 31 December 2006, despite the decrease in our segment gross profit margins, primarily due to a decrease in our administrative expenses, selling and distribution expenses and other expenses, net of other income and gains as a percentage of the segment revenue.

Survey, design and consultancy operations

The principal profit and loss information for our survey, design and consultancy operations before elimination of inter-segment sales are as follows:

	For the years ended 31 December
	2005	2006
	(audited)	(audited)
	(RMB million)
Segment revenue	2,909.3	3,348.5
Inter-segment sales	33.6	37.6
Revenue from external sales	2,875.7	3,310.9
Cost of sales	(2,147.0)	(2,713.6)

Other expenses, net of other income and gains	(28.5)	(24.0)
Segment results	93.4	80.7

Segment revenue. Our segment revenue before elimination of inter-segment sales from survey, design and consultancy operations increased by 15.1% from RMB2,909.3 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB3,348.5 million in the year ended 31 December 2006. The increase was primarily due to the increase in completed survey, design and consultancy service stages, which was partly caused by the increases in new contract we were awarded in 2006, as well as the expansion of our survey, design and consultancy operations. In the year ended 31 December 2006, our new contract value for survey, design and consultancy operations was RMB3,073.3 million, representing a 12.0% increase from RMB2,743.3 million in the year ended 31 December 2005.

Inter-segment sales revenue generated from our survey, design and consultancy operations was RMB33.6 million and RMB37.6 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 and 2006, respectively. The inter-segment sales in our survey, design and consultancy operations comprised the infrastructure construction survey and design services provided to our construction operations projects.

As a result, total segment revenue generated from external sales after elimination of inter-segment sales of our survey, design and consultancy operations was RMB2,875.7 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 and RMB3,310.9 million in the year ended 31 December 2006.

Cost of sales. Our cost of sales before elimination of inter-segment sales incurred from our survey, design and consultancy operations increased by 26.4% from RMB2,147.0 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB2,713.6 million in the year ended 31 December 2006, primarily due to the increase of survey, design and consultancy operations in which we were involved in the year ended 31 December 2006. In order to manage the increased operations, we employed more professionals in 2006 compared to 2005, which increased our overall staff costs for the survey, design and consultancy operations.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Gross profit. Gross profit from our survey, design and consultancy operations for the year ended 31 December 2006 was RMB634.9 million, a decrease of RMB127.4 million, or 16.7%, compared to RMB762.3 million for the year ended 31 December 2005. Gross margin from the survey, design and consultancy operations decreased from 26.2% for the year ended 31 December 2005 to 19.0% for the year ended 31 December 2006. The decrease in our gross margin for our survey, design and consultancy operations was mainly due to the decrease of the gross profit margin of railway survey, design and consultancy projects. The decrease in our gross margin for our survey, design and consultancy operations is partly offset by the increase of gross margin in metropolitan railway survey, design and consultancy projects, which have a relatively higher gross margin.

Selling and distribution costs. Selling and distribution costs from our survey, design and consultancy operations decreased by 28.7%, or RMB47.1 million, from RMB163.9 million for the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB116.8 million for the year ended 31 December 2006 due to our efforts to control costs.

Administrative expenses. Administrative expenses for our survey, design and consultancy operations decreased by 13.2% from RMB476.4 million for the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB413.4 million for the year ended 31 December 2006 as a result of our efforts in streamlining management.

Other expenses, net of other income and gains. Other expense for our survey, design and consultancy operations decreased by 15.8% from RMB28.5 million for the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB24.0 million for the year ended 31 December 2006.

Segment result. Operating profit for our survey, design and consultancy operations decreased from RMB93.4 million in the years ended 31 December 2005 to RMB80.7 million in the year ended 31 December 2006. The operating profit margin for our survey, design and consultancy operations decreased from 3.2% for the year ended 31 December 2005 to 2.4% for the year ended 31 December 2006, primarily due to the decrease in the segment gross profit margin, partially offset by a decrease in the selling and distribution costs, administrative expenses and other expenses, net of other income and gains as a percentage of segment revenue.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Segment revenue. Segment revenue before elimination of inter-segment sales from our manufacturing operations was RMB1,388.3 million and RMB1,355.2 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 and 2006, respectively. The relatively stable status of revenue generation was due to the fact that there was no significant increase in market demand or competition for large track maintenance machinery during the relevant period, and as such, our prices and sales volumes for this segment remained relatively stable.

We did not enter into any inter-segment transactions in our manufacturing operations in the year ended 31 December 2005. Inter-segment sales revenue generated from our manufacturing operations was RMB33.5 million in the year ended 31 December 2006. Substantially all of our inter-segment sales of large track maintenance machinery in 2006 involved the sales to our construction projects.

Cost of sales. Our cost of sales before elimination of inter-segment sales incurred from our manufacturing operations slightly increased from RMB1,112.9 million to RMB1,130.7 million. Since our operational scale of the manufacturing operations was relatively stable in the year ended 31 December 2006 compared to the year ended 31 December 2005, our cost of sales incurred from the manufacturing operations remained at the same level for the period.

Gross profit. Gross profit from our manufacturing operations for the year ended 31 December 2006 was RMB224.5 million, a decrease of RMB50.8 million, or 18.5%, compared to RMB275.3 million for the year ended 31 December 2005. Gross margin from the manufacturing operations decreased from 19.8% for the year ended 31 December 2005 to 16.6% for the year ended 31 December 2006 because increase in cost of sales outpaced increase in revenue.

Selling and distribution costs. Selling and distribution costs from our manufacturing operations decreased 5.9% or RMB1.1 million from RMB18.8 million for the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB17.7 million for the year ended 31 December 2006, primarily due to our efforts to control costs.

Administrative expenses. Administrative expenses for our manufacturing operations decreased by 0.4% from RMB152.8 million for the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB152.2 million for the year ended 31 December 2006.

Other expenses, net of other income and gains. Our manufacturing operations had net other income of RMB42.7 million for the year ended 31 December 2005. Our manufacturing operations had net other expenses of RMB38.0 million for the year ended 31 December 2006. The increase of our net other expenses was primarily due to a net foreign exchange loss in the year of 2006.

Segment results. As a result of the foregoing reasons, operating profit for our manufacturing operations decreased substantially from RMB146.4 million to RMB16.6 million, and the operating profit margin decreased from 10.5% to 1.2%. The decrease in the segment operating profit margin was primarily due to the decrease in segment gross margin and our foreign exchange loss.

The increase was mainly due to the expansion of the scale of our logistic services operations and the increase in the number of construction projects in China, which created more opportunities for us to provide logistics services to contractors, including to our construction operations segment.

Inter-segment sales revenue generated from our other operations was RMB371.2 million and RMB843.8 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 and 2006, respectively. Finance revenue. Our finance revenue increased by 42.3% from RMB384.0 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB546.6 million in the year ended 31 December 2006. Finance costs. Our finance costs increased by 16.2% from RMB782.8 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB909.3 million in the year ended 31 December 2006, primarily due to the increase in interest on bank and other loans of RMB201.1 million, partially offset by the increase in capitalization of interest expenses to construction in progress of RMB4.9 million.

Share of profits of jointly-controlled entities and associates. Share of profits of jointly-controlled entities and associates decreased by RMB36.6 million, or 61.8%, from RMB59.2 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB22.6 million in the year ended 31 December 2006.

Our total revenue after elimination of inter-segment sales increased by 28.6%, from RMB86,187.5 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB110,794.7 million in the year ended 31 December 2005. This increase was mainly attributable to an increase of RMB23,497.8 million in revenue from our construction operations. In addition, an increase of RMB553.8 million in revenue from our survey, design and consultancy operations, an increase of RMB25.8 million from our manufacturing operations and an increase of RMB529.8 million in revenue from our other operations also contributed to the changes in our total revenue during the period.

Our cost of sales after elimination of inter-segment sales increased by 28.9% from RMB79,802.6 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB102,869.8 million in the year ended 31 December 2005. The increase was generally consistent with the increase in our total revenue during the same period and primarily due to the increase of RMB11,608.7 million in material costs, RMB2,694.5 million in labor costs and RMB3,631.7 million in machinery usage costs, as well as other expenses incurred by our construction and manufacturing operations. The increase in materials costs was attributable to the increase of our business scale. The increase in labor costs for our operations was mainly caused by the increase in the infrastructure construction and design projects. Increases in average wages for our construction workers in the year ended 31 December 2005 also contributed to the increases in our labor costs. The increase in machinery usage costs was mainly due to the increases in the construction projects which required us to use more special machinery and equipment.

As a result of the foregoing, our gross profit generated from external transactions increased by 24.1% from RMB6,384.9 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB7,924.9 million in the year ended 31 December 2005. However, our gross profit margin decreased from 7.4% in 2004 to 7.2% in 2005. Decreases in our gross profit margin were mainly due to the decrease of gross profit of railway construction projects and survey, design and consultancy projects.

Our net other income and gains increased by 62.0% from RMB125.2 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB202.8 million in the year ended 31 December 2005. This increase was mainly due to our net income generated from foreign exchange difference of RMB87.4 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 as well as the increase in gains on disposal of property, plant and equipment from RMB12.9 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB14.3 million in the year 31 December 2005.

Our selling and distribution costs increased by 21.8% from RMB760.9 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB926.9 million in the year ended 31 December 2005. The increase in selling and distribution costs was mainly attributable to an increase in marketing and promotional expenses in overseas markets mainly due to the expansion of operations in each of our operating segments.

Our administrative expenses increased by 12.7% from RMB4,661.2 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB5,251.7 million in the year ended 31 December 2005. The increase in administrative expenses was primarily due to the expansion of operations in each of our operating segments, which resulted in increases in personnel expenses, traveling, marketing and sales expenses, depreciation and amortization costs and utility charges. However, administrative expenses as a percentage of revenue decreased from 5.4% in the year ended at 31 December 2004 to 4.7% in the year ended at 31 December 2005 due to our efforts to control costs and increase of our operation scale.

Our other expenses increased by 6.9% from RMB630.6 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB674.2 million in the year ended 31 December 2005. The increase was due to the increase in impairment of assets in 2005.

As a result of the foregoing, our operating profit representing the sum of gross profit and other income, less selling, administrative and other expenses was RMB1,274.9 million for the year ended 31 December 2005, an increase from RMB457.4 million in the year ended 31 December 2004. At the same time, our operating profit margin increased from 0.5% to 1.2%.

Revenue. Our segment revenue before elimination of inter-segment sales from our construction operations increased by 29.3% from RMB80,565.8 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB104,133.7 million in the year ended 31 December 2005. The RMB23,567.9 million, or 29.3%, increase in the construction operations from the year ended 31 December 2004 to the year ended 31 December 2005 were mainly due to the increases in the revenues generated from highway projects and railway projects.

Revenue generated from the construction of highways increased by RMB12,025.7 million, or 33.8%, in the year ended 31 December 2005 compared to the year ended 31 December 2004, primarily due to an increase in major highway construction projects with which we were awarded in 2005 resulting from increased government investment in highway projects in the same year.

Revenue generated from the construction of railways increased by RMB9,973.2 million, or 44.4%, in the year ended 31 December 2005 compared to the year ended 31 December 2004, mainly due to the increase in projects and total new railway project value, as well as a significant increase in the contract work for the Qinghai-Tibet Railway project. Significant new projects include passenger railway lines, railway upgrade projects, new freight railways resulting from increased demand for freight transportation.

Inter-segment sales revenue generated from our construction operations was RMB34.2 million and RMB104.2 million in the years ended 31 December 2004 and 2005, respectively, mainly from the provision of construction services to our real estate development operations.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

As a result, total segment revenue generated from external sales after elimination of inter-segment sales to our construction operations was RMB80,531.7 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 and RMB104,029.5 million in the year ended 31 December 2005.

Cost of sales. Our cost of sales before elimination of inter-segment sales incurred from our construction operations increased by 29.6%, or RMB22,299.9 million from RMB75,380.2 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB97,680.1 million in the year ended 31 December 2005. The increase was mainly due to the increases in the cost of sales incurred from highway projects and railway projects.

Cost of sales incurred from the construction of highways increased by RMB11,187.6 million, or 32.9%, in the year ended 31 December 2005 compared to the year ended 31 December 2004, mainly due to the increases in our revenue in the highway construction projects in the same period.

Cost of sales incurred from the construction of railways increased by RMB9,474.7 million, or 46.6%, in the year ended 31 December 2005 compared to the year ended 31 December 2004, mainly due to the increase in railway projects that we commenced in the year ended 31 December 2005, including the Qinghai-Tibet Railway.

Gross profit. Gross profit from our construction operations for the year ended 31 December 2005 was RMB6,453.6 million, an increase of RMB1,268.0 million, or 24.5%, compared to RMB5,185.6 million for the year ended 31 December 2004. However, gross margin from our construction operations decreased from 6.4% for the year ended 31 December 2004 to 6.2% for the year ended 31 December 2005, primarily due to increases in costs of steel in the first half of 2005 (particularly in relation to highway construction contracts which typically do not contain price adjustment clauses to compensate for the increase in raw material prices), partially offset by the increase of gross margin in metropolitan railway construction projects, which have a relatively higher gross margin.

Selling and distribution costs. Selling and distribution costs from our construction operations increased by 31.1%, or RMB167.8 million, from RMB539.0 million for the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB706.8 million for the year ended 31 December 2005, primarily due to the increase in our business scale and the corresponding increase in costs.

Administrative expenses. Administrative expenses for our construction operations increased by 12.1% from RMB3,987.0 million for the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB4,468.8 million for the year ended 31 December 2005. The increase was due to the growth in our business and the corresponding increase in costs. However, administrative expenses as a percentage of revenue for our construction operations decreased from 4.9% in the year ended 31 December 2004 to 4.3% in the year ended 31 December 2005 as a result of our cost control efforts.

Other expenses, net of other income and gains. Other expenses for our construction operations decreased from RMB658.0 million for the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB455.3 million for the year ended 31 December 2005.

Segment results. Total operating profit for our construction operations increased from RMB1.6 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB822.7 million in the year ended 31 December 2005. As a result of the 29.3% increase in revenue generated from external sales after elimination of inter-segment sales of this segment and a 29.6% increase in cost of sales of this segment, our operating profit margin for our construction operations increased to 0.8% in the year ended 31 December 2005.

Segment revenue. Our segment revenue before elimination of inter-segment sales from survey, design and consultancy operations increased by 24.0% from RMB2,345.6 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB2,909.3 million in the year ended 31 December 2005. The increase was primarily due to the increase in completed survey, design and consultancy service stages, which was partly caused by the increases in new contract we were awarded in 2005, as well as the completion of design stages of the Qinghai-Tibet Railway project. In the year ended 31 December 2005, our new contract value for survey, design and consultancy operations was RMB2,743.3 million, representing a 10.6% increase from RMB2,479.7 million in the year ended 31 December 2004.

Inter-segment sales revenue generated from our survey, design and consultancy operations was RMB23.7 million and RMB33.6 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 and 2005, respectively. The inter-segment sales by our survey, design and consultancy operations comprised the infrastructure construction survey and design services provided to our construction operations for projects that we engage on an EPC basis.

As a result, total revenue generated from external sales after elimination of inter-segment sales of our survey, design and consultancy operations was RMB2,321.9 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 and RMB2,875.7 million in the year ended 31 December 2005.

Cost of sales. Our cost of sales before elimination of inter-segment sales incurred from our survey, design and consultancy operations increased by 27.6% from RMB1,682.0 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB2,147.0 million in the year ended 31 December 2005, primarily due to the increased survey, design and consultancy operations we were involved in the year ended 31 December 2005 and the utilization of more costly survey, design and consultancy methods. In order to manage the increased operations, we employed more professionals in 2005 compared to 2004, which increased our overall staff costs for the survey, design and consultancy operations, contributing to an increase in the staff cost component of costs of sales in our survey, design and consultancy operations in 2005.

Gross profit. Gross profit from our survey, design and consultancy operations for the year ended 31 December 2005 was RMB762.3 million, an increase of RMB98.7 million, or 14.9%, compared to RMB663.6 million for the year ended 31 December 2004. Gross margin from the survey, design and Administrative expenses. Administrative expenses for our survey, design and consultancy operations increased 16.4% from RMB409.1 million for the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB476.4 million for the year ended 31 December 2005. The increase was primarily due to increase in employee compensation and benefits in connection with the upgrading of our surveying capacities.

Segment results. Operating profit for our survey, design and consultancy operations decreased from RMB102.0 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB93.4 million in the year ended 31 December 2005. The operating profit margin for our survey, design and consultancy operations decreased from 4.3% for the year ended 31 December 2004 to 3.2% for the year ended 31 December 2005, primarily due to the decrease in segment gross profit margin.

Segment revenue. Segment revenue from our manufacturing operations was RMB1,362.5 million and RMB1,388.3 million in the years ended 31 December 2004 and 2005, respectively. The relatively stable status of the revenue generation was due to the fact that there was no significant increase in market demand for large track maintenance machinery during the relevant period, and as such, our prices and sales volumes for this segment remained relatively stable.

We did not enter into any inter-segment transactions in our manufacturing operations during this period.

Cost of sales. Our cost of sales incurred from our manufacturing operations slightly decreased from RMB1,126.6 million to RMB1,112.9 million. Since our operational scale of the manufacturing operations was relatively stable in the year ended 31 December 2005 compared to the year ended 31 December 2004, our cost of sales incurred from the manufacturing operations remained at the same level for the period.

Gross profit. Gross profit from our manufacturing operations for the year ended 31 December 2005 was RMB275.3 million, an increase of RMB39.4 million, or 16.7%, compared to RMB235.9 million for the year ended 31 December 2004. Gross margin from the manufacturing operations increased from 17.3% for the year ended 31 December 2004 to 19.8% for the year ended 31 December 2005 primarily due to the decrease in cost of components used in our manufacturing operations, which was a result of the appreciation of the foreign exchange rate of Renminbi against the U.S. dollar.

Selling and distribution costs. Selling and distribution costs from our manufacturing operations increased 3.9% or RMB0.7 million from RMB18.1 million for the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB18.8 million for the year ended 31 December 2005, primarily due to economies of scale.

Administrative expenses. Administrative expenses for our manufacturing operations increased 11.5% from RMB137.0 million for the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB152.8 million for the year ended 31 December 2005. The increase was due to increase in scale of our operations.

Other expenses, net of other income and gains. Our manufacturing operations had other expenses, net of other income and gains in the amount of RMB4.8 million for the year ended 31 December 2004. In comparison, we had net other income of RMB42.7 million for the year ended 31 December 2005, primarily due to net foreign exchange gains in the amount of RMB87.4 million in the same year.

Segment results. As a result of the foregoing reasons, total operating profit for our manufacturing operations increased from RMB76.0 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB146.4 million in the year ended 31 December 2005, and the segment operating profit margin increased from 5.6% to 10.5% in the same period. The increase in our operating profit margin for our manufacturing operations was primarily due to the increase in segment gross profit margin and our foreign exchange gains.

Segment revenue. Segment revenue derived from other operations mainly included income from the sales of real properties and provision of logistics services to external customers. Revenue before elimination of inter-segment sales of these businesses increased by 29.6% from RMB2,217.2 million for the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB2,872.5 million for the year ended 31 December 2005.

In the year ended 31 December 2005, we generated RMB486.6 million as revenue from the real estate development business, representing a 36.5% increase from RMB356.5 million in the year ended 31 December 2004. The substantial increase in revenue in the year ended 31 December 2005 was mainly because of the growth of our property development operations, as well as a general increase in property prices in the PRC.

In the year ended 31 December 2005, we generated RMB1,914.4 million as revenue from the provision of logistics services, representing a 44.4% increase from RMB1,325.8 million in the year ended 31 December 2004. The increase was mainly due to the expansion of our business scale in the logistic services operations and the increase in the number of construction projects in China, which created more opportunities for us to provide logistics services to contractors as well as to our construction operations.

Inter-segment sales revenue generated from our other operations was RMB245.7 million and RMB371.2 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 and 2005, respectively. The inter-segment sales in our other operations mainly comprised the logistic services of materials provided to our construction operations.

As a result, total segment revenue generated from external sales after elimination of inter-segment sales of our other operations was RMB1,971.5 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 and RMB2,501.3 million in the year ended 31 December 2005.

Cost of sales. Our cost of sales before elimination of inter-segment sales incurred from our other operations increased by 27.2% from RMB1,917.4 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to

RMB2,438.8 million in the year ended 31 December 2005. The increase was primarily due to an increase of RMB68.9 million in the cost for real estate development and a RMB556.6 million increase in the cost for logistic services, both due to the expansion of our operational scales.

Gross profit. Gross profit from our operations other than construction, survey, design and consultancy and manufacturing operations for the year ended 31 December 2005 was RMB433.7 million, an increase of RMB133.9 million, or 44.7%, compared to RMB299.8 million for the year ended 31 December 2004. Gross margin from other operations slightly increased from 13.5% for the year ended 31 December 2004 to 15.1% for the year ended 31 December 2005.

Our real estate development operations recorded a gross loss of RMB3.9 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 and a gross profit of RMB57.3 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 because while we commenced our real estate development operations in 2004, revenue from most of our real estate development projects was not recognized until 2005. Gross margin for our real estate development operations increased from a loss to 11.8%.

Gross profit from our logistics services increased from RMB142.3 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB174.3 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 due to the increase in the number of construction projects in China, which created more opportunities for us to provide logistics services to contractors. Gross margin for our logistics services was decreased from 10.7% to 9.1%.

Selling and distribution costs from our real estate development business increased from RMB6.2 million for the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB13.0 million for the year ended 31 December 2005, mainly due to the increases of expenses in sales and marketing activities for the real estate development business.

Administrative expenses. Administrative expenses for our other operations increased 19.9% or RMB 25.5 million from RMB128.1 million for the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB153.6 million for the year ended 31 December 2005. The increase was due to the growth of our business and the corresponding increase in costs. Administrative expenses as a percentage of revenue for our other operations decreased from 5.8% in the year ended 31 December 2004 to 5.3% in the year ended 31 December 2005 as a result of our cost control efforts. Administrative expenses from our real estate development business for the year ended 31 December 2005 was RMB37.7 million, representing an increase of RMB4.5 million, or 13.6%, compared to RMB33.2 million for the year ended 31 December 2004. This increase was primarily due to the increase of our business scale.

Other expenses, net of other income and gains. The other expenses, net of other income of gains for the year ended 31 December 2004 amounted to a net gain of RMB129.6 million, because of the reversal of the impairment of properties we held in Macau which were impaired in 2003 due to the downturn of the property market at that time. For the same reason, we recorded a net gain in the amount of RMB142.8 million from our real estate development business for the year ended 31 December 2004. We recorded net other expenses of RMB2.1 million from our other operations for the year ended 31 December 2005. Other expenses from our real estate business amounted to RMB28.1 million for the year ended 31 December 2005.

Segment results. As a result of the foregoing reasons, total operating profit for our operations other than construction, survey, design and consultancy and manufacturing operations was RMB277.7 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 and RMB212.4 million for the year ended 31 December 2005, respectively. Our segment operating profit margin for the years ended 31 December 2004 and 2005 was 12.5% and 7.4%, respectively.

Discussion of other results in the income statement

Finance revenue. Our finance revenue increased by 36.8% from RMB280.7 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB384.0 million in the year ended 31 December 2005. The increase was mainly due to the increase in our bank deposits and increase in interest rates.

Finance costs. Our finance costs increased from RMB416.2 million for the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB782.8 million for the year ended 31 December 2005, primarily due to the increase in interest on bank and other loans of RMB425.6 million, partially offset by the increase in interests capitalized in construction contracts of RMB44.7 million.

Share of profits of jointly-controlled entities and associates. Share of profits of jointly-controlled entities and associates increased by RMB9.2 million, or 18.4% from RMB50.0 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB59.2 million in the year ended 31 December 2005. The increase was primarily due to the increase in profits of Chun Wo — Henryvicy — CRCC — Queensland Rail joint venture, partly offset by the decrease in profits of AMEC — Hong Kong Construction CC-202 joint venture.

Tax. Our tax expenses increased by 128.4% from RMB179.3 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB409.5 million in the year ended 31 December 2005, primarily due to the increase in our taxable profit.

Profit for the year. As a result of the foregoing, our profit for the year ended 31 December 2005 increased by 173.1%, or RMB333.3 million, from RMB192.6 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB525.9 million in the year ended 31 December 2005.

Minority interests. Minority interest increased by 96.8% from RMB89.7 million for the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB176.5 million for the year ended 31 December 2005, primarily due to an increase of profit in subsidiaries not wholly owned by us.

Profit attributable to equity holder of the Company. As a result of the foregoing, profit attributable to equity holder of the Company was RMB102.9 million for the year ended 31 December 2004 and RMB349.3 million for the year ended 31 December 2005.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

Our planned capital expenditures for our construction operations will primarily consist of expenditures for the purchase of machinery and equipment for construction projects. Our planned capital expenditure for our manufacturing operations will primarily consist of expenditures for the upgrade of our production base for large track maintenance machinery and high-speed railway switches and rail fasteners.

For the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, we had already incurred RMB10,328.5 million in capital expenditures. We plan to fund the capital expenditures of our capital expenditure for the remaining portion of 2007 mainly from cash from operations and 2008 primarily with the proceeds from the A Share Offering and Global Offering and cash from our operations. See “Future Plans and Use of Proceeds” and “Appendix V — The A Share Offering”.

The estimated amounts of expenditures set out above may vary from actual amounts of expenditures for a variety of reasons, including changes in market conditions and other factors and has not been approved by the Board. Any expansion of our capacity beyond the projects listed may require additional debt or equity funding. Our ability to obtain additional funding in the future is subject to a variety of uncertainties including our future results of operations, financial condition and cash flows, economic, political and other conditions in the PRC and Hong Kong, and the PRC Government’s policies relating to foreign currency borrowings.

We manage our capital expenditures through our capital budget management system. At the end of each year, each of our subsidiaries prepares its capital expenditure plan for the following year according to its business needs, and reports to our headquarters. Requests from subsidiaries are analyzed and prioritized according to the overall development strategy of our Company. Our headquarters then communicates with each subsidiary the proposed revisions to its capital budget plan. The final budget plan is approved by the Board and distributed to subsidiaries for implementation. We plan to finance our capital commitments using cash flow generated from our operations as well as external financings, including the A Share Offering, the Global Offering and bank borrowings. We may also issue debt securities, such as short-term notes after our listing. We may also selectively enter into joint ventures with companies that have strong financial backing to pool the financial resources required for large-scale projects.

Working Capital

Taking into account a portion of the net proceeds available to us from the Global Offering, our cash and cash equivalents on hand, our available credit facilities and cash generated from future operations, our Directors are of the opinion that we have sufficient working capital for our present requirements and for the

(1) Include materials-in-transit and raw materials.

Our inventory balances as of 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and 30 November 2007 have been increasing. The increases are primarily due to our large purchase quantities of raw materials because of the increase of our construction operations and the expected increase in raw material prices. Our subsequent usage/sales of inventories as of 30 November 2007 from 1 December 2007 to 31 December 2007 amounted to RMB2,938.8 million.

The following table sets forth the turnover days of our inventory for the periods indicated:

Turnover days of inventory for an eleven-month period is derived by dividing the arithmetic mean of the opening and closing balances of inventory by cost of sales for the relevant period and then multiplied by 334 days.

The turnover days of inventory for the three years ended 31 December 2006 were 18 days, 15 days and 13 days, respectively. The improvement in turnover days is in line with our continuous efforts to improve our inventory management.

Our contract work-in-progress increased from RMB7,131.4 million in the year ended 31 December 2004 to RMB14,194.9 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 mainly due to the increase in our business scale. In the year ended 31 December 2006, our contract work-in-progress decreased slightly from RMB14,194.9 million in the year ended 31 December 2005 to RMB13,645.2 million primarily due to the quicker settlement of amount by customers.

Trade receivables and trade payables

The following table sets forth the turnover days of our trade receivables and trade payables for the periods indicated:

Turnover days of trade receivables for an eleven-month period is derived by dividing the arithmetic mean of the opening and closing balances of trade receivables by revenue for the relevant period and then multiplied by 334 days.

Turnover days of trade payables for an eleven-month period is derived by dividing the arithmetic mean of the opening and closing balances of trade payables by cost of sales for the relevant period and then multiplied by 334 days.

We do not have a standardized and universal credit period granted to customers of our construction services. Additionally, certain customers of our construction services set out their requested credit periods in their bidding documents. Accordingly, the credit periods are, to a certain extent, influenced by these customers. The credit periods of individual customers are therefore considered on a case-by-case basis and set out in the construction contracts, as appropriate. For those customers that are government authorities or large enterprises with good credit history, we usually agree to the granting of a longer credit period.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

In addition, we have adopted a series of policies and efforts to achieve prompt recoveries of our overdue trade and bills receivables, such as stringent credit standards for credit analysis of our clients, close monitoring of the recoverability of our overdue trade and bills receivables. Due to these efforts, the turnover days of trade receivables decreased from 54 days in the year ended 31 December 2004 to 46 days in the year ended 31 December 2006.

The turnover days of trade and bills payable of our Company decreased from 99 days in the year ended 31 December 2004 to 84 days in the year ended 31 December 2006. This was primarily due to the increase in raw material prices, which, in turn, caused us to increase the usage of payment at sight for raw materials procurement. However, the impact of the decrease in turnover days of trade and bills payable on our cash flow situation was reduced by the decrease in turnover days of trade and bills receivables.

We account for our trade and bills receivables from the date of recognition. However, according to our construction contracts, a number of our customers are entitled to a grace period of up to three years after the relevant projects are completed, while revenue is recognized upon completion of the relevant projects according to the accounting principles applicable to our Company. The grace period may increase the aging of our accounts receivables. The trade receivables with an aging of more than three years mainly consisted of our BT projects, which generally have a maturity period from two to six years. Our subsequent settlement of trade and bills receivables as of 30 November 2007, including retention money receivables, from 1 December 2007 to 31 December 2007 amounted to RMB5,211.5 million.

As of 31 December 2006, a portion of our trade and bills receivables are aged over the credit period granted to our customers, which is not an uncommon issue in current Chinese construction market in light of the bargaining power of large customers who may not settle the outstanding receivable balances on a timely basis. In particular, for those customers that are government related agencies/entities, it may take a longer period to complete their internal procedure for acceptance of the construction work and processing of payments to us. Our management closely monitors the recoverability of our overdue trade and bills receivables on a regular basis, and, when appropriate, provides for impairment of these accounts receivable. As of 31 December 2006, we had a provision for impairment of RMB711.3 million. Our Directors believe that the provision for impairment of our Company is adequate to protect our normal business operations.

For purchases of raw materials, our suppliers typically grant us a credit period ranging from 90 to 180 days. As of 30 November 2007, our trade and bill payables of more than three years amounted to approximately RMB592.5 million, mainly consisting of undue long-term retention money payables. Subcontracting charges are paid in accordance with the terms of the contracts governing the relevant transactions which normally range from 45 to 60 days. Under the relevant contracts, we may be able to extend our payment terms and require our suppliers and contractors to place retentions with us for a period of usually one year. As of 31 December 2006, approximately 36.4% of our trade and bills payables were aged over 180 days. Nevertheless, there have not been any material disputes arising from the late payments of outstanding balances under our contracts with suppliers or subcontractors. As of 31 December 2006, our trade and bills payable increased by RMB8,261.2 million from RMB29,989.5 million as of 31 December 2005. The increase was primarily because we were granted a longer credit period by our supplier due to the increase of our business scale our outstanding credit standard. Our subsequent settlement of trade and bills payables as of 30 November 2007, including retention money payables, from 1 December 2007 to 31 December 2007 amounted to RMB7,852.8 million.

Retentions

We had retention receivables of RMB2,602.5 million, RMB3,475.7 million, RMB4,810.0 million and RMB5,522.2 million as of 31 December 2004, 2005 2006 and as of 30 November 2007, respectively. We had retention payables of RMB585 million, RMB823 million, RMB738 million and RMB650 million as of 31 December 2004, 2005 2006 and as of 30 November 2007, respectively. Our subsequent settlement of trade and bills receivables as of 30 November 2007, including retention money receivables, from 1 December 2007 to 31 December 2007 amounted to RMB5,211.5 million. Our subsequent settlement of trade and bills payables as of 30 November 2007, including retention money payables, from 1 December 2007 to 31 December 2007 amounted to RMB7,852.8 million.

Retention money payable	813.2	426.8	112.3

We usually maintain retention receivables and retention payables for a duration of one to six years. As the retention receivables and retention payables are expected to be settled within our normal operating cycles, they are classified as current assets and current liabilities for accounting presentation purposes. receivables, and the corresponding retention payables, may be extended to up to five years for major customers and customers with whom we have a long-term relationship, or due to longer contractual maintenance periods for large-scale projects and extension of maintenance periods as a result of change in scope of work or repairs. Retention receivables are interest-free and recoverable at the end of the retention period of the relevant construction contract, which is usually one year.

Prepayments, deposits and other receivables

Our prepayments, deposits and other receivables included advances to suppliers, prepayments and deposits and other receivables. Advances to suppliers mainly represented advance payments to suppliers for the purchase of inventories and advance payments to sub-contractors for sub-contracting work. Prepayments mainly represented prepaid rental and insurance expenses. Deposits and other receivables mainly represented bidding bonds, performance bonds and various deposits required for our business operations. Our prepayments, deposits and other receivables increased from RMB15,765.8 million in 2004, to RMB18,443.9 million in 2005, RMB21,585.4 million in 2006, and RMB27,408.6 million as of 30 November 2007, primarily because of the increase in prepayments to our suppliers and the increase in bid deposits to customers, in response to the enlarged operation scale.

Provision for supplementary pension subsidies and early retirement benefits

We paid supplementary pension subsidies to employees who retired prior to 1 January 2007. Pursuant to the Restructuring, CRCCG has agreed to assume the liabilities of the supplementary pension subsidies of the retired employees from 1 January 2007. Subsequent to 1 January 2007, we terminated the supplementary pension subsidies plan for our employees who retired after 1 January 2007.

In the attempt to streamline our workforce and improve efficiency, we implemented an early retirement plan, under which we compensate certain early-retired employees till they formally retire. Upon retirement, they will be covered by government-sponsored retirement plans.

Our obligations in respect of the supplementary pension subsidies and early retirement benefits at the balance sheet dates were computed by an independent actuary, Towers, Perrin, Forster & Crosby, Inc., Hong Kong, whose actuaries are members of the Society of Actuaries of the United States of America, using the projected unit credit actuarial cost method. As of 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and 30 November 2007, our provision for those obligations were RMB11,766.8 million, RMB11,614.7 million, RMB11,250.3 million and RMB7,860.9 million, respectively. See Note 35 of the Accountant's Report included Appendix I of this Prospectus for more details.

Other payables and accruals

Other payables and accruals included advances from customers, accrued salaries, wages and benefits, other taxes payable and others. Advances from customers mainly represented advances received from customers for the construction contracts. Accrued salaries, wages and benefits mainly represented accruals of salaries, bonuses, allowances, housing fund, social insurance and union and education funds. Other taxes payable mainly represented business taxes and value-added taxes payable. Others mainly represented payables to sub-contractors for payments made on behalf of our Company, deposits and performance bonds received from sub-contractors, payables for the purchases of machinery and equipment and payables for repair and maintenance expenses. As of 31 December 2004, 2005, 2006 and 30 November 2007, we had other payables and accruals of RMB25,606.6 million, RMB33,002.8 million, RMB38,323.8 million and RMB58,030.3 million. Liquidity ratios

Our current assets divided by current liabilities, or current ratio, was 0.97, 0.99, 0.98, and 0.95 as of 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and 30 November 2007, respectively. As of 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and 30 November 2007, we had net cash of RMB4,957.3 million, RMB4,295.2 million, RMB4,528.7 million and RMB946.0 million, respectively.

As of the date of this Prospectus, all guarantees previously provided by CRCCG Group and its subsidiaries to our Company have been released or withdrawn.

Our Directors are of the view that, other than as disclosed above, there has been no material change in our indebtedness since 30 November 2007.

Contingent liabilities

Pursuant to the agreement for the Restructuring entered into by the Company with CRCCG, except for liabilities constituting or arising out of or relating to businesses undertaken by the Company after the Restructuring, no other liabilities were assumed by our Company and our Company is not liable, whether severally, or jointly and severally, for debts and obligations incurred prior to the Restructuring by CRCCG. CRCCG has also undertaken to indemnify our Company in respect of any loss or damage incurred relating to the core business prior to their transfer by CRCCG to our Company in the Restructuring, any loss or damage suffered or incurred by our Company in relation to the novation of relevant contracts from CRCCG to the Company and as a result of any breach by CRCCG of any provisions of the Restructuring Agreement. The Company has also undertaken to indemnify CRCCG in respect of any damages suffered or incurred by CRCCG as a result of any breach by our Company of any provision of the Restructuring Agreement. We confirm that there has been no material change in our indebtedness and contingent liabilities since 30 November 2007.

Lawsuits and other proceedings

We were involved in a number of legal proceedings and claims against either the Company or the subsidiary of the Company in the ordinary course of business. The provisions regarding these proceedings and claims were approximately RMB12.0 million as of 31 December 2006, based on the best estimates of our management. See “Business — Legal proceedings”.

Net Current Liabilities

Our net current liabilities decreased from RMB1,896.0 million as of 31 December 2004 to RMB881.6 million as of 31 December 2005, but increased to RMB1,887.7 million as of 31 December 2006 and RMB6,490.3 million as of 30 November 2007. As a large construction company, our operations require significant capital expenditures in purchasing machinery and equipments. In response to our business development needs during the Track Record Period, our capital expenditures increased significantly. We financed our capital expenditures through cash generated from our operations and both long-term and short-term bank borrowings, which led to our net current liability position.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Although we had net current liabilities during the Track Record Period, we had unutilized banking facilities of RMB117.4 billion as of 30 November, 2007 which was significantly in excess of our net current liability positions as of the balance sheet date. We have not experienced and do not expect to experience any difficulties meeting our obligations as they become due. We also intend to increase our share capital and adjust the term structure of our borrowings as appropriate to further improve our working capital situation. The following table sets forth our current assets and current liabilities as of the balance sheet dates indicated.

Off-balance Sheet Arrangements

As of 30 November 2007, being the date of our most recent financial statements, we did not have any off-balance sheet arrangements except for the contingent liabilities disclosed above.

Market risk

We are exposed to various types of market risks in the ordinary course of our business, including fluctuations in interest rates and foreign exchange rates, inflation risk and changes in costs of raw materials. We manage our exposure to these and other market risks through regular operating and financial activities.

Interest rate risk

Our exposure to the risk of changes in market interest rates primarily relates to our interest-bearing borrowings. We regularly review and monitor an appropriate level of a mix of fixed and floating rate borrowing in order to manage the interest rate risk. Our interest-bearing assets such as cash and cash equivalents currently exceed our interest bearing borrowings. We do not anticipate a significant impact resulting from changes in interest rates, although our future interest income and interest expenses may fluctuate in line with changes in interest rates. We confirm that there has been no material change in the indebtedness and contingent liabilities since 30 November 2007.

Foreign currency risk

Our revenue and expenses are mainly predominated in RMB and over 90% of our financial assets and liabilities are denominated in RMB. We use, however, foreign currencies to settle our invoices from overseas operations, to settle our purchase of machinery and equipment from overseas suppliers and for certain expenses. The Renminbi is not freely convertible into other currencies and conversion of the Renminbi into foreign currencies is freely subject to rules and regulations of foreign exchange control promulgated by the PRC government. In July 2005, the PRC government introduced a managed floating exchange rate system to allow the Renminbi to fluctuate within a regulated band based on market supply and demand and by reference to a basket of currencies. The PRC government has since made, and may in the future make, further adjustments to the exchange rate system. When the Renminbi appreciates, the value of foreign currency denominated assets will decline against the Renminbi.

Fluctuation in foreign exchange currency rate may adversely affect us by decreasing any revenues from our sales which are denominated in foreign currency or increasing our borrowings which are denominated in foreign currencies. See "Risk Factors — Risks relating to the People's Republic of China — Changes in foreign exchange regulations and future movements in the exchange rate of Renminbi may affect the financial condition and results of operations of our Company and our ability to pay dividends". The following table sets forth the approximate change in our profit before tax and other components of equity in response to reasonably possible changes in the foreign exchange rates against the Renminbi to which we have significant exposure at the balance sheet dates during the Track Record Period:

Decrease in Euro rate	-5%	17.4	16.6	15.8	35.5
Effect on other components of equity

Decrease in Hong Kong dollar rate	-3%	17.4	18.6	22.5	14.8

Credit risk

Substantially all of our cash and cash equivalents are held in major financial institutions located in China, which our management believes are of high credit quality. We have policies that limit the amount of credit exposure to any financial institutions. Because our major customers are state-owned enterprises and PRC Government agencies at the national, provincial and local levels, our management believes that they are reliable and of high credit quality and hence, there is no significant credit risk with these customers. In addition, because our exposure is spread over a diversified portfolio of customers, there is no significant concentration of credit risk.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Our held-to-maturity investments consist of an entrusted loan to a PRC domestic company, PRC government bonds and PRC corporate bonds. Available-for-sales investments and financial assets at fair value through profit or loss primarily consist of securities investment fund, shares of PRC listed and unlisted companies and PRC government bonds. We do not have any investments in sub-prime loans. Therefore, there is no drop in value of our investment portfolio due to sub-prime incident.

Liquidity risk

Our liquidity is primarily dependent on our ability to maintain adequate cash inflows from our operations to meet our debt obligations as they become due, and our ability to obtain external financing to meet our committed future capital expenditure. With regard to our future capital commitments and other financing requirements, we have already obtained approximately RMB176.5 billion banking facilities mainly from various reputable commercial banks in the PRC. As of 30 November 2007, of which an amount of approximately RMB59.1 billion was utilized. As of 30 November 2007, as we still has unutilized banking facilities of RMB117.4 billion whereas the cash outflow of our Company from investing activities was less than RMB10 billion for each of the Track Record Period, after taking into account the expansion of the business activities of our Company in the coming year, the Directors are of the view that we will not have any problem to obtain sufficient financial resources from banks to meet its financial requirements within 12 months from the date of this document. In addition, as most of the banking facilities of our Company were obtained from various PRC reputable commercial banks, the Directors are also of the view that our unutilized banking facilities will not be significantly affected by sub-prime lending issues which are currently hitting on certain overseas commercial banks.

PROFIT ESTIMATE

We believe that on the bases as set forth below and in the absence of unforeseen circumstances as set forth in Rule 11.17 of the Hong Kong Listing Rules, our estimated consolidated profit attributable to equity holders of the Company for the year ended 31 December 2007 is expected to be not less than RMB2,262 million under IFRS, including a significant gain on disposal of a subsidiary of RMB315.8 million and the write-off of net deferred tax assets of RMB600.2 million for the eleven month period ended 30 November 2007 as a result of reduction of income tax rate from 33% to 25% effective on 1 January 2008 according to the PRC Corporate Income Tax Law, which resulted in a decrease of RMB600.2 million in the net profit of our Company.

On a pro forma fully diluted basis based on the above profit estimate and assuming that (i) the Global Offering had been completed and a total of 9,706,000,000 Shares were outstanding throughout the year ending 31 December 2007; and that (ii) the Over-allotment Option will not be exercised, the estimated earnings per Share on a pro forma diluted basis for the year ending 31 December 2007 would be RMB0.233 (HK$0.254), representing fully diluted price to earnings multiples of approximately 39.0 times and 42.1 times based on the Offer Prices of HK$9.93 and HK$10.70 per Share respectively. The above calculation does not take into account A Shares to be issued in the A Share Offering.

On a pro forma fully diluted basis based on the above profit estimate and assuming that (i) the A Share Offering and the Global Offering had been completed and a total of 12,156,000,000 Shares were outstanding throughout the year ended 31 December 2007; and that (ii) the Over-allotment Option will not be exercised, the estimated earnings per Share on a pro forma diluted basis for the year ending 31 December 2007 would be RMB0.186 (HK$0.203), representing fully diluted price to earnings multiples of approximately 48.9 times and 52.7 times based on the Offer Prices of HK$9.93 and HK$10.70 per Share respectively.

Bases

The prospective financial information has been prepared based on the accounting policies consistent in all material respects with those adopted by us as set forth in the Accountants' Report included as Appendix I to this Prospectus.

DIVIDEND POLICY

After completion of the Global Offering, our shareholders will be entitled to receive dividends declared by us. The proposal of payment and the amount of our dividends will be made at the discretion of our Board and will depend on our general business condition and strategies, cash flows, financial results and capital requirements, interests of our shareholders, taxation conditions, statutory and regulatory restrictions and other factors that our Board deems relevant. Any dividend distribution shall also be subject to the approval of our shareholders in the shareholders' meeting.

Under the PRC Company Law and our Articles of Association, we will pay dividends out of our after-tax profit only after we have made the following allocations:

- recovery of accumulated losses, if any;
- allocations to the statutory reserve fund equivalent to 10% of our after-tax profit; and
- allocations, if any, to a discretionary reserve fund approved by the shareholders in a shareholders' meeting.

When the statutory reserve fund reaches and is maintained at or above 50% of our registered capital, no further allocations to this statutory fund will be required. Our profit distributable for the above-mentioned allocations and our dividend distribution shall be our after-tax profit as determined by PRC GAAP or IFRS, whichever is lower.

All of our shareholders have equal rights to dividends and distributions in the form of stock or cash. For holders of our H Shares, cash dividend payments, if any, will be declared by our Board in Renminbi and paid in Hong Kong dollars.

On 30 November 2007, our sole shareholder resolved that all of our shareholders will be entitled to all of our distributable profits generated from 1 December 2007. However, due to the possible time difference between our A Share Offering and the Global Offering, our sole shareholder further resolved that:

- (i) if the date of the listing of our H Shares is within the three-month period after the date of the listing of our A Shares, the shareholders of the Company, including A Share holders, CRCCG and H Share holders, will be entitled to our distributable profits generated from 1 December 2007 to the date of the completion of the Global Offering;
- (ii) if our H Shares are not listed within the three-month period after the date of the listing of our A Shares, we will distribute our distributable profits generated from 1 December 2007 to the then A Share holders and CRCCG pursuant to our dividend policy and the distribution proposal as approved by our shareholders' meeting.

Considering our present financial condition, we currently intend, subject to the above mentioned limitations, and in the absence of any circumstances which might reduce the amount of distributable profits whether by losses or otherwise, to distribute to our shareholders not less than 25% of our distributable profits for the years ended 31 December 2008 and 2009.

PRE-ESTABLISHMENT DISTRIBUTION AND SPECIAL DIVIDEND

In accordance with the “Provisional Regulation Relating to Corporate Reorganization of Enterprises and Related Management of State-owned capital and Financial Treatment” (the “Provisional Regulations”) issued by the MOF, which became effective from 27 August 2002, and the Restructuring Agreement entered into between CRCCG and our Company, we are to make a distribution to CRCCG (the “Pre-establishment Distribution”), our sole shareholder prior to the initial offering of our A Shares, in an amount equal to the net profit attributable to shareholders for the period from 1 January 2007 to 5 November 2007 (the date on which our Company was incorporated).

In addition, pursuant to the resolution of a shareholders’ meeting dated 30 November 2007, our sole shareholder, CRCCG, has resolved to make a special distribution to itself, as our sole shareholder, in an amount equal to the net profit of our Company for the period from 6 November 2007, the date immediately after the date on which our Company is incorporated, to 30 November 2007 (the “Special Dividend”). The net profit of our Company for the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend in aggregate will be determined based on the audited accounts prepared in accordance with PRC GAAP for the eleven months ended 30 November 2007, after giving effect to relevant necessary adjustments. The total aggregate amount of the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend is RMB2,423.9 million and will be paid to CRCCG prior to the completion of our A Share Listing. We intend to pay the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend out of our internal financial resources. The Pre-establishment Distribution and Special Dividend will be settled prior to the listing of our H Shares on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange.

The holders of H Shares are not entitled to share in the Pre-establishment Distribution or Special Dividend. CRCCG is the only shareholder entitled to the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend. In addition, any distributable profits available for distribution to our shareholders after the Global Offering will exclude the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend.

The Pre-establishment Distribution is required to be paid to CRCCG under regulations issued by the MOF. We decided to distribute the Special Dividend based on our commercial discretion. You should not rely on the Pre-establishment Distribution and the Special Dividend as an indication of our future dividends distribution policy or practice.

DISTRIBUTABLE RESERVES

Our company does not have any available distributable reserve as of 30 November 2007.

UNAUDITED PRO FORMA ADJUSTED CONSOLIDATED NET TANGIBLE ASSETS

The following unaudited pro forma adjusted consolidated net tangible assets of our company have been prepared based on the audited consolidated net tangible assets of our company attributable to the equity holder of the Company as of 30 November 2007 as extracted from the Accountants’ Report, the text of which is set out in Appendix I to this Prospectus, and is adjusted as described below.

The unaudited pro forma adjusted consolidated net tangible assets of our company have been prepared for illustrative purposes only and, because of their nature, they may not give a true picture of the financial position of our company.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

The following unaudited pro forma adjusted consolidated net tangible assets of our company have been prepared to show the effect on the consolidated net tangible assets of our company as of 30 November 2007 as if the Global Offering had occurred on 30 November 2007.

	Consolidated net tangible assets attributable to equity holder of the Company as at 30 November 2007	Estimated net proceeds receivable by the Company from the Global Offering	Unaudited pro forma adjusted consolidated net tangible assets of our company attributable to equity holder of the Company	Unaudited pro forma adjusted consolidated net tangible assets per share
Based on the offer price of HK$9.93 per Share (low-end)	3,715,961	14,887,291	18,603,252	1.92	2.09
Based on the offer price of HK$10.70 per Share (high-end)	3,715,961	15,989,467	19,705,428	2.03	2.22

- (1) The consolidated net tangible assets attributable to equity holder of the Company as of 30 November 2007, was determined as follows:

	RMB'000
Audited consolidated net assets of our company as set out in Appendix I	4,934,976
Less: Minority interests	208,408
Consolidated net assets attributable to equity holder of the Company	4,726,568
Less: Intangible assets	1,010,607
Consolidated net tangible assets attributable to equity holder of the Company	3,715,961

- (2) The estimated net proceeds from the Global Offering are based on the offer price of HK$9.93 per share and HK$10.70 per share after deduction of the underwriting fees and other related expenses payable by the Company, and do not take into account of any shares which may be issued upon the exercise of the Over-allotment Option. The estimated net proceeds from the Global Offering are converted at the PBOC Rate from Hong Kong dollars into Renminbi at an exchange rate of HK$1 to RMB0.91631 prevailing on 22 February 2008.
- (3) The unaudited pro forma adjusted consolidated net tangible assets per share are determined after the adjustments as described in note 2 above and on the basis that 9,706 million shares (being the number of shares expected to be in issue immediately after completion of the Global Offering, without taking into account of any shares which may be issued upon A Share Offering and any shares which may be issued upon the exercise of the Over-allotment Option) are issued and outstanding during the entire year. If the Over-allotment Option is exercised in full, the adjusted net tangible asset per Share will increase. Had effect been given to the A Share Offering in this calculation, the unaudited proforma adjusted consolidated net tangible assets per Share would have been RMB3.11 or HK$3.39 based on the offer price of HK$9.93 per H Share and RMB8.00 per A Share and RMB3.41 or HK$3.72 based on the offer price of HK$10.70 per H Share and RMB9.08 per A Share. This calculation is based on the assumption that 2,450,000,000 new A Shares were issued in the A Share Offering and the resulting net proceeds (after deduction of estimated related fees and expenses payable by the Company) of RMB19.2 billion (based on offer price of RMB8.00 per A Share) and RMB21.7 billion (based on offer price of RMB9.08 per A Share) from the A Share Offering.
- (4) Details of the valuations of our company's properties as at 31 December 2007 are set out in "Appendix IV — Property Valuation" in this Prospectus. The revaluation surplus or deficit of properties included in buildings held for own use, assets under construction, land use rights, properties under development and completed properties held for sale will not be incorporated in our company's financial statements for the year ended 31 December 2007. If such revaluation surplus is incorporated in our company's financial statements for the year ended 31 December 2007, the annual depreciation charges would increase by approximately RMB105.2 million.
- (5) The translation of Renminbi into Hong Kong dollars has been made at the rate of RMB0.91631 to HK$1.00, the PBOC rate prevailing on 22 February 2008. No representation is made that the Hong Kong dollar amounts have been, could have been or could be converted to Renminbi, or vice versa, at that rate or at any other rates or at all.

DISCLOSURE UNDER RULES 13.13 TO 13.19 OF THE HONG KONG LISTING RULES

Our Directors confirm that as of the Latest Practicable Date, there were no circumstances which would give rise to the disclosure requirements under Rules 13.13 to 13.19 of the Hong Kong Listing Rules had the H Shares been listed on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange on that date.

WAIVERS IN RELATION TO RULE 4.04(1) OF THE HONG KONG LISTING RULES AND EXEMPTION FROM STRICT COMPLIANCE WITH PARAGRAPHS 27 AND 31 OF THE THIRD SCHEDULE TO THE COMPANIES ORDINANCE

According to Paragraph 27 of the Third Schedule to the Companies Ordinance, we are required to include in this Prospectus a statement as to the gross trading income or sales turnover (as the case may be) of our Company during each of the three financial years immediately preceding the issue of this Prospectus.

According to Paragraph 31 of the Third Schedule to the Companies Ordinance, we are required to include in this Prospectus a report by our auditors with respect to profits and losses and assets and liabilities of our Company in respect of each of the three financial years immediately preceding the issue of this Prospectus.

Pursuant to Rule 4.04(1) of the Hong Kong Listing Rules, we are required to include in this Prospectus the accountants' report covering the results of our Company in respect of each of the three financial years immediately preceding the issue of this Prospectus.

The accountants' report for each of the three years ended 31 December 2006 and the eleven months ended 30 November 2006 and 2007 has been prepared and is set out in Appendix I to this Prospectus.

An application has been made to the SFC for a certificate of exemption from strict compliance with paragraphs 27 and 31 of the Third Schedule to the Companies Ordinance in relation to the inclusion of the accountants' report for the full year ended 31 December 2007 in this Prospectus on the ground that it would be unduly burdensome for us to do so within a short period of time after 31 December 2007. A certificate of exemption has been granted by the SFC under section 342A(1) of the Companies Ordinance.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

An application has also been made to the Hong Kong Stock Exchange for a waiver from strict compliance with Rule 4.04(1) of the Hong Kong Listing Rules in relation to the inclusion of the accountants' report for the full year ended 31 December 2007 in this Prospectus on the ground that it would be unduly burdensome for us to do so within a short period of time after 31 December 2007, and such waiver has been granted by the Hong Kong Stock Exchange on the condition that listing of the shares of the Company on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange will commence on or before 31 March 2008.

NO MATERIAL ADVERSE CHANGE

Our Directors confirm that they have performed sufficient due diligence to ensure that, up to the date of this Prospectus, there has been no material adverse change in our financial position or prospects since 30 November 2007 (being the date to which our Company's latest consolidated audited financial results were prepared) and there is no event since 30 November 2007 which would materially affect the information shown in the Accountants' Report set out in Appendix I to this Prospectus.

FUTURE PLANS AND USE OF PROCEEDS

FUTURE PLANS

See “Business — Our business strategies” for a detailed description of our Company’s future plans.

USE OF PROCEEDS

We estimate that we will receive net proceeds of approximately HK$16,855.4 million from the Global Offering, assuming that the Over-allotment Option is not exercised, after deducting the underwriting commissions and other estimated offering expenses payable by us and assuming the initial public Offer Price of HK$10.32 per H Share, being the mid-point of the indicative Offer Price range set forth on the cover page of this Prospectus. If the Over-allotment Option is exercised in full, we estimate that the additional net proceeds to our Company from the offering of these additional H Shares will be approximately HK$2,564.6 million, after deducting the underwriting commissions and our estimated expenses, assuming an Offer Price of HK$10.32 per H Share.

We intend to use the proceeds from the Global Offering for the purposes and in the amounts set out below:

- Approximately 80%, or HK$13,484.3 million, is expected to be used primarily for the purchase of equipment, primarily including equipment utilized in our railway and light rail infrastructure construction projects, such as hydraulic rock drilling machines, tunnel boring machines, tunneling backhoe loader, electrification engineering machinery and track-laying machinery. Such equipment will be used mainly for the Nigerian railway project, the North-South railway project, Section II in Saudi Arabia and the Tel Aviv red-line light rail concession with the Israeli Government. Other equipment includes equipment utilized in our highway construction projects, such as road surface construction equipment, tamping machines and heavy-duty dump trucks. Such equipment will be used mainly for the Algerian highway project and other potential overseas projects in Southeast Asia and the Middle-East. We expect to complete the equipment purchase in the future two to three years;
- Approximately 10%, or HK$1,685.5 million, is expected to be used primarily for the construction of a cement plant in Nigeria. The investment in the cement plant construction will supplement our project contracting and support the expansion of our operations and ability to secure new contracts in Nigeria, to help ensure smooth project execution. The construction period of this cement plant is expected to be approximately two years, and the project is expected to operate in the third year with expected production capacity of 2,500 tonnes per day, or 1 million tonnes per year; and
- Up to 10%, or HK$1,685.5 million, to fund our working capital.

To the extent that the net proceeds from the Global Offering are not immediately applied to the above purposes, we intend to deposit the proceeds into short-term demand deposits with offshore financial institutions and/or invested into offshore money market instruments. Proceeds from our H Share Offering will not be remitted into or used to fund any projects or facilities in the PRC. To the extent that net proceeds exceed our estimates, 90% and 10% of the excessive portion will be used to purchase equipment as well as for our working capital, respectively.

FUTURE PLANS AND USE OF PROCEEDS

We will not use any of the proceeds of the Global Offering to fund activities that a U.S. corporation would be prohibited from undertaking under sanctions administered by OFAC or under ILSA.

For details of the use of proceeds from our A Share Offering, see “Appendix V — The A Share Offering”.

- (iv) any event, act or omission which gives or may give rise to any material liability of the Company, pursuant to the indemnities given by the Company under the Hong Kong Underwriting Agreement; or
- (v) any material breach of any of the obligations of the Company under the Hong Kong Underwriting Agreement; or
- (vi) any material adverse change or prospective material adverse change in the business, properties, results of operations, in the financial or trading position or prospects of the Company or its subsidiaries, as a whole; or
- (vii) any material litigation or claim being threatened or instigated against the Company or any of its subsidiaries, then the Joint Global Coordinators (for themselves and on behalf of the Hong Kong Underwriters) may, in their sole discretion (and, in the case of paragraph (a) above, after consultation with the Company where practicable) and upon giving notice to the Company, terminate the Hong Kong Underwriting Agreement with immediate effect.

Undertakings to the Hong Kong Stock Exchange and the Hong Kong Underwriters

By Us

We have undertaken to the Hong Kong Stock Exchange and the Hong Kong Underwriters that no further shares or other securities convertible into equity securities of our Company may be issued by us or form the subject of any agreement or arrangement to an issue by us within six months from the date on which our H Shares first commence dealing on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange (whether or not such issue of shares or securities will be completed within six months from the commencement of dealing), except:

- (a) in certain circumstances prescribed by Rule 10.08 of the Hong Kong Listing Rules; or
- (b) pursuant to the Global Offering.

By CRCCG

CRCCG has undertaken to the Hong Kong Stock Exchange, the Hong Kong Underwriters and us that it will not, and will procure that none of its associates or companies controlled by it or any nominee or trustee holding in trust for it will, without the prior written consent of the Hong Kong Stock Exchange:

- (a) in the period commencing on the date of this Prospectus and ending on the date which is six months from the date on which dealings in our H Shares commence on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange (the "First Six-month Period"), dispose of, or enter into any agreement to dispose of or otherwise create any options, rights, interests or encumbrances in respect of, any of the shares or securities of our Company in respect of which it is shown by this Prospectus to be the beneficial owner; and

- (b) during the period of six months commencing on the date on which the First Six-month Period expires, dispose of, or enter into any agreement to dispose of or otherwise create any options, rights, interests or encumbrances in respect of, any of the shares or securities referred to in the immediately preceding paragraph (a) above if, immediately following such disposal or upon the exercise or enforcement of such options, rights, interests or encumbrances, it would cease to be a controlling shareholder of our Company.

CRCCG has further undertaken to the Hong Kong Stock Exchange, the Joint Global Coordinators and us that, within the period commencing on the date by reference to which disclosure of the shareholding of CRCCG is made in this Prospectus and ending on the date which is 12 months after the date on which dealings in our H Shares commence on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange, it will:

- (a) when it pledges or charges any shares or other securities of our Company in respect of which it is the beneficial owner in favour of an authorized institution (as defined in the Banking Ordinance (Chapter 155 of the Laws of Hong Kong) for a bona fide commercial loan, immediately inform our Company of any such pledges or charges and the number of shares or other securities of our Company so pledged or charged; and
- (b) when it receives any indication, either verbal or written, from any such pledgee or chargee of shares or other securities of our Company that such shares or other securities of our Company will be disposed of, immediately inform us of any such indication.

We will also, as soon as we have been informed of the above matters (if any) by CRCCG, inform the Hong Kong Stock Exchange and disclose such matters as soon as possible by way of a press notice published in the newspapers, if required under the Hong Kong Listing Rules.

Undertakings to the Hong Kong Underwriters

By Us

We have, pursuant to the Hong Kong Underwriting Agreement, undertaken to each of the Joint Global Coordinators and the Hong Kong Underwriters that except pursuant to the Global Offering (including pursuant to the A Share Offering and the Over-Allotment Option) at any time after the date of the Hong Kong Underwriting Agreement up to and including the date falling six months after the date on which dealings in the H Shares commence on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange (“First Lock-up Period”), we will not without the Joint Global Coordinators’ prior written consent (subject to the requirements set out in the Hong Kong Listing Rules):

- (a) offer, pledge, charge, allot, issue, sell, contract to allot, issue or sell, sell any option or contract to purchase, purchase any option or contract to sell, grant or agree to grant any option, right or warrant to purchase or subscribe for, lend or otherwise transfer or dispose of, either directly or indirectly, or repurchase, any of our share capital or any securities convertible into or exercisable or exchangeable for or that represent the right to receive such share capital; or
- (b) enter into any swap or other arrangement that transfers to another, in whole or in part, any of the economic consequences of ownership of our share capital, whether any of such transactions described in (a) or (b) above is to be settled by delivery of our share capital or such other securities, in cash or otherwise or publicly announce an intention to effect any of the foregoing, provided that the foregoing restrictions shall not apply to the issue of A Shares under the A Share Offering or the issue of H Shares by our Company pursuant to the Global Offering (including pursuant to the Over-allotment Option). In the event of a disposal as described in (a) or (b) above of any H Shares or any interest therein or any of our securities after the date falling six months after the date on which dealings in the H Shares commence on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange, we will take all reasonable steps to ensure that such an issue or disposal will not create an disorderly or false market for our H Shares.

Indemnity

We have agreed to indemnify the Joint Global Coordinators, the Joint Sponsors and the Hong Kong Underwriters for certain losses which they may suffer, including losses arising from their performance of their obligations under the Hong Kong Underwriting Agreement and any breach by us of the Hong Kong Underwriting Agreement.

Commission and Expenses

The Hong Kong Underwriters will receive an underwriting commission of 2.5% of the aggregate Offer Price payable for the Hong Kong Public Offer Shares initially offered under the Hong Kong Public Offering, out of which they will pay any sub-underwriting commissions. For unsubscribed Hong Kong Public Offer Shares reallocated to the International Offering, we will pay an underwriting commission at the rate applicable to the International Offering and such commission will be paid to the Joint Global Coordinators and the relevant underwriters (but not the Hong Kong Underwriters).

Assuming an Offer Price of HK$10.32 per share (being the midpoint of the indicative offer price range of HK$9.93 to HK$10.70 per share), the aggregate commissions and fees, together with Hong Kong Stock Exchange listing fees, SFC transaction levy, Hong Kong Stock Exchange trading fees, legal and other professional fees and printing and other expenses relating to the Global Offering, are estimated to amount in aggregate to approximately HK$750.5 million in total (assuming the Over-allotment Option is not exercised). Such commissions, fees and expenses are payable by us.

Hong Kong Underwriters' interest in our Company

Save as disclosed in this Prospectus and save for its obligations under the Hong Kong Underwriting Agreement, none of the Hong Kong Underwriters has any shareholding interests in our Company or any other member of our Company or any right (whether legally enforceable or not) to subscribe for or to nominate persons to subscribe for securities in our Company or any member of our Company.

The International Offering

In connection with the International Offering, it is expected that we will enter into the International Underwriting Agreement with the Joint Global Coordinators and the International Offering Underwriters on or about 6 March 2008, shortly after the determination of the Offer Price. Under the International Underwriting Agreement, the International Offering Underwriters would, subject to certain conditions, severally and not jointly, agree to procure subscribers to subscribe for or purchasers to purchase, or failing which to subscribe for or purchase themselves, their respective applicable proportions of the International Offer Shares being offered pursuant to the International Offering which are not taken up under the International Offering.

UNDERWRITING

Restrictions on the Offer Shares

No action has been taken to permit a public offering of the Offer Shares, other than in Hong Kong, or the distribution of this Prospectus in any jurisdiction other than Hong Kong. Accordingly, this Prospectus may not be used for the purpose of, and does not constitute, an offer or invitation in any jurisdiction or in any circumstances in which such an offer or invitation is not authorized or to any person to whom it is unlawful to make an offer or invitation.

In particular, the Offer Shares have not been offered or sold, and will not be offered or sold, directly or indirectly, in the PRC.

Stabilization and Over-allotment

Stabilization is a practice used by underwriters in some markets to facilitate the distribution of securities. To stabilize, the underwriters may bid for, or purchase, the securities in the secondary market, during a specified period of time, to retard and, if possible, prevent, any decline in the market price of the securities below the offer price. In Hong Kong and certain other jurisdictions, the price at which stabilization is effected is not permitted to exceed the offer price.

In connection with the Global Offering, Citi, as stabilizing manager (the "Stabilizing Manager"), or any person acting for it, on behalf of the Underwriters, may over-allocate or effect short sales or any other stabilizing transactions with a view to stabilizing or maintaining the market price of our H Shares at a level higher than that which might otherwise prevail in the open market. Short sales involve the sale by the Stabilizing Manager of a greater number of H Shares than the Underwriters are required to purchase in the Global Offering. "Covered" short sales are sales made in an amount not greater than the Over-allotment Option.

The Stabilizing Manager may close out any covered short position by either exercising the Over-allotment Option to purchase additional H Shares or purchasing H Shares in the open market. In determining the source of the H Shares to close out the covered short position, the Stabilizing Manager will consider, among other things, the price of H Shares in the open market as compared to the price at which they may purchase additional H Shares pursuant to the Over-allotment Option. Stabilizing transactions consist of certain bids or purchases made for the purpose of preventing or retarding a decline in the market price of the H Shares while the Global Offering is in progress. Any market purchases of our H Shares may be effected on any stock exchange, including the Hong Kong Stock Exchange, any over-the-counter market or otherwise, provided that they are made in compliance with all applicable laws and regulatory requirements. However, there is no obligation on the Stabilizing Manager or any person acting for it to conduct any such stabilizing activity, which if commenced, will be done at the absolute discretion of the Stabilizing Manager and may be discontinued at any time. Any such stabilizing activity is required to be brought to an end within 30 days of the last day for the lodging of applications under the Hong Kong Public Offering. The number of our H Shares that may be over-allocated will not exceed the number of our H Shares that may be sold under the Over-allotment Option, namely, 255,900,000 H Shares, which is 15% of the number of Offer Shares initially available under the Global Offering, in the event that the whole or part of the Over-allotment Option is exercised.

UNDERWRITING

In Hong Kong, stabilizing activities must be carried out in accordance with the Securities and Futures (Price Stabilizing) Rules. Stabilizing action permitted pursuant to the Securities and Futures (Price Stabilizing) Rules includes:

- (a) over-allocation for the purpose of preventing or minimizing any reduction in the market price;
- (b) selling or agreeing to sell our H Shares so as to establish a short position in them for the purpose of preventing or minimizing any reduction in the market price;
- (c) subscribing, or agreeing to subscribe, for our H Shares pursuant to the Over-allotment Option in order to close out any position established under (a) or (b) above;
- (d) purchasing, or agreeing to purchase, our H Shares for the sole purpose of preventing or minimizing any reduction in the market price;
- (e) selling our H Shares to liquidate a long position held as a result of those purchases; and
- (f) offering or attempting to do anything described in (b), (c), (d) and (e) above.

Stabilizing actions by the Stabilizing Manager, or any person acting for it, will be entered into in accordance with the laws, rules and regulations in place in Hong Kong on stabilization.

As a result of effecting transactions to stabilize or maintain the market price of our H Shares, the Stabilizing Manager, or any person acting for it, may maintain a long position in our H Shares. The size of the long position, and the period for which the Stabilizing Manager, or any person acting for it, will maintain the long position is at the discretion of the Stabilizing Manager and is uncertain. In the event that the Stabilizing Manager liquidates this long position by making sales in the open market, this may lead to a decline in the market price of our H Shares.

Stabilizing action by the Stabilizing Manager, or any person acting for it, is not permitted to support the price of our H Shares for longer than the stabilizing period, which begins on the day on which trading of our H Shares commences on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange and end on the thirtieth day after the last day for the lodging of applications under the Hong Kong Public Offering. The stabilizing period is expected to end on 4 April 2008. As a result, demand for our H Shares, and their market price, may fall after the end of the stabilizing period. These activities by the Stabilizing Manager may stabilize, maintain or otherwise affect the market price of the H Shares. As a result, the price of the H Shares may be higher than the price that otherwise might exist in the open market. Any stabilizing action taken by the Stabilizing Manager, or any person acting for it, may not necessarily result in the market price of our H Shares staying at or above the Offer Price either during or after the stabilizing period. Bids for or market purchases of our H Shares by the Stabilizing Manager, or any person acting for it, may be made at a price at or below the Offer Price and therefore at or below the price paid for our H Shares by purchasers. A public announcement in compliance with the Securities and Futures (Price Stabilizing) Rules will be made within seven days of the expiration of the stabilizing period.

ACTIVITIES BY SYNDICATE MEMBERS

We describe below a variety of activities that underwriters of the Hong Kong Public Offering and the International Offering, together referred to as "Syndicate Members", may each individually undertake, and which do not form part of the underwriting or the stabilizing process. When engaging in any of these activities, it should be noted that the Syndicate Members are subject to restrictions, including the following:

- (a) under the agreement among the Syndicate Members, all of them (except for Citi or its designated affiliate as the stabilizing manager) must not, in connection with the distribution of the Offer Shares, effect any transactions (including issuing or entering into any option or other derivative transactions relating to the Offer Shares), whether in the open market or otherwise, with a view to stabilizing or maintaining the market price of any of the Offer Shares at levels other than those which might otherwise prevail in the open market; and
- (b) all of them must comply with all applicable laws, including the market misconduct provisions of the SFO, including the provisions prohibiting insider dealing, false trading, price rigging and stock market manipulation.

The Syndicate Members and their affiliates are diversified financial institutions with relationships in countries around the world. These entities engage in a wide range of commercial and investment banking, brokerage, funds management, trading, hedging, investing and other activities for their own account and for the account of others. In relation to our H Shares, those activities could include acting as agent for buyers and sellers of the H Shares, entering into transactions with those buyers and sellers in a principal capacity, proprietary trading in the H Shares, and entering into over the counter or listed derivative transactions or listed and unlisted securities transactions (including issuing securities such as derivative warrants listed on a stock exchange) which have as their underlying, assets including the H Shares. Those activities may require hedging activity by those entities involving, directly or indirectly, buying and selling the H Shares. All such activity could occur in Hong Kong and elsewhere in the world and may result in the Syndicate Members and their affiliates holding long and/or short positions in the H Shares, in baskets of securities or indices including the H Shares, in units of funds that may purchase the H Shares, or in derivatives related to any of the foregoing.

In relation to issues by Syndicate Members or their affiliates of any listed securities having the H Shares as their underlying, whether on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange or on any other stock exchange, the rules of the exchange may require the issuer of those securities (or one of its affiliates or agents) to act as a market maker or liquidity provider in the security, and this will also result in hedging activity in the H Shares in most cases.

All of this activity may occur both during and after the end of the stabilizing period described under "Underwriting — Stabilization and Over-allotment". This activity may affect the market price or value of the H Shares, the liquidity or trading volume in the H Shares, and the volatility of the H Shares share price, and the extent to which this occurs from day to day cannot be estimated.

STRUCTURE OF THE GLOBAL OFFERING

PRICING AND ALLOCATION

Offer price range

The Offer Price will be not more than HK$10.70 per Offer Share and is expected to be not less than HK$9.93 per Offer Share, unless otherwise announced not later than the morning of the last day for lodging applications under the Hong Kong Public Offering, as explained below. Prospective investors should be aware that the Offer Price to be determined on the Price Determination Date may be, but is not expected to be, lower than the indicative offer price range stated in this Prospectus.

Price payable on application

Applicants for Hong Kong Public Offer Shares under the Hong Kong Public Offering are required to pay, on application, the maximum Offer Price of HK$10.70 for each Hong Kong Public Offer Share (plus 1% brokerage, 0.004% SFC transaction levy, and 0.005% Hong Kong Stock Exchange trading fee). If the Offer Price is less than HK$10.70, appropriate refund payments (including the brokerage, SFC transaction levy and the Hong Kong Stock Exchange trading fee attributable to the surplus application monies, without any interest) will be made to successful applications. See "Further Terms and Conditions of the Hong Kong Public Offering — 8. Refund of Application Monies".

Determining the Offer Price

The International Offering Underwriters are soliciting from prospective investors indications of interest in acquiring our H Shares in the International Offering. Prospective investors will be required to specify the number of H Shares under the International Offering they would be prepared to acquire either at different prices or at a particular price. This process, known as "book-building", is expected to continue up to, and to cease on or around 5 March 2008.

The Offer Price is expected to be fixed by agreement between the Joint Global Coordinators (on behalf of the Underwriters) and us, on the Price Determination Date, when market demand for the Offer Shares will be determined. The Price Determination Date is expected to be on or around 6 March 2008.

If, for any reason, we and the Joint Global Coordinators (on behalf of the Underwriters) are unable to reach agreement on the Offer Price, the Global Offering will not proceed and will lapse.

Reduction in Indicative Offer Price Range and/or Number of Offer Shares

If, based on the level of interest expressed by prospective institutional, professional and other investors during the book-building process, the Joint Global Coordinators (on behalf of the Underwriters and with our consent) consider it appropriate, the indicative offer price range and/or the number of Offer Shares may be reduced below those stated in this Prospectus at any time prior to the morning of the last day for lodging applications under the Hong Kong Public Offering.

In such a case, we will, as soon as practicable following the decision to make any such reduction, and in any event not later than the morning of the last day for lodging applications under the Hong Kong Public Offering, cause to be published in the South China Morning Post (in English) and Hong Kong Economic Times (in Chinese) notice of the reduction in the indicative offer price range and/or number of Offer Shares. Such notice will also include confirmation or revision, as appropriate, of the offering statistics as currently set out in the section headed "Summary" and any other financial information which may change as a result of such reduction. The Offer Price, if agreed upon, will be fixed within such revised offer price range. Before submitting applications for Hong Kong Public Offer Shares, applicants should have regard to the possibility that any announcement of a reduction in the indicative offer price range and/or number of Offer Shares may not be made until the last day for lodging applications under the Hong Kong Public Offering. Applicants under the Hong Kong Public Offering should note that in no circumstances can applications be withdrawn once submitted, even if the indicative offer price range and/or number of Offer Shares is so reduced.

Allocation

The H Shares to be offered in the Hong Kong Public Offering and the International Offering may, in certain circumstances, be reallocated as between these offerings at the discretion of the Joint Global Coordinators.

Allocation of our H Shares pursuant to the International Offering will be determined by the Joint Global Coordinators and will be based on a number of factors including the level and timing of demand, total size of the relevant investor's invested assets or equity assets in the relevant sector and whether or not it is expected that the relevant investor is likely to buy further, and/or hold or sell H Shares after the listing of our H Shares on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange. Such allocation may be made to professional, institutional and corporate investors and is intended to result in a distribution of our H Shares on a basis which would lead to the establishment of a stable shareholder base to the benefit of our Company and our shareholders as a whole.

Allocation of H Shares to investors under the Hong Kong Public Offering will be based solely on the level of valid applications received under the Hong Kong Public Offering. The basis of allocation may vary, depending on the number of Hong Kong Public Offer Shares validly applied for by applicants. The allocation of Hong Kong Public Offer Shares could, where appropriate, consist of balloting, which would mean that some applicants may receive a higher allocation than others who have applied for the same number of Hong Kong Public Offer Shares, and those applicants who are not successful in the ballot may not receive any Hong Kong Public Offer Shares.

Announcement of Offer Price and basis of allocations

The Offer Price for H Shares under the Global Offering is expected to be announced on 7 March 2008 in the South China Morning Post (in English) and Hong Kong Economic Times (in Chinese). The level of applications in the Hong Kong Public Offering, the level of indications of interest in the International Offering, and the basis of allocations of the Hong Kong Public Offer Shares are expected to be announced on 12 March 2008 in the South China Morning Post (in English) and the Hong Kong Economic Times (in Chinese).

CONDITIONS OF THE GLOBAL OFFERING

Acceptance of all applications for the Offer Shares will be conditional on:

- the Listing Committee of the Hong Kong Stock Exchange granting listing of, and permission to deal in, the H Shares to be issued pursuant to the Global Offering (including the additional H Shares which may be made available pursuant to the exercise of the Over-allotment Option) and any H Shares, converted from Domestic Shares, which are to be held by NSSF in connection with the Global Offering, subject only to allotment and the dispatch of share certificates in respect thereof, and such listing and permission not subsequently having been revoked prior to the commencement of dealings in the H Shares on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange;

STRUCTURE OF THE GLOBAL OFFERING

- the Offer Price having been duly agreed between us and the Joint Global Coordinators (on behalf of the Hong Kong Underwriters) and the execution and delivery of the price determination agreement on or around the Price Determination Date; and;
- the execution and delivery of the International Underwriting Agreement on or around the Price Determination Date; and
- the obligations of the Underwriters under each of the Hong Kong Underwriting Agreement and the International Underwriting Agreement having become and remained unconditional (including, if relevant, as a result of the waiver of any conditions by the International Underwriters) and not having been terminated in accordance with the terms of the respective agreements, in each case on or before the dates and times specified in such agreements (unless and to the extent such conditions are waived on or before such dates and times) and in any event not later than the date which is 30 days after the date of this Prospectus.

The consummation of each of the Hong Kong Public Offering and the International Offering is conditional upon, among other things, the other becoming unconditional and not having been terminated in accordance with its terms.

If the above conditions are not fulfilled or waived, prior to the dates and times specified, the Global Offering will lapse and the Hong Kong Stock Exchange will be notified immediately. Notice of the lapse of the Hong Kong Public Offering will be caused to be published by us in the South China Morning Post (in English) and the Hong Kong Economic Times (in Chinese) on the next day following such lapse. In such eventuality, all application monies will be returned, without interest, on the terms set out in the section headed "Further Terms and Conditions of the Hong Kong Public Offering — Refund of application monies". In the meantime, the application monies will be held in separate bank account(s) with the receiving bankers or other bank(s) in Hong Kong licensed under the Hong Kong Banking Ordinance.

H Share certificates for the Offer Shares are expected to be issued on 12 March 2008 but will only become valid certificates of title at 8:00 a.m. on 13 March 2008, provided that (a) the Global Offering has become unconditional in all respects and (b) the right of termination as described in the section headed "Underwriting — Underwriting Arrangements and Expenses — Hong Kong Public Offering — Grounds for Termination" has not been exercised.

THE HONG KONG PUBLIC OFFERING

We are initially offering 170,600,000 Hong Kong Public Offer Shares at the Offer Price, representing 10% of the Offer Shares initially available under the Global Offering, for subscription by the public in Hong Kong. The total number of Hong Kong Public Offer Shares available under the Hong Kong Public Offering will initially be divided equally into two pools for allocation purposes as follows:

- Pool A: The Offer Shares in Pool A will be allocated on an equitable basis to applicants who have applied for Offer Shares with a total subscription amount (excluding brokerage, SFC transaction levy and the Hong Kong Stock Exchange trading fee) of HK$5 million or less; and
- Pool B: The Offer Shares in Pool B will be allocated on an equitable basis to applicants who have applied for Offer Shares with a total subscription amount (excluding brokerage, SFC transaction levy and the Hong Kong Stock Exchange trading fee) of more than HK$5 million and up to the value of Pool B.

STRUCTURE OF THE GLOBAL OFFERING

Applicants should be aware that applications in Pool A and Pool B are likely to receive different allocation ratios. If Hong Kong Public Offer Shares in one pool (but not both pools) are under-subscribed, the surplus Hong Kong Public Offer Shares will be transferred to the other pool to satisfy demand in that other pool and be allocated accordingly.

Applicants can only receive an allocation of Hong Kong Public Offer Shares from either Pool A or Pool B but not from both pools. Multiple or suspected multiple applications and any application for more than 85,300,000 Hong Kong Public Offer Shares will be rejected.

Paragraph 4.2 of the Practice Note 18 of the Hong Kong Listing Rules requires a clawback mechanism to be put in place, which would have the effect of increasing the number of Hong Kong Public Offer Shares to certain percentages of the total number of Offer Shares offering in the Global Offering if certain prescribed total demand levels are reached. An application has been made for, and the Hong Kong Stock Exchange has granted, a waiver from strict compliance with paragraph 4.2 of Practice Note 18 of the Hong Kong Listing Rules such that, the allocation of the Offer Shares between the Hong Kong Public Offering and the International Offering is subject to the following adjustments:

- If the number of the Offer Shares validly applied for under the Hong Kong Public Offering represents 10 times or more but less than 40 times the number of the Offer Shares initially available for subscription under the Hong Kong Public Offering, then Offer Shares will be reallocated to the Hong Kong Public Offering from the International Offering, so that the total number of the Offer Shares available under the Hong Kong Public Offering will be 255,900,000 Offer Shares, representing 15% of the Offer Shares initially available under the Global Offering;
- If the number of the Offer Shares validly applied for under the Hong Kong Public Offering represents 40 times or more but less than 50 times the number of the Offer Shares initially available for subscription under the Hong Kong Public Offering, then the number of Offer Shares to be reallocated to the Hong Kong Public Offering from the International Offering will be increased so that the total number of the Offer Shares available under the Hong Kong Public Offering will be 341,200,000 Offer Shares, representing 20% of the Offer Shares initially available under the Global Offering; and
- If the number of the Offer Shares validly applied for under the Hong Kong Public Offering represents 50 times or more the number of the Offer Shares initially available for subscription under the Hong Kong Public Offering, then the number of Offer Shares to be reallocated to the Hong Kong Public Offering from the International Offering will be increased, so that the total number of the Offer Shares available under the Hong Kong Public Offering will be 426,500,000 Offer Shares, representing 25% of the Offer Shares initially available under the Global Offering.

The Offer Shares to be offered in the Hong Kong Public Offering and the International Offering may, in certain circumstances, be reallocated as between these offerings at the discretion of the Joint Global Coordinators. Subject to the foregoing paragraph, the Joint Global Coordinators may in their discretion reallocate H Shares from the International Offering to the Hong Kong Public Offering to satisfy valid applications under the Hong Kong Public Offering. In addition, if the Hong Kong Public Offering is not fully subscribed, the Joint Global Coordinators will have the discretion (but shall not be under any obligation) to reallocate to the International Offering all or any unsubscribed Hong Kong Public Offer Shares in such amounts as they deem appropriate.

STRUCTURE OF THE GLOBAL OFFERING

References in this Prospectus to applications, Application Forms, application monies or to the procedure for application relate solely to the Hong Kong Public Offering.

THE INTERNATIONAL OFFERING

The International Offering will consist of 1,535,400,000 H Shares to be offered by us initially: (a) in the United States to Qualified Institutional Buyers (as such term is defined in Rule 144A under the US Securities Act), and (b) outside of the United States in reliance on Regulation S under the U.S. Securities Act, including to professional and institutional investors in Hong Kong.

We are expected to grant to the International Offering Underwriters the Over-allotment Option, exercisable by the Joint Global Coordinators on behalf of the International Offering Underwriters at any time from the date we sign the International Underwriting Agreement until 30 days after the last day for the lodging applications under the Hong Kong Public Offering, to require us to issue up to an aggregate of 255,900,000 additional H Shares, representing in aggregate 15% of the Offer Shares initially available under the Global Offering. These shares will be issued or sold at the same price per share under the International Offering to, among other things, cover over-allocations in the International Offering, if any.

SHARES WILL BE ELIGIBLE FOR CCASS

All necessary arrangements have been made enabling the H Shares to be admitted into the Central Clearing and Settlement System, or CCASS, established and operated by the Hong Kong Securities Clearing Company Limited, or HKSCC.

If the Hong Kong Stock Exchange grants the listing of, and permission to deal in, the H Shares and our Company complies with the stock admission requirements of HKSCC, the H Shares will be accepted as eligible securities by HKSCC for deposit, clearance and settlement in CCASS with effect from the date of commencement of dealings in the H Shares on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange or any other date HKSCC chooses. Settlement of transactions between participants of the Hong Kong Stock Exchange is required to take place in CCASS on the second business day after any trading day.

DEALING ARRANGEMENTS

Assuming that the Hong Kong Public Offering becomes unconditional at or before 8:00 a.m. in Hong Kong on 13 March 2008, it is expected that dealings in our H Shares on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange will commence at 9:30 a.m. on 13 March 2008.

Our H Shares will be traded in board lots of 500 H Shares each.

8. HOW MANY APPLICATIONS MAY BE MADE

Multiple applications or suspect multiple applications are liable to be rejected.

You may make more than one application for the Hong Kong Public Offer Shares if and only if you are a nominee, in which case you may make an application as a nominee by (i) giving electronic application instructions to HKSCC (if you are a CCASS Participant) or to the designated eIPO Service Provider through White Form eIPO service (www.eipo.com.hk) or; (ii) using a WHITE or YELLOW Application Form, and lodging more than one Application Form in your own name if each application is made on behalf of different beneficial owners. In the box on the Application Form marked “For nominees” you must include:

- an account number; or
- some other identification code

for each beneficial owner or, in the case of joint beneficial owners, for each such beneficial owner. If you do not include this information, the application will be treated as being made for your benefit.

Otherwise, multiple applications are not allowed.

If you apply by means of White Form eIPO, once you complete payment in respect of any electronic application instruction given by you or for your benefit to the designated eIPO Service Provider to make an application for Hong Kong Public Offer Shares, an actual application shall be deemed to have been made. For the avoidance of doubt, giving an electronic application instruction under White Form eIPO more than once and obtaining different application reference numbers without effecting full payment in respect of a particular reference number will not constitute an actual application.

If you are suspected of submitting more than one application through the White Form eIPO service by giving electronic application instructions through the designated website at www.eipo.com.hk and completing payment in respect of such electronic application instructions, or of submitting one application through the White Form eIPO service and one or more applications by any other means, all of your applications are liable to be rejected.

If you have made an application by giving electronic application instructions to HKSCC and you are suspected of having made multiple applications or if more than one application is made for your benefit, the number of Hong Kong Public Offer Shares applied for by HKSCC Nominees will be automatically reduced by the number of Hong Kong Public Offer Shares in respect of which you have given such instructions and/or in respect of which such instructions have been given for your benefit. Any electronic application instructions to make an application for the Hong Kong Public Offer Shares given by you or for your benefit to HKSCC shall be deemed to be an actual application for the purpose of considering whether multiple applications have been made. No application for any other number of Hong Kong Public Offer Shares will be considered and any such application is liable to be rejected.

For further information, please see “Further Terms and Conditions of the Hong Kong Public Offering — 5. Multiple Applications”.

9. HOW MUCH ARE THE HONG KONG PUBLIC OFFER SHARES

The maximum Offer Price is HK$10.70 per H Share. You must also pay brokerage of 1%, SFC transaction levy of 0.004% and the Hong Kong Stock Exchange trading fee of 0.005%. The Application Forms have tables showing the exact amount payable for multiples of H Shares up to 85,300,000 H Shares.

If the Offer Price as finally determined is less than HK$10.70 per H Share, appropriate refund payments (including brokerage, SFC transaction levy and the Hong Kong Stock Exchange trading fee attributable to the surplus application monies) will be made to successful applicants, without interest. Details of the procedure for refund are set out below in the section headed “— 11. Dispatch/Collection of H Share Certificates and Refunds of Application Monies.”

HOW TO APPLY FOR HONG KONG PUBLIC OFFER SHARES

If your application is successful, brokerage is paid to participants of the Hong Kong Stock Exchange (or the Hong Kong Stock Exchange, as the case may be), the Hong Kong Stock Exchange trading fee is paid to the Hong Kong Stock Exchange, and the SFC transaction levy is paid to the SFC.

China Railway Construction Corporation Limited
CITIC Securities Corporate Finance (HK) Limited
Citigroup Global Markets Asia Limited
Macquarie Securities Limited

Dear Sirs,

We set out below our report on the financial information regarding China Railway Construction Corporation Limited (the "Company") and its subsidiaries (hereinafter collectively referred to as the "Group") for each of the three years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006, and the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2007 (the "Relevant Periods") (the "Financial Information"), and the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2006 (the "30 November 2006 Financial Information"), prepared on the basis set out in note 2 of Section II below, for inclusion in the Prospectus of the Company dated 29 February 2008 (the "Prospectus") in connection with the listing of the shares of the Company on the Main Board of The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited ("The Hong Kong Stock Exchange").

The Company was incorporated on 5 November 2007 in Beijing, the People's Republic of China (the "PRC" or "Mainland China", which excludes for the purpose of this report, the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region of the PRC or Hong Kong, the Macau Special Administrative Region of the PRC or Macau, and Taiwan), as a joint stock company with limited liability under the Company Law of the PRC. Pursuant to a group restructuring (the "Restructuring") of China Railway Construction Corporation ("CRCCG"), a state-owned enterprise in the PRC, the Company became the holding company of the Group. Details of the Restructuring are set out in note 1 of Section II below.

The Group, its jointly-controlled entities and associates have adopted 31 December as their financial year end date for statutory reporting purposes. The financial statements of these companies were prepared in accordance with the relevant accounting principles and financial regulations applicable to PRC enterprises (the "Previous PRC GAAP") or other accounting principles applicable to these companies in their respective jurisdictions. Particulars of the Company and its principal subsidiaries, jointly-controlled entities and associates are set out in note 1 of Section II below.

The statutory consolidated financial statements of CRCCG and its subsidiaries for each of the three years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 were prepared in accordance with the Previous PRC GAAP and were audited by China Audit Certified Public Accountants Limited (“中審會計師事務所有限公司”), a certified public accounting firm registered in the PRC.

For the purpose of the Restructuring, the directors of the Company (the “Directors”) have prepared the consolidated financial statements of the Group for the Relevant Periods and the financial statements of the Company for the period from 5 November 2007 (date of incorporation of the Company) to 30 November 2007 in accordance with the Accounting Standards for Business Enterprises issued by the Ministry of Finance (the “MOF”) of the PRC in 2006, and other related regulations issued by the MOF (collectively the “New PRC GAAP”), which were audited by Ernst & Young Hua Ming (“安永華明會計師事務所”), a certified public accounting firm registered in the PRC.

The Group prepared the Financial Information which includes the consolidated income statements, consolidated statements of changes in equity and consolidated cash flow statements of the Group for the Relevant Periods, the consolidated balance sheets of the Group as at 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and 30 November 2007 and the balance sheet of the Company as at 30 November 2007, together with the notes thereto, in accordance with the International Financial Reporting Standards (“IFRSs”) promulgated by the International Accounting Standards Board (“IASB”) which were audited by us in accordance with International Standards on Auditing issued by the International Auditing and Assurance Standards Board (the “IAASB”). The Financial Information has been prepared from the audited consolidated financial statements of the Group and the financial statements of the Company prepared in accordance with IFRSs for the Relevant Periods (the “IFRS Financial Statements”).

For the purpose of this report, we have carried out an independent audit on the Financial Information in accordance with International Standards on Auditing issued by the IAASB and have examined the Financial Information and carried out such additional procedures as we considered necessary in accordance with the Auditing Guideline 3.340 “Prospectuses and the Reporting Accountant” issued by the Hong Kong Institute of Certified Public Accountants. No adjustments were considered necessary to adjust the IFRS Financial Statements to conform to the accounting policies referred to in note 3.2 of Section II of this report for the Relevant Periods.

The IFRS Financial Statements are the responsibility of the Directors who approved their issuance. The Directors are also responsible for the contents of the Prospectus, including the preparation and the true and fair presentation of the Financial Information in accordance with IFRSs. It is our responsibility to form an independent opinion and a review conclusion based on our audit of the Financial Information for the Relevant Periods and our review on the 30 November 2006 Financial Information, respectively, and to report our opinion and review conclusion, respectively, thereon.

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the Financial Information based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with International Standards on Auditing. Those standards require that we comply with ethical requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance as to whether the Financial Information are free from material misstatement.

Procedures Performed in Respect of the Relevant Periods

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditors' judgement, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditors consider internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and true and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by the directors, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Procedures Performed in Respect of the 30 November 2006 Financial Information

The comparative consolidated income statement, consolidated cash flow statement and consolidated statement of changes in equity of the Group for the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2006 together with the notes thereto have been extracted from the Group's interim financial information for the same period which was prepared by the Directors solely for the purpose of this report. We conducted our review in accordance with International Standard on Review Engagements 2410 "Review of Interim Financial Information Performed by the Independent Auditor of the Entity" issued by the IAASB. A review of interim financial information consists of making inquiries, primarily of persons responsible for financial and accounting matters, and applying analytical and other review procedures. A review is substantially less in scope than an audit conducted in accordance with International Standards on Auditing and consequently does not enable us to obtain assurance that we would become aware of all significant matters that might be identified in an audit. Accordingly, we do not express an audit opinion.

Opinion in Respect of the Relevant Periods

In our opinion, the Financial Information gives, for the purpose of this report, a true and fair view of the consolidated operating results and cash flows of the Group for each of the Relevant Periods and of the state of affairs of the Group as at 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006, and 30 November 2007, and of the Company as at 30 November 2007 in accordance with IFRSs.

Review Conclusion in Respect of the 30 November 2006 Financial Information

Based on our review which does not constitute an audit, for the purpose of this report, nothing has come to our attention that causes us to believe that the 30 November 2006 Financial Information does not give a true and fair view of the consolidated operating results and cash flows of the Group for the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2006 in accordance with IFRSs.

Notes:

- (a) According to the financial statements prepared in accordance with the IFRSs, certain subsidiaries of the Company had deficiency in net asset positions as at 1 January 2004, 31 December 2004 and 31 December 2005 and as such, the equity of these subsidiaries attributable to minority interests was reduced to zero. However, according to their statutory financial statements prepared in accordance with the Previous PRC GAAP, the aforesaid subsidiaries had positive net asset positions as at 1 January 2004, 31 December 2004 and 31 December 2005 and based on their statutory financial statements, they had paid dividends to their respective shareholders, including minority shareholders, in early 2004, 2005 and 2006. For the presentation of this report, the aforesaid dividends paid to minority shareholders in early 2004, 2005 and 2006 have been accounted for as transactions between the equity holder of the Company and the minority shareholders of the aforesaid subsidiaries.
- (b) The minority interests in certain subsidiaries were held by employees through Employees Share Ownership Committees. During the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2007, the Group entered into purchase agreements and supplementary purchase agreements with the respective Employees Share Ownership Committees to acquire the minority interests. Based on the purchase agreements and supplementary purchase agreements, it was agreed that the minority interests and the associated risks and rewards, including the profits/(losses) generated by the subsidiaries, would be transferred to the Group with effect from 31 December 2006. The acquisition of minority interests is accounted for using the entity concept method whereby the difference between the consideration paid and the book value of the share of the net assets acquired is recorded in equity. The acquisition was completed during the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2007.
- (c) As further described in note 2 of Section II below, the consolidated income statements, consolidated balance sheets and consolidated cash flow statements of the Group have been prepared as if the Group had been in existence throughout the Relevant Periods. Upon the incorporation of the Company on 5 November 2007, together with certain prepaid land lease payments described in note (e) below, the historical net carrying amount of the assets and liabilities transferred to the Company was converted into the Company's share capital of RMB8,000 million, equivalent to 8,000 million shares of RMB1.00 each, with all the then existing reserves eliminated and the resulting difference dealt with in the capital reserve. Accordingly, the capital reserve, being the difference between the amount of share capital issued and the historical net carrying amount of the assets and liabilities, together with certain prepaid land lease payments described in note (e) below, transferred to the Company upon incorporation, were presented in the reserves of the Group. Separate classes of reserves, including retained profits prior to the incorporation of the Company, were not separately disclosed as all of these reserves (save for the amounts as disclosed in note (d) below) had been capitalised and incorporated in the capital reserve of the Group pursuant to the Restructuring.

- (d) In accordance with the notice (財政部關於印發《企業公司制改建有關國有資本管理與財務處理的暫行規定》的通知) "Provisional Regulation Relating to Corporate Restructuring of Enterprises and Related Management of State-owned Capital and Financial Treatment" issued by the MOF (the English name of the notice is a direct translation of the Chinese name), which became effective from 27 August 2002, and pursuant to the Restructuring, after the Company's incorporation, the Company is required to make a distribution to CRCCG, which represents an amount equal to the net profit attributable to the equity holder of the Company, as determined based on the audited consolidated financial statements prepared in accordance with the New PRC GAAP, generated during the period from 31 December 2006 (date of the Restructuring) to 30 November 2007 by the businesses and operations contributed to the Group by CRCCG (see note 13 of Section II below), after giving effect to relevant necessary adjustments.
- (e) Upon incorporation of the Company, CRCCG effected the injection of certain prepaid land lease payments in an aggregate amount of approximately RMB3,075 million to the Company which forms part of the Company's paid-up capital of RMB8,000 million.
- (f) Subsequent to the public listing of the Company's H Shares, in accordance with the relevant PRC regulations and the Articles of Association of the Company, retained profits available for distribution by the Company will be the lower of the amount determined in accordance with the New PRC GAAP and the amount determined in accordance with IFRSs.

II. NOTES TO FINANCIAL INFORMATION1. RESTRUCTURING

The Company was incorporated in the PRC on 5 November 2007 as a joint stock company with limited liability as part of the restructuring of CRCCG in preparation for the listing of the Company's shares on The Hong Kong Stock Exchange and The Shanghai Stock Exchange.

In consideration for CRCCG transferring the Core Operations (see definition below) to the Company upon its incorporation on 5 November 2007, the Company issued 8,000 million ordinary shares to CRCCG. The ordinary shares issued to CRCCG have a par value of RMB1.00 each and represented the entire registered and issued share capital of the Company upon its incorporation. CRCCG is the ultimate holding company of the Company.

The registered office of the Company is located at East, No. 40 Fuxing Road, Haidian District, Beijing, the PRC.

Prior to the incorporation of the Company, the construction operations, survey, design and consultancy operations, manufacturing operations and other business operations were carried out by various companies owned or controlled by CRCCG (the "Predecessor Operations"). 2. BASIS OF PRESENTATION AND PREPARATION

- (a) As discussed in note 1 of Section II above, prior to the incorporation of the Company, all the Core Operations were controlled and owned by CRCCG. Upon the incorporation of the Company on 5 November 2007, all the Core Operations were transferred to the Company. As there is no change in the ultimate controlling shareholder of the Core Operations, the Restructuring has been accounted for as a combination of business under common control in a manner similar to a pooling-of-interests. As a result, the accompanying consolidated balance sheets have been prepared to present the Group's assets and liabilities as if the Restructuring had been completed as at the beginning of the Relevant Periods. The accompanying consolidated income statements and consolidated cash flow statements include the Group's results of operations and cash flows as if the Core Operations had been transferred to the Group at the beginning of the Relevant Periods.

The Financial Information includes the operating results and financial position of the Retained Operations that were historically associated with the Predecessor Operations (see (b) below) but excludes those that were not strategically complementary to the Group's businesses (see (c) below) and those of the project companies of the Retained BOT Projects (see (d) below). Although the Retained Operations were not transferred to the Company, those associated with the Predecessor Operations have been included in the Financial Information according to the details set out in the agreement for the Restructuring entered into by the Company with CRCCG (the "Restructuring Agreement") because the Directors considered that the historical financial information should reflect all of the Group's costs of doing businesses, and include all relevant activities that have been part of the history of the Group's businesses and operations.

In evaluating whether the Financial Information prior to the Restructuring fairly presents the history of the Group's businesses, the Directors considered, among others, the following:

- (i) whether the Retained Operations were in dissimilar businesses;
 - (ii) whether the Retained Operations were and would be operated autonomously both before and after the Restructuring; and
 - (iii) whether the Retained Operations had no more than incidental common facilities and costs.
- (b) Certain operating assets and liabilities historically associated with the Predecessor Operations include certain buildings and prepaid land lease payments that do not have perfected titles and ownership certificates and supplementary defined benefits of retirees which were integral to the Predecessor Operations before the Restructuring. The tables below reflect the impact on the consolidated financial position and consolidated results of operations of these operating assets and liabilities that have been included in the consolidated financial statements:

- (i) Impact on consolidated financial position

Pursuant to the Restructuring, these operating assets and liabilities historically associated with the Predecessor Operations as mentioned above were retained by CRCCG by way of distributions to CRCCG. These operating assets and liabilities were not injected into the Company upon the incorporation of the Company on 5 November 2007.

- (c) The financial information of equity interests in certain companies not strategically complementary to the Group's businesses and ancillary facilities, including hospitals and nurseries, has not been included in the Financial Information throughout the Relevant Periods as they had distinct and separate management personnel, maintained separate accounting records as if they were autonomous and they were in dissimilar businesses and operations as compared with the Core Operations.
- (d) The financial information of equity interests in the project companies of the Retained BOT Projects has not been included in the Financial Information throughout the Relevant Periods as the Retained BOT Projects were considered to be inappropriate to be included in the Group by the Directors for reasons of the transfer of CRCCG's equity interests therein requiring approval of the contracted government authorities and subjecting to the pre-emptive rights of the joint venture partners to the respective concession agreements.
- (e) The Financial Information has been prepared in accordance with IFRSs, which comprise standards and interpretations approved by the IASB, and International Accounting Standards ("IASs") and Standing Interpretations Committee interpretations approved by the International Accounting Standards Committee that remain in effect, except for the following standards that are relevant to the Group's operations and have been early adopted as at 1 January 2004:

3.1 IMPACT OF ISSUED BUT NOT YET EFFECTIVE IFRSs

The Group has not applied the following new and revised IFRSs that have been issued but are not yet effective in this report:

IAS 1 (Revised)	Presentation of Financial Statements
IAS 23 (Revised)	Borrowing Costs
IFRS 8	Operating Segments
IFRIC-Int 11	IFRS 2 - Group and Treasury Share Transactions
IFRIC-Int 13	Customer Loyalty Programmes
IFRIC-Int 14	IAS 19 - The Limit on a Defined Benefit Asset, Minimum Funding Requirements and their Interaction

IAS 1 (Revised) shall be applied for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2009. The revised standard will affect the presentation of owner changes in equity and comprehensive income. The revised standard will use "statement of financial position" and "statement of cash flows" to replace the titles "balance sheet" and "cash flow statement", and in making reference to these two statements within a complete set of financial statements.

IAS 23 (Revised) shall be applied for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2009. The standard has been revised to require capitalisation of borrowing costs when such costs relate to a qualifying asset. A qualifying asset is an asset that necessarily takes a substantial period of time to get ready for its intended use or sale. As the Group has capitalised borrowing costs attributable to qualifying assets, the adoption of IAS 23 (Revised) is not expected to have any impact on the Group's consolidated financial statements.

IFRS 8 shall be applied for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2009. The standard requires disclosure of information about the Group's operating segments and replaces the requirement to determine primary (business) and secondary (geographical) reporting segments of the Group.

IFRIC-Int 11, IFRIC-Int 13 and IFRIC-Int 14 shall be applied for annual periods beginning on or after 1 March 2007, 1 July 2008 and 1 January 2008, respectively.

The Group is in the process of making an assessment of the impact of these new and revised IFRSs upon initial application. Up to the date of this report, it has concluded that these new and revised IFRSs are unlikely to have a significant impact on the Group's results of operations and financial position.

3.2 SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of consolidation

The Financial Information includes the financial statements of the Company and its subsidiaries for the Relevant Periods and the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2006. Except for the Restructuring which has been accounted for as a combination of business under common control in a manner similar to a pooling-of-interests as described in note 2 of Section II above, the purchase method of accounting is used to account for the acquisition of subsidiaries by the Group.

The pooling-of-interests method of accounting involves incorporating the financial statement items of the combining entities or businesses in which the common control combination occurs in the Relevant Periods as if they had been consolidated from the date when the combining entities or businesses first came under the control of the controlling party.

The net assets of the combining entities or businesses are combined using the existing book values from the controlling party's perspective. No amount is recognised in respect of goodwill or any excess of acquirers' interest in the net fair value of the acquiree's identifiable assets, liabilities and contingent liabilities over cost at the time of common control combination, to the extent of the continuation of the controlling party's interest.

The consolidated income statements include the results of each of the combining entities or businesses from the earliest date presented or since the date when the combining entities or businesses first came under the common control, where this is a shorter period, regardless of the date of the common control combination.

The purchase method of accounting involves allocating the cost of the business combinations to the fair value of the identifiable assets acquired and liabilities and contingent liabilities assumed at the date of acquisition. The cost of the acquisition is measured at the aggregate fair value of the assets given and liabilities incurred or assumed at the date of exchange, plus costs directly attributable to the acquisition.

Under the purchase method of accounting, the results of subsidiaries are consolidated from the date of acquisition, being the date on which the Group obtains control, and continue to be consolidated until the date that such control ceases.

All significant intra-group balances and transactions within the Group are eliminated on consolidation.

Minority interests represent the interests of outside shareholders not held by the Group in the results and net assets of the Company's subsidiaries, and are presented separately in the consolidated income statement and within equity in the consolidated balance sheet, separately from the equity attributable to equity holder of the Company. The Group applies the policy of treating transactions with minority interests as transactions with equity participants of the Group. The acquisition of minority interests is accounted for using the entity concept method whereby the difference between the consideration paid and the book value of the share of net assets acquired is recorded in equity.

Subsidiaries

A subsidiary is an entity whose financial and operating policies the Company controls, directly or indirectly, so as to obtain benefits from its activities.

The results of subsidiaries are included in the Company's income statement to the extent of dividends received and receivable. The Company's investments in subsidiaries are stated at cost less any impairment losses.

Joint ventures

A joint venture is an entity set up by contractual arrangement, whereby the Group and other parties undertake an economic activity. The joint venture operates as a separate entity in which the Group and the other parties have an interest.

The joint venture agreement between the venturers stipulates the capital contributions of the joint venture parties, the duration of the joint venture entity and the basis on which the assets are to be realised upon its dissolution. The profits and losses from the joint venture's operations and any distributions of surplus assets are shared by the venturers, either in proportion to their respective capital contributions, or in accordance with the terms of the joint venture agreement.

A joint venture is treated as:

- (a) a subsidiary, if the Group has unilateral control, directly or indirectly, over the joint venture;
- (b) a jointly-controlled entity, if the Group does not have unilateral control, but has joint control, directly or indirectly, over the joint venture;
- (c) an associate, if the Group does not have unilateral or joint control, but holds, directly or indirectly, generally not less than 20% of the joint venture's registered capital and is in a position to exercise significant influence over the joint venture; or
- (d) an equity investment accounted for in accordance with IAS 39, if the Group holds, directly or indirectly, less than 20% of the joint venture's registered capital and has neither joint control of, nor is in a position to exercise significant influence over, the joint venture.

Jointly-controlled entities

A jointly-controlled entity is a joint venture that is subject to joint control, resulting in none of the participating parties having unilateral control over the economic activity of the jointly-controlled entity.

The Group's share of the post-acquisition results and reserves of jointly-controlled entities is included in the consolidated income statement and consolidated reserves, respectively. The Group's interests in jointly-controlled entities are stated in the consolidated balance sheet at the Group's share of net assets under the equity method of accounting, less any impairment losses.

The results of jointly-controlled entities are included in the Company's income statement to the extent of dividends received and receivable. The Company's interests in jointly-controlled entities are treated as non-current assets and are stated at cost less any impairment losses.

Associates

An associate is an entity, not being a subsidiary or a jointly-controlled entity, in which the Group has a long term interest of generally not less than 20% of the equity voting rights and over which it is in a position to exercise significant influence.

The Group's share of the post-acquisition results and reserves of associates is included in the consolidated income statement and consolidated reserves, respectively. The Group's interests in associates are stated in the consolidated balance sheet at the Group's share of net assets under the equity method of accounting, less any impairment losses.

When an investment in an associate is classified as held for sale, it is accounted for in accordance with IFRS 5 Non-current Assets Held for Sale and Discontinued Operations.

Impairment of non-financial assets

Where an indication of impairment exists, or when annual impairment testing for an asset is required (other than inventories, properties under development, completed properties held for sale, construction contract assets, deferred tax assets and financial assets), the asset's recoverable amount is estimated. An asset's recoverable amount is calculated as the higher of the asset's or cash-generating unit's value in use and its fair value less costs to sell, and is determined for an individual asset, unless the asset does not generate cash inflows that are largely independent of those from other assets or groups of assets, in which case, the recoverable amount is determined for the cash-generating unit to which the asset belongs.

An impairment loss is recognised only if the carrying amount of an asset exceeds its recoverable amount. In assessing value in use, the estimated future cash flows are discounted to their present value using a pre-tax discount rate that reflects current market assessments of the time value of money and the risks specific to the asset. An impairment loss is charged to the income statement in the period in which it arises in those expenses categories consistent with the function of the impaired asset.

An assessment is made at each reporting date as to whether there is any indication that previously recognised impairment losses may no longer exist or may have decreased. If such indication exists, the recoverable amount is estimated. A previously recognised impairment loss of an asset and certain financial assets is reversed only if there has been a change in the estimates used to determine the recoverable amount of that asset, however not to an amount higher than the carrying amount that would have been determined (net of any depreciation/amortisation), had no impairment loss been recognised for the asset in prior years. A reversal of such impairment loss is credited to the income statement in the period in which it arises.

Related parties

A party is considered to be related to the Group if:

- (a) the party, directly or indirectly through one or more intermediaries, (i) controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with, the Group; (ii) has an interest in the Group that gives it significant influence over the Group; or (iii) has joint control over the Group;
- (b) the party is an associate;
- (c) the party is a jointly-controlled entity;
- (d) the party is a member of the key management personnel of the Group or its parent;
- (e) the party is a close member of the family of any individual referred to in (a) or (d);
- (f) the party is an entity that is controlled, jointly controlled or significantly influenced by or for which significant voting power in such entity resides with, directly or indirectly, any individual referred to in (d) or (e); or
- (g) the party is a post-employment benefit plan for the benefit of the employees of the Group, or of any entity that is a related party of the Group.

Property, plant and equipment and depreciation

Property, plant and equipment, other than construction in progress, are stated at cost less accumulated depreciation and any impairment losses. The cost of an item of property, plant and equipment comprises its purchase price and any directly attributable costs of bringing the asset to its working condition and location for its intended use. Expenditure incurred after items of property, plant and equipment have been put into operation, such as repairs and maintenance, is normally charged to the income statement in the period in which it is incurred. In situations where it can be clearly demonstrated that the expenditure has resulted in an increase in the future economic benefits expected to be obtained from the use of an item of property, plant and equipment, and where the cost of the item can be measured reliably, the expenditure is capitalised as an additional cost of that asset or as a replacement.

Depreciation is calculated on the straight-line basis to write off the cost of each item of property, plant and equipment to its residual value of 5% over its estimated useful life. The principal annual rates used for this purpose are as follows:

Buildings	2.71%
Machinery	9.50%
Vehicles	19.00%
Production equipment	9.50%
Measurement and experimental equipment	19.00%
Other equipment	19.00%

Where parts of an item of property, plant and equipment have different useful lives, the cost of that item is allocated on a reasonable basis among the parts and each part is depreciated separately.

Residual values, useful lives and depreciation method are reviewed, and adjusted if appropriate, at each balance sheet date.

An item of property, plant and equipment is derecognised upon disposal or when no future economic benefits are expected from its use or disposal. Any gain or loss on disposal or retirement recognised in the income statement in the period the asset is derecognised is the difference between the net sales proceeds and the carrying amount of the relevant asset.

Construction in progress represents property, plant and equipment under construction, which is stated at cost less any impairment losses, and is not depreciated. Cost comprises the direct costs of construction and capitalised borrowing costs on related borrowed funds during the period of construction. Construction in progress is reclassified to the appropriate category of property, plant and equipment when completed and ready for use.

Intangible assets

The useful lives of intangible assets are assessed to be either finite or indefinite. Intangible assets with finite lives are amortised over the useful economic life and assessed for impairment whenever there is an indication that the intangible asset may be impaired. The amortisation period and the amortisation method for an intangible asset with a finite useful life are reviewed at least at each balance sheet date.

Concession assets

The Group engages in certain service concession arrangements in which the Group carries out construction work for the granting authority and receives in exchange a right to operate the assets concerned in accordance with the pre-established conditions set by the granting authority. In accordance with IFRIC Int-12, the assets under the concession arrangements may be classified as intangible assets or financial assets. The assets are classified as intangible assets if the operator receives a right (a licence) to charge users of the public service, or as financial assets if paid by the granting authority. The Group classifies the non-current assets linked to the long-term investment in these concession arrangements as "concession assets" within intangible assets classification on the balance sheet if the intangible asset model is adopted. Once the underlying infrastructure of the concession arrangements has been completed, the concession assets will be amortised over the term of the concession on the straight-line basis under the intangible asset model.

Computer software

Acquired computer software licences are capitalised on the basis of the costs incurred to acquire and bring to use the specific software. These costs are amortised on the straight-line basis over their estimated useful lives of two to ten years.

Others

Others included purchased patents and licenses which are stated at cost less any impairment losses and are amortised on the straight-line basis over their estimated useful life of fifteen years.

Research and development costs

All research costs are charged to the income statement as incurred.

Expenditure incurred on projects to develop new products is capitalised and deferred only when the Group can demonstrate the technical feasibility of completing the intangible asset so that it will be available for use or sale, its intention to complete and its ability to use or sell the asset, how the asset will generate future economic benefits, the availability of resources to complete the project and the ability to measure reliably the expenditure during the development. Product development expenditure which does not meet these criteria is expensed when incurred.

Non-current assets and disposal groups held for sale

Non-current assets and disposal groups are classified as held for sale if their carrying amounts will be recovered principally through a sale transaction rather than through continuing use. For this to be the case, the asset or disposal group must be available for immediate sale in its present condition subject only to terms that are usual and customary for the sale of such assets or disposal groups and its sale must be highly probable.

Non-current assets and disposal groups (other than deferred tax assets and financial assets) classified as held for sale are measured at the lower of their carrying amounts and fair values less costs to sell.

Leases

Leases that transfer substantially all the rewards and risks of ownership of assets to the Group, other than legal title, are accounted for as finance leases. At the inception of a finance lease, the cost of the leased asset is capitalised at the present value of the minimum lease payments and recorded together with the obligation, excluding the interest element, to reflect the purchase and financing. Assets held under capitalised finance leases are included in property, plant and equipment, and depreciated over the shorter of the lease terms and the estimated useful lives of the assets. The finance costs of such leases are charged to the income statement so as to provide a constant periodic rate of charge over the lease terms.

Assets acquired through hire purchase contracts of a financing nature are accounted for as finance leases, and are depreciated over their estimated useful lives.

Leases where substantially all the rewards and risks of ownership of assets remain with the lessor are accounted for as operating leases. Rentals payable under the operating leases are charged to the income statement on the straight-line basis over the lease terms.

Prepaid land lease payments under operating leases are initially stated at cost and subsequently recognised on the straight-line basis over the lease terms ranging from thirty to fifty years. When the lease payments cannot be allocated reliably between the land and buildings elements, the entire lease payments are included in the cost of the land and buildings as a finance lease in property, plant and equipment.

Investments and other financial assets

Financial assets in the scope of IAS 39 are classified as financial assets at fair value through profit or loss, loans and receivables, held-to-maturity investments, and available-for-sale financial assets, as appropriate. When financial assets are recognised initially, they are measured at fair value, plus, in the case of investments not at fair value through profit or loss, directly attributable transaction costs.

The Group determines the classification of its financial assets after initial recognition and, where allowed and appropriate, re-evaluates this designation at the balance sheet date.

All regular way purchases and sales of financial assets are recognised on the trade date, that is, the date that the Group commits to purchase or sell the asset. Regular way purchases or sales are purchases or sales of financial assets that require delivery of assets within the period generally established by regulation or convention in the marketplace.

Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss

Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss include financial assets held for trading. Financial assets are classified as held for trading if they are acquired for the purpose of sale in the near term. Gains or losses on investments held for trading are recognised in the income statement.

Loans and receivables

Loans and receivables are non-derivative financial assets with fixed or determinable payments that are not quoted in an active market. Such assets are subsequently carried at amortised cost using the effective interest method. Amortised cost is calculated taking into account any discount or premium on acquisition and includes fees that are an integral part of the effective interest rate and transaction costs. Gains and losses are recognised in the income statement when the loans and receivables are derecognised or impaired, as well as through the amortisation process.

Held-to-maturity investments

Non-derivative financial assets with fixed or determinable payments and fixed maturity are classified as held-to-maturity when the Group has the positive intention and ability to hold to maturity. Investments intended to be held for an undefined period are not included in this classification. Held-to-maturity investments are subsequently measured at amortised cost. Amortised cost is computed as the amount initially recognised minus principal repayments, plus or minus the cumulative amortisation using the effective interest method of any difference between the initially recognised amount and the maturity amount. This calculation includes all fees and points paid or received between parties to the contract that are an integral part of the effective interest rate, transaction costs and all other premiums and discounts. Gains and losses are recognised in the income statement when the investments are derecognised or impaired, as well as through the amortisation process.

Available-for-sale financial assets

Available-for-sale financial assets are non-derivative financial assets in listed and unlisted equity and debt securities that are designated as available for sale or are not classified in any of the other three categories. After initial recognition, available-for-sale financial assets are measured at fair value, with gains or losses recognised as a separate component of equity until the investment is derecognised or until the investment is determined to be impaired, at which time the cumulative gain or loss previously reported in equity is included in the income statement.

When the fair value of unlisted equity and debt securities cannot be reliably measured because (a) the variability in the range of reasonable fair value estimates is significant for that investment; or (b) the probabilities of the various estimates within the range cannot be reasonably assessed and used in estimating fair value, such securities are stated at cost less any impairment losses.

Fair value

The fair value of investments that are actively traded in organised financial markets is determined by reference to quoted market bid prices at the close of business at the balance sheet date. For investments where there is no active market, fair value is determined using valuation techniques. Such techniques include using recent arm's length market transactions; reference to the current market value of another instrument which is substantially the same; a discounted cash flow analysis; and other valuation models.

Financial guarantee contracts

Financial guarantee contracts in the scope of IAS 39 are accounted for as financial liabilities. A financial guarantee contract is recognised initially at its fair value plus transaction costs that are directly attributable to the acquisition or issue of the financial guarantee contract, except when such contract is recognised at fair value through profit or loss. Subsequent to initial recognition, the Group measures the financial guarantee contract at the higher of: (i) the amount determined in accordance with IAS 37 Provisions, Contingent Liabilities and Contingent Assets; and (ii) the amount initially recognised less, when appropriate, cumulative amortisation recognised in accordance with IAS 18 Revenue.

Impairment of financial assets

The Group assesses at each balance sheet date whether there is any objective evidence that a financial asset or a group of financial assets is impaired.

Assets carried at amortised cost

If there is objective evidence that an impairment loss on loans and receivables or held-to-maturity investments carried at amortised cost has been incurred, the amount of the loss is measured as the difference between the asset's carrying amount and the present value of estimated future cash flows (excluding future credit losses that have not been incurred) discounted at the financial asset's original effective interest rate (i.e., the effective interest rate computed at initial recognition). The carrying amount of the asset is reduced either directly or through the use of an allowance account. The amount of the impairment loss is recognised in the income statement.

The Group first assesses whether objective evidence of impairment exists individually for financial assets that are individually significant, and individually or collectively for financial assets that are not individually significant. If it is determined that no objective evidence of impairment exists for an individually assessed financial asset, whether significant or not, the asset is included in a group of financial assets with similar credit risk characteristics and that group is collectively assessed for impairment. Assets that are individually assessed for impairment and for which an impairment loss is or continues to be recognised are not included in a collective assessment of impairment.

If, in a subsequent period, the amount of the impairment loss decreases and the decrease can be related objectively to an event occurring after the impairment was recognised, the previously recognised impairment loss is reversed. Any subsequent reversal of an impairment loss is recognised in the income statement, to the extent that the carrying value of the asset does not exceed its amortised cost at the reversal date.

In relation to trade receivables, a provision for impairment is made when there is objective evidence (such as the probability of insolvency or significant financial difficulties of the debtor) that the Group will not be able to collect all of the amounts due under the original terms of an invoice. The carrying amount of the receivables is reduced through the use of an allowance account. Impaired debts are derecognised when they are assessed as uncollectible.

Assets carried at cost

If there is objective evidence that an impairment loss on an unquoted equity instrument that is not carried at fair value because its fair value cannot be reliably measured has been incurred, the amount of the loss is measured as the difference between the asset's carrying amount and the present value of estimated future cash flows discounted at the current market rate of return for a similar financial asset. Impairment losses on these assets are not reversed.

Available-for-sale financial assets

If an available-for-sale asset is impaired, an amount comprising the difference between its cost (net of any principal payment and amortisation) and its current fair value, less any impairment loss previously recognised in the income statement, is transferred from equity to the income statement. Impairment losses on equity instruments classified as available for sale are not reversed through the income statement.

Impairment losses on debt instruments are reversed through the income statement, if the increase in fair value of the instrument can be objectively related to an event occurring after the impairment loss was recognised in the income statement.

Derecognition of financial assets

A financial asset (or, where applicable, a part of a financial asset or part of a group of similar financial assets) is derecognised where:

- the rights to receive cash flows from the asset have expired;
- the Group retains the rights to receive cash flows from the asset, but has assumed an obligation to pay them in full without material delay to a third party under a “pass-through” arrangement; or
- the Group has transferred its rights to receive cash flows from the asset and either (a) has transferred substantially all the risks and rewards of the asset; or (b) has neither transferred nor retained substantially all the risks and rewards of the asset, but has transferred control of the asset.

Where the Group has transferred its rights to receive cash flows from an asset and has neither transferred nor retained substantially all the risks and rewards of the asset nor transferred control of the asset, the asset is recognised to the extent of the Group's continuing involvement in the asset. Continuing involvement that takes the form of a guarantee over the transferred asset is measured at the lower of the original carrying amount of the asset and the maximum amount of consideration that the Group could be required to repay.

Financial liabilities at amortised cost (including interest-bearing bank and other borrowings)

Financial liabilities including trade and bills payables, other payables, interest-bearing bank and other borrowings and other long term liabilities are initially stated at fair value less directly attributable transaction costs and are subsequently measured at amortised cost, using the effective interest method unless the effect of discounting would be immaterial, in which case they are stated at cost.

Gains and losses are recognised in the income statement when the liabilities are derecognised as well as through the amortisation process.

Derecognition of financial liabilities

A financial liability is derecognised when the obligation under the liability is discharged or cancelled or expired.

When an existing financial liability is replaced by another from the same lender on substantially different terms, or the terms of an existing liability are substantially modified, such an exchange or modification is treated as a derecognition of the original liability and a recognition of a new liability, and the difference between the respective carrying amounts is recognised in the income statement.

Inventories

Inventories are stated at the lower of cost and net realisable value. Cost is determined on the weighted average basis and, in the case of work-in-progress and finished goods, comprises direct materials, direct labour and an appropriate proportion of overheads. Net realisable value is based on estimated selling prices less any estimated costs to be incurred to completion and disposal.

Properties under development

Properties under development which are intended for sale are stated at the lower of cost and net realisable value, which is estimated by the Directors based on the prevailing market condition. Cost comprises all development expenditure, applicable borrowing costs and other direct costs attributable to such properties.

Completed properties held for sale

Completed properties held for sale are stated at the lower of cost and net realisable value. Cost comprises all development expenditure, applicable borrowing costs and other direct costs attributable to such properties. Net realisable value is determined by reference to the prevailing market prices on an individual property basis.

Construction contracts

Contract revenue comprises the agreed contract amount and appropriate amounts from variation orders, claims and incentive payments. Contract costs incurred comprise direct materials, the costs of subcontracting, direct labour and an appropriate proportion of fixed and variable construction overheads.

Revenue from fixed price construction contracts is recognised on the percentage of completion method, measured by reference to the proportion of costs incurred to date to the estimated total costs of the relevant contract.

Revenue from cost plus construction contracts is recognised on the percentage of completion method, by reference to the recoverable costs incurred during the period plus the related fee earned, measured by the proportion of costs incurred to date to the estimated total costs of the relevant contract.

Provision is made for foreseeable losses as soon as they are anticipated by management.

Where contract costs incurred to date plus recognised profits less recognised losses exceed progress billings, the surplus is treated as an amount due from contract customers.

Where progress billings exceed contract costs incurred to date plus recognised profits less recognised losses, the surplus is treated as an amount due to contract customers.

Contracts for services

Contract revenue on the rendering of services comprises the agreed contract amount. Costs of rendering services comprise labour and other costs of personnel directly engaged in providing the services and attributable overheads.

Revenue from the rendering of services is recognised based on the percentage of completion of the transaction, provided that the revenue, the costs incurred and the estimated costs to completion can be measured reliably. The percentage of completion is established by reference to the costs incurred to date as compared to the total costs to be incurred under the transaction.

Provision is made for foreseeable losses as soon as they are anticipated by management.

Where contract costs incurred to date plus recognised profits less recognised losses exceed progress billings, the surplus is treated as an amount due from contract customers.

Where progress billings exceed contract costs incurred to date plus recognised profits less recognised losses, the surplus is treated as an amount due to contract customers.

Cash and cash equivalents

For the purpose of the consolidated cash flow statement, cash and cash equivalents comprise cash on hand and demand deposits, and short term highly liquid investments which are readily convertible into known amounts of cash and which are subject to an insignificant risk of changes in value, and have a short maturity of generally within three months when acquired, less bank overdrafts which are repayable on demand and form an integral part of the Group's cash management.

For the purpose of the balance sheets, cash and cash equivalents comprise cash on hand and at banks, including term deposits, which are not restricted as to use.

Government grants

Government grants are recognised at their fair values where there is reasonable assurance that the grant will be received and all attaching conditions will be complied with. When the grant relates to an expense item, it is recognised as income over the periods necessary to match the grant on a systematic basis to the costs that it is intended to compensate. Where the grant relates to an asset, the fair value is credited to a deferred revenue account and is released to the income statement over the expected useful life of the relevant asset by equal annual instalments.

Provisions

A provision is recognised when a present obligation (legal or constructive) has arisen as a result of a past event and it is probable that a future outflow of resources will be required to settle the obligation, provided that a reliable estimate can be made of the amount of the obligation.

When the effect of discounting is material, the amount recognised for a provision is the present value at the balance sheet date of the future expenditures expected to be required to settle the obligation. The increase in the discounted present value amount arising from the passage of time is included in finance costs in the income statement.

Income tax

Income tax comprises current and deferred tax. Income tax is recognised in the income statement, or in equity if it relates to items that are recognised in the same or a different period directly in equity.

Current tax assets and liabilities for the current and prior periods are measured at the amount expected to be recovered from or paid to the taxation authorities.

Deferred tax is provided, using the liability method, on all temporary differences at the balance sheet date between the tax bases of assets and liabilities and their carrying amounts for financial reporting purposes.

Deferred tax liabilities are recognised for all taxable temporary differences, except:

- where the deferred tax liability arises from the initial recognition of an asset or liability in a transaction that is not a business combination and, at the time of the transaction, affects neither the accounting profit nor taxable profit or loss; and
- in respect of taxable temporary differences associated with investments in subsidiaries, associates and interests in joint ventures, where the timing of the reversal of the temporary differences can be controlled and it is probable that the temporary differences will not reverse in the foreseeable future.

Deferred tax assets are recognised for all deductible temporary differences, carryforward of unused tax credits and unused tax losses, to the extent that it is probable that taxable profit will be available against which the deductible temporary differences, and the carryforward of unused tax credits and unused tax losses can be utilised, except:

- where the deferred tax asset relating to the deductible temporary differences arises from the initial recognition of an asset or liability in a transaction that is not a business combination and, at the time of the transaction, affects neither the accounting profit nor taxable profit or loss; and
- in respect of deductible temporary differences associated with investments in subsidiaries, associates and interests in joint ventures, deferred tax assets are only recognised to the extent that it is probable that the temporary differences will reverse in the foreseeable future and taxable profit will be available against which the temporary differences can be utilised.

The carrying amount of deferred tax assets is reviewed at each balance sheet date and reduced to the extent that it is no longer probable that sufficient taxable profit will be available to allow all or part of the deferred tax asset to be utilised. Conversely, previously unrecognised deferred tax assets are reassessed at each balance sheet date and are recognised to the extent that it is probable that sufficient taxable profit will be available to allow all or part of the deferred tax asset to be utilised.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured at the tax rates that are expected to apply to the period when the asset is realised or the liability is settled, based on tax rates (and tax laws) that have been enacted or substantively enacted at the balance sheet date.

Deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities are offset if a legally enforceable right exists to set off current tax assets against current tax liabilities and the deferred taxes relate to the same taxable entity and the same taxation authority.

Revenue recognition

Revenue is recognised when it is probable that the economic benefits will flow to the Group and when the revenue can be measured reliably, on the following bases:

- (a) from construction contracts, on the percentage of completion basis, as further explained in the accounting policy for "Construction contracts" above;
- (b) from the rendering of services, on the percentage of completion basis, as further explained in the accounting policy for "Contracts for services" above;

- (c) from the provision of logistics services, when the services are rendered;
- (d) from the sale of goods, when the significant risks and rewards of ownership have been transferred to the buyer, provided that the Group maintains neither managerial involvement to the degree usually associated with ownership, nor effective control over the goods sold;
- (e) from the sale of properties, when the significant risks and rewards of ownership have been transferred to the buyer, which is when the construction work has been completed and the properties have been delivered to the buyer. Deposits and instalments received in respect of properties sold prior to the date of revenue recognition are included in the balance sheet under current liabilities;
- (f) interest income, on an accrual basis using the effective interest method by applying the rate that discounts the estimated future cash receipts through the expected life of the financial instrument to the net carrying amount of the financial asset;
- (g) dividend income, when the shareholders' right to receive payment has been established; and
- (h) toll revenue, net of any applicable revenue taxes when received.

Borrowing costs

Borrowing costs directly attributable to the acquisition, construction or production of qualifying assets, i.e., assets that necessarily take a substantial period of time to get ready for their intended use or sale, are capitalised as part of the cost of those assets. The capitalisation of such borrowing costs ceases when the assets are substantially ready for their intended use or sale. Investment income earned on the temporary investment of specific borrowings pending their expenditure on qualifying assets is deducted from the borrowing costs capitalised.

Dividends

Dividends are recognised as a liability in the period in which they are approved by the shareholders and declared.

Foreign currencies

These financial statements are presented in RMB, which is the Company's functional and presentation currency. Each entity in the Group determines its own functional currency and items included in the financial statements of each entity are measured using that functional currency. Foreign currency transactions are initially recorded using the functional currency rates ruling at the date of the transactions. Monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are retranslated at the functional currency rates of exchange ruling at the balance sheet date. All differences are taken to the income statement. Non-monetary items that are measured in terms of historical cost in a foreign currency are translated using the exchange rates at the dates of the initial transactions. Non-monetary items measured at fair value in a foreign currency are translated using the exchange rates at the date when the fair value was determined.

The functional currencies of certain overseas subsidiaries, jointly-controlled entities and associates are currencies other than RMB. As at the balance sheet date, the assets and liabilities of these entities are translated into the presentation currency of the Company at the exchange rates ruling at the balance sheet date, and their income statements are translated into RMB at the weighted average exchange rates for the year. The resulting exchange differences are included in equity. On disposal of a foreign entity, the deferred cumulative amount recognised in equity relating to that particular foreign operation is recognised in the consolidated income statement.

For the purpose of the consolidated cash flow statement, the cash flows of overseas subsidiaries are translated into RMB at the exchange rates ruling at the date of the cash flows. Frequently recurring cash flows of overseas subsidiaries which arise throughout the period are translated into RMB at the weighted average exchange rates for the period.

Employee benefits

Retirement benefits

The full-time employees of the Group in Mainland China are covered by various government-sponsored retirement plans under which the employees are entitled to a monthly pension based on certain formulas. The relevant government agencies are responsible for the pension liability to these retired employees. The Group contributes on a monthly basis to these retirement plans. Under these plans, the Group has no obligation for post-retirement benefits beyond the contributions made. Contributions to these plans are expensed as incurred.

In addition, the Group participates in various defined contribution retirement schemes for its qualified employees in certain countries or jurisdictions outside Mainland China. Employees' and employers' contributions are calculated based on various percentages of employees' gross salaries or fixed sums and length of service.

The Group also provided supplementary pension subsidies to retired employees in Mainland China during the Relevant Periods and the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2006. Such supplementary pension subsidies are considered as defined benefit plans. The liability recognised in the balance sheet in respect of these defined benefit plans is the present value of the defined benefit obligation at the balance sheet date less the fair value of plan assets, together with adjustments for unrecognised actuarial gains or losses and past service costs. The defined benefit obligation is calculated annually by independent actuaries using the projected unit credit method. The present value of the defined benefit obligation is determined by discounting the estimated future cash outflows using interest rates of government securities which have maturities approximating to the terms of the related pension liability. Actuarial gains and losses arising from experience adjustments and changes in actuarial assumptions in excess of the greater of 10% of the value of plan assets or 10% of the defined benefit obligation are charged or credited to the income statement over the employees' expected average remaining working lives. Past-service costs are recognised immediately in the income statement, unless the changes to the pension plan are conditional on the employees remaining in service for a specified period of time (the "vesting period"). In this case, the past-service costs are amortised on a straight-line basis over the vesting period. Employees who retire after 1 January 2007 are no longer entitled to such supplementary pension subsidies.

Other post-employment obligations

Some companies within the Group in Mainland China provide post-retirement medical benefits to their retired employees. The expected costs of these benefits are accrued over the period of employment using the same accounting methodology as used for defined benefit pension plans. Actuarial gains and losses arising from experience adjustments, and changes in actuarial assumptions in excess of the greater of 10% of the value of plan assets or 10% of the defined benefit obligation, are charged or credited to the income statement over the expected average remaining working lives of the related employees. These obligations are valued annually by independent qualified actuaries.

Termination and early retirement benefits

Employee termination and early retirement benefits are recognised in the period in which the Group has entered into an agreement with the employee specifying the terms of redundancy, or after the individual employee has been advised of the specific terms. The specific terms vary among the terminated and early retired employees depending on various factors including position, length of service, salary level at the time of application, minimum compensation levels set by the local regulatory authorities, and district of the employee concerned.

Housing funds

All full-time employees of the Group in Mainland China are entitled to participate in various government-sponsored housing funds. The Group contributes on a monthly basis to these funds based on certain percentages of the salaries of the employees. The Group's liability in respect of these funds is limited to the contributions payable in each period.

Bonus entitlements

The expected cost of bonus payments is recognised as a liability when the Group has a present legal or constructive obligation as a result of services rendered by employees and a reliable estimate of the obligation can be made. Liabilities for bonuses are expected to be settled within twelve months and are measured at the amounts expected to be paid when they are settled.

4. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT JUDGEMENTS AND ESTIMATES

Judgements

In the process of applying the Group's accounting policies, management has made the following judgements, apart from those involving estimations, which have the most significant effect on the amounts recognised in the financial statements:

Impairment of available-for-sale investments

The Group determines that available-for-sale investments are impaired when there has been a significant or prolonged decline in the fair value below its cost. This determination of what is significant or prolonged requires judgement. In making this judgement, the Group evaluates, among other factors, the duration and the extent to which the fair value of an investment is less than its cost. In addition, impairment may be appropriate when there is evidence of a deterioration in the financial health of the investee, industry and sector performance, changes in technology, and operating and financing cash flows.

Contingent liabilities arising from litigations and claims

The Group is involved in a number of litigations and claims in respect of certain construction work performed in the present and the past. Contingent liabilities arising from these litigations and claims have been assessed by management with reference to legal advice. Provisions on the possible obligations have been made based on management's best estimates and judgements.

Estimation uncertainty

The key assumptions concerning the future and other key sources of estimation uncertainty at the balance sheet dates, that have a significant risk of causing a material adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities within the next financial year, are discussed below.

Useful lives and residual values of items of property, plant and equipment

In determining the useful lives and residual values of items of property, plant and equipment, the Group periodically reviews the changes in market conditions, expected physical wear and tear, and the maintenance of the asset. The estimation of the useful life of the asset is based on historical experience of the Group with similar assets that are used in a similar way. Depreciation amount will be adjusted if the estimated useful lives and/or the residual values of items of property, plant and equipment are different from previous estimation. Useful lives and residual values are reviewed, at each balance sheet date, based on changes in circumstances.

Current income tax and deferred income tax

The Group is subject to income taxes in numerous jurisdictions. Judgement is required in determining the provision for taxation. There are many transactions and calculations for which the ultimate tax determination is uncertain during the ordinary course of business. Where the final tax outcome of these matters is different from the amounts originally recorded, the differences will impact on the current income tax and deferred income tax provisions in the periods in which the differences arise.

Deferred tax assets relating to certain temporary differences and tax losses are recognised as management considers it is probable that future taxable profit will be available against which the temporary differences or tax losses can be utilised. The realisation of the deferred tax assets mainly depends on whether sufficient future profits or taxable temporary differences will be available in the future. In cases where the actual future profits generated are less than expected, a material reversal of deferred tax assets may arise, which will be recognised in the income statement for the period in which such a reversal takes place.

The Group recognises revenue according to the percentage of completion of individual contract of construction work, which requires estimation to be made by management. The stage of completion is estimated by reference to the actual costs incurred over the total budgeted costs, and the corresponding contract revenue is also estimated by management. Due to the nature of the activity undertaken in construction contracts, the date at which the activity is entered into and the date at which the activity is completed usually fall into different accounting periods. Hence, the Group reviews and revises the estimates of both contract revenue and contract costs in the budget prepared for each contract as the contract progresses. Where the actual contract revenue are less than expected or actual contract costs are more than expected, an impairment loss may arise.

Impairment of trade receivables

The Group maintains an allowance for estimated loss arising from the inability of its customers to make the required payments. The Group makes its estimates based on the ageing of its trade receivable balances, customers' creditworthiness, and historical write-off experience. If the financial condition of its customers will deteriorate such that the actual impairment loss might be higher than expected, the Group would be required to revise the basis for making the allowance and its future results would be affected.

Retirement benefits

The Group establishes liabilities in connection with benefits paid to certain retired and early retired employees. The amounts of employee benefit expenses and liabilities are determined using actuarial valuations, which are calculated by independent valuation professionals who will conduct annual assessment of the actuarial position of the Group's retirement plans. These actuarial valuations involve making assumptions on discount rates, expected rates of return on assets, pension benefit inflation rates, medical benefit inflation rates, and other factors. Due to the long term nature of these plans, such estimates are subject to significant uncertainty.

Actual results that differ from the assumptions are recognised immediately and therefore, affect recognised expenses in the period in which such differences arise. While management believes that its assumptions are appropriate, differences in actual experience or changes in assumptions may affect the expenses related to the employee retirement benefit obligations.

5. SEGMENT INFORMATION

Segment information is presented by way of two segment formats: (i) on a primary segment reporting basis, by business segment; and (ii) on a secondary segment reporting basis, by geographical segment.

The Group's operating businesses are structured and managed separately according to the nature of their operations, and the products and services they provide. Each of the Group's business segments represents a strategic business unit that offers different services and products which are subject to risks and returns that are different from those of the other business segments. Summary details of the business segments are as follows:

- (i) the construction operations segment engages in the construction of infrastructures such as railways, highways, bridges, tunnels, metropolitan railways, airports and ports, water conservancy and hydropower facilities, real estate and municipal projects;
- (ii) the survey, design and consultancy operations segment engages in the provision of survey, design and consultancy services, as well as technology and equipment research and development services, for the construction of railways, highways, metropolitan railways, bridges, tunnels, municipal and power projects, high-rise buildings, airports and ports;
- (iii) the manufacturing operations segment engages in the design, research and development, production and sale of large track maintenance machinery as well as the manufacturing of components for railway construction; and
- (iv) the other business operations segment mainly comprises real estate development and logistics businesses.

The profit before tax of a segment represents revenue less expenses directly attributable to a segment and the relevant portion of enterprise revenue less expenses that can be allocated on a reasonable basis to a segment, whether from external transactions or from transactions with other segments of the Group.

Segment assets and liabilities mainly comprise operating assets and liabilities that are directly attributable to the segment or can be allocated to the segment on a reasonable basis.

In determining the Group's geographical segments, revenues are attributed to the segments based on the location of the customers, and assets are attributed to the segments based on the location of the assets.

Intersegment sales and transfers are transacted with reference to the selling prices used for sales made to third parties at the then prevailing market prices.

6. REVENUE AND OTHER INCOME AND GAINS, NET

Revenue, which is also the Group's turnover, represents: (1) an appropriate proportion of contract revenue of construction contracts, net of business tax and government surcharges; (2) the invoiced value of goods sold, net of value-added tax and government surcharges, and after allowances for goods returns and trade discounts; and (3) the value of other services rendered.

An analysis of the Group's revenue and other income and gains, net, is as follows:

Notes:

- (a) All of the Group's full-time employees in Mainland China are covered by various government-sponsored retirement plans under which the employees are entitled to a monthly pension based on certain formulas. The relevant government agencies are responsible for the pension liability to these retired employees. The Group is required to make monthly contributions to these plans at rates ranging from 20% to 23% of the employees' basic salaries for the Relevant Periods and the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2006. Contributions to these plans are expensed as incurred.

In addition, the Group participates in various defined contribution retirement schemes for its qualified employees in certain countries or jurisdictions outside Mainland China. Employees' and employers' contributions are calculated based on various percentages of employees' gross salaries or fixed sums and length of service.

During the Relevant Periods and the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2006 and at the end of each of the Relevant Periods, the Group's forfeited contributions available to reduce its contributions to the defined contribution retirement schemes in future years were not material.

- (b) In addition, the Group provided supplementary pension subsidies to its retired employees in Mainland China who retired prior to 1 January 2007. Details of the supplementary pension subsidies, which are considered of defined benefit nature, are set out in note 35 of Section II below. Employees who retire after 1 January 2007 are no longer entitled to such supplementary pension subsidies.

The Group also implemented an early retirement plan for certain employees in addition to the benefits under the government-sponsored retirement plans and supplementary pension subsidies described above, details of which are set out in note 35 of Section II below. Employee termination and early retirement benefits are recognised in the period in which the Group has entered into an agreement with the employee specifying the terms of redundancy, or after the individual employee has been advised of the specific terms. The specific terms determining the amount of compensation payments made to early retired employees vary among the terminated and early retired employees depending on various factors including their position, length of service, salary level at the time of application, minimum compensation levels set by the local regulatory authorities, and district of the employee concerned. These compensation payments to existing early retired employees will continue after the listing of the Company's H Shares on The Hong Kong Stock Exchange. However, the Group's early retirement scheme will not continue after the listing of the Company's H Shares on The Hong Kong Stock Exchange and as such, no further new early retirement application will be accepted by the Group after the listing of the Company's H Shares on The Hong Kong Stock Exchange.

11. TAX

Under the relevant PRC Corporate Income Tax Law and the respective regulations, except for certain preferential treatment available to the Company's subsidiaries, jointly-controlled entities and associates, which were exempted or taxed at a preferential rate of 15% to 16.5% during different periods of time in the Relevant Periods primarily due to their status as entities engaging in technology development or their involvement in projects that were supported by the government, such as Qinghai-Tibet Railway, and development projects in the western part of China, the entities within the Group are subject to corporate income tax at a rate of 33% during each of the Relevant Periods and the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2006.

During the 5th Session of the 10th National People's Congress, which was concluded on 16 March 2007, the PRC Corporate Income Tax Law (the "New Corporate Income Tax Law") was approved and will become effective on 1 January 2008. The New Corporate Income Tax Law introduces a wide range of changes which include, but are not limited to, the unification of the income tax rate for domestic-invested enterprises and foreign-invested enterprises, which results in a reduction of income tax rate from 33% to 25%. The effect of this change has been reflected in the calculation of deferred income tax as at 30 November 2007.

Hong Kong profits tax has been provided at the rate of 17.5% on the estimated assessable profits arising in Hong Kong during each of the Relevant Periods and the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2006.

Taxes on profits assessable elsewhere, including Macau and Nigeria, have been calculated at the rates of tax prevailing in the country in which the relevant companies within the Group operates, based on existing legislation, interpretations and practices in respect thereof.

Notes:

- (a) The distributions during the Relevant Periods and the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2006 mainly represented payments made by the Group on behalf of the project companies of the Retained BOT Projects which had been carved-out and treated as deemed distributions pursuant to the Restructuring as set out in note 1 of Section II of this report.
- (b) Certain operating assets and liabilities historically associated with the Predecessor Operations include certain buildings and prepaid land lease payments that do not have perfected titles and ownership certificates and supplementary defined benefits of retirees together with the related deferred tax assets which were integral to the Predecessor Operations before the Restructuring. These assets and liabilities historically associated with the Predecessor Operations were retained by CRCCG by way of distributions to CRCCG and were not injected into the Company upon its incorporation on 5 November 2007.
- (c) In accordance with the notice (財政部關於印發《企業公司制改建有關國有資本管理與財務處理的暫行規定》的通知) "Provisional Regulation Relating to Corporate Restructuring of Enterprises and Related Management of State-owned Capital and Financial Treatment" issued by the MOF (the English name of the notice is a direct translation of the Chinese name), which became effective from 27 August 2002, and pursuant to the Restructuring, after the Company's incorporation, the Company is required to make a distribution to CRCCG, which represents an amount equal to the net profit attributable to the equity holder of the Company, as determined based on the audited consolidated financial statements prepared in accordance with the New PRC GAAP, generated during the period from 31 December 2006 (date of the Restructuring) to 30 November 2007 by the businesses and operations contributed to the Group by CRCCG, after giving effect to relevant necessary adjustments.

- (d) The other distribution represented an amount due from the ultimate holding company included in prepayments, deposits and other receivables which had been carved-out and treated as deemed distribution during the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2007 (note 28).

The rates of distribution and the number of shares ranking for distribution are not presented as such information is not meaningful for the purpose of this report.

No dividend was paid or declared by the Company during the Relevant Periods as it was incorporated on 5 November 2007.

Following the Restructuring, the payment of future dividends will be determined by the Company's Board of Directors. The payment of the dividends will depend upon, inter alia, the future earnings, capital requirements and financial conditions and general business conditions of the Company. As the controlling shareholder, CRCCG will be able to influence the Company's dividend policy.

Cash dividends to shareholders in Hong Kong will be paid in Hong Kong dollars.

Following the incorporation of the Company, under the Company Law of the PRC and the Company's Articles of Association, net profit after tax as reported in the statutory financial statements prepared in accordance with the New PRC GAAP can only be distributed as dividends after allowances have been made for the following:

- (i) Making up prior years' cumulative losses, if any.
- (ii) Allocations to the statutory common reserve fund of at least 10% of profit after tax, until the fund aggregates 50% of the Company's registered capital. For the purpose of calculating the transfer to reserves, the profit after tax shall be the amount determined under the New PRC GAAP. The transfer to this reserve must be made before any distribution of dividends to the shareholders.

The statutory common reserve fund can be used to offset previous years' losses, if any, and part of the statutory common reserve fund can be capitalised as the Company's share capital provided that the amount of the reserve remaining after the capitalisation shall not be less than 25% of the share capital of the Company.

- (iii) Allocations to the discretionary common reserve if approved by the shareholders.

The above reserves cannot be used for purposes other than those for which they are created and are not distributable as cash dividends.

After the listing of the Company's H Shares, in accordance with the Articles of Association of the Company, the net profit after tax of the Company for the purpose of dividends payment will be the lesser of (i) the net profit determined in accordance with the New PRC GAAP; and (ii) the net profit determined in accordance with IFRSs.

Prior to the incorporation of the Company on 5 November 2007, no profit appropriations to the aforesaid reserve funds were required.

14. EARNINGS PER SHARE ATTRIBUTABLE TO EQUITY HOLDER OF THE COMPANY

The calculation of basic earnings per share for each of the Relevant Periods and the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2006 is based on the profit attributable to equity holder of the Company for each of the Relevant Periods and the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2006 and the number of ordinary shares in issue during the Relevant Periods on the assumption that the 8,000 million ordinary shares in issue upon the incorporation of the Company on 5 November 2007 had been in issue throughout the Relevant Periods.

No diluted earnings per share has been presented as the Company did not have any dilutive potential ordinary shares during the Relevant Periods and the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2006.

27. TRADE AND BILLS RECEIVABLES

The Group's major customers are the PRC government agencies and other state-owned enterprises. The majority of the Group's revenues are generated through construction projects and settlement is made in accordance with the terms specified in the contracts governing the relevant transactions. The Group does not have a standardised and universal credit period granted to the construction service customers. The credit period of individual construction service customers is considered on a case-by-case basis and set out in the construction contracts, as appropriate. For sale of products, a credit period ranging from 30 to 90 days may be granted to large or long-established customers with good repayment history. Revenues from small, new or short-term customers are normally expected to be settled shortly after provision of services or delivery of goods. No credit period is set by the Group for small, new and short term customers. For retention money receivables in respect of construction work carried out by the Group, the due dates usually range from one to six years after the completion of the construction work. Trade and bills receivables are non-interest-bearing.

The Group's obligations in respect of the supplementary pension subsidies and early retirement benefits at the balance sheet dates were computed by an independent actuary, Towers, Perrin, Forster & Crosby, Inc., Hong Kong, whose actuaries are members of the Society of Actuaries of the United States of America, using the projected unit credit actuarial cost method.

In the opinion of the Directors, the above related party transactions were conducted in the ordinary course of business and will continue after the listing of the H Shares and A Shares of the Company on The Hong Kong Stock Exchange and The Shanghai Stock Exchange, respectively.

The Group operates in an economic environment predominated by enterprises directly or indirectly owned or controlled by the PRC government through its numerous authorities, affiliates or other organisations (collectively "State-owned Enterprises"). During the Relevant Periods and the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2006, the Group had transactions with State-owned Enterprises including, but not limited to, the provision of infrastructure construction services and purchases of services. The Directors consider that the transactions with these State-owned Enterprises are activities in the ordinary course of the Group's business and that the dealings of the Group have not been significantly or unduly affected by the fact that the Group and these State-owned Enterprises are ultimately controlled or owned by the PRC government. The Group has also established pricing policies for services and products, and such pricing policies do not depend on whether or not the customers are State-owned Enterprises. Having due regard to the substance of the relationships, the Directors are of the opinion that none of these transactions are material related party transactions that require separate disclosure.

Details of the outstanding balances with related parties are set out in notes 26, 27, 28, 31 and 32 of Section II above.

In August 2007, the Group entered into a disposal agreement with an external third party for the disposal of the Group's entire shareholding of 35% in Huzhun Railways. The consideration for the disposal is based on 35% of the valuation amount of the net assets of Huzhun Railways as determined from an independent valuation. As at the date of this report, the independent valuation is still in progress and hence the consideration for the disposal has not been finalised. As the disposal transaction is expected to be completed within the next twelve months, the investment in Huzhun Railways is classified as a non-current asset held for sale in the consolidated balance sheet as at 30 November 2007.

45. FINANCIAL RISK MANAGEMENT OBJECTIVES AND POLICIES

The Group's principal financial instruments comprise interest-bearing bank and other borrowings, cash and cash equivalents and pledged deposits. The main purpose of these financial instruments is to raise finance for the Group's operations. The Group has various other financial assets and liabilities such as trade receivables and trade payables, which arise directly from its operations.

The main risks arising from the Group's financial instruments are fair value and cash flow interest rate risks, foreign currency risk, credit risk and liquidity risk. Generally, the senior management of the Company meets at least four times a year to analyse and formulate measures to manage the Group's exposure to these risks. In addition, the Board of Directors of the Company holds meetings at least twice per year to analyse and approve the proposals made by the senior management of the Company. Generally, the Group introduces conservative strategies on its risk management. As the Group's exposure to these risks is kept to a minimum, the Group has not used any derivatives and other instruments for hedging purposes. The Group does not hold or issue derivative financial instruments for trading purposes. The Board reviews and agrees policies for managing each of these risks and they are summarised below.

Fair value and cash flow interest rate risks

Fair value interest rate risk is the risk that the value of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market interest rates. Cash flow interest rate risk is the risk that the future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market interest rates. Having borrowings issued at fixed and floating interest rates, the Group is exposed to both fair value and cash flow interest rate risks. The Group's exposure to the risk of changes in market interest rates relates primarily to the Group's long term debt obligations with floating interest rates.

The Group regularly reviews and monitors the mix of fixed and floating interest rate borrowings in order to manage its interest rate risks. Interest-bearing borrowings, cash and short term deposits are stated at amortised cost and not revalued on a periodic basis. Floating rate interest income and expenses are credited/charged to the income statement as earned/incurred.

Management does not anticipate any significant impact resulting from the changes in interest rates because most of the Group's borrowings as at 30 November 2007 were at fixed interest rates which have no significant impact on cash flow interest rate risk.

If there would be a general increase/decrease in the interest rate of bank and other borrowings with floating interest rates by one percentage point, with all other variables held constant, the consolidated operating results would have been decreased/increased by approximately RMB23 million, RMB38 million, RMB56 million and RMB64 million for the years ended 31 December 2004, 2005 and 2006 and the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2007, respectively, and there is no impact on other components of the consolidated equity, except for retained earnings, of the Group. The sensitivity analysis above has been determined assuming that the change in interest rates had occurred at the end of each of the Relevant Periods and had applied the exposure to interest rate risk to those financial instruments in existence at that date. The estimated one percentage point increase or decrease represents management's assessment of a reasonably possible change in interest rates over the period until the next annual balance sheet date. The sensitivity analysis is performed on the same basis for the entire Relevant Periods.

Foreign currency risk

Foreign currency risk is the risk that the value of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in foreign exchange rates. With the majority of the Group's businesses transacted in RMB, the aforesaid currency is defined as the Group's functional currency. RMB is not freely convertible into foreign currencies and conversion of RMB into foreign currencies is subject to rules and regulations of foreign exchange control promulgated by the PRC government.

As a result of its significant business operations in Mainland China, the Group's revenue and expenses are mainly denominated in RMB and over 90% of the financial assets and liabilities are denominated in RMB. The effect of the fluctuations in the exchange rate of RMB against foreign currencies on the Group's results of operations is therefore minimal and the Group has not entered into any hedging transactions in order to reduce the Group's exposure to foreign currency risk in this regard.

Details of the Group's cash and cash equivalents, pledged deposits, and interest-bearing bank and other borrowings at the end of each of the Relevant Periods are disclosed in notes 30 and 33 of Section II above, respectively.

The following table indicates the approximate change in the Group's profit before tax and net equity in response to reasonably possible changes in the foreign exchange rates to which the Group has significant exposure at the balance sheet dates of the Relevant Periods. The sensitivity analysis includes net investment in its subsidiaries and jointly-controlled entities in Hong Kong, bank deposits in United States dollar, and bank and other borrowings in Euros and United States dollar held by the companies comprising the Group.

The sensitivity analysis is performed on the same basis for the entire Relevant Periods.

Credit risk

The carrying amounts of cash and cash equivalents, pledged deposits, trade and bills receivables, other receivables, investments and other financial assets represent the Group's maximum exposure to credit risk in relation to financial assets. Substantially all of the Group's cash and cash equivalents are held in major financial institutions located in the PRC, which management believes are of high credit quality. The Group has policies to control the size of the deposits to be placed with various reputable financial institutions according to their market reputation, operating scale and financial background with a view to limiting the amount of credit exposure to any single financial institution.

The Group trades only with recognised and creditworthy third parties with no requirement for collateral. It is the Group's policy that all customers who wish to trade on credit terms are subject to credit verification procedures. In addition, receivable balances are monitored on an ongoing basis and the Group's exposure to bad debts is not significant.

As the Group's major customers are PRC government agencies at the national, provincial and local levels and other state-owned enterprises, the Group believes that they are reliable and of high credit quality and hence, there is no significant credit risk with these customers. As the Group's exposure is spread over a diversified portfolio of customers, there is no significant concentration of credit risk.

Liquidity risk

The Group's objective is to ensure continuity of sufficient funding and flexibility by utilising a variety of bank and other borrowings with debt maturities spreading over a range of periods, thereby ensuring that the Group's outstanding borrowing obligation is not exposed to excessive repayment risk in any one year. Due to the capital intensive nature of the Group's businesses, the Group ensures that it maintains sufficient cash and credit lines to meet its liquidity requirements.

The liquidity of the Group is primarily dependent on its ability to maintain adequate cash inflows from operations to meet its debt obligations as they fall due, and its ability to obtain external financing to meet its committed future capital expenditure. With regards to its future capital commitments and other financing requirements, the Company has already obtained banking facilities with several PRC banks of up to an amount of RMB176,500 million as of 30 November 2007, of which an amount of approximately RMB59,100 million has been utilised.

The Directors have carried out a detailed review of the cash flow forecast of the Group for the next twelve months from this report date. Based on this forecast, the Directors have determined that adequate liquidity exists to finance the working capital and capital expenditure requirements of the Group during that period. In preparing the cash flow forecast, the Directors have considered historical cash requirements of the Group as well as other key factors, including the availability of the above-mentioned loans financing which may impact the operations of the Group prior to the end of the next twelve months after the date of this report. The Directors are of the opinion that the assumptions and sensitivities which are included in the cash flow forecast are reasonable. However, as with all assumptions in regard to future events, these are subject to inherent limitations and uncertainties and some or all of these assumptions may not be realised.

Save as disclosed in note 33 of Section II regarding the contractual maturities of the interest-bearing bank and other borrowings, the Group's policy is to maintain the proportion of its current maturity profile with respect to the total liabilities at the end of each of the Relevant Periods between 10% and 13% (31 December 2004: 10.1%; 31 December 2005: 10.1%; 31 December 2006: 10.4%; 30 November 2007: 13.2%) and to maintain its non-current maturity profile at less than 5% of the amounts of total liabilities at the end of each of the Relevant Periods (31 December 2004: 1.5%; 31 December 2005: 3.1%; 31 December 2006: 3.9%; 30 November 2007: 4.2%).

Capital management

The Group's objectives when managing capital are to safeguard the entity's ability to continue as a going concern, so that it can continue to provide returns for shareholders and benefits for other stakeholders, and to provide an adequate return to shareholders by pricing services and products commensurately with the level of risk.

The Group sets the amount of capital in proportion to risk. The Group manages the capital structure and makes adjustments to it in the light of changes in economic conditions and the risk characteristics of the underlying assets. In order to maintain or adjust the capital structure, the Group may adjust the amount of dividends paid to shareholders, return capital to shareholders, issue new shares or sell assets to reduce debts.

The Group monitors capital using a gearing ratio which is net debt divided by total equity. Net debt comprises all interest-bearing bank and other borrowings less cash and cash equivalents and pledged deposits. Total equity comprises owner's equity and minority interests stated in the consolidated balance sheets.

At the end of each of the Relevant Periods, the Group's strategy was to maintain the gearing ratio at a healthy capital level in order to support its businesses. The principal strategies adopted by the Group include, without limitation, reviewing future cash flow requirements and the ability to meet debt repayment schedules when they fall due, maintaining a reasonable level of available banking facilities and adjusting investment plans and financing plans, if necessary, to ensure the Group has a reasonable level of capital to support its business. The gearing ratios at the end of each of the Relevant Periods were as follows:

	2004	2005	2006	2007
	RMB'000	RMB'000	RMB'000	RMB'000
Total interest-bearing bank and other borrowings (note 33)	9,012,248	12,875,714	17,240,396	25,800,739
Less: Cash and cash equivalents (note 30) ...	(13,600,610)	(16,699,423)	(20,960,846)	(25,769,393)
Less: Pledged deposits (note 30)	(368,971)	(471,499)	(808,265)	(977,362)
Net debt	(4,957,333)	(4,295,208)	(4,528,715)	(946,016)
Total equity	2,222,989	2,602,552	3,687,769	4,934,976
Gearing ratio	(223%)	(165%)	(123%)	(19%)

The fluctuation of the gearing ratio from 31 December 2004 to 30 November 2007 is partly due to the increase in total equity from RMB2,223 million at 31 December 2004 to RMB4,935 million at 30 November 2007 and partly due to the significant cash outflow from investing activities of RMB9,733 million in the eleven-month period ended 30 November 2007 as compared to RMB4,809 million for the year ended 31 December 2006.

III. EVENTS AFTER THE BALANCE SHEET DATE

- (d) The Company obtained a written approval document from the CSRC dated 13 February 2008 for the issuance of not more than 2,800 million A Shares of RMB1.00 each on The Shanghai Stock Exchange.

For illustrative purposes only, the unaudited pro forma financial information prepared in accordance with Rule 4.29 of the Listing Rules is set out herein to provide prospective investors with further information about (i) how the proposed listing might have affected the consolidated net tangible assets of the Group after completion of the Global Offering; and (ii) how the proposed listing might have affected the estimated earnings per share of our Company for the year ended 31 December 2007 as if the Global Offering had taken place on 1 January 2007.

The accompanying unaudited pro forma financial information of our Company is based on currently available information along with a number of assumptions, estimates and uncertainties. As a result of these assumptions, estimates and uncertainties, the accompanying unaudited pro forma financial information of our Company does not purport to predict our Company's future financial position.

Although reasonable care has been exercised in preparing the said information, prospective investors who read the information should bear in mind that these figures are inherently subject to adjustments and may not give a true picture of our Company's financial position following the completion of the Global Offering.

(A) UNAUDITED PRO FORMA ADJUSTED CONSOLIDATED NET TANGIBLE ASSETS

The following unaudited pro forma adjusted consolidated net tangible assets of our Company have been prepared based on the audited consolidated net tangible assets of our Company attributable to the equity holder of the Company as at 30 November 2007 as extracted from the Accountants' Report, the text of which is set out in Appendix I to this Prospectus, and is adjusted as described below.

The unaudited pro forma adjusted consolidated net tangible assets of our Company have been prepared for illustrative purposes only and, because of their nature, they may not give a true picture of the financial position of our Company.

The following unaudited pro forma adjusted consolidated net tangible assets of our Company have been prepared to show the effect on the consolidated net tangible assets of our Company as at 30 November 2007 as if the Global Offering had occurred on 30 November 2007.

	Consolidated net tangible assets attributable to equity holder of the Company as at 30 November 2007	Estimated net proceeds receivable by the Company from the Global Offering	Unaudited pro forma adjusted consolidated net tangible assets of the Group attributable to equity holder of the Company	Unaudited pro forma adjusted consolidated net tangible assets per share

APPENDIX IIUNAUDITED PRO FORMA FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Notes:

- (1) The consolidated net tangible assets attributable to equity holder of the Company as at 30 November 2007, was determined as follows:

	RMB'000
Audited consolidated net assets of the Group as set out in Appendix I	4,934,976
Less: Minority interests	208,408
Consolidated net assets attributable to equity holder of the Company	4,726,568
Less: Intangible assets	1,010,607
Consolidated net tangible assets attributable to equity holder of the Company	3,715,961

- (2) The estimated net proceeds from the Global Offering are based on the offer price of HK$9.93 per share and HK$10.70 per share after deduction of the underwriting fees and other related expenses payable by the Company, and do not take into account of any shares which may be issued upon the exercise of the Over-allotment Option. The estimated net proceeds from the Global Offering are converted at the PBOC Rate from Hong Kong dollars into Renminbi at an exchange rate of HK$1 to RMB0.91631 prevailing on 22 February 2008.
- (3) The unaudited pro forma adjusted consolidated net tangible assets per share is determined after the adjustments as described in note 2 above and on the basis that 9,706,000,000 shares (being the number of shares expected to be in issue immediately after completion of the Global Offering, without taking into account of any shares which may be issued upon A Share Offering and any shares which may be issued upon the exercise of the Over-allotment Option) are issued and outstanding during the entire year. If the Over-allotment Option is exercised in full, the adjusted net tangible asset per Share will increase. Had effect been given to the A Share Offering in this calculation, the unaudited proforma adjusted consolidated net tangible assets per Share would have been RMB3.11 or HK$3.39 based on the offer price of HK$9.93 per H Share and RMB8.00 per A Share and RMB3.41 or HK$3.72 based on the offer price of HK$10.70 per H Share and RMB9.08 per A Share. This calculation is based on the assumption that 2,450,000,000 new A Shares were issued in the A Share Offering and the resulting net proceeds (after deduction of estimated related fees and expenses payable by the Company) of RMB19.2 billion (based on offer price of RMB8.00 per A Share) and RMB21.7 billion (based on offer price of RMB9.08 per A Share) from the A Share Offering.
- (4) Details of the valuations of our Company's properties as at 31 December 2007 are set out in "Appendix IV — Property Valuation" in this Prospectus. The revaluation surplus or deficit of properties included in buildings held for own use, assets under construction, land use rights, properties under development and completed properties held for sale will not be incorporated in our Company's financial statements for the year ended 31 December 2007. If such revaluation surplus is incorporated in our Company's financial statements for the year ended 31 December 2007, the annual depreciation charges would increase by approximately RMB105.2 million.
- (5) The translation of Renminbi into Hong Kong dollars has been made at the rate of RMB0.91631 to HK$1.00, the PBOC rate prevailing on 22 February 2008. No representation is made that the Hong Kong dollar amounts have been, could have been or could be converted to Renminbi, or vice versa, at that rate or at any other rates or at all.

The following unaudited pro forma estimated earnings per share for the year ended 31 December 2007 have been prepared in accordance with Rule 4.29 of the Listing Rules on the basis set out in the notes below for the purpose of illustrating the effect of the Global Offering, as if it had taken place on 1 January 2007. The unaudited pro forma estimated earnings per share has been prepared for illustrative purposes only and, because of its nature, it may not give a true picture of the financial results of the Group following the Global Offering.

	Estimate for the year ended 31 December 2007
Estimated consolidated net profit attributable to equity holders of the Company (Note 1)	not less than RMB2,262 million
Unaudited pro forma estimated earnings per Share (Note 2)	RMB0.233 (HK$0.254)

- (3) Estimated consolidated net profit attributable to equity holders of the Company for the year ended 31 December 2007 and unaudited pro forma estimated earnings per Share are converted into Hong Kong dollars at the PBOC Rate of HK$1.00 to RMB0.91631 prevailing on 22 February 2008.

The Board of Directors
East, No. 40 Fuxing Road
Haidian District
Beijing
The People's Republic of China

Dear Sirs,

In accordance with your instructions to value the properties in which China Railway Construction Corporation Limited (the “Company”) and its subsidiaries (hereinafter together referred to as the “Group”) have interests in the People's Republic of China (the “PRC”), Hong Kong, Macau and overseas countries, we confirm that we have carried out inspections, made relevant enquiries and searches and obtained such further information as we consider necessary for the purpose of providing you with our opinion of the capital values of the property interests as at 31 December 2007 (the “date of valuation”).

In valuing the property interests in Group I which are held by the Group, we have categorized the property interests of the Group into various sub-groups according to the business nature of the Group (namely construction business, survey, design & consultancy business, manufacturing business and other business) and the Company's directly controlled subsidiaries. The remaining properties are classified according to the nature or location of the properties of the Group. The property interests of each sub-group are occupied by a directly controlled subsidiary and its subsidiaries in the PRC, Hong Kong, Macau and overseas countries.

Our valuations of the property interests represent the market value which we would define as “the estimated amount for which a property should exchange on the date of valuation between a willing buyer and a willing seller in an arm's-length transaction after proper marketing wherein the parties had each acted knowledgeably, prudently, and without compulsion”.

Land

The concept of freehold and leasehold land does not exist in China. Private land ownership in China was abolished in the collectivization movement during the 1950's. Since then, the only form of ownership in land has been “socialist public ownership” of which there are two generic types: state-owned and collectively owned. Land was "allocated" free of charge by the state to the designated users (commonly state-owned enterprises) for an indefinite period ("allocated land"). The users in return could not in any way transfer the land to other parties. Normally, when dealing with the valuation of such land, we will deem it to have "no commercial value".

In January 1995, the "PRC, Administration of Urban Real Property Law" came into effect, reinforcing previous legislation and establishing land as a commodity. By possessing "land use rights", users, including state-owned enterprises, could assign, lease or mortgage land. Normally, to obtain such land use rights, a premium has to be paid whereupon the allocated land could be reclassified as "granted" land. The land is granted by the State and the premium is based upon the standard land prices (which are periodically reviewed) set by the Land Administration Bureau. Such land can be valued by reference to the standard land prices in each locality and prices paid in the market for it.

In occasional cases on a discretionary basis, allocated land held by certain state-owned enterprises can be injected by the State to those enterprises as capital investment for incorporation into a joint stock company in return for shares. We have defined such land as "State-capital-injection land" (作價出資). After the injection, the land use rights of the State-capital-injection land of specified tenure terms will be held by the joint stock company and a new relevant Land Use Rights Certificate will be issued to the joint stock company. The joint stock company may transfer, lease and mortgage the land use rights in accordance with the relevant land regulations and laws of the PRC in relation to granted land use rights.

We have valued the property interests in portions of Group I, Group II and Group III which are held by the Group for owner occupation and for sale respectively, using the direct comparison approach assuming sale of the property interests in their existing state with the benefit of immediate vacant possession and by making reference to comparable sale transactions that are available in the relevant market.

Where, due to the nature of the buildings and structures of the properties in the PRC, there are no market sales comparables readily available, portions of property interests in Group I have been valued on the basis of their depreciated replacement cost.

Depreciated replacement cost is defined as "the current cost of replacement (reproduction) of a property less deductions for physical deterioration and all relevant forms of obsolescence and optimization." It is based on an estimate of the market value for the existing use of the land, plus the current cost of replacement (reproduction) of the improvements, less deduction for physical deterioration and all relevant forms of obsolescence and optimization. The depreciated replacement costs of the property interests are subject to adequate potential profitability of the concerned business.

In valuing the property interests in Group IV which are currently under construction, we have assumed that they will be developed and completed in accordance with the Group's latest development proposal provided to us. In arriving at our opinion of value, we have also taken into consideration of the development costs already spent and to be spent which have been provided by the Group, to reflect the quality of the completed development. The "Capital value of the property as if the property is completed at the date of valuation" represents our opinion of the aggregate selling prices of the development assuming that it would have been completed at the date of valuation.

In relation to the property interests in Group V, which are held by the Group for future development in the PRC, we have also valued each of these property interests using the direct comparison approach assuming sale of each of these property interests in their existing state with the benefit of vacant possession and by making reference to comparable sales transactions that are available in the relevant market.

For the purpose of our valuation, the property interests held by the Group for future development are those that the Construction Works Commencement Permit(s) has (have) not been issued even though the State-owned Land Use Rights certificates have been obtained.

The property interests in Group VI, which are property interests to be acquired by the Group in the PRC, relate to those properties that the Group has entered into agreements with the relevant owner of the properties or government authorities, while the Group has not yet obtained the State-owned Land Use Rights Certificates and/or the payment of the land premium has not yet been fully settled as at the date of valuation. We have attributed no commercial value to these property interests.

We have attributed no commercial value to the property interests in Group VII and Group VIII which are leased by the Group in PRC, Hong Kong, Macau and overseas countries, due to the short-term nature of the leases, the prohibition against assignment or sub-letting or otherwise due to the lack of substantial profit rent.

Our valuations have been made on the assumption that the seller sells the property interests in the market without the benefit of a deferred term contract, leaseback, joint venture, management agreement or any similar arrangement, which could serve to affect the values of the property interests.

No allowance has been made in our report for any charges, mortgages or amounts owing on any of the property interests valued nor for any expenses or taxation which may be incurred in effecting a sale. Unless otherwise stated, it is assumed that the properties are free from encumbrances, restrictions and outgoings of an onerous nature, which could affect their values.

In valuing the property interests, we have complied with all requirements contained in Chapter 5 and Practice Note 12 of the Rules Governing the Listing of Securities issued by The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited, except for those in respect of which exemptions and waivers have been applied for and granted in respect of Rules 5.01, 5.06(1), (2), (3) and (4), 19A.27(4) paragraph 5.2 (a) of Practice Note 12, and section 38, section 342A and paragraph 34(2), 34(3) of the Third Schedule of Companies Ordinance; the RICS Valuation Standards (6th Edition) published by the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors; and the HKIS Valuation Standards on Properties (1st Edition 2005) published by the Hong Kong Institute of Surveyors.

As the Group is in compliance with paragraph 3(b) of Practice Note 16 of the Rules Governing the Listing of Securities issued by The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited and section 6 of Companies Ordinance (Exemption of Companies and Prospectuses from Compliance with Provisions) Notice, the full details of the individual leased properties under operating lease have been excluded from the valuation certificates in our valuation report to this prospectus, of which a summary is included in the Summary of Values and the certificate for leased properties.

According to the aforesaid waivers and exemptions, we have summarized and disclosed the property interests in Group I, Group II, Group VII and Group VIII. For other property interests in Group III, Group IV, Group V and Group VI, each property interest in the valuation report has been disclosed in full according to the relevant rules.

We have relied to a very considerable extent on the information given by the Group and have accepted advice given to us on such matters as tenure, planning approvals, statutory notices, easements, particulars of occupancy, lettings, and all other relevant matters.

We have been shown copies of various title documents including State-owned Land Use Rights Certificates ("LURCs"), Building Ownership Certificates ("BOCs"), Real Estate Title Certificates ("RETCs") and official plans relating to the property interests and have made relevant enquiries. Where possible, we have examined the original documents to verify the existing titles to the property interests in the PRC and any material encumbrances that might be attached to the property interests or any lease amendments. We have relied considerably on the advice given by the Company's PRC legal advisers — Beijing Deheng Law Office, concerning the validity of the Group's titles to the property interests in the PRC.

We have not carried out detailed site measurements to verify the correctness of the site areas in respect of the properties but have assumed that the site areas shown on the documents and official site plans handed to us are correct. All documents and contracts have been used as reference only and all dimensions, measurements and areas are approximations. No on-site measurement has been taken.

We have inspected the exterior and, where possible, the interior of the properties. However, we have not carried out investigation to determine the suitability of the ground conditions and services for any development thereon. Our valuation has been prepared on the assumption that these aspects are satisfactory and that no unexpected cost and delay will be incurred during construction. Moreover, no structural survey has been made, but in the course of our inspection, we did not note any serious defects. We are not, however, able to report whether the properties are free of rot, infestation or any other structural defects. No tests were carried out on any of the services.

We have had no reason to doubt the truth and accuracy of the information provided to us by the Group. We have also sought confirmation from the Group that no material factors have been omitted from the information supplied. We consider that we have been provided with sufficient information to reach an informed view, and we have no reason to suspect that any material information has been withheld.

Unless otherwise stated, all monetary figures stated in this report are in Renminbi (RMB). Where necessary, the exchange rates adopted in our valuations are approximately HK$1 = RMB0.9326, USD$1 = ZL2.88, USD$1 = Naira129, USD$1 = PULA6.15, USD$1 = Djibouti Franc178.16, EURO$1 = RMB10.6669 and USD$1 = RMB7.3046, being the prevailing exchange rates as at the date of valuation.

Our valuations are summarized below and the valuation certificates are attached.

Yours faithfully,
for and on behalf of Sallmanns (Far East) Limited

A. TAXATION IN THE PRC

Taxes Applicable to Joint-Stock Limited Companies

Enterprise Income Tax

The State Council promulgated Provisional Regulations of The People's Republic Of China On Enterprises Income Tax (hereinafter referred to as "Income Tax Ordinance") on 13 December 1993, which was brought into effect on 1 January 1994. Pursuant to the Income Tax Ordinance, state-owned, collective and private enterprises, jointly-run ventures, joint-stock enterprises, and other organizations with income from production, business activities and other sources of income shall pay enterprise income tax. The amount of tax payable shall be calculated based on taxable income at the rate of 33%, with exception to certain types of enterprises entitled to tax exemption and reduction preference according to current prevailing laws and administrative regulations.

Enterprise Income Tax Law of the People's Republic of China ("Income Tax Law") was promulgated on 16 March 2007, effective from 1 January 2008 with the Income Tax Ordinance expired. The Income Tax Law regulates the rate of enterprise income tax at 25%. Enterprises approved to be established before promulgation of the Income Tax Law and entitled to benefit from a preferential tax rate as per the tax laws and administrative regulations then prevailing may gradually shift to the tax rate defined by the Income Tax Law within five years after effectiveness of the Income Tax Law according to requirements of the State Council. Those entitled to the preference of fixed tax holiday or fixed-term tax reductions may continue to benefit in the same manner according to the requirements of the State Council until expiration of the tax holiday or the term of the preference. For those who have not benefited from such a preference due to the failure to realize profit, the term of preferential treatment will be counted as of the year when the Income Tax Law comes into force.

Business Tax

According to the Provisional Regulations of The People's Republic of China on Business Tax and Detailed Rules for the Implementation of the Interim Regulations of The People's Republic of China on Business Taxes, both of which were brought into force on 1 January, 1994, all institutions and individuals providing taxable services, transferring intangible assets or selling real estate within the People's Republic of China shall pay business tax. As per the List of Items and Rates of Business Tax, the business tax rate applicable to the construction industry is 3%.

Value-added Tax (VAT)

According to the Provisional Regulations of the People's Republic of China on Value-added Tax in effect since 1 January 1994 and Detailed Rules for the Implementation of the Interim Regulations of the People's Republic of China on Value-added Tax in effect since 25 December 1993, all institutions and individuals selling goods or providing processing, repairing and replacement services and importing goods within the People's Republic of China shall pay VAT. The tax rate of 13% shall be levied on general taxpayers selling or importing grain, edible vegetable oil, tap water, heating supply, air-conditioning, gas, hot water, liquefied petroleum gas, natural gas, marsh gas, coal products for civil use, books, newspapers, magazines, feedstuff, chemical fertilizer, pesticide, farming machines, films for agricultural use and other goods specified by the State Council; the rate applicable to goods exported by taxpayers shall be zero unless otherwise prescribed by the State Council. The rate of 17% shall be levied on taxpayers selling or importing goods other than the abovementioned items, and to taxpayers providing processing, repair and replacement services. The rate applicable to goods sold or for taxable services provided by small-scale taxpayers is 6%. A small-scale taxpayer is defined as a taxpayer engaged in the manufacturing of goods or the supply of taxable services, or primarily dealing in the manufacturing of goods or supply of taxable services while concurrently engaged in the wholesale or retail of goods as secondary operations, and has annual taxable sales (hereinafter referred to as "taxable sales") of less than RMB1 million; or a taxpayer engaged in the wholesale or retail of goods and having annual taxable sales of less than RMB1.8 million. Individuals, non-enterprise institutions, and enterprises not frequently incurring taxable activities with annual taxable sales volumes beyond the figure set for small-scale taxpayers shall be deemed small-scale taxpayers for the purpose of VAT payment.

Stamp Tax

According to the Provisional Rules of the People's Republic of China on Stamp Duty and Detailed Rules for Implementation of Provisional Regulations of the People's Republic of China on Stamp Tax as brought into effect on 1 October 1988, all institutions and individuals creating and obtaining taxable documents within the People's Republic of China shall pay stamp tax. H shares) from Chinese enterprises issuing such shares are temporarily exempted from individual income tax. As of yet, the tax authority in charge has not imposed any individual income tax upon dividends of overseas shares.

Share transfer-related tax

According to the prevailing Law of the People's Republic of China on Individual Income Tax as brought into effect on 10 September 1980 and amended four times on 31 October 1993, 30 August 1999, 27 October 2005 and 29 June 2007, respectively, proceeds received from sale of capital securities by any non-Chinese resident individual shall be levied an individual income tax of 20%. However, according to the Taxation Notice, income tax is temporarily exempted for net income obtained by foreign enterprises through transferring B shares and overseas shares (including H shares) issued by Chinese enterprises and not held by the foreign enterprises' organizations or related business entities within the territory of China, and for income received by foreign individuals from transfers of their B shares and overseas shares (including H shares) issued by Chinese enterprises. Furthermore, pursuant to the Notice of the Ministry of Finance and the State Administration of Taxation concerning the Continued Individual Income Tax Exemption for Individuals' Proceeds from Share Transfers which came into effect on 30 March 1998, and effective since 1 January 1997, individual income tax exemption is continually valid from individuals' transfers of shares of public companies.

Estate duty or inheritance tax

Stamp Tax

According to the terms of the Provisional Rules of the People's Republic of China on Stamp Duty, the applicable stamp tax of the PRC on transfers of shares of PRC public companies shall not apply to purchases and dispositions of H shares that take place outside PRC. The Provisional Rules provide that PRC stamp tax shall be only levied on all the types of documents executed or received and legally bound within the territory of PRC and protected under the PRC laws.

PRC LAWS AND REGULATIONS CONCERNING FOREIGN EXCHANGE CONTROL

The foreign exchange control system of China has experienced a number of reforms and the current system contains three major regulatory laws and regulations since 1993.

The People's Bank of China ("PBC"), as authorized by the State Council, promulgated the Announcement Concerning Further Reforming the Foreign Exchange Control System on 28 December 1993, which was brought into force on 1 January 1994. The Regulations of the People's Republic of China on the Management of Foreign Exchanges promulgated by the State Council, implemented on 1 April 1996 and amended on 14 January 1997, applies to the receipts, payments or business activities in China that are transacted in foreign currencies by domestic institutions, individuals, foreign institutions and individuals visiting China. The Regulation on Control of Foreign Exchange Settlements, Sales and Payments issued by PBC on 20 June 1996 and implemented on 1 July 1996 governs the foreign exchange settlements, purchases, foreign exchange account openings and payments to foreign countries that are incurred in China by domestic institutions, individual residents, foreign organizations' institutions in China and individuals visiting China.

PBC publicizes the exchange rates between RMB and other major foreign currencies on each business day. The exchange rates are determined by reference to the preceding day's trading prices of RMB against major foreign currencies on the inter-bank foreign exchange market. In general and unless special immunity is obtained, all organizations and individuals in China shall sell their exchange income on current accounts to designated banks, but foreign-funded enterprises are permitted to retain a certain percentage of their exchange income on current accounts, to be deposited in a foreign exchange bank account opened in designated banks. In addition, exchange income arising from loans from foreign institutions or from issuance of shares or bonds valued in foreign currencies need not be sold to designated banks but shall be deposited in designated foreign exchange accounts with designated banks. Capital foreign exchange must be deposited in foreign exchange accounts opened with designated banks.

At present, the PRC government is gradually loosening its control over foreign exchange purchases. Any Chinese enterprise in need of foreign currencies in their day-to-day business activities, trade and non-trade operations, import business and payment of foreign debts may purchase foreign currencies from designated banks, provided that they submit the required appropriate supporting documents.

In addition, if foreign-funded enterprises are in need of foreign currencies for distributing dividends, capital bonuses or profits to foreign investors, the amount so needed after payment of the appropriate dividend tax may be drawn from the enterprises' foreign exchange accounts maintained with designated banks. If the foreign currency in such an account is insufficient, the foreign-funded enterprise may apply to the government authority in charge for purchasing the necessary amount of foreign currency from a designated bank to cover the deficiency.

Although the foreign exchange control over transactions under current accounts has decreased, enterprises shall obtain approval from the State Administration of Foreign Exchange before they accept foreign-currency loans, provide foreign-currency guarantees, make investments in foreign countries or carry out any other capital account transactions involving the purchase of foreign currencies.

In foreign exchange transactions, designated banks may freely determine applicable exchange rates based on the rates publicized by PBC and subject to certain governmental restrictions.

The Notice Concerning Foreign Exchange Control of Overseas-listed Enterprises, as jointly promulgated by China Securities Regulatory Commission ("CSRC") and the State Administration of Foreign Exchange ("SAFE"), came into effect on 13 January 1994, and provides that:

- Funds raised by domestic enterprises through issuing shares in foreign countries shall be categorized as income from capital projects, and may be deposited in foreign exchange accounts opened in China as approved by the SAFE to retain as the spot exchange.
- A domestic enterprise issuing shares in foreign countries shall, within ten days after the foreign funds raised through the issuance of the shares have become available, transfer the full amount of the funds into China and deposit the amount in a foreign exchange account opened with approval.
- Foreign currencies needed by domestic enterprises issuing shares in foreign countries for the purpose of distributing dividends and capital bonuses to overseas shareholders may be paid and remitted by the enterprises' banks from their foreign exchange accounts with approval of the SAFE. The enterprises' foreign currency uses for other purposes shall be handled according to applicable regulations.

- If the sum of foreign-currency funds raised by a domestic enterprise through the issuance of shares in foreign countries reaches 25% or more of the enterprise's total amount of net assets, it may apply to the Ministry of Commerce of the PRC (previously called the Ministry of Foreign Trade and Economic Cooperation of China) or its authorized department to establish a Sino-foreign joint venture according to the Law on Sino-foreign Equity Joint Ventures. If it is granted the status of a Sino-foreign joint venture, its foreign-currency income and expenses shall be handled pursuant to the foreign exchange control regulation governing foreign-invested enterprises.

The Notice Concerning Further Improving Foreign Exchange Control of Overseas listing jointly issued by CSRC and SAFE, took effect on 1 September 2002, and provides that:

- Domestic equity holders of companies with foreign shares listed overseas and of overseas listed companies controlled by Chinese investors shall, within 30 days after obtaining CSRC's approval for issuing and listing shares in foreign countries, fulfill the procedure with SAFE for foreign exchange registration of overseas-listed shares.
- Companies with foreign shares listed overseas shall, within 30 days after the funds raised have become ready, transfer into China the amount of the funds remaining after deduction of associated costs and expenses, and shall not retain the funds in foreign countries without permission of SAFE. The funds transferred back into China shall be subject to control as if they were funds directly injected by foreign investors and may be kept in earmarked accounts or be used for foreign exchange settlement if approved by SAFE.
- Foreign-currency funds, obtained by domestic equity holders of companies with foreign shares listed overseas and of overseas listed companies controlled by Chinese investors through reducing holdings of shares in listed companies or through the listed companies' sale of their assets (or equity), shall be transferred back into China within 30 days after the funds become available and after deduction of associated costs and expenses, which may not be detained in foreign countries without approval of SAFE. Foreign exchange settlement shall be made for such funds as approved by SAFE after they are transferred back into China.
- If overseas accounts are to be opened to temporarily keep the abovementioned foreign-currency funds before they are transferred back into China, application may be made to SAFE for opening such earmarked foreign exchange accounts, of which the maximum term shall be 3 months from the date of account opening.
- Overseas listed companies controlled by Chinese investors who have injected funds raised in China as investment or foreign debts shall fulfill appropriate procedures according to prevailing regulations governing investments, foreign debts and foreign exchange control.
- The procedure for foreign exchange registration of overseas investment shall be carried out according to regulations for overseas investments of domestic equity holders of overseas listed companies controlled by Chinese investors who inject assets or equity in foreign countries. The asset or equity to be so injected shall be appraised, the amount of the overseas investment shall not be less than the appraised value of the asset or equity to be injected, and the asset appraisal and confirmation procedure prescribed by the state-owned assets administration shall be fulfilled if the investment involves state-owned assets.

- Companies with foreign shares listed overseas needing to repurchase their own shares listed and circulated in foreign countries shall, after approval from CSRC, follow procedures set by SAFE for changing foreign exchange registration of their overseas-listed shares and for approval of opening an overseas account and remittance of funds to foreign countries.

On 9 September 2003, SAFE issued the Notice Concerning Improving Foreign Exchange Control of Overseas Listings, clarifying relevant issues in the Notice Concerning Further Improving Foreign Exchange Control of Overseas Listings. On 1 February 2005, SAFE issued the Notice Concerning Foreign Exchange Control of Overseas Listings, further revising and supplementing the abovementioned notices as follows:

- The time limit for domestic equity holders of companies with foreign shares listed overseas and of overseas listed companies controlled by Chinese investors to transfer funds back into China has been extended to “within 6 months after the funds so raised have become ready”, and for earmarked overseas foreign exchange accounts, the time period has been extended to “2 years from the date of account opening”.

B. TAXATION IN HONG KONG

Hong Kong

Tax on Dividends

Under the current practice of the Hong Kong Inland Revenue Department, no tax is payable in Hong Kong in respect of dividends paid by us.

Taxation on gains from sale

No tax is imposed in Hong Kong in respect of capital gains from the sale of property such as the H Shares. However, trading gains from the sale of property by persons carrying on a trade, profession or business in Hong Kong where such gains are derived from or arise in Hong Kong from such trade, profession or business will be chargeable to Hong Kong profits tax, which is currently imposed at the rate of 17.5% on corporations and at a maximum rate on individuals of 16%. Certain categories of taxpayers are likely to be regarded as deriving trading gains rather than capital gains (for examples, financial institutions, insurance companies and securities dealers) unless these taxpayers can prove that the investment securities are held for long-term investment. Trading gains from sales of H Shares effected on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange will be considered to be derived from or arising in Hong Kong. Liability for Hong Kong profits tax would thus arise in respect of trading gains from sales of H Shares effected on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange realized by persons carrying on a business of trading or dealing in securities in Hong Kong.

Stamp Duty

Hong Kong stamp duty, currently charged at the ad valorem rate of 0.1% on the higher of the consideration for, or the market value of, the H shares, will be payable by the purchaser on every purchase and by the seller on every sale of H shares (in other words, a total of 0.2% is currently payable on a typical sale and purchase transaction involving H shares). In addition, a fixed duty of HK$5 is currently payable on any instrument of transfer of H shares. Where one of the parties to a transfer is resident outside Hong Kong and does not pay the ad valorem duty due by it, the duty not paid will be assessed on the instrument of transfer (if any) and will be payable by the transferee. If stamp duty is not paid on or before the due date, a penalty of up to ten times the duty payable may be imposed.

Estate Duty

The Revenue (Abolition of Estate Duty) Ordinance 2005 came into effect on 11 February 2006 in Hong Kong, pursuant to which estate duty ceased to be chargeable in Hong Kong in respect of the estates of persons dying on or after that date. No Hong Kong estate duty is payable and no estate duty clearance papers are needed for an application for a grant of representation in respect of holders of H shares whose deaths occur on or after 11 February 2006.

This appendix sets out summaries of certain aspects of the PRC legal and judicial system, its arbitration system and its company and securities regulations. It also contains a summary of certain Hong Kong legal and regulatory provisions, including summaries of certain material differences between PRC Company Law and Hong Kong company law, certain requirements of the Hong Kong Listing Rules and the Mandatory Provisions.

1. PRC LAWS AND REGULATIONS

The PRC legal system

The PRC legal system is based on the PRC Constitution (hereinafter referred to as “the Constitution”) and is made up of written laws, administrative regulations, local regulations and rules, autonomy regulations and separate rules and regulations of State Council departments, rules and regulations of local governments and international treaties of which the PRC Government is a signatory. Court judgment do not constitute legally binding precedents, although they are used for judicial reference and guidance.

According to the Constitution and the Legislation Law of the PRC (“the Legislation Law”), the NPC and the standing committee of the NPC (“the Standing Committee”) are empowered to exercise the legislative power of the State. The NPC enacts and amends basic laws governing criminal offences, civil affairs, the State organs and other matters. The Standing Committee enacts and amends laws other than those that shall be formulated by the NPC, and during the period of adjournment of the NPC, the Standing Committee may partially supplement and amend the laws enacted by the NPC, but not in contradiction to the basic principles of such laws. The State Council is the highest organ of state administration and enacts administrative regulations based on the Constitution and laws. The people’s congresses at the provincial level and their standing committees may, in light of the specific circumstances and actual needs of their respective administrative areas, enact local regulations, provided that such local regulations do not contravene any provision of the Constitution, laws or administrative regulations. The ministries and commissions of the State Council, the PBOC, the National Audit Office of the PRC as well as other state organs endowed with administrative functions directly under the State Council may, according to laws, administrative regulations, decisions and orders of the State Council, formulate ministerial rules within their authorities. The people’s governments of the provinces, autonomous regions, and municipalities directly under the central government and the comparatively larger cities may enact rules, in accordance with laws, administrative regulations and the local regulations of their respective provinces, autonomous regions or municipalities. The people’s congresses of the national autonomous regions have the power to enact autonomous regulations and separate regulations on the basis of the political, economic and cultural characteristics of the local nationalities that reside in the area.

The Constitution has supreme legal authority and no laws, administrative regulations, local regulations, autonomous regulations or separate regulations may contravene the Constitution. The significance of laws is greater than that of administrative regulations, local regulations, and rules. The significance of administrative regulations is greater than that of local regulations and rules. The significance of local regulations is greater than that of the rules of the local governments at or below the corresponding level. The significance of the rules enacted by the people’s governments of the provinces or autonomous regions is greater than that of the rules enacted by the people’s governments of the comparatively larger cities within the administrative areas of the provinces and the autonomous regions.

The NPC has the power to alter or annul any inappropriate laws enacted by its Standing Committee, and to annul any autonomous regulations or separate regulations which have been approved by its Standing Committee but which contravene the Constitution or the Legislation Law. The Standing Committee has the power to annul any administrative regulation that contravenes the Constitution and laws, to annul any local regulation that contravenes the Constitution, laws or administrative regulations, and to annul any autonomous regulation or local regulation which has been approved by the standing committees of the people's congresses of the relevant provinces, autonomous regions or municipalities directly under the Central Government, but which contravene the Constitution and the Legislation Law. The State Council has the power to alter or annul any inappropriate ministerial rules and rules of local governments. The people's congresses of provinces, autonomous regions or municipalities directly under the Central Government have the power to alter or annul any inappropriate local regulations enacted or approved by their respective standing committees. The people's governments of provinces and autonomous regions have the power to alter or annul any inappropriate rules enacted by the people's governments at the lower level.

The power to interpret laws is vested in the Standing Committee by the Constitution. According to Resolutions of the Standing Committee on Improving Interpretation of Laws passed on 10 June 1981, in cases where the scope of provisions of laws or decrees needs to be further defined or additional stipulations need to be made, the Standing Committee shall provide interpretations or make stipulations by means of decrees. Interpretation of questions involving the specific application of laws and decrees in court trials shall be provided by the Supreme People's Court. Interpretation of questions involving the specific application of laws and decrees in the procuratorial work of the procuratorates shall be provided by the Supreme People's Procuratorate. If the interpretations provided by the Supreme People's Court and the Supreme People's Procuratorate are at variance with each other in principle, they shall be submitted to the Standing Committee for interpretation or decision. Interpretation of questions involving the specific application of laws and decrees in areas unrelated to judicial and procuratorial work shall be provided by the State Council and supervisory authorities. In case where the scope of local regulations needs to be further defined or additional stipulations need to be made, the standing committees of the people's congresses of provinces, autonomous regions and municipalities directly under the Central Government which have enacted these regulations shall provide the interpretations or make the stipulations. Interpretation of questions involving the specific application of local regulations shall be provided by the supervisory authorities under the people's governments of provinces, autonomous regions and municipalities directly under the Central Government.

(b) The PRC judicial system

According to the Constitution and the Law of Organization of the People's Courts of the PRC (hereinafter referred to as the "Law of Organization of the People's Courts"), the People's Courts consist of the Supreme People's Court, the local people's courts, the military courts and other special people's courts. The local people's courts are comprised of the basic people's courts, the intermediate people's courts and the higher people's courts. The basic people's courts are further divided into civil, criminal and administrative divisions. The intermediate people's courts have divisions similar to those of the basic people's courts, and other special divisions, such as the intellectual property division, where necessary.

The people's courts at lower levels are subject to supervision of the people's courts at higher levels. The people's procuratorates also have the power to exercise legal supervision over the litigation proceedings of people's courts at the same level or below. The Supreme People's Court is the highest judicial organ of the PRC and it has the power to supervise the administration of justice by the people's courts at all levels.

The people's courts have adopted a "second instance as final" appellate system. A party may appeal against a judgment or ruling by the people's court of first instance to the people's court at the next higher level prior to the judgment or the ruling of the first instance is legally effective. The judgment or the ruling of the second instance by the people's court at the next higher level is final and legally binding. First judgments or rulings by the Supreme People's Court are final as well. However, in the case that the Supreme People's Court or the people's court at a higher level finds definite error(s) in the legally effective judgment or ruling by the people's court at a lower level, or the presiding judge of the people's court finds definite error(s) in the legally effective judgment by the court over which he/she presides, the case may then be retried in accordance with the judicial supervisory procedures.

The Civil Procedure Law of the PRC (hereinafter referred to as the "Civil Procedure Law") sets forth provisions for the launching of civil litigation, the jurisdiction of the people's courts, the procedures to be followed for conducting a civil action and the procedures for enforcement of a civil judgment or ruling. All parties to a civil action conducted within the PRC must comply with the Civil Procedure Law. A civil case is generally heard by a local court in the defendant's place of domicile. The parties to a contract may, by express agreement, select a court of jurisdiction where civil actions may be brought, provided that the court of jurisdiction is located in either the plaintiff's or the defendant's place of domicile, or the place of execution or implementation, or the place of the object of the action, and provided that the provisions of the Civil Procedure Law regarding jurisdiction by level and exclusive jurisdiction shall not be violated.

A foreign individual or enterprise generally has the same litigation rights and obligations as a citizen or legal person of the PRC. Should the judicial system of a foreign country limits the litigation rights of PRC citizens or enterprises, the PRC courts may apply the same limitations to the citizens and enterprises of that foreign country. If any party to a civil action refuses to comply with a legally effective judgment or ruling by a people's court or an effective award by an arbitration tribunal in the PRC, the other party may apply to the people's court for the compulsory enforcement of the judgment, ruling or award. However, specific time limits are imposed on the right to apply for such compulsory enforcement. If at least one of the parties to the effective judgment, ruling or arbitration award is an individual, the time limit to apply for the enforcement is one year; if both parties are legal persons or other entities, the time limit to apply for the enforcement is six months.

When a party applies to a people's court for enforcing an effective judgment or ruling by a people's court against a party who is not located within the territory of the PRC or whose property is not within the PRC, the party may apply to a foreign court with proper jurisdiction for recognition and enforcement of the judgment or ruling, or the people's court may, in accordance with relevant provisions of international treaties concluded or acceded to by China, or on the principle of reciprocity, request recognition and enforcement by a foreign court. A foreign judgment or ruling may also be recognized and enforced by the people's court according to the PRC enforcement procedures if the PRC has entered into, or acceded to, an international treaty with the relevant foreign country on the mutual recognition and enforcement of judgments and rulings, or if the judgment or ruling satisfies the court's examination based on the principle of reciprocity, unless the people's court finds that the recognition or enforcement of such judgment or ruling will result in the violation of the basic legal principles of the PRC, its sovereignty or security, or for reasons related to the public interests.

(c) The PRC Company Law, Special Regulations and Mandatory Provisions

On 29 December 1993, the Company Law of the PRC was adopted by the standing committee of the Eighth NPC, which came into effect on 1 July 1994 and was amended for the first time on 25 December 1999, the second time on 28 August 2004 and the third time on 27 October 2005. The newly amended Company Law of the PRC (hereinafter referred to as the new “Company Law”) came into effect on 1 January 2006.

The Special Provisions of the State Council Concerning the Floatation and Listing Abroad of Shares by Joint Stock Limited Companies (hereinafter referred to as the “Special Provisions”) were adopted at the 22nd Standing Committee Meeting of the State Council on 4 July 1994. The Special Provisions was formulated according to Article 85 and Article 155 of the former Company Law and applies to the overseas share subscription and listing of joint stock limited companies.

The Mandatory Provisions in Articles of Association of Joint Stock Limited Companies to be Listed Overseas (hereinafter referred to as the “Mandatory Provisions”) were promulgated by the former Securities Commission of the State Council and the State Economic System Restructuring Commission on 27 August 1994, prescribing provisions which must be incorporated into the articles of association of joint stock limited companies to be listed overseas. Therefore, the Mandatory Provisions have been incorporated into the Articles of Association (which are summarized in Appendix VIII).

Copies of the Chinese version of the Company Law, the Special Provisions and the Mandatory Provisions together with copies of their unofficial English translations thereof are available for inspection as mentioned in Appendix X to this document “Documents Delivered to the Registrar of Companies and Available for Inspection”.

(i) General provisions

A “joint stock limited company” (hereinafter referred to as the “company”) is a corporate legal person incorporated under the Company Law, whose registered capital is divided into shares of equal par value. The liability of its shareholders is limited to the extent of the shares they hold, and the liability of the company is limited to the full amount of all the assets it owns.

A State-owned enterprise that is restructured into a company must comply with the conditions and requirements specified by laws and administrative regulations for the modification of its operation mechanisms, the handling and evaluation of the company’s assets and liabilities and the establishment of its internal management organs.

A company must conduct its business in accordance with law and professional ethics. A company may invest in other limited liability companies and joint stock limited companies. The liabilities of the company to such invested companies are limited to the amount invested. Unless otherwise provided by laws, a company cannot be the capital contributor who has the joint and several liability associated with the debts of the invested enterprises.

(ii) Incorporation

A company may be incorporated by promotion or public subscription.

A company may be incorporated by two to 200 promoters, but at least half of the promoters must have the domicile in the PRC. According to the Special Regulations, state-owned enterprises or enterprises with the majority of their assets owned by the PRC government can be restructured in accordance with the relevant regulations to become joint stock limited companies which may issue shares to overseas investors. These companies, if incorporated by promotion, may have fewer than five promoters and can issue new shares once incorporated.

A company incorporated by promotion is one with registered capital entirely subscribed for by the promoters. Where a company is incorporated by public subscription, the promoters are required to subscribe for not less than 35% of the total shares of the company, and the remaining shares can be offered to the public or specific persons.

The Company Law provides that for companies incorporated by way of promotion, the registered capital shall be the total capital subscribed for by all promoters as registered with the relevant administrative bureau for industry and commerce; the initial capital contribution by all promoters of a company shall not be less than 20% of the registered capital, and the remaining shall be paid up within two years by the promoters from the date of incorporation of the company. For investment companies, the remaining shall be paid up within five years from the date of incorporation of the company; for companies incorporated by way of public subscription, the registered capital is the amount of total paid-up capital as registered with the relevant administrative bureau for industry and commerce.

The registered capital of a company at a minimum should be RMB5 million. Pursuant to the Securities Law, the total capital of a company which proposes to apply for its shares to be listed on a stock exchange shall not be less than RMB30 million.

The promoters shall convene an inaugural meeting within 30 days after the issued shares have been completely paid up, and shall give notice to all subscribers or make a public announcement of the date of the inaugural meeting 15 days prior to the meeting. The inaugural meeting may be convened only with the presence of shareholders holding shares representing more than 50% of the total issued shares of the company. Matters to be dealt with at the inaugural meeting include adopting the draft articles of association proposed by the promoters and electing the board of directors and the supervisory committee of the company. Any resolution of the meeting shall be approved by subscribers with more than half of the voting rights of those present at the meeting.

Within 30 days after the conclusion of the inaugural meeting, the board of directors shall apply to the registration authority for registration of the incorporation of the company. A company is formally established and has the qualification of a legal person once the registration has been approved by the relevant administrative bureau for industry and commerce and a business licence has been issued.

The promoters of a company shall individually and jointly be liable for: (i) the payment of all expenses and liabilities incurred in the incorporation process if the company cannot be incorporated; (ii) the repayment of subscription monies to the subscribers together with interest at bank rates for a deposit of the same term if the company cannot be incorporated; and (iii) damages suffered by the company as a result of the default of the promoters in the course of incorporation of the company. According to the Provisional Regulations Concerning the Issue and Trading of Shares promulgated by the State Council on 22 April 1993 (which is only applicable to the issue and trading of shares in the PRC and relevant activities), if a company is incorporated by means of public subscription, the promoters of the company are required to assume joint liability for the accuracy of the contents of this document and to ensure that this document does not contain any misleading statement or omission of any material information.

(iii) Share capital

The promoters of a company may make capital contributions in cash, or in kind that can be valued in currency and transferable according to laws such as intellectual property rights or land-use rights based on their appraised value, provided that the amount of capital contribution in cash by all shareholders shall not be less than 30% of the company's registered capital.

There is no limit under the Company Law as to the percentage of shares held by an individual shareholder in a company.

If capital contribution is made other than in cash by the promoters of the company, valuation and verification of the properties contributed must be carried out and converted into shares.

A company may issue registered or bearer shares. However, shares issued to promoter(s) or legal person(s) shall be in the form of registered shares and shall be registered under the name(s) of such promoter(s) or legal person(s) and shall not be registered under a different name or the name of a representative.

The Special Regulations and the Mandatory Provisions provide that shares issued to foreign investors and listed overseas shall be issued in registered form and shall be denominated in RMB and subscribed for in foreign currency.

Pursuant to the Special Regulations and the Mandatory Provisions, shares issued to foreign investors and investors from Hong Kong, Macau and Taiwan and listed overseas are defined as overseas-listed-foreign-invested shares, and those issued to investors within the PRC other than the aforementioned areas are defined as domestic shares. Qualified Foreign Institutional Investors ("QFII") approved by China Securities Regulatory Commission (hereinafter referred to as "CSRC") may hold domestic listed shares.

A company may offer its shares to the public overseas with approval by the securities administration department of the State Council. Detailed measures shall be specified by the State Council based on the Special Regulations. According to the Special Regulations, upon approval of CSRC, a company may agree, in the underwriting agreement on issuing overseas-listed-foreign-invested shares, to retain not more than 15% of the aggregate amount of overseas-listed-foreign-invested shares proposed to be issued less the amount of underwritten shares.

The share offering price may be equal to or in excess of par value, but shall not be less than par value. The transfer of shares by shareholders shall be conducted in legally established stock exchanges or via other methods as stipulated by the State Council. The transfer of registered shares by a shareholder must be conducted by means of an endorsement or by other means stipulated by laws or by administrative regulations. Bearer shares are transferred by delivery of the H share certificates to the transferee.

No modification registration shall be made to the registrar of shareholders within twenty (20) days prior to the shareholders' assembly being held or within five (5) days prior to the benchmark date set for the purpose of distribution of dividends.

(iv) Increase in capital

Pursuant to the Company Law, an increase in the capital of a company by means of an issue of new shares must be approved by shareholders in general meeting. Except for abovementioned conditions of obtaining approval at the general meeting required by the Company Law, the Securities Law requires the following conditions for a company to offer new shares to the public: (i) a complete and well-operated organization; (ii) capability of making profits continuously and a healthy financial status; (iii) no false records or significant irregularities in its financial statements over the last three years; (iv) fulfill any other requirements as prescribed by the securities administration authority of the State Council as approved by the State Council.

The public offer requires the approval of the securities administration authority of the State Council. After payment in full for the new shares issued, a company must modify its registration with the relevant administrative bureau for industry and commerce and issue a public notice accordingly.

(v) Reduction of share capital

Subject to the minimum registered capital requirements, a company may reduce its registered capital in accordance with the following procedures stipulated by the Company Law:

- the company shall prepare a balance sheet and an inventory of assets;
- the reduction of general meeting registered capital must be approved by shareholders in the general meeting;
- the company shall inform its creditors of the reduction in capital within ten days and publish an announcement of the reduction in newspapers within 30 days once the resolution approving the reduction in capital being passed;
- creditors of the company may require the company to clear off its debts or provide guarantees covering the debts within the statutory time limit; and
- the company must apply to the relevant administrative bureau for industry and commerce for registration of the reduction in registered capital.

(vi) Repurchase of shares

A company shall not purchase its own shares other than for the following purposes:

- to reduce the registered capital by cancelling its shares or to merge with another company holding its shares;
- to grant shares as a reward to the staff of the company;
- to purchase the company's own shares upon request of its shareholders who vote against the resolution regarding the merger or division of the company in a general meeting; or
- other purposes permitted by laws and administrative regulations.

The shares repurchased by the company as a reward to its staff shall not exceed 5% of the total number of its issued shares. Any fund for the repurchase shall be paid out of after-tax profits of the company, and the shares repurchased shall be transferred to the staff of the company within one year. The Mandatory Provisions stipulate that upon obtaining approvals from relevant supervisory authorities in accordance with the articles of association of the company, a company may, for the aforementioned purposes, repurchase its issued shares by way of a general offer to its shareholders or purchase on a stock exchange or through off-market contract.

(vii) Transfer of shares

Shares may be transferred in accordance with the relevant laws and regulations. A shareholder shall transfer his/her shares in stock changes established pursuant to laws or by other means as stipulated by the State Council. Registered shares may be transferred by endorsement or in any other manner specified in applicable laws and regulations.

Shares held by the promoter(s) of a company shall not be transferred within one (1) year from the date of incorporation of the company. Shares issued by a company prior to the public offer of its shares shall not be transferred within one (1) year from the date of its shares being listed on a stock exchange. Directors, supervisors and senior management personnel of the company shall not transfer over 25% of the total shares they hold in the company each year during their term of office, and shall not transfer any share of the company held by each of them within one (1) year from the listing date.

Pursuant to the Stock Listing Rules of Shanghai Stock Exchange, directors, supervisors and senior management personnel shall not transfer shares they hold within one (1) year from the listing date and within half a year from the date of resignation. During their term of office, shares transferred per year shall not exceed 25% of the total amount of shares of the company they hold, and the shares of the company shall not be purchased within six months after being sold and shall not be sold within six months after being purchased. Directors, supervisors and senior management personnel shall, pursuant to limitations on their transference of shares of the company set forth in the articles of association, apply to the Shanghai Stock Exchange for lock-ups for all or part of the shares they hold in the company for the relevant periods.

(viii) Shareholders

The articles of association of a company set forth the shareholders' rights and obligations and are binding on all the shareholders. Pursuant to the Company Law and the Mandatory Provisions, a shareholder's rights include:

- the right to attend in person or appoint a representative to attend the shareholders' general meeting and to vote in respect of the amount of shares held;
- the right to transfer his/her shares in accordance with applicable laws and regulations as well as the articles of association;
- the right to inspect the company's articles of association, shareholders' registers, records of short-term debentures, minutes of shareholders' general meeting, board resolutions, supervisor resolutions and financial accounting reports, and to put forward proposals or raise questions on the business operations of the company;
- if a resolution approved by the shareholders' general meeting or by the board of directors violates any law or regulation, or infringes on the shareholders' lawful rights and interests, the right to institute an action in a people's court demanding that the illegal infringing action be stopped;
- the right to receive dividends based on the number of shares held;
- the right to obtain surplus assets of the company upon its termination in proportion to shares he/she holds; to claim against other shareholders who abuse their rights of shareholders for the damages; and

- any other shareholders' rights specified in the articles of association. Under the Special Regulations and the Mandatory Provisions, shareholders intending to attend are required to send written confirmations of their attendance to the company 20 days before the general meeting. According to the Special Regulations, at the annual shareholders' general meeting of the company, shareholders with 5% or more of the voting rights in the company are entitled to propose to the company in writing new resolutions to be reviewed at the general meeting, which if within the functions and powers of the shareholders' general meeting, are required to be added to the agenda of the general meeting.

Shareholders present at the shareholders' general meeting possess one vote for each share they hold. However, the company shall have no vote for any of its own shares the company holds.

A shareholder may entrust a proxy to attend a shareholders' general meeting. The proxy shall present a power of attorney issued by the shareholder to the company and shall exercise his voting rights within the authorization scope. There is no specific provision in the Company Law regarding the number of shareholders constituting a quorum in a shareholders' meeting, although the Special Regulations and the Mandatory Provisions provide that a company's annual general meeting may be convened when replies to the notice of that meeting from shareholders holding shares representing 50% or more of the voting rights in the company have been received 20 days before the proposed date, or if that 50% level is not achieved, the company shall within five days notify shareholders again by public announcement of the matters to be considered at the meeting and the date and place of the meeting, and the annual general meeting may be held thereafter. The Mandatory Provisions require class meetings to be held in the event of a variation or derogation of the class rights of a class. Holders of domestic invested shares and holders of overseas listed foreign invested shares are deemed to be different classes of shareholders for this purpose.

A company shall have a board of directors, which shall consist of five to nineteen members, and there can be staff representatives of the company. If a director is unable to attend a board meeting, he may appoint another director by a written power of attorney specifying the scope of the authorization for another director to attend the meeting on his behalf.

If a resolution of the board of directors violates the laws, administrative regulations or the company's articles of association as a result of which the company sustains serious losses, the directors participating in the resolution are liable to compensate the company. However, if it can be proven that a director expressly objected to the resolution when the resolution was voted on, and that such objections were recorded in the minutes of the meeting, such director may be relieved of that liability.

The legal representative of a company, in accordance with the company's articles of association, may be the chairman, any executive director or the manager.

The Special Regulations provide that a company's directors, supervisors, managers and other officers bear fiduciary duties and the duty to act diligently. They are required to faithfully perform their duties, protect the interests of the company and not to use their positions for their own benefit. The Mandatory Provisions (which have been incorporated into the Articles of Association, a summary of which is set out in Appendix VIII) contains further elaborations of such duties.

(xi) Supervisors

A company shall have a supervisory committee composed of not less than three members. Each term of office of a supervisor is three years, and the supervisors may hold consecutive terms upon re-election. The circumstances under which a person is disqualified from being a director of a company described above apply mutatis mutandis to supervisors of a company.

(xii) Managers and senior officers

A company shall have a manager who shall be appointed or removed by the board of directors. The manager is accountable to the board of directors and may exercise the following powers:

The Special Regulations and the Mandatory Provisions provide that the other senior management personnel of a company include the chief financial officer, secretary of the board of directors and other executives as specified in the articles of association of the company.

The circumstances under which a person is disqualified from being a director of a company described above apply mutatis mutandis to managers and officers of the company. The articles of association of a company shall have binding effect on the shareholders, directors, supervisors, managers and other senior management of the company. Such persons shall be entitled to exercise their rights, apply for arbitration and issue legal proceedings according to the articles of association of the company. The provisions of the Mandatory Provisions regarding the senior management personnel of a company have been incorporated in the Articles of Association (a summary of which is set out in Appendix VIII).

(xiii) Duties of directors, supervisors, managers and senior officers

A director, supervisor, manager and other senior officers of a company are required under the Company Law to comply with the relevant laws, regulations and the company's articles of association, carry out their duties honestly and protect the interests of the company. A director, supervisor, manager and other senior officers of a company is also under a duty of confidentiality to the company and is prohibited from divulging secret information of the company unless permitted by the relevant laws and regulations or by the shareholders.

A director, supervisor, manager and other senior officers who contravenes any law, regulation or the company's articles of association in the performance of his duties which results in any loss to the company shall be personally liable to the company.

The Special Regulations and the Mandatory Provisions provide that a director, supervisor, manager and other senior officers of a company owe fiduciary duties to the company and are required to perform their duties faithfully and to protect the interests of the company and not to make use of their positions in the company for their own benefit.

(xiv) Finance and accounting

After a company has made an allocation to its statutory common reserve from its after-tax profit, subject to a resolution of the shareholders' meeting or the shareholders' general meeting, the company may make an allocation to a discretionary common reserve from the after-tax profits.

If the aggregate balance of the company's statutory common reserve is not enough to make up for the losses of the company of the previous year, the current year's profits shall first be used for making good the losses before the statutory common reserve is set aside according to the provisions of the preceding paragraph.

After the losses have been made up and statutory common reserves have been set aside, the remaining profits shall be distributed to shareholders in proportion to the number of shares held by shareholders as in the case of a joint stock limited company, except as otherwise provided in the articles of association.

The capital common reserve of a joint stock limited company is made up of the premium over the nominal value of the shares of the company on issue, and other amounts required by the financial department of the State Council to be treated the capital reserve.

The company's common reserves shall be used for making up losses, expanding the production and business scale or increasing the capital of the company, but the capital reserve shall not be used for making up the company's losses. Where the statutory common reserve is converted into capital, the balance of the statutory common reserve shall not be less than 25% of the registered capital before such conversion.

(xv) Appointment and retirement of auditors

The Special Regulations require a company to employ an independent PRC qualified accounting firm to audit the company's annual report and review and check other financial reports.

The auditors are to be appointed for a term commencing from the close of an annual general meeting and ending at the close of the next annual general meeting.

If a company removes or ceases to continue to appoint the auditors, it is required by the Special Regulations to give prior notice to the auditors and the auditors are entitled to make representations before the shareholders in general meeting. The appointment, removal or non re-appointment of auditors shall be decided by the shareholders at shareholders' general meetings and shall be filed with the CSRC for record.

(xvi) Distribution of profits

The Special Regulations provide that the dividends and other distributions to be paid to holders of overseas listed foreign invested shares shall be declared and calculated in Renminbi and paid in foreign currency. Under the Mandatory Provisions, the payment of foreign currency to shareholders shall be made through a receiving agent.

In relation to matters involving the company's registration, the company shall modify its registration with the companies registration authority.

(xviii) Dissolution and liquidation

A company may apply for the declaration of insolvency by reason of its inability to pay debts as they fall due. After the People's Court has made a declaration of the company's insolvency, the shareholders, the relevant authorities and the relevant professionals shall form a liquidation committee to conduct the liquidation of the company.

Under the Company Law, a company shall be dissolved in any of the following events:

- (1) the term of its operations set down in the company's articles of association has expired or events of dissolution specified in the company's articles of association have occurred;

Where the company is dissolved in the circumstances described in (1), (2), (4) and (5) above, a liquidation committee must be formed within 15 days from the date of dissolution. Members of the liquidation committee shall be appointed by the shareholders in the general meeting.

If a liquidation committee is not established within the stipulated period, the company's creditors can apply to the People's Court for its establishment. The liquidation committee shall notify the company's creditors within 10 days after its establishment, and issue a public notice in the newspapers within 60 days. A creditor shall lodge his claim with the liquidation committee within 30 days after receiving notification, or within 45 days of the public notice if he did not receive any notification.

Any surplus assets shall be distributed to the shareholders of the company in proportion to the number of shares held by them.

A company shall not engage in operating activities unrelated to the liquidation. If the liquidation committee becomes aware that the company does not have sufficient assets to meet its liabilities, it must immediately apply to the People's Court for a declaration for bankruptcy. Following such declaration, the liquidation committee shall hand over all affairs of the liquidation to the people's court.

Upon completion of the liquidation, the liquidation committee shall submit a liquidation report to the shareholders' general meeting or the relevant supervisory department for verification. Thereafter, the report shall be submitted to the company registration authority in order to cancel the company's registration, and a public notice of its termination shall be issued.

Members of the liquidation committee are required to discharge their duties honestly and in compliance with relevant laws. A member of the liquidation committee is liable to indemnify the company and its creditors with respect to any loss arising from his willful or material default.

(xix) Overseas Listing

The shares of a company shall only be listed overseas after obtaining approval from the securities regulatory authority of the State Council and the listing must be arranged in accordance with procedures specified by the State Council.

According to the Special Regulations, a company's plan to issue overseas listed foreign invested shares and domestic invested shares which has been approved by the Securities Commission may be implemented by the board of directors of a company by way of respective issues, within 15 months after approval is obtained from Securities Commission.

(xx) Loss of H share certificates

A shareholder may apply, in accordance with the relevant provision set out in the PRC Civil Procedure Law, to a people's court in the event that H share certificates in registered form are either stolen or lost, for a declaration that such certificates will no longer be valid. After such a declaration has been obtained, the shareholder may apply to the company for the issue of replacement certificates.

The Mandatory Provisions provide for a separate procedure regarding loss of H share certificates (which has been incorporated in the Articles of Association, a summary of which is set out in Appendix VIII).

(xxi) Suspension and Termination of Listing

The new and amended Company Law has deleted provisions governing suspension and termination of listing. The new Securities Law has been amended as follows: the trading of shares of a company on a stock exchange may be suspended if so decided by the Securities Exchange under one of the following circumstances:

- (1) the total amount of shares shareholding distribution no longer complies with the necessary requirements for a listed company;
- (2) the company failed to make public its financial position in accordance with the requirements or there is false information in the company's financial report with the possibility of misleading investors;
- (3) the company has committed a major breach of the law;
- (4) the company has incurred losses for latest three (3) consecutive years; or
- (5) other circumstances as required by the listing rules of the relevant stock exchange(s)

Under the Securities Law, in the event that the conditions for listing are not satisfied within the period stipulated by the relevant stock exchange in the case described in (1) above, or the company has refused to rectify the situation in the case described in (2) above, or the company fails to become profitable in the next subsequent year in the case described in (4) above, the relevant stock exchange shall have the right to terminate the listing of the shares of the company.

The Company Law provides that the Stock Exchange may also terminate the listing of a company's shares in the event that the company resolves to be dissolved or is so instructed by its government supervisory body, or the company is declared bankrupt, or being involved in any other circumstances as required by the listing rules of the stock exchanges.

(xxii) Merger and demerger

Companies may merge through merger by absorption or through the establishment of a newly merged entity. If it merges by absorption, the company which is absorbed shall be dissolved. If it merges by forming a new corporation, both companies will be dissolved.

(d) Securities law and other relevant regulations

The PRC has promulgated a number of regulations that relate to the issue and trading of Shares and disclosure of information by the Company. In October 1992, the State Council established the Securities Committee and the CSRC. The Securities Committee is responsible for co-coordinating the drafting of securities regulations, formulating securities-related policies, planning the development of securities markets, directing, coordinating and supervising all securities-related institutions in the PRC and administering the CSRC. The CSRC is the regulatory body of the Securities Committee and is responsible for the drafting of regulatory provisions of securities markets, supervising securities companies, regulating public offers of securities by PRC companies in the PRC or overseas, regulating the trading of securities, compiling securities-related statistics and undertaking research and analysis.

On 22 April 1993, the State Council promulgated the Interim Provisions on the Management of Issuing and Trading of Shares. These regulations deal with the application and approval procedures for public offerings of equity securities, trading in equity securities, the acquisition of listed companies, deposit, settlement, clearing and transfer of listed equity securities, the disclosure of information with respect to a listed company, investigation and penalties and dispute settlement. According to these regulations, a company must obtain the approval of the Securities Committee to offer its shares outside the PRC. In addition, if a company proposes to issue Renminbi denominated ordinary shares as well as special Renminbi-denominated shares, it must comply with the Interim Provisions on the Management of Issuing and Trading of Shares. Provisions of these regulations in relation to acquisitions of listed companies and disclosure of information expressly apply to listed companies in general without being confined to listed companies on any particular stock exchange.

On 2 September 1993, the Securities Committee promulgated the Provisional Measures Prohibiting Fraudulent Conduct Relating to Securities. The prohibitions imposed by these measures include: such conducts as insider dealing, market manipulation, fraudulence and false statement with respect to the issuing and trading of securities and other activities, including but not limited to, the use of insider information in connection with the issuance of, or trading in, securities (insider information being defined to include undisclosed material information known to any insider, which may affect the market price of securities); the use of funds or information or through an abuse of power to create a false or disorderly market or influencing the market price of securities or inducing investors to make investment decisions without knowledge of actual circumstances; and the making of any statement in connection with the issue of, and trading in, securities which is false or materially misleading, or contains any material omission. Penalties imposed for contravening any of the provisions of the measures include fines, confiscation of profits and suspension of trading. In serious cases, criminal liability may be imposed.

On 25 December 1995, the State Council promulgated the Regulations of the State Council Concerning Domestic Listed Foreign Shares of Joint Stock Limited Liability Companies. These regulations deal mainly with the issue, subscription, trading and declaration of dividends and other distributions of domestic listed foreign shares and disclosure of information related to joint stock limited liability companies with domestically listed foreign shares.

The Securities Law took effect on 1 July 1999 and was revised for the first time as of 28 August 2004 and for the second time on 27 October 2005. This is the first national securities law in the PRC, and it is divided into 12 chapters and 240 articles regulating, among other things, the issue and trading of securities, takeovers by listed companies, securities exchanges, securities companies and the duties and responsibilities of the State Council's securities regulatory authorities. The Securities Law comprehensively regulates activities in the PRC securities market. Article 238 of the Securities Law provides that a company must obtain prior approval from the State Council's regulatory authorities to list shares outside the PRC. Article 239 of the Securities Law provides that specific measures with respect to shares of companies in the PRC that are to be subscribed and traded in foreign currencies shall be separately formulated by the State Council. Currently, the issue and trading of foreign issued shares (including H Shares) are still mainly governed by the rules and regulations promulgated by the State Council and the CSRC.

Rules of Shanghai Stock Exchange for the Listing of Stocks (hereinafter referred to as "Listing Rules") was promulgated in January 1998 and amended in May 2000, June 2001, February 2002, December 2004, and May 2006, and was enacted by the Shanghai Stock Exchange under the authorization of CSRC in accordance with laws, administrative regulations, administrative rules and other normative documents. The Listing Rules provide for the supervision of the listing company, its directors, supervisors, senior management personnel, shareholders, actual controller, purchaser, other information disclosure obligors, the recommender and relevant personnel thereof; the standardization of the listing activities of stocks, convertible corporate bonds and securities derivatives as well as information disclosure activities of the listing company and other relevant obligors; the maintenance of order in the security markets, and the protection of investors and issuers' legitimate rights and interests. According to the Listing Rules, when a company that is listed in the Shanghai Stock Exchange and an overseas stock exchange simultaneously is required to disclose information by the overseas stock exchange, it shall report to the Shanghai Stock Exchange, and disclose the identical information domestically at the same time after getting its approval. The reports and announcements provided by the listing company to other stock exchanges shall be consistent with the ones provide to Shanghai Stock Exchange. When a serious difference occurs, the listing company shall provide a special explanation, and disclose the correction or supplement announcement according to the requirements of the Shanghai Stock Exchange.

(e) Arbitration and enforcement of arbitral awards

The Arbitration Law of the People's Republic of China (the "Arbitration Law") was passed by the Standing Committee on 31 August 1994 and became effective on 1 September 1995. It is applicable to contract disputes and other property disputes between natural person, legal person and other organizations where the parties have entered into a written agreement to refer the matter to arbitration before an arbitration committee constituted in accordance with the Arbitration Law. Under the Arbitration Law, an arbitration committee may, before the promulgation by the PRC Arbitration Association of arbitration rules, formulate interim arbitration rules in accordance with the Arbitration Law and the PRC Civil Procedure Law. Where the parties have by agreement provided arbitration as the method for dispute resolution, the people's court will refuse to handle the case.

The Hong Kong Listing Rules and the Mandatory Provisions require an arbitration clause to be included in a company's Articles of Association and, in the case of the Hong Kong Listing Rules, also in contracts with each of the directors and supervisors, to the effect that whenever any disputes or claims arise between holders of H Shares and the company; holders of H Shares and the directors, supervisors, manager or other senior officers; or holders of H Shares and holders of domestic shares, with respect to any disputes or claims in relation to the companies affairs or as a result of any rights or obligations arising under its Articles of Association, the PRC Company Law or other relevant laws and administrative regulations, such disputes or claims shall be referred to arbitration.

Where a dispute or claim of rights referred to in the preceding paragraph is referred to arbitration, the entire claim or dispute must be referred to arbitration, and all persons who have a cause of action based on the same facts giving rise to the dispute or claim or whose participation is necessary for the resolution of such dispute or claim, as the Company or its shareholders, directors, supervisors, managers or other senior management personnel, shall comply with the arbitration. Disputes with respect to the definition of shareholders and disputes related to a company's register of shareholders need not be resolved by arbitration.

A claimant may elect for arbitration to be carried out at either the China International Economic and Trade Arbitration Commission in accordance with its Rules or the Hong Kong International Arbitration Center in accordance with its Securities Arbitration Rules. Once a claimant refers a dispute or claim to arbitration, the other party must submit to the arbitral body elected by the claimant. If the claimant elects for arbitration to be carried out at the Hong Kong International Arbitration Center, any party to the dispute or claim may apply for a hearing to take place in Shenzhen in accordance with the Securities Arbitration Rules of the Hong Kong International Arbitration Center.

Under the Arbitration Law and PRC Civil Procedure Law, an arbitral award is final and binding on the parties. If a party fails to comply with an award, the other party to the award may apply to the people's court for enforcement. A people's court may refuse to enforce an arbitral award made by an arbitration commission if there is any procedural or membership irregularity specified by law or the award exceeds the scope of the arbitration agreement or is outside the jurisdiction of the arbitration commission.

A party seeking to enforce an arbitral award by a PRC arbitration panel against a party who, or whose property, is not within the PRC, may apply to a foreign court with jurisdiction over the case for enforcement. Similarly, an arbitral award made by a foreign arbitration body may be recognized and enforced by the PRC courts in accordance with the principles of reciprocity or any international treaty concluded or acceded to by the PRC.

The PRC acceded to the Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards (the "New York Convention") adopted on 10 June, 1958 pursuant to a resolution of the Standing Committee passed on 2 December, 1986. The New York Convention provides that all arbitral awards made in a state which is a party to the New York Convention shall be recognized and enforced by other parties to the New York Convention, subject to their right to refuse enforcement under certain circumstances, including where the enforcement of the arbitral award is against the public policy of the state to which the request for enforcement is made

It was declared by the Standing Committee simultaneously with the accession of the PRC that (1) the PRC will only recognize and enforce foreign arbitral awards on the principle of reciprocity and (2) the PRC will only apply the New York Convention in disputes considered under PRC laws to arise from contractual and non-contractual mercantile legal relations. On 18 June 1999, an arrangement was made between Hong Kong and the Supreme People's Court of the PRC for the mutual enforcement of arbitral awards. This new arrangement was approved by the Supreme People's Court of the PRC and the Hong Kong Legislative Council, and became effective on 1 February 2000. The arrangement is made in accordance with the spirit of the New York Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards 1958. Under the arrangement, awards made by PRC arbitral authorities recognized under the Arbitration Ordinance of Hong Kong can be enforced in Hong Kong. Hong Kong arbitration awards are also enforceable in China.

2. HONG KONG LAWS AND REGULATIONS

(a) Company Law

The Hong Kong law applicable to a company incorporated in Hong Kong is based on the Companies Ordinance and supplemented by common law and rules of equity that apply to Hong Kong. The Company, which is a joint stock limited company established in the PRC, is governed by the PRC Company Law and all other rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to the PRC Company Law.

Set out below is a summary of the material differences between the Hong Kong company law applicable to a company incorporated in Hong Kong and the PRC Company Law applicable to a joint stock limited company incorporated and existing under the PRC Company Law. This summary is, however, not intended to be an exhaustive comparison.

(i) Corporate existence

Under Hong Kong company law, a company having share capital, is incorporated and will acquire an independent corporate existence after the company registrar of Hong Kong issuing a certificate of incorporation. A company may be incorporated as a public company or a private company. Pursuant to the Companies Ordinance the articles of association of a private company incorporated in Hong Kong shall contain certain pre-emptive provisions. A public company's articles of association does not contain such preemptive provisions.

Under the PRC Company Law, a company may be incorporated by promotion or public subscription. A company must have a minimum registered capital of RMB5 million, or a higher amount as may otherwise be required by laws and regulations. Hong Kong law does not prescribe any minimum capital requirement for a Hong Kong company. Under the PRC Company Law, the monetary contributions by all the shareholders must not be less than 30% of the registered capital. There is no such restriction on a Hong Kong company under Hong Kong law.

(ii) Share capital

Under Hong Kong law, the authorized share capital of a Hong Kong company is the amount of share capital which the company is authorized to issue and a company is not bound to issue the entire amount of its authorized share capital. The authorized share capital may be larger than its issued share capital. Hence, the directors of a Hong Kong company may, with the prior approval of the shareholders, if required, cause the company to issue new shares. The PRC Company Law does not provide for authorized share capital. The registered capital of a joint stock limited company is the amount of the issued share capital. Any increase in registered capital must be approved by the shareholders in a general meeting and by the relevant PRC Governmental and regulatory authorities.

Under the PRC Company Law, a company which is authorised by the relevant securities administration authority to list its shares on a stock exchange must have a registered capital of not less than RMB30 million. Hong Kong law does not prescribe any minimum capital requirements for companies incorporated in Hong Kong.

Under the PRC Company Law, the shares may be subscribed for in the form of money or non-monetary assets (other than assets not entitled to be used as capital contributions under relevant laws and administrative regulations). For non-monetary assets to be used as capital contributions, appraisals and verification must be carried out to ensure no overvaluation or under-valuation of the assets. The monetary contribution shall not be less than 30% of a joint stock limited company's registered capital. There is no such restriction on a Hong Kong company under Hong Kong law.

(iii) Restrictions on shareholding and transfer of shares

Under PRC law, the domestic shares ("domestic shares") in the share capital of a joint stock limited company which are denominated and subscribed for in Renminbi may only be subscribed or traded by the State, PRC legal and natural persons. The overseas listed foreign shares ("foreign shares") issued by a joint stock limited company which are denominated in Renminbi and subscribed for in a currency other than Renminbi, may only be subscribed for, and traded by, investors from Hong Kong, Macau and Taiwan or any country and territory outside the PRC.

Under the PRC Company Law, shares in a joint stock limited company held by its promoters cannot be transferred within one year after the date of establishment of the company. Shares in issue prior to the company's public offering cannot be transferred within one year from the listing date of the shares on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange. Shares in a joint stock limited company held by its directors, supervisors and managers and transferred each year during their term of office shall not exceed 25% of the total shares they held in the company, and the shares they held in the company cannot be transferred within one year from the listing date of the shares, and also cannot be transferred within half a year after the said personnel has left office. The articles of association may set other restrictive requirements on the transfer of the company's shares held by its directors, supervisors and officers. There are no such restrictions on shareholdings and transfers of shares under Hong Kong law.

(iv) Financial assistance for acquisition of shares

Although the PRC Company Law does not contain any provision prohibiting or restricting a joint stock limited company or its subsidiaries from providing financial assistance for the purpose of an acquisition of its own or its holding company's shares, the Mandatory Provisions contain certain restrictions on a company and its subsidiaries providing such financial assistance similar to those under Hong Kong company law.

(v) Variation of class rights

The PRC Company Law makes no specific provision relating to variation of class rights. However, the PRC Company Law states that the State Council can promulgate regulations relating to other kinds of shares. The Mandatory Provisions contain elaborate provisions relating to the circumstances which are deemed to be variations of class rights and the approval procedures required to be followed regarding variations of class rights. These provisions have been incorporated in the Articles of Association, which are summarized in Appendix VIII to this Prospectus. Under the Companies Ordinance, no rights attached to any class of shares can be varied except (i) with the approval of a special resolution of the holders of the relevant class at a separate meeting, (ii) with the consent in writing of the holders of three-fourths in nominal value of the issued shares of the class in question, (iii) by agreement of all the members of a Hong Kong company or (iv) if there are provisions in the articles of association relating to the variation of those rights, then in accordance with those provisions. The Company (as required by the Listing Rules and the Mandatory Provisions) has adopted in the Articles of Association provisions protecting class rights in a similar manner to those found in Hong Kong law. Holders of overseas listed foreign invested shares and domestic invested shares are defined in the Articles of Association as different classes, except where (i) the Company issues and allots, in any 12-month period, pursuant to a Shareholders' special resolution, not more than 20% of each of the issued overseas listed foreign invested shares and the issued domestic invested shares existing as at the date of the Shareholders' special resolution; and (ii) the plan for the issue of domestic invested shares and listed foreign invested shares upon its establishment is implemented within 15 months following the date of approval by the CSRC. The Mandatory Provisions contain detailed provisions relating to circumstances which are deemed to constitute a variation of class rights.

(vi) Directors

The PRC Company Law, unlike Hong Kong company law, does not contain any requirements relating to the declaration of interests in material contracts; restrictions on interested directors being counted towards the quorum of, and voting at, a meeting of the board of directors at which a transaction in which a director is interested is being considered; restrictions on directors' authority in making major dispositions; restrictions on companies providing certain benefits, such as loans to directors and guarantees in respect of directors' liability and prohibitions against compensation for loss of office without shareholders' approval. The Mandatory Provisions, however, contain requirements and restrictions on major dispositions and specify the circumstances under which a director may receive compensation for loss of office, all of which provisions have been incorporated in the Articles of Association, a summary of which is set out in Appendix VIII to this document.

(vii) Supervisory committee

Under the PRC Company Law, the board of directors and managers of a joint stock limited company is subject to the supervision and inspection of a supervisory committee but there is no mandatory requirement for the establishment of a supervisory committee for a company incorporated in Hong Kong. The Mandatory Provisions provide that each supervisor owes a duty, in the exercise of his powers, to act in good faith and honestly in what he considers to be in the best interests of the company and to exercise the care, diligence and skill that a reasonably prudent person would exercise under comparable circumstances.

(viii) Derivative action by minority shareholders

Hong Kong law permits minority shareholders to start a derivative action on behalf of a company against directors who have committed a breach of their fiduciary duties to the company, if such directors control a majority of votes at a general meeting, thereby effectively preventing a company from suing the directors in breach of their duties in its own name. The PRC Company Law gives shareholders of a joint stock limited company the right to initiate proceedings in the people's court to restrain the implementation of any resolution passed by the shareholders in a general meeting, or by the board of directors, that violates any law or infringes the lawful rights and interests of the shareholders, there is no form of proceedings equal to a derivative action. The Mandatory Provisions further provide remedies to the company against directors, supervisors and officers in breach of their duties to the company. In addition, every director and supervisor of a joint stock limited company applying for a listing of its foreign shares on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange is required to give an undertaking in favor of the company to comply with the company's articles of association. This allows minority shareholders to act against the directors and supervisors in default.

Under Hong Kong law, a shareholder who complains that the affairs of a company incorporated in Hong Kong are conducted in a manner unfairly prejudicial to his interests may petition to court to either wind up the company or make an appropriate order regulating the affairs of the company. In addition, on the application of a specified number of members, the Financial Secretary of the Hong Kong Government may appoint inspectors who are given extensive statutory powers to investigate the affairs of a company incorporated in Hong Kong. The PRC law does not contain similar safeguards. The Mandatory Provisions, however, contain provisions to the effect that a controlling shareholder may not exercise its voting rights in a manner prejudicial to the interests of the shareholders generally or of some part of the shareholders of a company to relieve a director or supervisor of his duty to act honestly in the best interests of the company or to approve the expropriation by a director or supervisor of the company's assets or the individual rights of other shareholders.

(x) Notice of shareholders' meetings

Under the PRC Company Law, notice of a shareholders' general meeting must be given not less than 20 days before the meeting, or, in the case of a company having bearer shares, a public announcement of a shareholders' general meeting must be made at least 30 days prior to it being held. Under the Special Regulations and the Mandatory Provisions, 45 days' written notice must be given to all shareholders and shareholders who wish to attend the meeting must reply in writing 20 days before the date of the meeting. For a company incorporated in Hong Kong, the minimum notice periods of a general meeting convened for passing an ordinary resolution and a special resolution are 14 days and 21 days, respectively. The notice period for an annual general meeting is 21 days.

(xi) Quorum for shareholders' meetings

Under Hong Kong law, the quorum for a general meeting is two members unless the articles of association of the company otherwise provide. For one member companies, one member will be a quorum. The PRC Company Law does not specify any quorum requirement for a shareholders' general meeting, but the Special Regulations and the Mandatory Provisions provide that a company's general meeting can be convened when replies to the notice of that meeting have been received from shareholders whose shares represent 50% of the voting rights in the company at least 20 days before the proposed date of the meeting. If that 50% level is not achieved, the company shall within five days notify its shareholders by public announcement and the shareholders' general meeting may be held thereafter.

(xii) Voting

Under Hong Kong law, an ordinary resolution is passed by a simple majority of votes cast by members present in person or by proxy at a general meeting and a special resolution is passed by a majority of not less than three-fourths of votes cast by members present in person or by proxy at a general meeting. Under the PRC Company Law, the passing of any resolution requires more than one half of the votes cast by shareholders present in person or by proxy at a shareholders' general meeting except in cases of proposed amendment to the articles of association, increase or reduction of share capital, and merger, demerger or dissolution of a joint stock limited company or changes to the company status, which require two-thirds or more of votes cast by shareholders present at a shareholders' general meeting.

(xiii) Financial disclosure

A company is required under the PRC Company Law to make available at its office for inspection by shareholders its annual balance sheet, profit and loss account, statements of changes in financial position and other relevant annexes 20 days before the annual general meeting of shareholders. In addition, a company established by way of public subscription under the PRC Company Law must publish its financial position. The annual balance sheet has to be verified by registered accountants. The Companies Ordinance requires a company to send to every shareholder a copy of its balance sheet, auditors' report and directors' report, which are to be laid before the company in its annual general meeting, not less than 21 days before such meeting.

A company is required under the PRC law to prepare its financial statements in accordance with the PRC accounting standards. The Mandatory Provisions require that the company must, in addition to preparing accounts according to the PRC standards, have its accounts prepared and audited in accordance with International Accounting Standards or Hong Kong accounting standards and its financial statements must also contain a statement of the financial effect of the material differences (if any) from the financial statements prepared in accordance with the PRC accounting standards.

The Special Regulations require that there should not be any inconsistency between the information disclosed within and outside the PRC and that, to the extent that there are differences in the information disclosed in accordance with the relevant PRC and overseas laws, regulations and requirements of the relevant stock exchanges, such differences should also be disclosed simultaneously.

(xiv) Information on directors and shareholders

The PRC Company Law gives the shareholders of a company the right to inspect the Articles of Association, minutes of the shareholders' general meetings and financial and accounting reports. Under the Articles of Association, shareholders of a company have the right to inspect and copy (at reasonable charges) certain information on shareholders and on directors similar to that available to shareholders of Hong Kong companies under Hong Kong law.

(xv) Receiving agent

Under both the PRC Company Law and Hong Kong law, dividends once declared become debts payable to shareholders. The limitation period for debt recovery action under Hong Kong law is six years, while that under the PRC law is two years. The Mandatory Provisions require the appointment of a trust company registered under the Hong Kong Trustee Ordinance (Chapter 29 of the Laws of Hong Kong) as a receiving agent to receive on behalf of holders of foreign shares dividends declared and all other monies owed by a joint stock limited company in respect of such foreign shares.

(xvi) Corporate reorganization

Corporate reorganizations involving a company incorporated in Hong Kong may be effected in a number of ways, such as a transfer of the whole or part of the business or property of the company to another company in the course of being wound up voluntarily pursuant to section 237 of the Companies Ordinance or a compromise or arrangement between the company and its creditors or between the company and its members pursuant to section 166 of the Companies Ordinance which requires the sanction of the court. Under PRC Company Law, the merger, demerger, dissolution or change to the status of a company has to be approved by shareholders at general meeting.

(xvii) Arbitration of disputes

In Hong Kong, disputes between shareholders and a company incorporated in Hong Kong or its directors may be resolved through the courts. The Mandatory Provisions provide that such disputes should be submitted to arbitration at either the HKIAC or the CIETAC at the claimant's choice.

(xviii) Mandatory deductions

Under the PRC Company Law, after-tax profits of a company are subject to deductions of contributions to the statutory surplus reserve fund and the statutory public welfare fund of a company before they can be distributed to its shareholders. There are prescribed percentages under the PRC Company Law for such deductions. There are no such requirements under Hong Kong law.

(xix) Remedies of a company

Under the PRC Company Law, if a director, supervisor or manager in carrying out his duties infringes any law, administrative regulation or the articles of association of a company, which results in damage to the company, that director, supervisor or manager should be responsible to the company for such damages. In addition, remedies of the company similar to those available under the Hong Kong law (including rescission of the relevant contract and recovery of profits made by a director, supervisor or officer) have been in compliance with the Hong Kong Listing Rules.

(xx) Dividends

The articles of association of a company empower the company to withhold, and pay to the relevant tax authorities, any tax payable under PRC law on any dividends or other distributions payable to a shareholder. Under Hong Kong law, the limitation period for an action to recover a debt (including the recovery of dividends) is six years, whereas under PRC laws, the relevant limitation period is two years. A company shall not exercise its powers to forfeit any unclaimed dividend in respect of its listed foreign shares until after the expiry of the applicable limitation period.

(xxi) Fiduciary duties

In Hong Kong, there is the common law concept of the fiduciary duty of directors. Under the PRC Company Law and the Special Regulations, directors, supervisors, officers, and managers owe a fiduciary duty towards a company and are not permitted to engage in any activities which compete with or damage the interests of the company.

(xxii) Closure of register of shareholders

The Companies Ordinance requires that the register of shareholders of a company must not generally be closed for the registration of transfers of shares for more than 30 days (extendable to 60 days in certain circumstances) in a year, whereas the articles of association of a company provide, as required by the PRC Company Law, that share transfers may not be registered within 30 days before the date of a shareholders' meeting or within five days before the record date set for the purpose of distribution of dividends.

(b) Hong Kong Listing Rules

The Hong Kong Listing Rules provide additional requirements which apply to an issuer which is incorporated in the PRC as a joint stock limited company and seeks a primary listing or whose primary listing is on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange. Set out below is a summary of such principal additional requirements which apply to the Company.

(i) Compliance Advisor

A company seeking listing on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange is required to appoint a compliance adviser acceptable to the Stock Exchange for the period from its listing date up to the date of the publication of its first full year's financial results, to provide the company with professional advice on continuous compliance with the Hong Kong Listing Rules and all other applicable laws, regulations, rules, codes and guidelines, and to act at all times, in addition to the company's two authorised representatives, as the principal channel of communication with the Hong Kong Stock Exchange. The appointment of the compliance adviser may not be terminated until a replacement acceptable to the Hong Kong Stock Exchange has been appointed.

If the Hong Kong Stock Exchange is not satisfied that the compliance adviser is fulfilling its responsibilities adequately, it may require the company to terminate the compliance adviser's appointment and appoint a replacement.

The compliance adviser must keep the company informed on a timely basis of changes in the Hong Kong Listing Rules and any new or amended law, regulation or code in Hong Kong applicable to the company. It must act as the company's principal channel of communication with the Hong Kong Stock Exchange if the authorised representatives of the company are expected to be frequently outside Hong Kong.

(ii) Accountants' report

An accountants' report for a PRC issuer will not normally be regarded as acceptable by the Hong Kong Stock Exchange unless the relevant accounts have been audited to a standard comparable to that required in Hong Kong. Such report will normally be required to conform to either Hong Kong or international accounting standards.

(iii) Process agent

The Company is required to appoint and maintain a person authorized to accept service of process and notices on its behalf in Hong Kong throughout the period during which its securities are listed on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange and must notify the Hong Kong Stock Exchange of his appointment, the termination of his appointment and his contact particulars.

(iv) Public shareholdings

If at any time there are existing issued securities of a PRC issuer other than foreign shares ("foreign shares") which are listed on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange, the Hong Kong Listing Rules require that the aggregate amount of such foreign shares held by the public must constitute not less than 25% of the issued share capital and that such foreign shares for which listing is sought must not be less than 15% of the total issued share capital if the company has an expected market capitalization at the time of listing of not less than HK$50,000,000. The Hong Kong Stock Exchange may, at its discretion, accept a lower percentage of between 15% and 25% if the Company has an expected market capitalization at the time of listing of over HK$10,000,000,000.

(v) Independent non-executive directors and supervisors

The independent non-executive directors of a PRC issuer are required to demonstrate an acceptable standard of competence and adequate commercial or professional expertise to ensure that the interests of the general body of shareholders will be adequately represented. The supervisors of a PRC issuer must have the character, expertise and integrity and be able to demonstrate a standard of competence commensurate with their position as supervisors.

(vi) Restrictions on purchase and subscription of its own securities

Subject to governmental approvals and the provisions of the Articles of Association, the Company may repurchase its own H shares on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange in accordance with the provisions of the Hong Kong Listing Rules. Approval by way of special resolution of the holders of domestic shares and the holders of H shares at separate class meetings conducted in accordance with the Articles of Association is required for share repurchases. In seeking approvals, the Company is required to provide information on any proposed or actual purchases of all or any of its equity securities, whether or not listed or traded on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange. The Directors must also state the consequences of any purchases which will arise under either or both of the Code on Takeovers and Mergers and any similar PRC law of which the directors are aware, if any. Any general mandate given to the directors to repurchase the foreign shares must not exceed 10% of the total amount of existing issued foreign shares of the Company.

(vii) Mandatory provisions

With a view to increasing the level of protection afforded to investors, the Hong Kong Stock Exchange requires the incorporation, in the articles of association of a PRC company whose primary listing is on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange, of the Mandatory Provisions and provisions relating to the change, removal and resignation of auditors, class meetings and the conduct of the supervisory committee of the Company. Such provisions have been incorporated into the Articles of Association, a summary of which is set out in Appendix VIII to this Prospectus.

(viii) Redeemable shares

The Company must not issue any redeemable shares unless the Hong Kong Stock Exchange is satisfied that the relative rights of the holders of the foreign shares are adequately protected.

Except in the circumstances mentioned below, the directors of a company are required to obtain the approval by a special resolution of shareholders in general meeting, and the approvals by special resolutions of the holders of domestic shares and foreign shares (each being otherwise entitled to vote at general meetings) at separate class meetings conducted in accordance with the Company's articles of association, prior to (1) authorizing, allotting, issuing or granting shares or securities convertible into shares, or options, warrants or similar rights to subscribe for any shares or such convertible securities; or (2) any major subsidiary of the Company making any such authorization, allotment, issue or grant so as materially to dilute the percentage equity interest of the company and its shareholders in such subsidiary.

No such approval will be required, but only to the extent that, the existing shareholders of the company have by special resolution in general meeting given a mandate to the directors, either unconditionally or subject to such terms and conditions as may be specified in the resolution, to authorize, allot or issue, either separately or concurrently once every 12 months, not more than 20% of the existing domestic shares and foreign shares as of the date of the passing of the relevant special resolution or of such shares that are part of the company's plan at the time of its establishment to issue domestic shares and foreign shares and which plan is implemented within 15 months from the date of approval by the CSRC.

(x) Supervisors

The Company is required to adopt rules governing dealings by its Supervisors in securities of the Company in terms no less exacting than those of the model code (set out in Appendix 10 to the Hong Kong Listing Rules) issued by the Hong Kong Stock Exchange.

The Company is required to obtain the approval of its shareholders at a general meeting (at which the relevant Supervisor and his associates shall not vote on the matter) prior to the Company or any of its subsidiaries entering into a service contract of the following nature with a Supervisor or proposed Supervisor of the Company or its subsidiary: (1) the term of the contract may exceed three years; or (2) the contract expressly requires the Company to give more than one year's notice or to pay compensation or make other payments equivalent to the remuneration more than one year.

The remuneration committee of the Company or an independent board committee must form a view in respect of service contracts that require shareholders' approval and advise shareholders (other than shareholders with a material interest in the service contracts and their associates) as to whether the terms are fair and reasonable, advise whether such contracts are in the interests of the Company and its shareholders as a whole and advise shareholders on how to vote.

(xi) Amendment to the Articles of Association

The Company is required not to permit or cause any amendment to be made to its Articles of Association which would cause the same to cease to comply with the mandatory provisions of the Hong Kong Listing Rules and the Mandatory Provisions or the PRC Company Law.

(xii) Documents for inspection

The Company is required to make available at a place in Hong Kong for inspection by the public and its shareholders free of charge, and for copying by shareholders at reasonable charges the following:

(xviii) English translation

All notices or other documents required under the Hong Kong Listing Rules to be sent by the Company to the Hong Kong Stock Exchange or to holders of H Shares are required to be in the English language, or accompanied by a certified English translation.

(xix) General

The property valuation report included in Appendix IV to this Prospectus includes a valuation report in full compliance with all applicable Hong Kong Listing Rules and paragraph 34 of Part II of the Third Schedule to the Companies Ordinance of property interests held by us and property interests to be acquired by us for our property development and investment business. However, owing to the substantial number of properties we own or lease, we have applied to the SFC for an exemption and the Hong Kong Stock Exchange for a waiver from strict compliance with certain of the valuation report requirements contained in paragraph 34(2) of Part II of the Third Schedule to the Companies Ordinance and Rules 5.01, 5.06 and 19A.27(4) and paragraph 3(a) of Practice Note 16 of the Hong Kong Listing Rules in respect of the properties in Group I, Group II, Group VII and Group VIII of the valuation report included in Appendix IV to this Prospectus, respectively, on the grounds that:

- (i) the full valuation report (which will be prepared in the Chinese language only), containing description and values of all the properties and complying with all the requirements of paragraph 34 of Part II of the Third Schedule to the Companies Ordinance, will be made available for public inspection;
- (ii) a summary valuation report of all of our property interests (other than property interests held by us and property interests to be acquired by us for our property development and investment business) in abbreviated form and divided into sub-groups prepared on the basis of the full valuation report is included in Appendix IV to this Prospectus; and
- (iii) a valuation report of property interests held by us and property interests to be acquired by us for our property development and investment business in full compliance with paragraph 34 of Part II of the Third Schedule to the Companies Ordinance is included in Appendix IV to this Prospectus.

The Directors are of the view that the exemption and waiver granted by the SFC and the Hong Kong Stock Exchange, respectively, will not prejudice the interests of potential investors.

A certificate of exemption has been granted by the SFC under section 342A(1) of the Companies Ordinance.

An application has also been made to the Hong Kong Stock Exchange for a waiver from strict compliance with Rule 4.04(1) of the Hong Kong Listing Rules in relation to the inclusion of the accountants' report for each of the three financial years immediately preceding the issue of the Prospectus on the ground that it would be unduly burdensome for us to do so within a short period of time after 31 December 2007, and such waiver has been granted by the Hong Kong Stock Exchange on the condition that listing of the H Shares of the Company on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange will commence on or before 31 March 2008.

3. If you are a body corporate, the application form must be signed by a duly authorized officer, who must state his or her representative capacity
4. The number of joint applicants may not exceed four
5. Save under the circumstances permitted by the Rules Governing the Listing of Securities on the Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited (the "Hong Kong Listing Rules"), you cannot apply for any Hong Kong Public Offer Shares if you are or are any person(s) for whose benefit you are applying if you are:
- an existing beneficial owner of shares in the Company;

B. If you are a nominee

- You may make more than one application for the Hong Kong Public Offer Shares if and only if you are a nominee, in which case you may make an application as a nominee by (i) giving electronic application instructions to HKSCC via CCASS (if you are a CCASS Participant); or (ii) using a WHITE or YELLOW Application Form, and lodge more than one application in your own name if such application is made on behalf of different beneficial owners.
In the box on this Application Form marked "For nominee", you must include:
- an account number; or
- some other identification code
for each beneficial owner in the case of joint beneficial owners, for each such beneficial owner. If you do not include this information, the application will be treated as being made for your own benefit. As a nominee, you are deemed to have warranted that you are duly authorized to sign this Application Form on behalf of the relevant beneficial owner and agreed to disclose personal data relating to such beneficial owner on the terms set out in section F and the section under Personal Data

C. Lodge only one application for your benefit

- Multiple applications or electronic multiple applications will be rejected. Except where you are a nominee and provide the information required in your application, all of your applications (including the part of the application made by HKSCC Nominees acting on electronic application instructions) will be rejected as multiple applications if you, or you and joint applicant(s) together:
- make more than one application (whether individually or jointly) on a WHITE or YELLOW Application Form or by giving electronic application instructions to HKSCC via CCASS (if you are a CCASS Investor Participant or applying through a CCASS Clearing Participant or Custodian Participant) or to the IPO Service Provider via the White Form eIPO service (www.eipo.com.hk); or
- both apply (whether individually or jointly) on one WHITE Application Form and one YELLOW Application Form or on one WHITE or a YELLOW Application Form and give electronic application instructions to HKSCC or to the IPO Service Provider;
- apply on one WHITE or YELLOW Application Form (whether individually or jointly) or by giving electronic application instructions to HKSCC via CCASS (if you are a CCASS Investor Participant or applying through a CCASS Clearing Participant or Custodian Participant) or to the IPO Service Provider via the White Form eIPO service (www.eipo.com.hk) for more than 50% of the H Shares (i.e. 55,300,000 H Shares, being a multiple of board lots of 500 H Shares) (initially being offered for public subscription under the Hong Kong Public Offering, or
- have applied for or taken up, or indicated an interest in, or have been or will be placed (including conditionally and/or provisionally) International Offering Shares (see International Offering).
Save as referred to above, all of your applications will also be rejected as multiple applications if more than one application is made for your benefit (including the part of the application made by HKSCC Nominees acting on electronic application instructions) if an application is made by an unlisted company and
- the only business of that company is dealing in securities; and
- you exercise statutory control over that company;
then an application will be treated as being made for your benefit.
Unlisted company means a company with no equity securities listed on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange
Statutory control means you:
- control the composition of the board of directors of a company; or
- control more than half of the voting power of a company; or
- hold more than half of the issued share capital of a company (not counting any part of it which carries no right to participate beyond a specified amount in a distribution of either profits or capital).

D. Allotment of Hong Kong Public Offer Shares

- The 70,000,000 Hong Kong Public Offer Shares (initially being offered for subscription under the Hong Kong Public Offering (after taking into account any adjustment in the number of Offer Shares allocated between the Hong Kong Public Offering and the International Offering)) will be divided into two pools for allocation purposes: 55,300,000 Shares in Pool A and 14,700,000 Shares in Pool B. The Hong Kong Public Offer Shares in Pool A will be allocated on an equitable basis to successful applicants who have applied for Hong Kong Public Offer Shares with a total subscription amount (including 1% brokerage, 0.004% SFC transaction levy and 0.005% Hong Kong Stock Exchange trading fee) of more than HK$1,000,000 and up to HK$5,000,000. Applicants who have applied for Hong Kong Public Offer Shares in Pool B will be allocated on an equitable basis to successful applicants who have applied for Hong Kong Public Offer Shares with a total subscription amount (including 1% brokerage, 0.004% SFC transaction levy and 0.005% Hong Kong Stock Exchange trading fee) of more than HK$1,000,000 and up to HK$5,000,000. Applicants who have applied for Hong Kong Public Offer Shares in Pool B are likely to receive different allocation ratios. If Hong Kong Public Offer Shares in one pool (but not both pools) are under-subscribed, the surplus Hong Kong Public Offer Shares in that pool will be transferred to the other pool to satisfy demand in that other pool and be allocated accordingly. You can only receive an allocation of Hong Kong Public Offer Shares from either Pool A or Pool B but not from both pools. Multiple applications for more than 55,300,000 Hong Kong Public Offer Shares are liable to be rejected. Allocation of Hong Kong Public Offer Shares to investors under the Hong Kong Public Offering, both in relation to Pool A and Pool B, will be based solely on the level of valid applications received under the Hong Kong Public Offering. The basis of allocation may vary, depending on the number of Hong Kong Public Offer Shares validly applied for by applicants, although the allocation of Hong Kong Public Offer Shares could, where appropriate, consist of balloting, which would mean that some applicants may receive a higher allocation than others who have applied for the same number of Hong Kong Public Offer Shares and those applicants who are not successful in the ballot may not receive any Hong Kong Public Offer Shares.

E. Supplemental information

- If any supplement to the Prospectus is issued, applicant(s) who have already submitted an application may or may not (depending on the information contained in the supplement) be notified that they can withdraw their applications. If applicant(s) have not been so notified, or if applicant(s) have not withdrawn their applications in accordance with the procedure to be notified, all applications that have been submitted remain valid and may be accepted. Subject to the above, an application once made is irrevocable and applicants shall be deemed to have applied on the basis of the Prospectus as supplemented.

F. Effect of completing and submitting this Application Form

- By completing and submitting this Application Form, you (and if you are joint applicants, each of you jointly and severally) for yourself or as agent or nominee for each person for whom you act as agent or nominee:
- instruct and authorize the Company and/or the Joint Global Coordinators (or their respective agents or nominees) to execute any transfer forms, contract notes or other documents on your behalf and to do so on your behalf all other things necessary to effect registration of any Hong Kong Public Offer Shares allocated to you in the name of HKSCC Nominees as required by the Articles of Association and otherwise to give effect to the arrangements described in the Prospectus and this Application Form;
- undertake to sign all documents and to do all things necessary to enable HKSCC Nominees to be registered as the holder of the Hong Kong Public Offer Shares allocated to you, and as required by the Articles of Association;

Personal Data Personal Information Collection Statement

The main provisions of the Personal Data (Privacy) Ordinance (the "Ordinance") came into effect in Hong Kong on December 20, 1996. This Personal Information Collection Statement informs the applicant for and holder of the H Shares of the policies and practices of the Company and its H Share Registrar in relation to personal data and the Ordinance.

1. Reasons for the collection of your personal data
From time to time it is necessary for applicants for securities or registered holders of securities to supply their latest correct personal data to the Company or its agents and the H Share Registrar when applying for securities or transferring securities into or out of their names or in procuring the services of the registrars.
Failure to supply the requested data may result in your application for securities being rejected, or in delay or the inability of the Company or its H Share Registrar to effect transfers or otherwise render their services. It may also prevent or delay registration or transfers of the Hong Kong Public Offer Shares which you have successfully applied for and/or the despatch of H Share Certificate(s) and/or the despatch or encashment of refund cheque(s) to which you are entitled.
It is important that holders of securities inform the Company and the H Share Registrar immediately of any inaccuracies in the personal data supplied.

五、股份公司成立后拟向中国境内和境外投资者公开发行股票并分别在上海证交所和香港联交所主板上市。

六、根据本协议，在股份公司成立时，发起人拥有股份公司100%的股份，在股份公司公开发行股票后，发起人仍将为股份公司的控股股东。

4.1.3 除非另有书面披露及/或本协议另有规定外，发起人向股份公司注入资产及/或权益所需要的一切有关的批准、许可、授权、同意、确认、豁免、注册、登记等均已取得或完成，且该等批准、许可、授权、同意、确认、豁免、注册、登记等均为有效；

4.1.4 除已在模拟财务报表中披露的负债及在相关期间注入资产及/或权益正常经营所产生的负债之外，股份公司在重组生效日无其他负债（包括或有负债），且在相关期间注入资产及/或权益正常经营所产生的负债应按照本协议 2.5 的规定处理；

4.3 关于本协议 4.2 条所述赔偿，发起人同意，不应因股份公司或其任何代理人、专业顾问在任何时间可能已获悉有关注入资产及/或权益的资料（惟本协议、模拟财务报表或重组文件内所详细及清楚列明的资料除外），而引致其索偿款额减低；发起人亦不应以股份公司已经知道或应该知道或推定股份公司已知悉任何引起该项索偿发生的情况及有关资料（惟本协议、模拟财务报表或重组文件内所详细及清楚列明的资料除外），作为对有关索偿的抗辩理由。

4.4 在发起设立股份公司过程中，发起人向有关中介机构（包括但不限于证券承销机构、律师事务所、审计机构及评估机构）提供的有关资料在所有重大方面是真实、准确、完整并无误导成分的。

4.5 发起人同意，上述声明和保证的每一项均无损于上述声明和保证中的任何

其他条款；且本协议并没有任何规定可限制上述声明和保证的任何条款的范围或适用。

4.6 发起人同意，除非股份公司签署一份明确并获正式授权的书面豁免或解除文件而明确放弃相关权利，其他任何行为均不应影响股份公司就发起人任何违反该等声明、保证的行为而行使有关权利和采取补救措施，而任何权利或补救措施的单独或部分行使，不应排除任何进一步或其他权利或补救措施的行使。股份公司签署的任何书面豁免或解除文件，不构成股份公司放弃任何其他权利、权力或者补救行动。

4.7 发起人同意，在本协议及有关协议项下的所有安排已告完成后，上述声明和保证仍应继续完全有效。

4.8 发起人同意，上述声明和保证并不影响或损害有关协议项下列载的声明及保证，且有关协议项下列载的声明及保证仍将按有关协议的条款对发起人及/或存续企业有效。

第五条 重组实施

5.1 本次安排之重组实施，包括发起人于重组生效日前已经进行并完成的部分（阶段）重组。

5.2 在不影响发起人于本协议第四条保证的前提下，股份公司成立后，发起人与股份公司应密切合作，尽一切努力于重组完成日前完成所有于重组生效日尚未完成的重组事项、步骤及程序，使重组完成并完全有效。

5.3 本协议双方应采取一切必要措施以确保重组按本协议的规定全面实施、完整履行。本款所述“一切必要措施”包括但不限于：签订或促使他人签订任何文件，就重组申请和获得任何有关批准、同意、许可、授权、确认或豁免，使股份公司取得所有因经营其业务所需的或与注入资产及/或权益有关的许可、同

5.4 发起人承诺，在相关期间，发起人在其正常的经营活动中，已根据惯常的方式经营、管理、使用和维护注入资产及/或权益。

5.5 在不影响 4.1 条项下有关款项的前提下，在重组生效后（含重组生效日当日）如发生与注入资产及/或权益有关的任何诉讼或仲裁，股份公司有权作为当事人参加此诉讼和仲裁，享有有关权利并承担有关义务。

5.6 除股份公司根据本协议明确承担的债务、责任外，其他的任何债务、责任（包括但不限于发起人未向股份公司披露的或有事项、或有负债，除非发起人证明已向股份公司披露且股份公司已确认单方承担责任）仍由发起人承担，由前述债务、责任而产生的诉讼判决、裁定或仲裁裁决责任和费用亦由发起人承担。

5.7 本协议双方同意注入资产及/或权益涉及第三方利益或需经第三方许可时做出如下安排：

5.7.1 如注入资产及/或权益项下的任何资产、权益或负债注入股份公司前必须事先取得任何第三方的授权、批准、同意、许可、确认或豁免，而该等手续在重组生效日之前（含重组生效日当日）未能完成的，则除双方应按上述 5.2 条规定采取行动外，还应采取如下措施：

5.7.1.1 发起人应代表股份公司并根据诚实信用的原则为股份公司最大利益，继续持有该等资产、权益和负债，直至该等资产、权益和负债可以按本协议的规定合法有效地、完全地注入股份公司；以及

外。

5.7.2 为便于重组的实施，自重组生效日起，应股份公司要求，发起人应继续为股份公司与第三方之间的业务往来提供协助，并促使股份公司与第三方建立良好的业务关系。

5.7.3 除本协议另有约定外，发起人不应为提供上述任何工作而要求股份公司支付任何费用或酬金。

5.8 发起人按照 5.7 款规定代表股份公司并为股份公司利益继续持有注入资产及/或权益期间，该等资产及/或权益所引起的或与之有关的一切权利、权益、盈利及一切责任、损失及索赔（不包括发起人未履行其在 5.7 条项下的义务而引起的责任、损失及索赔）由股份公司享有和承担。但因发起人自身的原因（包括但不限于任何过失、过错或违法行为）而引起的一切损失及索赔均由发起人承担。

5.9 在重组实施过程中，对于双方之间的资产、负债的划分如有任何不明确之处，应以资产评估报告及为编制资产评估报告而参考的其它文件所载明的具体资产负债划分为准。如有需要，亦可参考编制资产评估报告时使用的资产负债调整计算公式及其他有关工作文件。

5.10 发起人和股份公司相互承诺，如在重组生效日后收到应属于对方的任何应收款项，将于该款项收讫和确认后三十日内将其支付给对方。

5.11 本协议双方同意将注入资产及/或权益相关资料的移交做出如下安排：

5.11.1 发起人应将股份公司正常经营所需的或与注入资产及/或权益有关的业务记录、客户供应商记录、财务会计记录、营运记录、营运数据、营运统计资料、说明书、维护手册、培训手册以及有关技术记录，技术资料、技术数据、技术图纸、技术手册、技术书籍、研究与开发项目的资料及其他一切技术诀窍资料(无论是以文字书写的或保存于电脑、计算机内的或以任何其他方式保存的)移交给股份公司；

5.11.2 如果该等资料移交未能在重组生效日之前（含重组生效日当日）完成，除双方应采取一切必要措施以促使该等移交尽早（最迟不超过重组完成日）完成外，发起人应代表股份公司并为股份公司利益继续持有并遵循安全、保密的原则妥善保存该等资料直至该等资料合法地、完整地移交于股份公司。发起人持有并保存该等资料期间，股份公司可无偿使用该等资料且发起人应为股份公司的使用提供一切方便；以及

5.11.3 如果该等资料因其特殊性质（如不可分割）而无法移交给股份公司，双方同意由发起人妥善保存该等资料并将该等资料放置于方便之处，且发起人应因股份公司之要求允许股份公司随时免费查阅、复制或以任何其他方式使用。

5.12 发起人与股份公司将依据所签署的各类关联交易协议，以及发起人及/或存续企业与股份公司及/或附属企业间不时签订的关联交易具体协议，按照市场公允价值和条件，在股份公司成立后相互为对方提供房屋租赁、土地使用权租赁、产品和配套服务互供、技术合作、综合服务等服务。

5.13 发起人同意在股份公司成立后协助股份公司取得（无论以申请或变更方式）所有因经营其业务所需的资质、许可证、同意、授权、确认及豁免，按有关程序办理一切有关注册、登记或备案手续。

5.14 本协议双方同意，就本协议中并未具体规定而为保障适当、全面实行重组及/或履行本协议规定而必须处理或解决的事项，采取真诚的态度协商，寻求一个公平及适当的安排，以解决有关事项，令本协议双方均感满意。
